An Adjournment Forced With Everything Still Involved in the Most Dismal Confusion.

THE BIG MEN FROM MAINE ARE NOW AT WAR

The Republican Senators met in caucus last night, fought several hours and adjourned. Nothing was decided upon, but the meeting will probably settle the fate of the force bill. Quay's resolution will now be brought up in the open Senate, where it is practically certain of success. The radical members are in a very indignant frame of mind.

MPRCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.) WASHINGTON, August 14.-The Repub lican Senators held a protracted and lively caucus this evening, lasting nearly three hours. At the close of the conference each Senator was pledged to secrecy as to what took place. Under these circumstances it would be unparliamentary to state what occurred with any degree of positiveness.

It is intimated strongly in certain quarters, however, that the force bill Senstors were beaten outright on a direct vote on the motion of Senator Hoar to amend the Quay resolution by adding the force bill to the list of measures to be considered at this session. No secretary was present to keep a record of the vote but a shrewd guess gives the result as 17 Senators in favor of Mr. Hoar's motion and 18 against it.

No Definite Policy Adopted. This was a blow between the eyes to the force bill Senators, so the rumor goes, and they succeeded in securing an adjournment, lowing up their by adopting it outright without amendment. Adjournment was then taken without the transaction of any further business and without any understanding as to a future caucuor any other consideration of the subject.

The result makes it probable that the Quay resolution will now come up in open Senate, where it is plain to see that it will be adopted. Of course, the force bill Senators will endeavor in every way possible to prevent this, but they have no assurance whatever on this point, as the caucus adjourned with nothing done or understood except the defeat of Mr. Hoar's plan to have the elections bill included in the Quay reso-

Standing of the Senators.

There were, it is rumored, 36 Senators at its caucus when it met, and a good guess places the vote on Mr. Hoar's amendment as follows: In favor, Messrs, Allison, Blair, Edmunds, Evarts, Hawley, Higgins, Hoar, Manderson, Moody, Platt, Sawyer, Sherman, Spooner and Wilson. In opposition, Messrs, Aldrich, Allen, Cameron, Doris, Dixon, Hale, Hiscock, Jones, McMillan, Mitchell, Paddock, Pettigrew, Quay, Power, Squire, Stockbridge, Teller and Washburn. The following Senators were absent from the city: Messrs, Chandler, Dawes, Dolph, Farwell, Morrell, Stanford, Walcott and Pierce.

The defeat of Mr. Hoar's motion was not accomplished until two or three very exciting and interesting hours had been spent behind the closed doors of the Senate chamber. A number of speeches were made or both sides of the question, it is understood and they were of a very vigorous char-

Mr. Hoar led in the appeal to stand by the force bill and while he grew eloquent. threating and tearful in turn, he did not repent his codfish speech, notwithstanding his Pickwickian denial, he did make a previous caucus, just as it was reported when he made it. He has not yet made a distinct denial.

Messrs. Plumb and others made stirring speeches in opposition to Hoar, and the whole subject in all its phrases was discussed with the result as above indicated. Senator Spooner made a strong speech which some denominated "reading the riot act." He warned Senators that they must meet the issue squarely. The elections bill must be passed now at this session or not at all. It would be futile to go before the country with any statement that this bill would be passed at the short session. It was of supreme importance that it should be passed at once. His remarks brought out sharp retorts from several opponents of Attacks on the Kickers. During the entire day the most determined and persistent efforts were made to force Senators who were known to be in favor of the Quay programme, or at least lukewarm, to see and admit the error of their ways, and repent while yet the lamps were burning. The frantic appeals and bitter denunciation of the party organs were read to the deserters, as they were called, and the intimation made that they were in danger of being read out of the party, as Senator Quay had already been. These Senators paid little attention to their would-be censors, however. Their determination to stand by the compromise arrangement was not reached in haste or the Republican side of the chamber was carefully canvassed for several days, and the men who were back of Mr. Quay knew exactly what support they had in the new movement. The intense bitterness with which the party organs have assaulted Mr. Quay, is amusing in the face of the fact that Senators Aldrich, Plumb, Teller, and other leaders, have known for several days that the resolution was to be offered, and were in hearty sympathy with it. Many Anxious to Go Home. Many other Senators have been all along anxious to bring the session to a close, even at the cost of sacrificing the elections bill, but for various reasons they have not dared to say so. Senator Ingalls is strongly opposed to the idea of any election bill, but civil bill, the Senate "hung up," a parahas thought it well to maintain a dignified

Senator Sawyer does not see the necessity of the bill, but has been held in line out of friendship if not fear of his colleague, Mr. Spooner, who is the godfather of the Hoar measure. Senator Cullom has been eager to join his colleague, Mr. Farwell, in working for an early adjournment, but, keeping in mind at all times the fond delusion that he is a Presidental candidate, he has with his usual adroitness managed to occupy a neutral perch on the fence and so it goes.

Other Senators are negative in their support of the Quay resolution for similar reasons, and it is quite within bounds to state that but for the fear of party displeasure at least two-thirds of the Republican Senators would be willing to vote for putting the elections bill over until December, which would mean its indefinite postpone-

To-morrow (Friday) is the day set apart for the consideration of the river and harbor bill, and the friends of this measure have been quite as anxious as to its fate as have the managers of the elections bill. It is very uncertain whether that Jumbo appropriation bill requires a week's discussion, or whether it can be disposed of at once.

The Democrats are rather of the opinion that it is a very good subject to ventilate, and they will not be anxious to hasten the taking of a vote upon it unless they construe to-night's action to mean that they have nothing to fear from the elections bill,

The most ridiculous story set affoat by the party organs is their statement that a score or more of the leading Republicans in the House have sworn that if the Quay resolution or anything like it is adopted by the Senate there will be no tariff legislation by this Congress. No reputable Republican in the House has been found willing to be responsible for this statement.

TIN PLATE TROUBLES, PLUMB PROPOSES A BOUNTY INSTEAD

Majority of Republican Scantors However, Stand by the McKinley Bill-Carlisle Doubts the Capacity of the Pittsburg Rolling Mills.

WASHINGTON, August 14 .- In the Senate to-day Mr. Plumb gave notice of an amendment which he would offer to strike out of paragraph 137 the provision imposing a duty on tin plate, and to add to the paragraph a provision to pay to the manufacturers of tin plate made in the United States thus preventing the friends of the Quay absunty of la cent per pound. He exproposition of the Finance Committee. He doubted very much that it would permanently introduce into this country the manufacture of tin plates in quantities sufficient for domestic consumption.

Mr. Teller expressed his belief that the effect of the proposed increase of duty on tin plates would be (as had been the case with all other protected industries) eventually to reduce the price to consumers. Mr. Plumb repeated the word "eventually" as if it was too indefinite. Mr. Teller said that he was willing to put the time at a year.

A KICK FROM KANSAS.

Mr. Plumb had no doubt that in time or eventually" if the manufacture of tir plates were entered upon in this country one of the results would be to reduce the price, but he did not find in the present situation any ground for a reasonable presumption that (even with the increased duty on tin plate) there would be in year, or two years or five or ten years enough tin plate made in the United States to meet the local demand. He was willing to "beg off" and ask those men who were now proposing to manufacture tin plate not to exercise the power which they had got in the American Congress, and not to force an increase of duty on all the tinware used in the country, on every tin cup, on every tin plate and coffee pot, and on every yard of tin roofing in the United States, and instead of the increased duty to take a bounty of 1 cent a pound, or 2 cents if necessary. If they were reasonable men they ought to be willing to do that. He knew that when bounty was given in a tariff bill Congress was entering on a sea that had no shore, but it was already in the bill on the sugar schedule. THE NEW SENATOR. Mr. Carlisle presented a letter received by him to-day from Charles W. Potts, of Philadelphia, a large consumer of tin plate to the effect that he had applied to all the rolling mills in the vicinity of Pittsburg for a price on a thickness of steel plate out of which canning tin plate is made, and that all except one stated that they could not make steel plates as thin as required, and that the one firm that could make them asked 51/4 cents a pound for them (untinned), while the present selling price of tin plate—duty, freight, etc., included—is only 4.22

Mr. Aldrich accounted for that on the ground that as there was no demand in this country for steel plate of such extreme thinness there was no plant for rolling them; but he predicted that if the duty on tin plates was increased all the rolling mills would in a very short time be provided with the requisite plant.

Mr. Bate addressed the Senate in a general review and condemnation of the bill.

TWO REPUBLICAN BOLTERS. After further debate the vote was taken and Mr. Vest's amendment was rejected— yeas, 26; nays, 30—Messrs. Davis and Plumb being the only Bepublicans voting in the affirmative. Mr. Ingalis did not vote and Mr. Paddock voted in the negative.

Mr. Plumb offered the amendment of which he had given notice—to strike out the clause imposing a duty of 2 2-10 cents a pound on tin plate (reserving the other part of the proposition as to bounty), but finally withdrew it and offered another, making

MAINE MEN AT WAR. REED AND BOUTELLE AGAINST BLAINE

nt on the Board of Manager of the Soldiers' Homes Causing the Trouble-A Sent la the Senate la Belleves to be at Stake. PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. 1

WASHINGTON, August 14 .- It will be remembered that a few days ago, when considering the conference report on the sundry graph which provided for the management of the National Soldiers' Homes and the new Board of Directors. A gentleman just arrived from Bar Harbor informs the correspondent of THE DISPATCH that the battle ground over that clause of the bill is in that great political battle field, the State of Blaine and Tom Reed.

The House inserted as a member of the new board of management Colonel Farnbam. now postmaster at Bangor, a brave and popular soldier, wounded many times, able, and a friend of Representative Boutelle and Speaker Reed. In the Senate Colonel Farnham's nomination ran against the opposition of Senator Hale and Secretary Blaine. who desire the retention in the board of General Hyde, a present director, and a political friend of the distinguished gentlemen named. Colonel Stevenson, now superin-tendent of the great Soldiers' Home at Torgus, is in the same political faction, and feels that his tenure depends on the tenure of General Hyde, Naturally he is for Hyde, and he worked the Soldiers' Home fryde, and ne worked the Soldiers Home for an indorsement of Hyde, which, THE DISPATCH's informant alleges, was somewhat spurious in its alleged unanimity.

The fight grew hot and bitter. Everyody, summer visitors, tourists of a day, and permanent citizens, range themselves on one side or the other, and Colonel Farnham's wide personal popularity, and General Hyde's alleged unpopularity, is said to give the former a vast majority of the votes. General Hyde, through the support of Hale and Blaine, appears to be a very lucky man in his relations with the Government. Besides his position as director he and others associated with him have contracts for building the hulis of two cruisers for the Government. The contracts were let months ago, but all that yet appears of the cruisers is a few planks thrown on the ground. The quiet fight that is now going on between the Maine contingent in the House and Senate is very intense, and it is probable that whatever is done in the one body will be "cop-pered" in the other. One of the purposes of Boutelle and Reed in placing Farnham is to oust Hale from the Senate.

DEFENDING HIS FIGURES,

Porter Thinks that 64,000,000 of Population is Just About Right.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, August 14.-Superin endent Porter has been receiving a number of communications from all sections of the country complaining about the estimate of the entire population of the United States given out by him a few days ago, his figures being 64,000,000. Most of these letters are couched in such a tone as to make it evident that the writers felt personally hurt at his putting the figures so low. They seemed to think that the estimates at least should have been high enough to make the eagle shrick with pride even if the corrected figures did not come within a few million of this patriotic statement. Mr. Porter, comment-ing to-day upon these complaints remarked that he was not the only one to make the

Mr. Edward Atkinson, the celebrated statistician, had estimated that there were 64,476,000 people in this country, while Mr. Henry Elliott, the actuary of the Treasury, had also suggested 64,000,000 as about the number people who would be found owing allegiance to the Stars and Stripes.

Manchester Paper Says the Pope Will Leave Rome-The Welsh Strike Over-A Death Charged to McKinley.

IBY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY. LONDON, August 14.-The Manchester Courier to-day contains the following editorial: "In consequence of the fierce persecution of the Church, which is the policy of Crispi, and includes the suppression and annihilation of the few remaining religious houses, the closing of 42 churches, the abolition of religious instruction and ministration in schools, hospitals and prisons, the Pope will soon issue a manifesto to the Roman Catholics throughout the world giving his intention of leaving Rome, together with his court and all his adherents. From a practical point of view this means ruin to Rome, for with the pontiff will go the cardinals, the prelates and a vast number of persons who annually come to Rome as pilgrims. In fact commercial ruin stares innkeepers and shopkeepers in the face. Still it is impossible for any earnes Christian even now to live in Rome, which is fast becoming the headquarters of atheism and free thought. The shop windows are full of shocking caricatures of the Deity, license is allowed for blasphemy, and its indecency has never been surpassed in his tory, even during the French year of 1793."

LONDON-The Lancet, the leading medical organ, discussing the Kemmler execution, says: "The operators in the Kemmler case used their mimic lightning with all the clumsiness of mortal inability. They burned the skull and a portion of the back, and exploded the sinuses of the brain. No doubt they were fortunate enough to render the man senseless at the first blow, just as they would have done if they had struck him on the head and back with a red hot hammer but there was found no mark of the electrical current in or through the viscera of the body. The man was killed by concussion of the brain and explosion within the closed cavity of the skull, just as a man may be killed by apoplexy or sunstroke.

When the steamer reached this port and lay to, to await the coming of the mail, these two gentlemen ventured ashore. Their researches drove the idea of time from their mind, and when they returned to the dock they found the tender had received the mails and left for the steamer without waiting for them. They at once chartered a tug and put out to sea in pursuit of the Berlin, but after a long chase failed to catch her and gave it up.

LONDON-The Grenadier Guards are evidently to be left to their exile in Bermuda, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary, since the reserve battalion is under orders to report at once to headquarters, previous to sailing to rejoin their comrades. A great many of the men have had to resign profitable situations in order to answer to their names on the roster. The authorities say that the real object in sending the regiment abroad is to infuse the young soldiers with a spirit of loyalty, they being regarded in official quarters as the cause of all the late trouble.

SWEPT OVER THE FALLS. Two Men Whose Bont Drifted Into the Fatal Corrent Lose Their Lives.

NIAGARA FALLS, August 14 .- At about 11 o'clock this morning a report was circulated here that a man had been seen going over the Horseshoe Falls clinging to a common rowboat. Upon inquiry it was learned that Thomas Glynn, a hackman, was driving a party of visitors along the south shore of Goat Island, when a man was seen rowing toward the Canadian shore above the Canadian rapids. The party watched him for a few minutes and saw him swept into the rapids. The boat was soon upset and passed over the falls and the man disap-peared. A message was sent from Chippswa, a village above the Horseshoe Falls, on the Canadian side, asking if anyone had been seen going out into the river in a boat or was missing. A reply was received saying that a man named Fleck, who had been down on Dufferin Islands, had reported secing two men out in the river, some distance rapids. They were struggling desperately to gain the shore, but their boat had drifted into the swift current and their efforts were useless. Suddenly one of the men lesped overboard and attempted to swim to the shore, but was carried down into the rapids and swept over the falls. The other clung to the boat and was also swept over the falls. Who the men were and where they got the boat no one knows, as no boats are missing at Port Day on the American side or at Chippawa. The occurrence was reported to the police, who are keeping the lookout for the bodies below the falls. WEDDED IN THE RING.

A Feature of the Circus That Was No Upon the Bills. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.]

READING, August 14-A unique and unexpected feature was introduced at the evening performance of T. R. Burks' circus in the shape of a wedding ceremony in the ring. The bride was Miss Lizzie Jones, of this city, and the groom was D. O. Bauman, formerly a resident of Ephrata, Lancaster county, but recenely employed as a driver by the Reading Transfer Company. The regular performance had just been com-pleted when, with the consent of the management, the bridal party entered the ring stepping to the music of Mendelssohn's "Wedging March" played to order by the circus band. The groom was accompanied by Alderman Kramer, T. R. Burks and J. W. Lovelance, and the bride was attended by Miss Jennie Atwood.

A platform had been erected in the ring and this the party mounted. Alderman Kramer tied the nuptial knot. After the ceremony the groom kissed the bride in tra-ditional fashion and the couple received the congratulations of their triends. The audience meanwhile had been looking on with breathless interest, and when it was all over they set up a mighty cheer. At the conclusion of the wedding the management of the circus presented $100 cash to the couple, who left the circus grounds in a coupe, followed by the lusty cheers of the multitude.

Mercer and Lawrence were asked to indicate what they wanted to investigate, the other counties being pretty well satisfied as to how the nomination brought about, but th they deolined. ler, who opened the subject, and for the further purpose of ascertaining what scope should be given to the inquiry, moved that if the nomination for Congress in this dis-trict was effected by bribery it is invalid, This seemed to stir up Amendments came thick and fast for the purpose of preventing a vote on the resolu-tion. When all the amendments had been laid to rest, there were motions to adjourn. Sam Miller, in order to kill time, appealed twice from the decision of the Chair, at the same time declaring that they would stay there all night rather than a vote should be taken on the question. After some filibustering a motion to take a recess till 8:45 o'clock to-morrow morning was passed, with Sullivan's motion still undisposed of. The opening session does not angur well for a harmonious meeting or the

CLOAKMAKERS CO-OPERATING

Long Have Hoped. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, August 14.-The cloakmakers opened their first co-operative shop. It was a great event among these people. It has always been the aim of the Cloakmakers' Union to reduce the cloak and snit industry to a system of co-operation, toward which the first step is the abolition of the contract or "sweating" system. The cloaknakers have entertained this idea for a long time, but it was only during the recent strike that it took practical shape. When all the plans had been discussed and submitted to them of experience, 50 of the best workmen were selected to make the first experiment, Each man contributed $3 to a common fund to defray current expenses and furnish a

Arrangements had been made with a sewing machine company to place 20 tailors achines in the shop, which are to be paid for on the installment plan. A part of the capital of the enterprise had been invested in findings needed to make cloaks. During the week Foreman Aerber had been going around among the manufacturers soliciting work, with the result that when the men re-ported at 8 o'clock this morning they found 400 bundles of cut cloth waiting to be made into cloaks. Everything went smoothly.
