

BLAINE AND BOLIVAR.

The Patriotic Work of the Two Compared by W. E. Curtis, of Pan-American Note.

GREAT GOOD WAS ACCOMPLISHED.

In His Opinion, by the Late International Congress, in Preparing the Way for Closer Relations

WITH SOUTH AMERICAN NEIGHBORS.

Lecture on Music and Recreational Notes from the Cool Lake Side Resort.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

LAKE CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 31.—"Sit down here for a moment, happy to meet you and THE DISPATCH, the best paper from New York City and Chicago," was the hearty invitation of Mr. W. E. Curtis, Secretary of the Pan-American Congress, as we took a convenient seat at the pier while he was waiting for the steamer.

"Mr. Curtis, what do you think of the probable success of Mr. Blaine's great international scheme?"

"I told you my views principally, in my morning's lecture, but I would like to say a word concerning Mr. Blaine, who I consider the master hand of to-day. It was he who was instrumental in making it a success. I well remember the time when a squabble occurred among the delegates, which was due to a misinterpretation of several of the delegates who did not understand the language. Mr. Blaine sat in the chair as restless and impatient as a caged lion.

CALLING CARNEGIE TO AID HIM.

"Although the presiding officer, he had no right to the floor. But he could speak through others, and calling Mr. Andrew Carnegie to the platform, whispered a few words in his ear. The latter returned to his place, and at the first call in the excited debate demanded recognition.

"Mr. President," said he, "I believe that this confusion and the differences among the honorable delegates is largely due to improper translations and a misinterpretation of the meaning of some of the words of the text, and in order to give an opportunity to correct the misunderstanding I move that the conference take a recess of twenty minutes."

"The motion was carried, Mr. Blaine left the chair and called the angry disputants into an adjoining room. In half an hour he returned, his face glowing with satisfaction and a paper in his hand. He read the Vice President to the chair and taking the floor, by the unanimous consent of the delegates, he exclaimed in a ringing, triumphant voice:

THE DIFFICULTY ADJUSTED.

"Mr. President, I am very happy to announce that any vital difference upon any question connected with the scheme of arbitration which an hour ago might have been feared is, I hope, entirely removed, and the resolutions of the honorable gentlemen have been simply changed from being in perpetuity to running at even dates with the treaty of arbitration, so that they stand and fall together. But we shall hope that the lives of both will be perpetual.

"It was then that the first applause during the entire session was heard. Mr. Blaine read the articles in succession, and they were translated one by one by Dr. Zegars, the delegate from Peru. Then came the vote, and the delegates from the delegates from Chili having withdrawn. Thus, sir, did 17 nations of this hemisphere pledge themselves that was upon the American continent should be no more, and that the angel of peace shall descend upon the globe, to which all differences shall be appealed.

GREAT HOPES ARE RESTING

on the results of the conference, and its conclusions will be accepted and enforced, to-day the sentiment of all the sister nations are none other than these expressed by Simon Bolivar in his sublime toast uttered more than 60 years ago: 'To the liberty, fraternity and prosperity of the American Republics. Bolivar, the founder of the North Star Cross, as the axis of the universe, and the cross, for 1800 years the symbol of peace on earth and good will to men, hangs star-like in the firmament of sky.' Your correspondent found the gentleman, who, as executive officer, managed the great Pan-American excursion, which traveled 6,000 miles at a cost of $67,000, as pleasant a talker as he was an able lecturer. In the morning he spoke in substance as follows: Fronting the Plaza Bolivar, in the city of Caracas, stands an old building with walls of red brick and green tiles, and like a prison. To the right, across the plaza, is the ancient cathedral; to the left the Casa Anisado, or yellow house, in which the President of Venezuela resides.

THE FIRST OF THE REPUBLICS.

In the center, mounted on a towering horse, is a bronze equestrian of Simon Bolivar, the liberator of South America and the founder of five Republics, one of which still bears his name. Across the street, in the other direction, is the Palacio Federal, the capitol of the Republic, where the Congress and official ceremonies, of which our Spanish-American neighbors are so fond, are held. Here, on July 5, 1811, 510 years after the discovery of the New World, by the Spaniards, the American colonies declared their independence, and the leader in the movement a few years before had been the lover of an Empress, the famous Catherine the Great of Russia.

The original Declaration of Independence, faded and frayed until its lines are almost illegible, hangs upon the walls, and on the opposite end of the apartment is a large painting intended to commemorate the scene. During the administration of John Quincy Adams, Bolivar, the founder of five republics, proposed to hold a conference of American republics at Panama, to the opposition of the slave holders, who saw in such a conference a detriment to their interest. The delegation from the United States did not arrive until after the conference had adjourned.

COMPLETING BOLIVAR'S WORK.

What the immortal Bolivar had proposed it was left for Blaine to accomplish, and last October there assembled at Washington delegates from 18 nations in America. After a deliberation over the mutual interests of the nations, committees were appointed to provide measures for the benefit of these nations. The great object discussed was a means of supplying a satisfactory steamship system between the countries. Many of the measures of the committee met with opposition, but not with so much as might be expected. Some of these measures have already received the approval of Congress of the United States. A conference between North and South America has lately been organized owing to the work of the Pan-American Congress.

After the work of the congress was completed the visiting delegates were invited to view the industries and social advantages of the United States, and in a train arranged for that purpose they visited the interior of our country. Railroads for the increase of traffic between North and South America are in process of construction. The building of a road between the two countries has been proposed, and Congress has already appointed commissioners and appropriated a sum of money for the survey of the route.

RESULTS OF THE CONGRESS.

The delegates from South America were greatly astonished at the progress of our people of their history and institutions.

A uniform system of weights and measures has been proposed; a uniform method of nomenclature for articles of commerce; a mutual protection against contagious diseases; a uniform system of port and harbor rules; equal rights regard copyright and patent; a common code of international law and laws for the protection of citizens of one country residing in another; an extradition treaty providing for the exchange of criminals; a provision for an international bank to be located in London with a branch bank in each of the different nations; an international treaty providing for the purpose of establishing a uniform standard of value.

The first meeting of this union is to be held in Washington on the first Wednesday next January for the purpose of deciding upon a system of international coinage. A proposition was made for an arrangement of the tariff system between the nations. Free trade might be advantageous to the United States, but owing to the fact that the States of South America are supported almost entirely by their import duties, they could not afford to give up a source of revenue. Many efforts to bring about a better condition of commerce. It is proposed by them to admit into their country free of tax, provisions and breadstuffs, in return for which they are to receive their sugar and wool under the same conditions. This matter is still under consideration.

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.

A treaty for the settlement of differences between the nations by means of arbitration was prepared, and with the exception of five nations whose delegates were not invested with full power, it was approved. Twice to-day, and the first time in many years, was a changing audience disappointed in the non-appearance of entertainer Dr. M. C. Lockwood was announced to speak at 2:30 in the afternoon at the Amphitheater on "Elysopolis," but when George Vincent advanced upon the platform no lecturer appeared, and the Vice Chancellor was obliged to announce that a railroad accident had detained him. But he assured the audience that he would be on hand later at 4 o'clock. The appointed hour found no speaker, and this time Mr. Vincent was obliged to admit that for once there had been a mistake, though due to no error of the management. "Anyone," said he, "who has come here with the sole intent of hearing Mr. Lockwood's lecture have been disappointed may have their money refunded at the pier. We propose to do the fair thing in all instances."

It has not been warm to-day. It has been hot. The sun beat down with sultry heat on a placid lake, the leaves of the trees withered, and the few broods of the migrating birds in despair, and left every point on the lake lolling in a heat that exceeded anything of the year. The wise ones prophesied that it could not last long, and the evening brought a bounteous and welcome rain.

CLASSICAL MUSIC.

Mr. Edward Dickinson gave a very artistic lecture on "The Classic in Music," in which he stated that a very few knew the meaning of classical music that was old and truly classical. It must be of high character. Prof. Ballentine, of Oberlin, O., discussed on "Isaiah" this afternoon, and 7 in the evening papers were conducted. Bishop Thoburn, of the Methodist Church, of India, was highly honored to-night. The Methodist headquarters were gay with people who had gathered there in his honor. Bishop Thoburn was a graduate of Allegheny College, and when a young man left this country for missionary work in the land of the Hindoo. He was here to make the address of yesterday and to attend to certain business matters. Again Chautauqua had the pleasure of listening to a rare musical entertainment. Mr. J. V. Flagg gave an elegant display of the life of Beethoven and the composition of his works. Mr. Sherwood played several selections from this author in his own matchless way, and was greeted with round applause. If Mr. Flagg can describe Beethoven, Mr. Sherwood can certainly interpret him. Mr. H. A. Moore also sang several selections and all with their splendid singing. If Chautauqua are not highly educated in music they certainly will be by the close of the present season.

THIS GRANGE DAY.

To-morrow is Grange Day, and several notable gentlemen in lines of agricultural enthusiasm have already arrived. Ex-Governor Luce, of Michigan, the orator of the day, will be here at 10 o'clock. The signature of Edward F. Jones, Lieutenant-Governor of New York, who "pays the freight," and misses himself on his "pull" with the farming element, adorns the register at the hotel.

The young ladies at the Sterlingworth gave a very well and exclusive hop this evening. Dr. M. C. Lockwood, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cincinnati, arrived at 7 o'clock. To-morrow night in the amphitheater he will speak upon and give an exposition of "Spiritualism." In hypnosis, his special hobby, the doctor is perhaps the most learned and advanced of any man in the country. He takes little stock in Christian science, and when asked what he thought of this method of healing the sick said: "By an occasional fumigation I have kept it out of my church. I recommend one part science, two parts religion, in a solution of common sense, to be held 30 or 40 minutes under the nose of the patient on a Sunday morning, if any symptoms appear, but if the attack becomes seated it will run its course, and is hard to check."

HE ALSO MET THE FATHER.

A New York Drummer Finds it Dangerous to Flirt With Ballet Girls. "There are my ballet girls," said a sleek-looking drummer for a New York shirt house, as he laid down a copy of THE DISPATCH at the Seventh Avenue Hotel last night. "I see I am not the only man who struck the three pretty English girls in 'New York.' The girls needed quite pleasantly to me. I was in Wheeling last night, and came near getting my head broken on their account. I went into a restaurant; where a number of the ballet girls were sitting; and at one table three girls were sitting and at another there was a man by himself. The girls needed quite pleasantly to me, and of course I sat down and called for beer for the party. We were having a pleasant time when the man came over and told me I was getting too fresh and had better take a sneak. I was about to object vigorously, when he told me the girls were his daughters.

"I did not need anything more. I vanished as quick as I could, and when a little later I met one of the shownen outside he told me the balance of the party were just waiting to see the latter throw me out. The father has a reputation for that kind of work."

Sick Headache

May arise from stomach troubles, biliousness, or dyspepsia, and many persons are subject to periodic headaches for which they can attribute no direct or definite cause. But the headache is a sure indication that there is something wrong somewhere, and whatever the cause, Hood's Sarsaparilla is a reliable remedy for headache, and for all troubles which seem to require a corrective and regulate. It cures dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, tones the stomach, creates an appetite and gives strength to the nerves.

THE WORK DELAYED.

Sixth Street Bridge Design Not to be Aided for Three Weeks. John B. Jackson is authority for the statement that the designs for the new Sixth street bridge will not be decided for at least three weeks. This is on account of the work of Mr. Flood, of St. Louis, who was to pass on the plans and inspect the site. He cannot come to Pittsburgh for at least three weeks and he will then probably take all the plans to St. Louis and make the decision there.

DANZIGER'S "Always the Cheapest" Sixth St. and Penn Ave.

PRICES DIVE DEEPER. If clothing that's worth much does that, its a wonder. The generosity (?) of the prices ought to rejoice you.

First, they go down to "unheard-of" prices. Then, a new crop makes a deeper plunge. It looks as if the clothing business had taken to "auctioneer" shop methods.

The prices mayn't be any lower now than they ought to be. That depends on what kind of clothing it is. It must, at any rate, have been mostrously high before.

We couldn't pursue such tactics with our make. It's a mere matter of a small profit with us on the cloth, plus the work put on it. That's the true basis of a low price. All clothing that has real value fixes prices so. We can't hack and hack at our prices.

If it's for clearing up broken lots, our prices are lower. A full assortment of Thin Goods; at fairest prices. Merchant tailoring of first order; 2,000 styles of goods.
