We have asked Mr. Lash if he would offer us some proposition looking to a settlement of the difficulty, and he has re-fused. On one occasion, in company with Vice President Florence Sullivan, we called on Mr. Lash, asking him to show us by figures that we were inconsistent in asking our price, and he refused. On an-other occasion our National President, Mr. Weihe, accompanied our committee to seek to settle the matter, but without success. On the 16th inst, as the result of a meeting of our lodge, we sent a committee to ask Mr. Lash if he would agree to a conference. This he also refused, and also any further negotiations on the subject. These ineffectual efforts on the part of our lodge have been laid before the Ex-ecutive Board, which, at a meeting this even-ing, sanctioned a strike. One of the saddest incidents connected with the county jail and its inmates occurred yesterday. Samuel Davis was arrested about a year ago in connection with the robbery of some brasses from the Allegheny Valley Railroad. At his trial and since, Davis has always stoutly maintained his innocence, but he was convicted and sentenced to a year's imprisonment in jail, his term expiring in about ten days. As often as the juil rules permitted, Davis was visited by his wife and a little son. At every in-terview the child, who was but 4 years old, would weep because his father could not go home with him, and he could not understand why iron bars should separate them. On Friday the child was run over wagon on Thirty-third street and killed. When the father heard the news he was heart-broken.

Yesterday a petition was presented to Judge Collier, asking that Davis be released in charge of an officer long enough to attend the uneral of his idolized child. The Court refused the petition on the ground that all precedent was against such action. He suggested that perhaps, if the Warden would man might be allowed to attend the funeral. The Warden has not worked to attend the funeral. consent to assume the responsibility, the Warden has not rendered a decision yet. There is no fear that Davis will endeavor to escape if he is granted the privilege. In fact, it is the opinion of the jail officials that he might be trusted to go without an officer in attendance to insure his re-turn. Since Davis has been in jail his con-fall at right angles to the rails, as these duct has been exemplary, and he has been treated as a "trusty." Another thing

Where one prisoner breaks out of jail a thousand persons break into it. It is a very easy place to enter, notwithstanding its massive granite walls, its iron-barred windows, and its steel-studded doors. An introduction to Jail Warden Berlin can be obtained in the manner best suited to the temperament and purse of the aspiring guest. Imported champagne and barrel-house whisky, taken in sufficient quantities, are alike in their results. A man who thumps an acquaintance,, robs a stranger murders a dude, deserts his wife and family invests the funds of a bank with which h is connected in Canadian real estate, runs a speak-easy, or tries in any manner to repeal any one of the thousands of laws on the statute books without the aid of the Legislature, is immediately qualified for resi dence in the county jail. After the court has considered the guests' case, the latter may either be required to find another resi-dence, or may be transferred to the county workhouse or the Western Penitentiary. In a few cases the guest is returned to the jail, and he becomes a star boarder, the court determining the length of his visit.

The jail was instituted mainly for the parpose of detaining persons charged with erime antil their cases are tried in court, but many persons are committed there terms for minor offenses snort Aldermen, Justices of the Peace, and Police Magistrates. All persons committed to jail to await trial are treated alike. They are placed in cells and are furnished the prison fare, which may be augmented by lainties sent in by friends. The jail of ficials do not suffer from sickly sentimental ity, and they argue that the man who is seat to them is more than likely to be guilty of the crime charged against him. They of the crime charged against thin. They argue that if the man bears a good reputa-tion, or belongs to a respect ble family, he will have little trouble in furnishing bail. Of course, all prisouers are treated as if innocent until alter their conviction, and there have been many exceptions, where a man committed to juil was the victim of circumstances or persecution. As it does not lie within the province of the jail

Mrs. Catherine Doran's sentence of 30 days to the workhouse expired Friday, and when she returned to her home in Shanghai row, Preble avenue, Allegheny, she imme diately proceeded to wreak vengeance on the neighbors who had been witnesses at her bearing before Mayor Wyman, of Allegheny.

The wreaking business soon disgusted the neighbors, and one of them entered a charge of disorderly conduct against her before Alderman Foley. She was arrested, and at the hearing yesterday morning she was sent to jail for ten days. Her friends say she has a very sick child at home, and that it was an outrage to send her to jail, as the child may die from lack of proper care during her absence.
