

TAKING OFF THE FAT. Training Hefly New Yorkers Undergo to Get Rid of a Surplus.

A REAL GOOD SWAT. Upstairs they go without sweat, and the can of gas is handled by his trainer into a roll of blankets, where for 20 minutes or so he lies on the bed, perspiring so freely, he actually feels the surplus being taken away.

NEW YORK, August 23.—One of the biggest men in the dry goods district is Clarence L. Collins, of Whiting & Collins, of Worth street. He has just returned to the city after an arduous course of fat reduction at the hands of John M. Laffin, who proved himself so nearly a match for Sueton on November 10, 1883, and who once took part in World's Fair a prize for the nearest exhibited approximation to a perfect physique.

A DAY'S WORK. Just before the rays of the sun glided the eastern horizon, after the wont of the G. P. R. James' horseman, two fishermen went out on an expedition into the water.

WOUND IN WOOL. "What clothes will wear during this month? All woolen, of course." To begin with, he has a good sweater; that is, a long-armed woolen shirt, fitting closely to the figure and weighing about four pounds.

A BITE OF BREAKFAST. Then they start back to the hotel at a brisk walk. The fishermen lose sight of the water, and the sight of their pupils, Mr. Collins, as such active, big "boys" that the fishermen enjoy having surprised them at their mysterious athletic restlessness.

Expeditious Notes. Matting, linoleum, oil cloths and carpets made and laid on shortest possible notice.
