Congressman Breckinridge Speaks Before the House Committee on Elections.

THE MURDER OF JOHN M. CLAYTON

Was a Great Shock to Bim, as the Two Had Esten, Slept and Canvassed the District Together.

A BITTER ATTACK ON JUDGE M'CLURE,

Who is Compared With Other More Conservative South ern Republicans,

WASHINGTON, July 16 .- Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, appeared before the House Election Committee in his own defense to-day. He said that the record failed utterly to show that he was not elected, but on the contrary, tt showed that he was elected. Therefore, it was not surprising that John M. Clayton, sensible and wise as he was said to be, did not want to contest the election and yielded only upon the requests of the Republican leaders. Respecting Clayton's murder, it was perfeetly clear that nothing more could have been done to find the murderer than had been done by the officers and people of the Sists, Mr. Breckluridge proceeded with a long statement of the facts within his knowledge connected with the killing of Clayton and the efforts to discover the mur-

He said be had known Clayton for 20 years. They had been neighbors and friends. Clayton's nomination had been most agreeable to himself and the Democracy of district, although he was a strong man politically. They had canvassed the dis-trict together, traveling often in the same vehicle, eating at the same table and at times sleeping together. One was a Repub-hean and an ex-Union soldier: the other a Their relations demonstrated that there was nothing in the charges made by Judge McClure of the terrible persecution of Republicans in his district. Clayton's death had been a fearful surprise to him (Brockinridge), as it was to all of the decent peo-ple of Arkanas. He had wired Clayton's family an expression of sympathy, and had devoted himself to a search for the murmisconstrued, and he waited to let the State take the initiative. The Governor offered a reward o: $1,000 (all that the law per-mitted), and then got the State Legislature to pass a special act, increasing the reward

A LARGE REWARD OFFERED.

Besides this the people voluntarily subscribed sufficient money to make a total re-ward of $12,000. He had believed that the Plummerville ballot box had been stolen by Republicans. There was testimony before the committee leading to that conclusion. The apparent object of the stealing was a est in case the House of Representatives was Republican. Be ore this election there had never been a complaint of irregularities in elections in district. While the sympathy of the people of the State was gushing out toward the tamily of Clayton; while every one was urging the detection of the murderer, came Fowell Clayton's letter to the countr effect was un ortunate and disastrous.

The people were outraged and insulted. One hundred dollars could not have been raised for the prosecution after that publieation. He had felt it necessary to wait until the excitement cooled down. Seeing the Governor, he gave him $100 to follow up a clew as to the murderers, and promised to take the stump, if necessary, to raise all the money needed for the prosecution.

A MISTAKEN ESTIMATE Judge McClure was mistaken in his estimate of the people of Arkansus. Recently Judge Caldwell, a prominent Republican, had been nominated to a place upon the with petitions and letters from Arkansas Democrats favoring the confirmation. He bad beard that McClure himself was an applicant for a Judgeship.

Judge McClure interrupted to deny the statement. Continuing, Mr. Breckinridge said that the people of the State would look upon McClure's appointment as a calamity. He could not get a lawyer of standing to in-dorse his appointment. It was not because he was a Republican or an ex-Union soldier, for Judge Caldwell was both. It was because of the different estimate held by the people of the two men. If McClure had had trouble, he had himself to blame. So far as his case was concerned he did not eare to have votes counted for him on a technicality. He did not care for the seat. He did care for the rights and feeling of his

COULD NOT HARM HIM.

Let the committee decide as it liked. He knew very well that when it came to do things in a harsh and passionate way it would do him no political harm. Looking at it in the sense of rallying the people around him and stirring up sentiment in his favor he had nothing to fear. But he did not like that kind of politics. I the committee was to declare the seat vocant, et it do so legally and upon the lines of sentative Ewart (North Carolina), a Republican member who came from a South-ern district by the aid of white votes, and the most unfortunate thing for the Republican party, in a political sense, was for men to seek, like Judge McClure, to stand in antagonism to the masses of the people.

Judge McClure closed the arguments in a brief speech, treating almost altogether of the legal aspect of the case. He argued, in brie, that as the evidence showed that the ballots really east were not preserved it was competent to go behind them and take proof

NOT IN EVIDENCE.

Mr. Breckinridge had declined or neg-lected to prove his vote, so that the result, as shown by the evidence before the committee, was that Clayton had a majority of 520 in the district.

Mr. Breekinridge asserted that the subcommittee had re used to permit him to prove his vote, which had compelled him to rely upon the exhibit made in the proceed-lugs before the United States Court. Chairman Rowell informed him that the criminal proceedings before the United States Court could not figure as legal evidence upon another issue. The committee adjourned at the conclusion of the argu-

THE SECOND DEGREE.

Weims Escapes the Death Penalty for the Killing of O'flarn-The Prisoner and His Mother Deeply Affected by the Verdict-Other Legal News. District Attorney Johnston resumed his address to the jury in the Weims murder trial when the morning session of Criminal Court began yesterday. Mr. Johnston reviewed the testimony of all the important witnesses and brought the testimony of the witnesses who swore positively to having seen Weims shoot O'Hara to the attention of the jury. He asked for a verdict of murder in the first degree. Judge Collier then delivered his charge, which was impartial, and the jury retired about 11:15 o'clock. About 2:30 P. M. they brought in Hilb o'clock. About 2:30 p. m. they brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree, which was a surprise to nearly everybody who had heard the considerable amount of positive and direct evidence against Weims.

Weims and his mother broke into tears when the verdict was announced, but Weims' attorneys, Mossrs. Robertson and Wallace, were extremely well pleased. A second degree verdict was what they had hoped for rather than expected. Weims and the five other prisoners were taken back to jail.

The limit of sentence for murder in the second degree is 12 years to the pentientiary.

DIVIDEND PAYING STOCK

For Careful Investors. An incorporated manufacturing company with a complete new works in operation making a special line of goods without competition has concluded to increase its cap-ital stock from $75,000 to $125,000 in order to double its product. The goods made are sold on short time at a large profit, and output of the works can be doubled with in-creased capital provided. The managers are good business men, and their experience justifies the assertion that quarterly dividends can be paid from the earnings of the company equal to, if not greater, than any Pittsburg corporation is now paying. The $50,000 of new stock may be subscribed for in lots of from five shares upward, but an active man with capital to take the entire block or a greater proportion of it, to whom good position will be given, is preferred as a buyer. TRIAL OF A TORPEDO BOAT.

Seems to be a Decided Success.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, July 16 .- Warner Miller was one of a party of excursionists who went to Willet's Point to-day to witness a trial of the Simms-Edison electric torpedo. The steam tug F. B. Dalzell took the party from the foot of Wall street early in the atternoon. Besides Mr. Miller there were on board Everett Frazer, President of the Simms-Edison Electric Torpedo Company, W. Scott Simms, the inventor of the torpedo, Captain Ambrose Snow, Henry W. Munroe, Warren H. Hill and about 20 others. The torpedo, appropriately called a fish torpedo from its shape, was started from a roint about 200 and torpedo from the dock a fish torpedo from its shape, was started from a point about 200 yards from the dock and ran in an almost circular course at an estimated rate of 20 miles per hour.

The spectators were surprised at this, and applauded loudly as the swift little craft shot past the wharf. It is propelled by electricity and its course was directed from the shore by the inventor, W. Scott Simms, It covered about a mile in 234 minutes. The It covered about a mile in 2½ minutes. The same wire drives and steers the boat and explodes the torpedo. One thousand volts and 25 amperes of electricity were developed during the run. Expressed in units of horse power, the torce amounted to 32. The hull washoaded for the purpose of the experiment with 250 pounds of gravel. When the torpedo is on a business trip the charge consists of an equal amount of dynamite

He could get but little sleep, and would often waken with such a smothered feeling he could scarcely get his breath. He had no appeate, and what little food he did eat he would feel like ventiting up. The gas that formed in his stomach after eating gave him great distress. He lost flesh, and his lungs became so weak he could not lie on either side. Every change of weather would cause him to take cold. Night sweats further weakened him until at times he was unable to do any work. It was while in this condition that he began treatment with the physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute. He says: "My disease was of six or seven years' standing, and the above history of my case is true. At first I noticed that my nose and throat would clog up in the evening, and I thought I was taking cold. As I treated with several doctors, and got no better, I became disgusted with deciporing, for it seemed as if I never could be cared. Finally a friend advised me to try the physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute, at 323 Penn avenue, as his wife had been cured by these doctors. This gave me some hope, and I decided to take a course of their weatment, I improved from the first.
