AT THE PEDAGOGUES' INSTITUTE.

Reasons Why the Prussian Method is More Successful Than Ours.

COUNTY PRINCIPALS NOW ORGANIZING

The professors were one and all in a happy wein, yesterday, at the Teachers' Institute, and each handled his subject in a manner warranted to produce lasting impressions. The session was called to order by Superintendent P. A. Shanor, of McKeesport, after which Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Freeport, led in devotional exercises. The singing, as usual, was under the able leadership of Prof. W. S. Weeden, who also favored the teachers with several solos, rendered in an excellent manner, during the day. Miss Ida Boyle officiated at the piano.

Prof. James M. Caughlin, in an address on "Interest and Attention of Pupils in the Schoolroom." convinced the teachers that a boy could not and would not learn unless his undivided attention was given the subject in question, and that in gaining his attention a long step was made in his education. Prof. Caughlin's fund of anecdote and story, whereby he illustrates his leetures, is inexhaustible and productive of any amount of merriment, at the same time accomplishing the desired results.

Dr. Theodore B. Noss followed, on the subject of "German Schools," and from his knowledge, gained while abroad, was compelled to make some very unfavorable comparisons between the German school system and our own. According to Dr. Noss, the Germans are eminently more practical, and develop the eye, the car, the hand, the foot and, in fact, every faculty, instead of the memory, simply.

ADOPTED FROM THE GERMAN. Dr. Noss referred to several features of the American school system already adopted from the Germans and predicted a great many more, as Germany has the most perfect school system in the world. In his address, Dr. Noss proved himself a thorough master of the educational question, and was congratulated on all sides by his listeners as having given a very powerful and instructive talk.

Dr. A. E. Winship's was "The Dall Boy," far more numerous than the dall girl, but preceding "The Dull Boy" was an introduction that proved the speaker had never been of that class himself. In fact, such a volley of wit, in such polished language, with such finished delivery, is seidom heard as rolled from the lips of Dr. Wienerin and an anonymed of Dr. Winship, as he compared England, with her practical aggressiveness and desire to "pick up" everything and every country of value, even if she had to "pick up" a genuine American in order to do so; Germany, with her sentumentality and im-nort. practicability; France, with her ability to dictate fashions, with America, the greatest nation under the sun for solving problems of any character; America who has never yet failed in solving a problem, and who never must fail, but who needs all of her children, even the dull boy, to perpetuate her successes. Then followed a treatise that made even the most stapid boy interesting for some time, and gave the teachers many a point as to how to detect and instruct the dullest of boys.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session Dr. Winship was the first speaker. The subject of his talk was "What Books Should a Principal Read?" He began by saying that all edutheorem is the began by saying that all edu-cators should continually enlarge their ideas and broaden their minds by reading theoroughly good books. The educator, to keep up with the times, must depend on books. The number of books read is not lady "to walk this way." She replied: "Lor' a massy! I couldn't walk that way if

"Lor' to waik this way. But that way if you'd give me the whole store!" That teacher will only succeed who is thoroughly in harmony with her work. Dr. Noss then gave a short sketch of the plan of running the schools of Germany. When the institute adjourned all the county principals, who have charge of schools of two or more rooms were called into an adjoining room, where an effort was made to form a Principals' Association. Prof. C. D. Coffey, of Braddock, was elected Chairman, and J. Q. A. Irwin, of Etna, Secretary. After considerable talk a com-mittee, consisting of Profs. Cook, of Char-tiers; Collier, of Elizabeth; Keener, of Swissvale; Dodds, of McKeesport; Nick Wilson, of Coraopolis, and ex-officio Sup-erintendent Hamilton, was appointed to draw up a plan for such an association, and report at a meeting to be held to-morrow alternoon.

GOES TO A TRIAL.

Decision by Judge Acheson in a Suit for Payment on the Court House-An other Legal Release From the Workhouse-Other Court News.

An argument was had before Judge Ache son, of the United States Court yesterday on a motion to strike off a judgment for $6,995 10 entered against Allegheny county, for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense The suit was brought by Otis Brothers, for a balance claimed to be for work on the new Court House. The indebtedness is denied by the County Commissioners, who claim they never contracted with Otis Brothers for any work. County Solicitor Geyer accepted service for the defendant, but did not file an affidavit of defense. Judgment was taken, but it was moved to strike it off, on the grounds that the acceptance of service made the appearance of the defendant of record, and that it was not necessary to file an affi-davit of defense.

and that it was not necessary to hie an affi-davit of defense. The matter was argued yesterday, At-torney Schoyer appearing for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Geyer for the county. Judge Acheson decided in favor of Mr. Geyer, and the judgment was stricken off, thus allowing the strick of the stricken off, thus allowing the case to go to a trial.

Even When Not Loaded.

THE FATHER'S WARNING UNHEEDED

Something sensational developed yester day in the inquest on the body of the 21/2year-old child supposed to have been killed on Saturday by its 5-year-old brother on the Southside. Instead of the latter doing the shooting it was proven that a 19-year-old brother killed the child and blamed it on his young brother. The shooting occurred at 5:30 o'clock on Saturday alternoon, and the child died at 5 o'clock Monday morning. Francis Longneck, the 5-year-old brother who was al-leged to have fired the fatal shot, was arrested shortly after the death of the child, and was placed in jail. Owing to the extreme youth of the prisoner, he was released on the parents' promise to have him on hand when wanted.

When the inquest was opened Albert Longneck, the father, was the first witness called. He testified that he was eating supper at the time of the shooting. The boys had been shooting at a target with the Flobert rifle, and he had warned them to put it bert riffe, and he had warned them to put it away, as some harm might be done. When he went out the boys, John and Lewis, told him that Frankie had fired the shot that struck the baby brother. On Monday, how-ever, Lewis confessed to his mother that he had fired the shot. Franciska Longneck, the mother, was called. Her story was the same as that told by her husband. John Longneck, the boy who brought the rifle to the house, testified that during the alternoon he and a crippled who brought the rifle to the house, testified that during the alternoon he and a crippled brother had been shooting at a mark. At their father's request the gun was hung up on the porch. About 5:30 o'clook his brother Lewis came out, and, picking up the rifle, began to examine it, when it suddenly went off, the bullet striking little Willie in the eye. After the shooting he told his father that Frankie had fired the shot, but knew at the time he was telling a lie.

A Movement to Procure Help and Money for the Needy Northwestern Missions-The Good Work Laid Out for To-Day, at the Valley Camp Grounds. An informal missionary meeting will be held at the cottage of Mrs. C. L. Flaccus, at Valley Camp, this afternoon, at which Alaska missions will be discussed. The object of the meeting is to arouse decided and practical interest in the Alaskan mission field, which is a very broad and prolific one in immorality and vice. The meeting will be presided over by Mrs. S. Hamilton, who will give from personal knowledge, gained by investigation and ex-perience, a complete picture of the Alaska field as it now stands. Mrs. Hamilton will what it has a standard of the standar

While it is not expected to effect a special organization this afternoon, it is hoped that several auxil-iaries in the various Methodist churches will result from the meeting and that a will result from the meeting, and that a fresh impetus may be given to the "Jessie Lee" fund, which is still hanging fire, about $2,000 short. When that amount is raised, active measures will be taken immediately, to erect a school building for the occupancy of the Methodist missionaries and the pupils, a ter which the Government will pay so much per head for each pupil enrolled, but until such a build-ing is erected, the Government offers no assistance whatever. Mr. Alex. Ross, the manager of the Even ett plano clubs, returned from a tour among the plano factories of the East 10 days ago. After a thorough examination of all the leading pianos in the market he placed the second contract for 350 pianos with the Everett Company, believing them to be the best value. This is probably the largest order ever placed with one factory for pianos, and puts the Everett entirely beyond the reach of competition. material. Books that are elevating and in-structive should be selected. Those teachers whose pecuniary coudition will not permit a large annual investment in books should use more care in selecting their mental pabulum. and should make themselves mesters of the books they do read by repeated readings. Fifty times is not too often to read a Ex-Superintendent Coughlin, of Luzern county, opened his address by a few remarks on a subject that is dear to the hearts of teachers—salary. Under the present sys-tem of paying teachers the individual has little or no incentive to do good work. A better pian would be to introduce a sliding scale of salaries. The teacher could be employed at a salary of $40 per month, with the condition that he would receive $42 at the end of the second month, and in like manner an increase each month until the close of the term, when the board should vote to pay cher who had been eminently successful say $60 per month for the term. This would provide an incentive to good work that is now lacking.

The county superintendent of schools in a popular county like Allegheny can spend but a short time at any particular school. Some teachers imagine that, therefore, the superintendent cannot form a just estimate of the work they are doing. This is a great mistake. The superintendent, who is nec-essarily a trained educator, can tell whether he is in a good school or a poor one in a very few minutes after he enters. In a school where the teacher is master of his profession the children will be quiet and orderly in attending recitations and reciting, and at their desks they will be working diligently at their lessons. In the school governed by a poor teacher the pupils will be noisy, the m will be untidy and most of the scholars will be idle.

SOME OF THE SIGNS.

These are some of the signs that bear evidence to whether the teacher is master of the situation or not. Dr. Noss continued his address on German public schools. The Germans make the end of education to develop the faculties, rather than to store the mind with Incts. We, the teachers in this country, should keep it more clearly in mind that our work is to prepare our pupils for the life they are to lead after leaving school. The highest excellency of the Prussian sys-fem of education is that it prepares the pupils for their after lives. A second difference between the Prussian method and ours is in the means with which they seek to realize the end in view, viz., thorough preparation of teachers. Prussia has a population six times as large as Penn-sylvania. We have 12 schools for the instruction of teachers, outside the larger cities, and Prussia has 115. We graduate about 500 teachers every year; Prussia graduates about six times as many. The Prussian teachers enter the profession for life; here they are required to teach only two years. Prussian teachers rarely change their profession, as they cannot afford to do so after spending three years in a seminary to prepare themselves for teaching. Ninety per ceut of Prussian teachers are men; in our larger cities 90 per cent are women. Or this account Prussia loses fewer teachers by marriage than we. During the past 50 years the average time Prussian teachers have re inained in the profession is 17 years; in the United States about three years, A DEMAND FOR MEN.

In future there will be a demand for more men in the schools of this country. Children should come into contact with the minds of men, as they come up through our schools. There are 25,000 teachers in Pennsylvania, and it is estimated that less than one-fifth of these had any preparation for their work. In Germany all are prepared. Germans treat The "methods' quackery, and their teaching is upon principles of psychology psycholog and the subjects taught. We are out of the stage of instruction at institutes; we're now in the method stage, and we'll soon get down to the bed-rock of teaching from principles.
