Produce Men Complain That Business is Entirely Too Good

FOR SUCH A HEATED SPELL AS THIS.

Creamery Butter Offered Fails to Come

Up to Standard. TROPICAL PRUITS MOVING PREELY

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCE, TUESDAY, July 8, 1890. The principal question under consideration among our trade'speople to-day was: How to keep cool? With the mercury traveling up close to centennial line, it was not at all easy to solve the problem. Notwithstanding the tropical weather produce men were kept busy, and many complained that business was entirely too good. Tuesday is usually one of the busy days of the week in produce lines, and this Tuesday was no excention to the rule. There was a good demand for all good stuff offered. From early more well up to noon, Liberty street from Fifth to Seventh street was crowded with retail grocers' wagons seeking the needful supplies. At the Grain Exchange fans were in to shed all surplus garments. There was a con-spicuous absence of coats and presence of fans at the Exchange,

The weather topic became monotonous to the market editor as he went to and fro among tradesmen. "Is it hot chough for you?" was dinned in his ear ad nauseam. When the last tradesmen. "Is it hot enough for you?" was dinned in his ear ad manseam. When the last man said it—a man who deals in dynamite and other explosives very extensively—this editor was on the point of wishing him in the country where sulphur and dynamite abound, but sober second thought held him back. Suffice it to say, that the pursuit of trade items to-day was under great difficulties, and if the reader is disposed to think that this column amounts to little left him cultivate the grace of charity and remember the exalted flights of the mercury.

One of our foremost jobbers in dairy products in an interview to-day said: "The creamery butter coming to market of late is not up to the standard, for a good and sufficient reason, namely, that first-class stock cannot be pro-duced such weather as we have been having the past few weeks, except in isolated cases, where there are cool, bubbling springs of water or ice abounds. In the butter region around Eigin the mercury has been above 100° of late, and with such a temperature it is impossible for the producer to turn out first-class stock. The price of good stock is well maintained on account of its scarcity. But the bulk of the Pincapples are on the wane and will soon be a thing of the past. Receipts of handnas this week promise to go beyond all previous records in volume, 17 carloads having arrived on Monday. Notwithstanding heavy receipts prices of good stock are well sustained, and demand promises to be equal to supply. As we are now in the midst of the pink season tropical fruits and canned meats have the call, and dealers in these lines are happy over the situation.

The current number of the North Western Maller, of Minneapolis, takes a morea cheerful view of the situation and outlook of wheat and flour than it has done for a lew weeks past. It reports trade as very much improved the past ten days, and wheat suitable for milling purposes as 20 higher. The general tone of its editorials, and news from its correspondents, is that the worst is over, and that from now better markets and better prices may reasonably be looked for. The change for the better has not yet made any marked impression on markets here, but our miliers and flour jobbers are more hopeful of the future of trade.

CHICAGO-Wheat-Trading was very fair and the feeling unsettled. There was a good general out-ide business. The influences favered both the long and short on the streets to-day, but there was rather more inclination to sell, though at the decline or at the lower prices reached there was very good buying. The opening was 1/2%c lower than yesterday's closing, held firm for a little while, advancing fluctuated some and closed at about 1/4

Oats were active, but an unsettled feeling prevailed. Opening sales were at $200 low yesterday's close. Increased offerings and the decline in corn caused a weaker tone, and prices received $200 lower the deferred futures, but rallied slightly and closed steady.

The Small Fruit Crop.

A produce dealer thus expressed himself to day as to the small fruit crop. "Cultivated raspberries and blackberries are much below their average this season in quantity. I do not think there will be above one-half the usual quantity. But from the best advice I can get the crop of wild berries is larger than usual. The strawberry season proved much shorter than usual this year, and preservers in this region failed to lay up their expected supplies. California preserved and dried fruits have advanced 1½ ca pound in the past few days, and the upward movement, in my opinion has only started.

Inghouse Electric Lets Go. The feature of the stock market yesterday was a drop in Westinghouse Electric. It sold at first call at 38% and 38. At the second it was bid down to 36, with none offered, showing that while weak it was not panicky. The cause of the depression was that the company had decided to largely increase the capital stock to develop the plant and for other purposes.

The strong features of the market were advances in Pleasant Valley and Philadelphia Gas. Central Traction was down a trifle, and the others . re about steady. Luster gained in the forenoon, but fell back at the close.

Difficulty of Closing Real Estate Transactions in Midsummer.

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR SMALL LOTS

ences and Hot Weather.

THE NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE CITY This is the worst time of the year to close up deals in anything, particularly real estate. Hot weather is a promoter of indolence. Few people feel like pushing things

This explanation accounts for the lack of the customary aggressive spirit in the real estate market during the past few days. The heat has driven a number of brokers and in-vestors out of the city, and those remaining are so absorbed in efforts to keep cool that they find time for little else. The result is that many important deals are hung up, and will remain there until a change in the weather induces the principals to return. Still, as shown below, big properties are not lifeless.

Small properties are less affected. It requires but little time and trouble to buy or sell

Speaking of fires yesterday, a gentleman who has "run with the machine" remarked that their alarming frequency was due in a great part to the manner in which the woodwork contiguous to hot-air flues in buildings is protected. This has been demonstrated by investigation. Faulty work is in most cases hidden by showy mantelpieces, the flues being hemmed in by masses of lath and plaster, which, coming

This charred wood subsequently ignites and the combustion develops into a flame. Another cause assigned for the frequency o fires is found in the manner in which wainscot-ing is run over a brick flue. In such a case it s necessary to drive wooden plugs into the bricks and to nail the wainscoting to them. The latter carbonize and then ignite with the result that the flames are communicated to the ers-Volues Irregular. NEW YORK, July 8 .- While the stock market of yesterday was rather unsatisfactory, es-pecially to the lighter buils, to-day's was more to their taste in point of strength, but its nar-rowness was even greater. The agreement in conference upon a silver bill, supplied the stimulation for a time, but the effect was over before the end of the first half hour of business. The foreigners were taking back some of the stocks parted with yesterday, but the limited demand was soon satisfied, and the dullness in the market became more intense C. F. They bought it last fall for $10,000; it was purchased by Howley & Son for the syndicate of which C. L. Magee and Will-acres of moment, though offers were made at 106 without takers.

The bears were inclined to make all the capital possible out of the failure of the mar-ket to respond to the agreement on the silver question, but while bulls were not inclined to buy stocks to any extent upon the agreement. they were encouraged to hold on to what they have, and the bears were deterred from following up their temporary advantage of yesterday. The buil leaders speak hopefully of the outlook, both for silver legislation and a settlement of the railroad difficulties, which by many are regarded as the more important factor in the movement of prices in the near future. When these are out of the way the hope is to see the benefit from the recent large disbursements expected by the street.

The opening of the market this morning was rather irregular as compared with last even-ing's closing figures, but the strength soon aping's closing figures, but the strength soon appeared and the losses of yesterday were in many cases recovered before the end of the first half hour's trading. The Coalers and Grangers received most attention, and Lackawanna, Jersey Central and St. Paul showed most strength, and were followed by Oregon Transcontinential and Suzar Refineries. There were no movements among the specialties of note and the rest of the list remained as stagnant as at any time for the past month. The traders covered the shots taking apparently everything offered, and though there was at times some selling for foreign account the operations, sales amounted to little. The upward movement in the Coalers became more pronounced in the last hour, and Lackawanna and Jersey Central reached the highest figures of the day. The close was dull and generally steady at about the best prices of the day. The final changes are for insignificant fractions generally, but Jersey Central is up to 2½ and Lackawanna and Oregon Transcontinental ½ per cent each.

State bonds have been entirely neglected.

The Post says: There has been for some weeks past a reviving of the speculation in New England, by which it has been advanced from 40% on June 19 to 51% by 12 o'clock today, but there is the same mystery about the immediate causes of the buying as has always surrounded the manipulation of that stock. The business of the road, however, is growing, and it is a foregone conclusion that some time it will practically be extended by some means or some connection into New York, and thus become a stronger competitor with New York and New Haven, but as to when or how this or some connection into New York, and thus become a stronger competitor with New York and New Haven, but as to when or how this connection will be made there is no more information obtainable now than there has been 20 times before when the stock advanced on some vague intimation of the kind.

RIVER INTELLIGENCE.

The River Down to the Danger Line-Navi-

gntion Suspended in the Harbor. Everything wore an air of uncertainty about the wharf yesterday. The river has reached the point where navigation is almost impossible, and there is no hope of the boats on the way up reaching this port unless there is a rise, which would change the plans already mapped out by the packet lines. They propose during the low water to stop at points further down the river and to transfer passengers over the rail-roads to the places the boats can come up to. The ownsville packets ran aground near Lock No. 1 his morning, but they were gotten off shortly

The owners of up-river packets are urgent in their demands that the wickets be raised. The Cincinnati packet line and towboat men generally oppose this as it would prevent them from getting near this port if the wickets should be raised. hing can be done at the dam, however, as th Nothing can be done at the dam, however, as the lower lock gate is still out of working condition. One of the excursion boats grounded this side of Lock No. I with a large crowd of people. Three hours elapsed before the boatwas got affeatagain. The marks at Water street last night showed barely two feet, with three feet in midstream. Davis Island daw gauge showed four feet flat and falling slowly. The packets carried little freight on account of low water yesterday. They let this trade go to accommodate the passengers.
