THE ELLIOTT CASE. Matter of Interest at Carnegie's

Not a relative of President Elliott, of Harvard, but belonging to a branch of industry and labor no less meritorious than that of the Cambridge educator, Mr. Hugh Elliott is given a place in these columns. By his many friends and acquaintances in Pittsburg and Homestead Mr. Elliott will be easily recognized in the portrait accompanying this article. For a long time a rgulator in Carnegie's steel works at Homeclothing'll have to find it this stead, though still a young man, he is favorably known in labor circles.

ON THE STAND

Ulyses Weims and Five of His Comrades Being Tried for the Mur-

WITNESSES' DAMAGING EVIDENCE

The Principal Defendant Apparently Utterly Ignorant of the Peril of His Pesition.

SENSATIONAL OUTCOME OF A DIVORCE.

Ten Thousand Dollars' Worth of Damages Demanded

for Wounded Feelings. In Judge Collier's branch of the Criminal Court yesterday Ulysses Weims, principal, and Frank Seymour, William Johnston, George Kelsan, William Harris and Charles Gance, accessories, were placed on trial for the murder of John O'Hara, on Fifth avenue in front of McNulty Brothers' livery stable, on April 5 lust. The defendants are all colored. O'Hara was a white boy aged about 17 years, W. J. Brennen, Esq., is assisting District Attorney Johnston in the prosecution, and Messrs. Wallace and Andrew Robertson have charge of the defense Weims is a slim, young colored man, apparently peril of his position. He sat in the court room fanning himself with his hat, and smiled when some of the strongest positive evidence was produced against him. A SISTER THE FIRST WITNESS. Maria O'Hara, sister of the murdered boy, who was the first witness, testified to her brother being brought home dead. Drs. Mayer and McCann testified to holding the inquest on O'Hara. They said his death had been caused by a bullet which pierced his heart and lungs and lodged in his side. Coroner's Clerk H. Grant Miller identified O'Hara's clothes, Grant Miller identified O'Hara's clothes, Weims' revolver, etc.

Albert Jones, colored, identified all the prisoners. He heard the two shots fired, one of which killed O'Hara, and arrested both Gance and Welms, but Weims broke away. Martin Fahey testified that the first shot fired by Weims struck bim in the back. He, with O'Hara, Robert Wilcox, and Henry Pressel, was standing on the pavement in front of the livery stable watching a colored parade, when the prisoner came along and jostled them. O'Hara exclaimed, "Look out!" and Weims said: "Do you want anything?" Harris, another of the defendants, then interfered and said that they didn't want any fuss. The colored men then started away, but after going a short distance they returned and started a fight.

HEARD THE TWO SHOTS. Fahey turned to go away and then heard two shots fired, one of which struck him in the back. He did not see the shooting, but saw O'Hara fall in the street and heard him ex-claim: "My God; I'm shot." He identified claim: "My God; I'm shot." He identified Weims as the man who saked O'Hara "if he wanted anything," and when he did not reply Weims said, "We'll take no bluffs," O'Hara was carried into the livery stable and Fahey went to a doctor's office. After the shooting the colored men ran away.

On cross-examination Fahey said the colored men had a fuss with Henry Pressel, and he struck one of them. Henry Pressel testified that Harris was the only one of the colored men he knew. He was rather light colored and all the others looked alike to Pressel. When the trouble began Harris went up to Fahey and said: "I know you. We ahr! out for a fuss." The colored men then went away, but returned and started a fight. Pressel caught hold of Harris. He saw one of the colored men shoot and kicked at the hand the revolver was held in. He missed the hand and his foot landed in the colored man's abdomen. Then a woman back of the colored man grabbed the shooter's arms and held them.

ALL LOOKED ALIKE.

ALL LOOKED ALIKE, All the colored men, except Barris, looked alike to Pressel, and be could not identify the one that did the shooting. He saw the man throw out his hand as if to strike at O'Hara, and shoot him. The man who did the shooting was within three or four feet of O'Hara at the was within three or four feet of O'Hara at the time, and shot directly at him. O'Hara had his hands in his pockets, and when he was shot he put them to his breast, exclaimed "My God, I'm shot," and fell. Pressel grabbed hold of the man who did the shooting, and threw him into the gutter, but could not identify him.

Robert Wilcox was standing beside O'Hara when Weims shot him. Wilcox was called into the livery stable, and as he turned to go he heard a shot fired. He turned about again, and saw Weims make a "punch" at O'Hara and fire. Weims was about three feet from O'Hara when he fired the shot. When O'Hara fell all the colored men ran. Wilcox ran out Fifth avenue after Weims, but the latter got away. He next saw Weims in the Coroner's office at the inquest, and there he picked Weims out of a group of half a dozen other colored men. Wilcox was positive that Weims is the man who did the shooting.

TO SEE HIS VICTIM'S BODY.

TO SEE HIS VICTIM'S BODY. Joseph Freyvogel corroborated the other wites. He saw Weims shoot twice. Weims did not seem to fire at any one in particular. Witness did not know where the first bullet struck, but saw O'Hara shot. Froyvogel was greatly affected; it seemed to be a great weight on his mind that he was swearing a man's life on his mind that he was swearing a man's life away, but after some hesitancy he identified Weims positively as the man who shot O'Hara. He had picked Weims out of a group of seven others at the Central station. Harris tried to stop the trouble, and did not take part in the fight. After the shooting Freyvogel notified the police, and while he was doing this Weims wont back to the livery stable and wanted to see O'Hara's body. Mr. McNuity told him to go away or he would have him arrested.

John Burns, colored, identified Weims, and saw him shoot O'Hara. Somebody knocked O'Hara down and when he was getting up Weims fired two shots at him. At the second shot O'Hara fell back into the street dead. Detective Sol Coulson testified that Robert Wilcox and Joseph Freyvogel had notified him of the murder, and Freyvogel gave him a de-scription of Weims, which description led to Weims' arrest. He found a revolver at the weins arrest. He found a revolver at the mouth of a sewer at the corner of Bank alley and Clark street. This he took to Central station, and putting his own revolver and the one he had found in his hand, he asked Weims which was his. Weims picked out the one the detective had found.

Against Jordan Neel.

Anna M. Clark entered a suit for damages pesterday against Harvey L. Neel, son of Jor-dan Neel, the big coal operator of Coal Center, for $10,000 damages for slander and defamation of character. The suit is directly traceable to the divorce proceedings entered some time ago by Mrs. Catherine Neel, the wife of Jordan Neel, and mother of the defendant in the miander soit.

The plaintiff is the niece of Jordan Neel, and the country of the defendant. She declares that he said in the divorce suit; "My father has some gold fish at his farm in Beaver county and some at his — house at Coal Center," thereby intending to impress his hearers that her house was one of had character. All of these statements she donles, and

A bill in equity was filed in Common Pleas Court No. 2 yesterday by William Claus for his wife Hannah against Charles Manning and his wife Maria E. Manning. The plaintiffs own a lot in the Sixth ward, and their sewer connection is made through the property of the de-fendants. The latter tore it out, and deny their right to reconstruct it. They ask the Court to make an order on the defendants, compelling them to allow the construction to be made,
