A VERY GOOD MOVE

ject of Toilet Facilities for

FEW MEN LIKE TO APPEAR DIRTY,

But Many Have No Choice in the Matter After They Leave Home in the Morning for Work.

A General Desire Among Those Interested for Speedy Reform in Pittsburg.

"It's a decidedly good move;" "it ought to be adopted;" "it's something people have been clamoring for;" it is for the interest of ward step in the right direction toward the elevation of the laboring classes of people.

Said Master Workman Evans, of the Knights of Labor: "It is a good movement that ought to be adopted as soon as possible. I know how the working men feel. They do not like to appear dirty on the streets, and if the city shops, especially the foundries and mills, were provided with lockers where the men might hang up their working clothes at night and don better ones, the workingmen-the majority of them-would not wear their dirty shop garments on the street and in public conveyances. Go into the Government Printing Office at Washington. There places are prowided where the workmen may hang up their street clothes when they go to work in the morning and put them on again when they quit work at night.

change their clothes and meet their engage ments in time. So they either go there directly from the shops in their dirty elothes or they do not go at all. Then again, if such accommodations were to be had in the shops, it would save a good deal of labor for the wives and mothers. A workman would not cause distress to his wife by coming into the house at night and flinging his dirty clothes around here and

"We ought to have it," said another workman. "I have ridden in street cars in my dirty clothes, and often I have seen women trying to get away from me. But I am too tired to walk home after working all day. If I had some place in the shop to put my street clothes where they would not get dirty, I could make a change every worker in those establishments, "soap and facilities for washing and changing clothes are provided, and in the shops at Altoona each man has a separate locker for his

Labor, said that instances have frequently dirty clothes on the street if they were enabled to change them at their shops.

that happened about a year ago, as my wife and myself were returning from Allegheny in a street car. A number of workingmen, among them a young boy about 12 or 13 years, all workers evidently in a brickward, boarded the car. They were The boy sat down alongside my wife, and pushed up against her. When he left the do so conveniently in the shops, and that they would rather walk or stand in the cars than to sit down in their dirty clothing." "For my part, it is a decidedly good move, and one that people have been clam-oring for for a long time," said Mr. Thomas, cars are compelled to bump up against workmen right from the shops in their filthy elothes. Of course, some workmen will be found who don't want to put off their workvery easy to educate men into changing their clothes. Another good feature of such a reform is that it would teach young boys who are growing up as apprentices to be nest and tidy about their personal appearance, and also about their work. In that way it would benefit the employers just as

Mr. Kelly, an employe in the Westing-house Machine Works, said the reform could be made very easily, and should be made. "The biggest portion of workingmen," he said, "live on the outskirts of the city, at a long distance from their places of employ-ment, and they have to get there in cars. A great many of them would not sit down in the cars, and being too tired to stand up, they preier to walk. I have seen workmen from the East, and they have told me that there lockers are found for the men to hang their clothes, baskets and dinner pails in, and even bathtubs, where they may have baths before leaving the shops."

James Connelly, a heater employed at the Clinton Blast Furnace, on the Southside, when asked about the toilet facilities in his when asked about the toilet facilities in his mill, said: "I think such things are a necessity, by all means. I don't know of any mill in the city where such conveniences are to be had. However, if all the workers would make a unanimous request for decent washing rooms, and keep asking continually, the companies might grant the request. At the mill where I work there is a small unoccupied building, owned by the company, and located near by, which could be very easily converted into a bath room, at httle expense. Some of the men work 24 hours without rest, Saturday and Sunday, and if they could wash between turns it would greatly refresh them. I'll try to interest the men at the furnace in the matter, and see if we vocated. The health of the men would be better, because they would not need to go home in clothes sweating from hard toil Some of us walk or ride long distances, and when we get home the clothing has become dry, leaving the pores of the skin clogged.

This causes considerable ill health, but it could be obvinted if we had an opportunity to bathe before leaving the mill. Then, when we ride in street cars we get angry looks, and sometimes hard words, if people happen to brush our soiled clothes."

'TWOULD BE A GODSEND. Robert Reside, employed at the Carbon Iron and Steel Company's works, in Law-renceville, said: "The only place we have to wash is a long trough. We have to take towels with us, too. A good bathroom with plenty of towels for the use of all the men would be a godsend, and I believe we can get them if the request is made. The ab-sence of washing facilities is often com-plained of by the men. Another cause for complaint is the lack of drinking water worthy the name. I would like to see both Thomas Williams, who also works at the Carbon mills, replied to the reporter's query as follows: "The millworkers want good bathing rooms, and if they had them our health wood be much improved. Lots of us don't ride home on the street cars because we can't wash before we start, and I know from experience that everybody gets offended when they rub our working clothes. If THE DISPATCH successfully advocates this plan, it will receive the thanks of hundreds of workingmen."

The desire for better cleansing convenimovement. One of the conductors on the Penn avenue line said yesterday; "In traveling on the cars workingmen generally ride on the platforms, but some go inside and drop down next to a lady who invariably wears a dress which she dreads the mechanic, with his greasy working clothes, will ruin. She frequently gives up her place to him on this account. This condition of affairs is to be deplored, when it lies within the hands of the workingmen's employers to remedy the evil. If the wives of our manufacturers had to take the street cars to do their shopping, it would not require a second trip with a crowd of workingmen to bring about this improvemen We see innumerable cases where ladies have costly garments rendered unsightly from simply occupying seats in cable and horse cars, where a mill man, with a dirty suit of clothes, sat previously. Of course we can say nothing. In Eastern cities, I understand, unclean workingmen are as scarce as the dirty ones are plentiful here. This is on account of the toilet rooms which are provided to enable the workingmen to appear on the street as cleanly dressed as other people."

for 350 More Pinnes. Since the successful completion of the Everett Piano club list, the club plan of selling pianos has become so popular that Mr. Ross has been urged to open the list for another club. Mr. Ross is now visit-ing all the principal factories in the East for the purpose of placing a contract for 350 pianos for a new club. Prospective members of the new club can rest assured that the piano selected will be the best value that can be found in the market. The Everett club piano this week goes to a resident of Wilkinsburg, who held certifi-cate No. 93. This fortunate member receives one of those elegant Everett upright grand pianos for $350 on payments of $1 a week, which are now selling for $425.

Allegheny County, Pa., July 31.

Are you a breeder of Jersey cattle? Are you interested in dairy stock? Do you want a good driving horse or a drait team? Do you think of buying some pigs? Are you short of farm implements of any kind? If so you cannot afford to forget that a public sale will take place July 22 of July 23. Allegheny county, Pa., where any or all of the above wants can be supplied. At that time and place John M. Risher, assignee of I. D. Risher, will sell the Black Diamond men, so tired that they could hardly stand up, would not get into a street car with their dirty clothes because they might be snubbed and soil the clothing of other passengers.

Men like that, he said, would not wear their horses; also, swine and the smaller stock, as well as the vehicles and implements commonly used on a first-class farm, will all pass under the auctioneer's hammer. You cannot afford to lorget this sale if you want something good. Notice carefully the ad-vertisement in this issue and be on hand to take advantage of the bargains that will be dropped to the highest bidder.
