WOBLD'S MUSEUM....

.. Chas. A. Gardne

All the theaters in town will be open tomorrow, and the season of 1890-1 may then be said to have begun. There is every reason to believe that the season will be fully as good if not better in a financial way for the managers than the last, which was undoubtedly the most profitable Pittaburg has ever seen. The prospects for the public are good too, for more first-class attractions will play here, and it still seems a certainty that the Duquesne Theater will be opened late in the fall, and thus a new theater of a high character will be added to the established

During the past week the Duquesne Theater has been having a high old time with centractors, architects, lessees and building inspectors at odds. Out of this last chapter of accidents Mr. David Henderson has emerged with his theater in more solid shape than ever. THE DISPATCH has told the whole story of the change in architects and contractors, and there is very little more to be said, unless it be that Mr. Henderson deserves the sympathy of the public and its applause in the plucky struggle he has made against most untoward circum

ter in Pittsburg has ever had.

The death of Manager Patrick Harris was a surprise tolhis friends here, although his declining health has been no secret for a long while. But the report that he died by his own hand, which followed, was even more astonishing and distressing. This report has been since depied very emphatically, but unless the New York papers are utterly unreliable it must be re-luctantly acknowledged that Mr. Harris comnitted suicide. He was a man of vigorous mitted suicide. He was a man of vigorous character, but that like his powerful constitution, appears to have been undermined by the disease from which it was at first supposed that he died. All the New York press persists in the story that the unfortunate manager blew his brains out, and the following details are given by the New York Star:

"Why Harris committed suicide Coroner Benet of Bayshors who conducted the inspect

"Why Harris committed suicide Coroner Bennet of Bayshore, who conducted the inquest, could not determine, and the efforts made by the dead man's friends to keep the matter quiet made it next to impossible to arrive at any reasonable conclusion. Great stress was laid, however, on the fact that a recent severe illness was the indirect cause of the act. On Tuesday he went for a long sail on Great South Bay. At that time he was in an apparently cheerful mood. During the evening he made no complaint of any kind, and he slept well all night. On Wednesday morning he ate a hearty breakfast and seemed contented and happy. Leaving the table, he went directly to a closet and shbt himself. The report of the pistol was heard, and the clerk of the hotel rushed to the place where Harris lay concealed. He found him covered with blood and dying. A physician was summoned, but he arrived too late to be of any assistance to the wounded man, who died within ten minutes after the shooting. It is hinted that there is a hidden cause for the rash act that will, probably, never come to light, as all his friends and relatives are firm in their determination to keep their information to themselves. They had hoped to keep the fact of the suicide itself a secret, and overtures were made termination to keep their information to them-selves. They had hoped to keep the fact of the suicide itself a secret, and overtures were made to several persons to hush the matter up. As no physician could be found, however, to fur-nish a certificate of death, the matter had to be reported to Coroner Bennett, and that official promptly made a full investigation all the facts."

A number of theatrical enterprises on the road this season have Pittsburg brains and boodle to back them. George Jenks' farce comedy, "The U. S. Mall," as THE DISPATCH has already indicated, starts out under the most favorable auspices this week, Mr. A. J.

Shedden, who is managing the "U. S. Mail," passed through this city on Thursday last en passed through this city on Thursday last en route for St. Louis. He stopped here long enough to tell me that he had the brightest hopes for his attraction, and the names of the actors engaged for the production certainly guaranteed a far funnier performance than "The U. S. Mail" made here last year. This week the new theater in Carliste, Pa., will be opened by "The U. S. Mail," and, after filling a few other one-night stands, the piece will be played for a week in St. Louis. A long Western tour to the Pacific coast and back then awaits it. It will be seen at the Grand Opera House in January.

Another Pittsburg undertaking of which

Another Pittsburg undertaking of which word has reached me is a comedy company backed by Mesars, Sturgeon and Ed H. Tener, backed by Messrs. Sturgeon and Ed H. Tener, of this city. Mr. Sturgeon is a sen of Dr. Sturgeon, and Mr. Tener is a brother of the ball player. They have gathered a good company together and have a good route booked for "The Rajah." A great many Pittsburgers wish them well.

The success of Francis Wilson in his new comic opera, "The Merry King" at the Broadway Theater, New York, is upmistakable Mr.

way Theater New York, is unmistakable, Mr. Shedden and others who have seen it tell me. Mr. Wilson is one of the few comedians who have bettered themselves by striking out alone. The failure of the Templeton as she is called in New York is also one of the accomplished facts of the first week in the season.

Mr. Charles A. Gardner, who is favorably known as a comedian and singer, comes to the Bijou Theater this week. "Fatherland" is the name of the play in which he made a success

The latest thing in society is the mosquite party. It is generally an impromptu affair and often partakes of the nature of a surprise and the guests themselves are not always cognizant of the fact that they are going to attend one until the very last moment. They are prevalent at the mountain resorts and at the seashore, and one at Atlantic City last week was a great success. Rev. Dr. Shipman and Mrs. Shipman Hon. John Rose and Mrs. Rose, with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walters, of Johnstown, were the originators, and it was held at 2:30 A. M., the party starting from the Hotel Albion. Everything was favorable to its inception; it had rained dreadfully hard in the afternoon, and it then became outrageously warm, with a land breeze. The festive mosquito was there in manifold, and true to Emerson's theory that every motion must have a reaction, was doing its best to counteract the happiness gained by the temporary residents of that resort during its sleeping hours and their waking hours, by unusual efforts during its waking hours and their sleeping hours.

The success of the efforts reflects great credit upon the energy and ambition of the female gender of the mosquito family, as it is said all the suffering imposed upon suffering humanity by this tiny insect is due to the perseverance of the young maiden mosquite, old maid mosquite, matronly mosquite and grandma mosquito. In the case of mosquito versus humanity, bowever, man's usual gallantry deserts himand woman's usual jealousy of any success attained by one of her own sex asserts itself, and they unite in uttering maledictions upon the head of the frisky little songstress that serenades at the most unearthly hours, and not infrequently compels the complete surrender of the screnaded party who in desperation leaves the field to the foe, as in this special case, when the Doctor of Divinity and the Doctor of Law were ignominiously defeated.

It certainly was a dreadful night for mosquitoes and from 11'o'clock until 2:30 the sound of numerous hands as they came in contact with or without the desired corpes between them, together with the muttered exclamations that accompanied was continusily to be heard. Every one was awake and contemplating vengance on the mosquito or self destruction when the opening of doors attracted the attention and a "Hello! John, you up?" echoed through the hall

In the pavilions they found preceding delegations from other hotels already ensconced in the chairs relating their tales of woe. And the smile of commiseration and the sympathetic greeting with which each new comer was greeted proved that great levels atl caste. But the mosquito stories told that evening would make the most collossal fish story teller blush for shame, and the wishes expressed for home and its comforts would make the weary stay-at-home more contented with his lot could they be heard by him.

AUGUST GATHERINGS. Doings in the Social Circles of the Two Cities and Suburbe.

Mr. Milton I. Baird, George K. Anderso Roswell R. F. Foulk and three young ladies accompanied by chaperone, have had a very pleasant and interesting yacht ride up the Mo ongahela river, there objective point being Morgantown, West Virginia, where they are spending Sunday. The congenial party left here Wednesday last and went to Monongahela City, 32 miles, the first day; thence proceeded to Brownsville, 20 miles, the following day, remaining there Friday to visit the various places of interest around and about Brownsville, the old-time town of the Monongahela valley, and drove across Fayette county to Uniontown and returned that evening. Saturday morning bright and early they boarded the yacht for their place of destination and finally reached Morgantown last evening, where they will have the pleasures of resting till the first of this week, when they will return by one of the steamers of the Pittsburg, Brownsville and Geneva Packet Company. They departed on the little yact Nautlins, owned by Mr. Baird, and the trip was of great interest to all ston-

the little yact Nautlius, owned by Mr. Baird, and the trip was of great interest to all, stopping at many places of note along the valley and using their photographic instruments where they could take pictures of the beautiful scenery to an advantage. During their entire trip to Morgantown the little Nautlius was of great corriesity to all these who viewed it from the banks of the serpentine Monongahela. "A very enjoyable time was spent one week ago last evening at the residence of Mrs. Gib-son, of Marshall street, Allegheny, the occa-fion being the arrival of Mr. George Munroe, with the Westinghouse Airbrak Company, of this city, accompanied by his lovely and accomplished bride, nee Harriet Brough, of Forest Hills, the delightful suburb of Beston. Among those present we noted the following: Mr. and Mrs. Stroud, of Verona; Miss Marshall, of Hulton; Miss Munroe, of Sawfokley; Mr. and Mrs. Alston, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, of Allegheny; Mrs. Gibson, Miss Gib-son, Miss Taylor, Miss McCracken and others. The occasion is one that will long remain a pleasant memory to these who participated therein. Kennedy served refreshments in his usual and masterly style. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour, when the theroughly delighted guests departed, wishing the bride and groom lasting happiness and in unstinted massner."

The pleasures of last Friday evening will long people. The occasion was the lawn fete given by Mr. Robert Marshell be remembered by a party of joyous young by Mr. Robert Marshall, of Bluff street, to the members of his Sabbath school class and their friends. The class is composed of 40 young ladies and gentlemen, and with the addition of their friends, the company was swelled to two or three times that number. The house and grounds were tastefully decorated with Chinese lanterns, gas jets and buntine; games of yarious kinds were indulged in, while swings and fiying horses were a great source of amusement. Refreshments were served on the lawn. As the hour of midnight approached the merry throng dispersed. Robert Marshall, of Bluff street, to

ONE HUNDRED auxiliaries will be used in William A. Brady's big spectacular productio of "An Irish Arab." Two carloads of magnif cent scenery, painted by Harley Merry, is carried by the company. The cast includes Bobby Gaylor, Clarence Handysides, James W. Ward, Carrie Clark Ward, Marie Rence, Eleanor Barry and Jessie Story.

THE new Clipper Theater under the manage ment of its lessee, Mr. James M. Peet, will ope its doors on Monday afternoon, September 1 with the McCaffrey-Dempsey Double Atletic and Burlesque Company. The new theater is said to be conveniently and handsomely fitted up, and will be run as a first-class variety house. It is situated at the corner of Seventa avenue and New Grant street. GEORGIE PARKER, the charming soubrett who created such a furore by her wonderfu who created such a furore by her wonderful kick as Venus, in "A Rag Baby," is the chief female attraction in the "U. S. Mail." She takes the part of the daughter of John Wannaker's prototype in that satirical farce-comedy. A trio of comedians, each of whom is regarded as unapproachable in his respective line, will lend properly excruciating features to that satire on the postoffice, the "U. S. Mail." MINNIE PALMER'S managers have declared has made against most untoward circumstances. On his return to Chicago Mr. Henderson was interviewed by a Tribune reporter. He said among other things:

I have had to delay the opening of the theater until the latter part of October. The month of October was booked with large attractions, but I am happy to say that the managers have been considerate and I have arranged with all. There is no truth in it. The building inspectors have been all over the ground four or five times. I saw them no later than vesterday. I cannot understand who started the report stating that the opening of the theater was indefinite, and giving the managers in the country an impression that the house had to come down when it is not yet erected, unless it was inspired by the rival managers of Pittsburg, who have attempted to throw every impediment in the way of the erection of a house which will be on the ground floor, constructed with all modern improvements, and will give Pittsburg theater-goers a continuous line of first-class attractions, something that no theater in Pittsburg has ever had. that the opera with which she is to open Herr-mann's Gaiety on Broadway is new, and they have christened it "The King's Page." It is by Richard Genee, a German composer, who is fertile and clever, but it isn't new. About four years ago it was sung in Chicago under the title of "The Marquis de Ravellac." The late John Howson, Harry Standish, Minnie Dilthey, Harry De Lorme, and others were in the cast. GENERAL JOHN B. CARSON, of the Chicago Columbia Theater, is said to be out about $20 Columbia Theater, is said to be out about $20,000 on the Dixey engagement. The Columbia, by the way, is a beauty bright. It cost J. H. Haverly $40,000, C. H. McConnell $90,000, J. M. Hill $45,000, Dan Sliceby $22,000, and now, with the loss of rent ($86,000) for two years, $20,000 cash paid to keep the bouse open, and the $20,000 loss on "Dixey," the General has lost $112,000. Total dropped in the Columbia, $309,000, and the band played "Hail Columbia."

HELEN BANCROFT, who is to be Mrs. Leslie Carter's leading lady, returned from Europe by the Teutonic on its record-breaking trin. A farewell dinner was given her before she left London at the House of Commons by Mr. Woodall, member for Hanley. Generieve Ward and Lady Sandhurst were among the guests. Miss Bancroft was considered the handsomest woman at Mrs. Kendal's recent reception. She is stately, statuesque and brunette. Mrs. Carter is tall, willowy, and blende. by the Teutonic on its record-breaking trip. A

NEXT Monday evening, September 1, the Mo Cauli Opera Company will give its inaugural production in English of what is said to be production in English of what is said to be Carl Millocker's masterpiece, "The Seven Suabin's" at Hammerstein's Harlem Opera House. The event will prove doubly interesting as it will be the first appearance of the new company, and the first performance of "The Seven Suabins." The story of the opera will be one new to an American audience, it being a satire upon the prevailing superstitions of Germany three centuries ago. MANAGERS who have secured Reeves ourlesque of "Faust" have been very fortunate The company, 40 strong, leaves Buffalo in their own palace car under most favorable circumstances. Carl Thelen, who was for two years Musical Director of the Imperial Theater in Musical Director of the Imperial Theater in Cologne, goes with the company as leader of the orchestra. Marie Dressler, who is pronounced a second Cottrelly, takes the comedy part of Martha. Mr. Reeves himself plays the baritone part. The spectacular effects, it is said, will form part of the history of the present dramatic season. Mr. J. M. Whitman, recently of The Disparch staff, is in advance. Mp FRANKTIN FYLES writes in the New York Sun: In this busiest week of the new theatrical season, the element of success in the fresh enterprises has manifestly not predominated. There has been an absolute Broadway triumph for Francis Wilson and his new opera, and in the Bowery a large share of favor ha been won by a worthy, modest and compara-tively unknown actress, Eva Mountford. But tively unknown actress, Eva Mountford. But with these two the list of honest successes ends, for it cannot be conceded that Fay Templeton's new burlesque has put anything to her credit, or that Mr. Edgerly has made of "Christopher Columbus" a praiseworthy entertainment, or that James Reilly has introduced himself to us happily in his story of "The Broommaker." The public verdict of fallure has also affected the Marks vaudevillers, who have not found it expedient to play at the Standard since their first night of "doubling." Indeed, Mr. Marks will be very fortunate if he shall succeed in comfortably filling the Union Square during the remaining weeks of his troupe's engagement.

The comming week of the World's Museum

THE opening week of the World's Museum nd Theater (last week) should certainly sa isfy the management that their efforts to amuse the public and establish a first-class place of amusement, have been fully appreciated, if the crowds which filled the house every afternoon and evening, and the favorable comments which were made by them are to be considered. J. W. Coffee, the dude skeleton, is a pleasing card; he remains next week and will give every lady patron one of his imported visiting cards. Gilleti's monkeys kept the audience laughing through the whole performance, and no wonder, they do things that would make anyone laugh. They remain next week, also Brassinis' trained parrots and the other features in the curio hall this week make a strong show. In the theater Bobby hyde's Specialty Company, consisting of Bobby and Annie Hyde, George Marshall, Earl and Ward, John and Jimmy Wesley, Banker and Richards, Balley and Reynolds, Devere and Demasy, is booked for a strong show, and should pack the house every performance. amusement, have been fully appreciated, if the

The General "Grand Army Day" Committee met yesterday afternoon to hear reports of the various sub-committees relative to the arrangements for their grand reunion on the 17th of September at Rock Point, on the Erie and Pittsburg Railroad. The different committees report everything progressing nicely, and from general indications the grove will be taxed nearer to its capacity than ever before. Arrangements have been made with the Pennsylvania Company to sell round-trip excursion tickets on that day at the rate of 50 cents for the round trip, and other roads will offer a correspondingly low rate. The committee on subsistence reported that they were about completing arrangements with the Ladies of the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps to furnish meals and other refreshments.

The following invitation from the committee in charge of that part of the work will be sent out during the early part of the coming week.

DEAR SIR AND COMRADE-We extend to you, and each and every member of your post and families, a fraternal and cordial invitation to attend the reunion and basket pionic by the posts throughout this county, on September 17, 1880, at Rock Point, on the Erie and Pittsburg railroad, being an observance of "Grand Army Day, 1890," in preference to the former weari-some and trying march. By this reunion we some and trying march. By this reunion we expect to bring together comrades who have not met for years, and thus enable them to revive and renew the old fellowship and create a family intimacy. Dancing and other entertainments are provided for. A full brass and two string bands will enliven the occasion. Ample arrangements are in progress by the Ladies of the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps to furnish meals at 25 cents each to those who do not wish to bring their own lunches. Comrades and their families, who desire to remain over, can have the opportunity of visiting Western Pennsylvania's splendid Exposition. Please present this invitation to your post and advise us of its action.

The secretary of the General Committee was instructed to send a formal invitation to each camp of Soss of Veterans in this county to participate in the reunion. Some opposition was made to the motion, inviting the Sons of Veterans as an organization, owing to the fear that others might think that they were the only ones invited outside of the members of the G. A. R. The committee wishes it understood that all members of the G. A. R. and the members of their families are most cordaily invited to be present.

The committee will meet on next Sainrday to be present.

The committee will meet on next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 to hear final reports of committee, and make all final and necessary arrangements.

Reunion of the 100th. In connection with the reunion of the society of the One Hundreth Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers (Roundheads), which takes place on the steamer Mayflower Wednes day next, a few points in the history of that or-ganization will no doubt prove of interest. It was organized September 28, 1866, in Pittsburg. Pa., for the purpose of perpetuating the friendships formed white associated together in the camp, the march and the battle fields, as iriendships formed white associated together in the camp, the march and the battle fields, as well as to collect and preserve the personal nistory of all their comrades of the One Hundreth Pennsylvania, who shared the many dangers, reverses and successes in the great War of the Rebellion. All who have been officers or private soldiers in the One Hundredth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and who have been honorably discharged from the service of the United States and their sons, can become members of the society.

The fathers, mothers, wives and daughters of members and widows of deceased comrades are all enrolled as honorary members. Each member reports annually to the regimental secretary giving information of such matters as would be of general interest to his comrades. The regimental history shows that the regimental history shows that the regimental was recruited in Angust, 1861. Company A. from Washington; B. New Wilmington and Pulaski; C. Wurtemburg and Portersylle; D. Darlington; E. Harlansburg and Portersylle; D. Darlington; E. Harlansburg and Plain Grove; F. Princeton and Eastbrook; G. Milbrook and Henderson, Mercer county. H. I and K. from New Castle; and M from Elizabeth, Allegheny county, and Webster, Westmoreland county. These companies united at Pittsburg and were mustered into the United States service August 31, and on September 2 started to Washington, and on the 4th went into camp near Georgetown, D. C. January I, 1863, the regiment re-enlisted for three more years, and remained at the front until the close of the war, when on the 2th day of July, 1865, after 3 years, 10 months and 24 days it was mustered out. Colonel Fox in his book of regimental losses gives the entire enrollment, 2014; 224 killed in battle; 868 wounded; 185 died of disease; 29 of these died in rebel prisons.

The celebrated "Sunflower Brigade" will be present at this reunion in goodly numbers, and will furnish any amount of fun and amusement present at this reunion in goodly numbers, and will furnish any amount of fun and amusement Encampment No. 1, Union Veteran Legion, at its meeting last Monday night, which was largely attended, appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements for attending the Fifth Annual National Encampment, which meets at Ft. Wayne, Ind., October 15. It is expected that fully 200 members of En-campment No. 1 will attend. The rates of transportation will be much lower than ever before. It is quite likely that the delegates before. It is quite likely that the delegates and those accompanying the fifty-two encampments in Pennsylvania will assemble in this city and go from here in a body.

Encampment No. I musters in new members every Monday night. There are fully 50 applications pending, and many under consideration. Number 6, of Allegheny, is also doing a good work, and quite a number have been mustered since the last meeting of the National Encampment.

mustered since the last meeting of the National Encampment.

As yet no names have been mentioned for National Commander, and none will be until the encampment assembles, as in the Legion the office seeks the man.

During the encampment of the G.A. R. at Beston, a large organization of the Legion was established in that city by Inspector General Chapman, and several others are under way in Massachusetts.

The ladies of the N. V. L. auxiliary will hold their annual meeting at Fort Wayne, Ind., October 15. Mrs. Emma J. Barker, the National President, will issue the necessary orders in a few days. The National Advisory Committee consist of Mrs. M. E. Beighel, Mrs. C. Chapman, Mrs. J. J. Huston, Mrs. Emma C. Wade and Mrs. M. J. Graham. Mrs. H. S. Wheeler, of Allegheny, being National Secretary. The meeting promises to be largely attended.

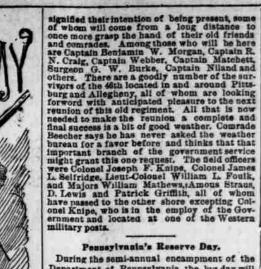

Chaplain-in-Chief Rev. John A. Danks at-

Chaplain-in-Chief Rev. John A. Danks attended a meeting of the Soldiers and Sallors encampment of Bradford county on last Thursday and Friday. His addresses and original songs created a great deal of enthusiasm.

Encampment No. I will resume its historial lectures next month. Generals Collier and Pearson having promised to prepare papers to be read early in September. The lectures are open to the public, and as a rule the meetings are attended by very many of our citizens.

good band will be in attendance and will give concerts every morning and evening during the continuance of the encampment, from August 30 to September 5. During the encampment the fourth reunion of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry Association will be held on Wednesday, September 3.

A feature of this encampment will be the elegant illumination. The date was fixed with the view of having plenty of moonlight during the evenings; but not satisfied with that, arrangements have been made whereby the railroads will have the fields beautifully illuminated with electric lights. Transportation has been arranged for on the various railroads, and there is every indication of a very large attendance. Allegheny will be largely represented, as well as the entire western end of the State, It would be wise for the comrades going not to forget the necessity of an ample provision of blankets and other necessary articles for their comfort in camp.

Excursion of the Volunteers.

The Eighty-second Pennsylvania Regimental phia, has completed all arrangements for the excursion next month to visit the battlefield around Richmond and Fredericksburg. The party will leave Philadelphia on the morning of Monday, September 8, arriving in Hichmond in time for supper. Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted to visiting Fair Oaks, Cold Harbor and other points of interest around the Harbor and other points of interest around the city. On Thursday morning the regiment will board a special train for Fredericksburg, arriving there for dinner. The afternoon of Thursday and all of Friday will be spent in visiting the battlefisles of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Marye's Heights, Salem Church and different points of interest around the city. The members of the association will leave for their homes on Saturday. Ample hotel and other accommodations have all been arranged for, and all at a cost of $17, including car fare, hotel expenses, etc. Company B, of the Eighty-second was from this city, and the indications are that it will be well represented at this reunion.

The publication that a number of posts this locality were in the line of parade at Boston was erroneous. The only posts there is a body with their colors were Posts 128, of Alle-gheny, and 41, of this city. Let credit go where it be earned.

Poerstel, member of the Council of Administration of Post & Comrade Poerstel was a member of Company B, organized in this city, and is the possessor of a valued relic in the shape of a corps badge worn in '66 at the time of turning over the regimental flags to the State, when the color-bearer of the Eighty-second was second in line.

CAPTAIN J. A. REED, commander of the firing squad of Post 41, is home from Boston. Comrade Reed speaks in high terms of the trip to the "Hub," and says that 41 was complimen ed all along the line for its elegant appearance, especially its marching. Major Hancock carried the regimental colors the entire route of the parade. On the home trip the members visited New York, Philadelphia and Washington City, and had as opportunity of grasping the hand of President Harrison.

THE working element of the G. A. The early part of September at West Newton. The committee having the affair in hand had some little difficulty in securing the grounds in which the encampment is to be held, owing, it is said, to one of the school directors not being willing to allow the use of the grounds for the purpose, and stating that he did not see why they should have the grounds as those who stayed at home during the war did as much for the country as those who were drawing pay for fighting.
