REAL OBJECT TO BE ATTAINED.

the Art This Season. LATE GOSSIP OF THE TWO CITIES

It all depends upon the point of view. An esteemed cotemporary in its musical "leader" yesterday urges every pupil to ponder over the question: "Am I fitted to attain a measure of success in music?" The attitude of the article is shown clearly in these sentences: A year, or less, of conscientious effort will, in most cases, demonstrate the pupil's fitness for music or the reverse. Thereafter it is for her to decide whether the ranks of mediocrity are to decide whether the ranks of mediocrity are to be augmented by one member or not.

* * * * Unless a pupil shows real aptitude, she occupies a false and embarrassing position before relatives and friends and the public in general. * * * It is good sense to weigh well the pros and cons, and then, having decided, to resolutely give up a course that can never lead to anything but mediocrity. Such a decision should be reached by many now enjoying the summer vacation.

From the point of view of the family, the

From the point of view of the family, the next-door neighbors and the frequenters of private musicales, the above advice is eminently sound. So it is, too, from the standpoint of those poor young folks who, for mere fashion's sake, are set to learn to play or sing, and who tall into the hands of a teacher with no idea above coaching pupils show off a certain glib facility in the latest waltz or the newest popular song. Indeed, from the standpoint of all who regard music as nothing more than a fash-ionable accomplishment, a mere medium for "showing off" before an admiring circle of listeners, more or less numerous, that must be deemed good advice, which tends to decrease the number of mediocre per-But is this point of view correct? Is it right that the sole, or even the chief, object of musical study should be to make performers of any kind, good or bad?

Not at all. Music affords to most people the best and easiest—to many almost the only—mode of cultivating the esthetic emotions, an absolutely vital department of man's higher nature. The asthetic emotions bear a most intimate relation to character, which is the central object of all education. The first and greatest aim of true musical study, therefore, must needs be to develop the student's own love for and appreciation of music.

Mark that well. The prime value of musical study is in getting the pupil to take a personal interest in music for its—and his -own sake, to make of it a language for those sweet, indefinite emotions which he cannot put in words, to find in it a ready and sympathetic friend in those moods that no buman friend can understand, or re-spond to, if he could understand.

Last night a young man who makes no pretense whatever of being musical, while listening to a comrade strumming idly and not very artistically on the gnitar, said to the writer: "I often feel as if I would give anything to be able to get off by myself and just play away at something like that." Everyone knows just such states of feeling, and if musical study did nothing more than to furnish satisfaction for these innate cravings of his soul, it would still be an incravings of his soul, it would still be an in-estimable boon to every student. If it goes yet further—as it surely will, having thus captured the very citadel—if it leads the student in among the works of the masters, full of beauty and nobility, inspiring, uplifting; if it directs his attention to the great store of musical accomplished that much more in building up a well-rounded and true-hearted char-acter. And there is little need of such characters in this mercenary age.

Note that all this may be accomplished by the student working under proper guid-ance for his own benefit and education, without the slightest idea of ever playing or singing a single note for others to hear. And it is just this kind of musical cultivation for which the vast majority of human beings possess an inborn capacity, in greater or less degree, whether they possess sufficient capacity to become artistic performers or

Of course, it is music's proud distinction to be the most social of all the arts. And it is a perfectly proper ambition to wish to be able to give musical pleasure to others. But even from this point of view it is at once apparent that there must be many more listeners than performers and that the per-formers cannot gain their highest meed of appreciation unless the listeners have the ut-most power to appreciate. To confine musical study entirely to persons intending to perform would be to rob those very per-formers of their brightest laurels, which consist in the praise of the most cultured listener. You might as well say that the education of the intellect is worth while only for intending public speakers, who would thus be deprived of all usefulness for lack of an intelligent audience.

The following interesting, if somewhat enthusiastic, personal gossip comes from THE DISPATCH'S Chautauqua correspond-Chautauqua is decidedly musical this year. Along this line she surpasses all other years and attempts. She has, at great expense, secured the best artists in the land. For six years Prof. I. Y. Flagler has entertained the audiences. He played at Plymouth Church in Chicago for a period of seven years, and since that he has devoted his time to musical study and filling special engagements. Last apring he dedicated the large memorial church in St. Augustine, Fla., and is often called upon for such exercises.

Mr. Flagler is the author of many compositions which have been popular both in England and America. He is now at work upon a book soon to be published by Schirmer, of New York. The music of Mr. Flagler is remarkable for its smoothness and beauty. Always sympathetic and artistic at times his playing is vigorous, dashing and brilliant. Again, he leads you on enchanted with strains calm, facile and beautiful. As an organist or teacher his peers are few and his superiors none. Not only is he a musical genius, but a man of brilliant literary qualities, and his lectures upon music and musicians have been very popular. He has a foundation for this turn of mind, however, and he recently told me of how he began to work in a newspaper office as "devil," gradually pushing him-self forward to higher positions until finally he was attracted away to his present pursuit by his musical inclinations. The better sequainted with him you become, both as a musician and a man, the better you will

He is a good talker, a firm friend and the best of companions. Unlike most men of genius, he can converse on every subject genius, he can converse on every subject with the same pleasant felicity that he does on musical terms. He appears a score or more of times in his recitals each season, and all entertainments in the amphitheater are prefaced by an organ sole.

Equally popular with not only musical people at Chautauqua, but with every one, is W. H. Sherwood, the great pianist, who appears for his second year at Chautauqua. He was the first man this season to receive the now celebrated Chautauqua salute, which every entertainer here craves as the which every entertainer here craves as the height of his ambition. Mr. Sherwood, though yet a young man, undoubtedly established his claim as the leading planist in America. His gentus came with his birth, and from the time he could reach the keys of the plano he has played before the public. He has composed many compositions for the plano-for te which have been received with high favor by great musicians, both in Amer-ica and Europe. His force and-tone are his greatest qualities. Dur-ing nine months of the year he is at the Chicago Auditorum, where he has charge and musical direction. To know Mr. Sherwood is to be his friend. Unas-suming kind and genial, he has won as suming, kind and genial, he has won as many admirers of the man as of the musician. Associated with him in his work and his constant companion in all things is his constant companion in all things is Mr. H. A. Kelso, a young gentleman of great promise for the future. Mr. Kelso has been for many years a student of Mr. Sherwood, and regards the great musician with the feeling that a father might bear toward his son. There is no feeling or envy rankling in the breast of Mr. Kelso, as these feels is hetward not be the second to be the sec What Chantangua Furnishes to Lovers of there often is between men of genius, but he regards the success of Mr. Sherwood as joy-fully as his own. Both have every hour taken up by their pupils on the piano-forte.

The tenth free organ recital at Carnegie Hall, Allegheny, was given yesterday afternoon by City Organist Wales, assisted by Mrs. James E. Porter, soprano, and Miss Irene Hallister, of Meadville, organist. The full capacity of the hall was tested by the thronging audience. With the substitution of a familiar air by Rossini in place of Mr. Retter's song, the following in place of Mr. Retter's song, the following programme was observed:

Mr. Ethert Nevin will give three in formal lectures or talks, with piano forte illustrations, on Wagner's "Nibelungen Ring," at the residence of his father Colonel Ring," at the residence of his father Colonel Robt. P. Nevin, Edgeworth station, Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railway, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. The interest awakened last year by a similar series augurs well for the success of this repetition. Mr. Krebbiel, Mr. Walter Damrosch and others have made the same plan really quite a fashionable fad in the East. It is not often that fashion sets her fickle seal upon aught so artistically valufickle seal upon aught so artistically valuabla. Anyone may subscribe for Mr. Nevin's series, sure of both profit and BOSTON, July 19 .- "I called on poor Tony Hart at the Worcester Insane Asylum the other day," said Virginia Richmond, the actress, to-day, "and I was very much surprised and delighted to find him looking splendid. He's as fat as butter, his checks are rosy and his eyes are bright. Yet the physicians declare that he is incurable, and that he will never again appear in public. It's very hard to believe it in the face of Tony's excellent appearance, but I suppose it's true. Several other actresses accom-panied me. All had known Mr. Hart in his palmy days, and they were delighted to find that he recognized them at once, calling them all by name. He is one of the best pa-tients, always kind and considerate, fond of outdoor exercise, and often acts as umpire at the base ball games played by the inmates. "He spoke without reserve of his sur-"He spoke without reserve of his surroundings, saying he was treated very well,

Law and Orderites Pay No Heed to the Urchio at the Cigarette's End. The Law and Order Society of Philadelphia has announced that it has no intention of starting a crusade against the venders of eigarettes to children under the age of 16 years, but that it will prosecute every case presented to it if it can be made out by investigation. The society has entered one prosecution, but it is on information received. The penalty is a fine of $300.

William Yost, Esq., attorney for the Law and Order Society here, states that it is not moving in the matter, for the law, though a good one in the abstract is worthless in the concrete. He stated that a boy under 16 would not likely find much trouble in getting one above that age to buy cigarettes, if the party of the first part were vicious enough to want them, and in consequence the enforcement of the law is surrounded with almost insurmountable difficulties. The idea will suggest itself that the parents of the adolescents are themselves the ones who can do most toward breaking up the pernicious practice. If a boy or girl is hopelessly vicious, conceived in sin and born in iniquity, inheriting vicious tastes, he will probably be incapable of reformation, as the sour grapes caten by the fathers will continue to keen his tests on edge dur. will continue to keep his teeth on edge dur-ing life, but if he start, as he should, with a sound body, careful instruction will keep him out of trouble. CHICAGO, July 19.—The assessors of the West and South towns of Chicago are not alone in the work of increasing the assessments on unimproved property in Chicago and vicinity, and making it pay taxes at about the same rate it would pay if built upon. Friday night Miss Cousens, in company with a number of young folks, attended a church festival at Tempelton, near Mahoning. About 10:30 o'clock the party started by the control of the course of home, Fink accompanying them. When but a short distance from the station Fink without a word of warning, walked up to Miss Cousens' side, drew a 32-caliber re-volver from his hip pocket and shot her. The Arts a Hundred Years Ago. A hundred years ago the mysteries of every craft were hedged in by fences of empirical pretensions. And although we beast of the eulightenment of the present day, the same hid-den empiricism exists. Especially is this the case in discoveries in the "healing art." It is case in discoveries in the "healing art." It is true that many of these vaunted nostrums are worthless, and it is better that they are not known. The great recommendation of Dr. Tutt's Pills is, that he does not keep their composition a secret. Any one acting from pure motives can know it. The better they are known, the more they are appreciated. Scientists say that every ingredient composing his Liver Pills is harmless, and when combined, they form the most powerful anti-bilious medicine ever known.

A REFRIGERATOR

AN ICE CHEST, OR A COOLER.

Persons would do well to call and see THE MOST EXTENSIVE AND CHEAPEST LINE IN THE CITY. We have 'em plenty and at prices hardly thought of. Just imagine, who would not have one of the abovenamed articles when you can get a Refrigerator for as low as $8, an Ice Chest as low as $4, or a Cooler as low as $2; and for the finer goods as low prices in proportion. The designs this summer are unex celled. Nex comes that so often sought-for article,

The BABY CARRIAGE

A MOTHER'S AMBITION. A BABY'S DELIGHT.

A nice cozy carriage that can be purchased off us, so cheap, we may say, thereby relieving many a poor mother of all the care and worry of a fretful child during these hot days. This spring we are showing FIFTY different designs, twice as many as any house in the city. Beauties at $8 50, $9 and $12. The finest from $12 to $50. A call will convince you that we can discount any firm in the city 20 per cent on all summer
