

arriving at Adjutant General Hasting's tent, the party dismounted and in from under the dripping canvas the President beid a levee. Adjutant General Hastings acted as master of ceremonies for the oc casion and introduced everybody.

While the hand-shaking was going on, four photographers who crept up on the party unawares, took half a dozen or more shots at them, with their cameras. After-ward the President gave permission and sat for a picture with the chief officers of the Guard and members of the Cabinet. Lunch was served in the private dining" tent, and after refreshing the inner-man the President said he was ready for business. The weather did not permit him to go out and the party kept close to the canvas. At 4 o'clock the rain came down in a deluge and soon converted the once beautiful grassy plain into acres of mud waste. After it had ceased, the party drove to the parade ground and the picnic grove and there reviewed the $roops.

REVIEWED BY HARRISON.

The formation was in masses by brigades, and exactly the same as the preceding day. The carriages were driven up one line and down another, and about 30 minutes was devoted to the inspection. At its comple-tion the carriages were driven to the review ing stand, where the President, with uncovered head, witnessed the passage of the troops. The latter showed a decided improvement in their marching over the day before, and marks of approval were heard from the President. The regulars preceded the guard, which was led by the Third Brigade with the Second and First following in this order. The artillery brought up after the infantry and the cavalry were in the rear of the parade.

The parade was without special features, and as usual the Pittsburg regiments maintained their high standard. Surgeon Brumbaugh, of the Eighteenth, had trouble with his horse in front of the reviewing stand, but finally mastered him. After reviewing the parade the President returned to the division beadquarters, SUTLER'S CAMP COMPELLED TO CLOSE.

Another attack was made on Fort Flinn last night and as a result the place was closed up for good and the stock shipped to Pittsbarg. The boys did not wait until 10 c'clock to make the descent and capture the fort, but sent out skirmishers about 8 o'clock. As soon as the sharpshooters began to pick off the clerks with water-melon rinds and stones, the sutler closed down his shutters and the attack ceased. On account of the trouble happening every night it was decided not to reopen the place to-day, and the stock was shipped away. The boys are not paying exorbitant rates for anything to-day, unless they go to town. Money cannot buy anything in the Second brigade to-day, for the reason that there is no sutler in the camp. Philip Flinu says he had enough, and the soldiers believe he had chough, and the soldiers believe him. Some of them even say he has had too much, and if he stayed until the last day of camp they would have to leave their valuables. The attention of Brigadier Gen-eral Wiley was called to the disorder every night, and the lovers of haw and order are not sorry to see the place closed.

MAJ. GEN. HARTRANFT'S SUCCESSOR.

Brigadier General Snowden, Acting Commander, has been appointed Major General of the State, vice John F. Hartranit, and Colonel R. P. Dechert, of the Second Regi-Colonel A. P. Dechert, of the Second Reg-ment, has been appointed Brigadier Gen-eral, wice General Snowden. The appoint-ment has not yet been officially made, but Governor Beaver notified General Snowden to-day his commission would arrive to-mor-row. For months this matter has been the row. For months this matter has been the topic of conversation among military men, and the announcement to-day was hailed with delight both in the Eastern and West-ern regiments. Colonel Smith, of the Eighteenth, and Colonel Hawkins, of the Tenth, were especially pleased, and said the

There was considerable fun in the Eighteenth Regiment to-day. Last night three members of the drum corps were given passes to go to Lebanon, and were allowed outside the lines until 3:30. They saw the saw the elephant in full regimentals and, after changing the figures on the pass so as to rerd 8:30 instead of 3:30, started back to camp. They evidently did not make a good job of the matter, as the guard discovered the frand and run the crowd into the guard house. They were made to carry logs to-day, and while doing it in the company street, the other members of the corps gathered around them and for several hours played the grand march. The prisoners, William Best, Fred Wick and Thomas

Bevins, thoroughly entered into the spirit of the thing, and enjoyed the fun in a grim MCSWIGAN. way.
