CONCEALMENT NO LONGER POSSIBLE

Senator Emery is not a candidate for the seat in Congress made vacant by Watson's death, and will support the nominee. The Independent Republican conference at Altoons examined the proofs of his charges against Delamater, and they will be given to the public shortly. An organized movement against the State ticket is already well under way in Chester county.

REPECIAL TELEPRAN TO THE DISPATCE. ALTOONA, August 28 .- "The conference did all that we came here to do," said Hon. George E. Mapes, as he walked to the train at noon to-day. "We are going away satisfied with what we have heard, although we are not jubilant over it. There is nothing in the political conditions in this State for any Republican to be jubilant over this year. I do not care to talk about it, nor about what any of the gentlemen who were here may deem it their duty to do in the present campaign. The meeting here was simply what you have called it-a conference, for the interchange of views. Some of those present I had no acquaintance with before, and some were strangers to each MET TOGETHER AS REPUBLICANS.

"We knew each other as Republicans, however, and met as such. I do not feel at liberty to tell you what was said. There was no pledge of absolute secrecy, but there is an implied confidence in such matters which I will not violate." "What plan of campaign was decided

"It was not the purpose of the meeting to decide upon a plan of campaign, nor to prepare a proclamation of intentions, as some of the papers have stated."

"Will there be an Independent Republican ticket in the field?"

"That matter was not discussed." CONGRESSMAN WATSON'S SUCCESSOR.

Captain Boyer, who comes from Senator Delamater's own county of Crawford, Senators Lee and Emery, and two strangers, took the early morning train West, They were in close and earnest conversation, and who would succeed the late Congressman Watson, from the district in which both Lee and Emery reside, Senator Emery

"Wait at least till after the funeral, Selecting a successor to a dead man's shoes before they are cold may be practical polities of the present Penusylvania fashion, but it isn't decent politics. Congressman Watson's successor will be a Republican you can depend on that. We don't quarrel about the tariff question up our way."

This may be construed to mean that Senator Emery will not be an independent candidate for Congressman Watson's seat, and, generally, that the anti-Delamater Republicans will stand by the party nominees for

AS TO SENATOR LEE. It is not known whether Senator Lee will be a candidate for the vacancy caused by Mr. Watson's death or not. He has always kept inside of the party lines, although he could be counted against bossism all the 'time. He stood by Beaver in 1882, under great pressure from the Independents, and has made no declaration of his intentions in this campaign.

He was a classmate of Senator Delamater's in college, and if he takes the stump against him it will count for a great many votes, especially in the oil country where Lee is very much respected. He is the very intimate friend of Thomas W. Phillips, the "Friend of Garfield" and millionaire oil producer, and they will probably row in the same boat this year. Mr. Phillips was expected at this meeting, but only reached Philadelphia yesterday on his return from an extended summer trip.

SIZING TREMSELVES UP.

The main purpose of the meeting here according to the best information that can be gleaned from people who are not willing to talk, was to get certain people in communication with each other, and prepare the way for an understanding among those who are in doubt about supporting Delamater, or who have already made up their minds to oppose him.

The results of the meeting will make themselves public in a short time. An important part of the proceedings, it is under-stood, was the examination of the evidence on which Senator Emery based his charges of forgery and corruption against Delama-ter. This evidence Mr. Emery is expected to make public when the campaign fairly opens, probably in the shape of a speech at

When it was suggested to Senator Emery here, that he had come to an understanding with Quay and would not press the charges, he glared at the rash person who suggested it, and responded:

"Go and ask Quay."

An Organized Though Quiet Effort Belog Made to Defeat Delamater-A Talk With One of the Leaders of the Movement Fature Plans.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. WEST CHESTER, August 28 .- The Indendent Republicans of Chester county can longer disguise the fact of their being actively engaged in a well-organized "still hunt" to defeat Senator Delamater and elect Ex-Governor Pattison. There have been rumors of their work for weeks past, but it remained for to-day to develop the fact of their being regularly organized and doing a clean-cut, methodical work to defeat the Republican ticket at the The organization is acting in full sympathy and accord with the general State plan in ascertaining the names of those Republicans who have declared their intention to vote for Pattison. Alfred Sharpless, who entertained ex-Governor Pattison here on last Tuesday evening said to-day: "I was asked to act on the Chester county committee. I wrote eight letters to as many independent Republicans asking them to give me the names of other mem-bers of the Republican party who had declared for Pattison. I had heard from four of them when Governor Pattison from four of them when Governor Pattison was at my nouse last Tuesday evening, and the four lists aggregated 80 names. I gave them to E. A. Barber, who is the president of our county organization, and he then informed me that he had the names of 600 Chester county Republicans who would positively vote for Mr. Pattison. The list I gave him increased the number to 700, and we are daily hearing good word from all parts of the county.

Until then the "atill hunt" will continue to be observed.

Delegates In Gresvener's District Again Meet and Ballot Without Result.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. GALLIPOLIS, O., August 28.-The fight for the Republican Congressional nominstion in the Eleventh Ohio District, which ended in a draw at Ironton last July, after nearly 1,000 ballots had been cast, was renewed here to-day. Grosvenor, of Athens, Thompson, of Scioto, and Enochs, of Law-rence, the candidates, were on hand, each with a large delegation of backers, Gros-venor leading in that respect. The conven-tion met at 9 A. M., and with the exception of a short intermission at noon, balloted con-tinuously for five hours without a single change. The convention, at the close of 400 ballots, adjourned until 9 o'clock to-mor-

The delegates for each man declare the will stick for a year if necessary, and the end is not in sight. To-night a desperate effort is making to run in a dark horse from this county, but, as Meigs and Gallia are the only counties without candidates, and as they cannot nominate alone, and the other counties declare they will never yield, the prospects are for a long fight. Most of the delegates have come prepared to stay a month. To-night bands are serenading each

Boston, August 28.-Evidences are coming to light that the real cause of the suspension of Potter, Lovell & Co., which courred yesterday, dates back to the big Shaw failure. A draft of $25,000 went to protest Monday, but was subsequently paid. The firm could easily have met all demands yesterday from offers of assistance by friends, but deemed such action iseless, as they thought the failure inevitable. The greater part of the indebted-ness is held by Boston banks, but all the

The principal condition is that the de facto Salvadoran Government binds itself to immediately convoke the Legislative Assembly which existed before July 22. This Assembly will decide on the Presidency of Ezeta. This proves that Ezeta has accepted Gustamalan intervention in Salvado

The report that Senor Pou would be made Salvadoran Minister to the United States or Mexico is not true. [BY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY.] VIENNA, August 28 .- A distressing surder and suicide is the sensation here to-day. The City Architect, Herr Saling, disturbed at the attachment his 18-year-old daughter had formed for a Lieutenant in the Lancers, named Fischer, started with the girl for a holiday jaunt in the Tyrol hoping thus to cure her of the infatuation Herr Saling and his family had reached Oezthal, a small village with one hotel, when they learned that the Lieutenant was following them, and before night he arrived and put up at the hotel where they were stopping. The parents of Miss Saling watched their daughter carefully that she might have no communication with Fischer, and for several days she was not out of their aight.

This morning the young lady left her apartment to go to the breakfast room slightly in advance of her father, and upon reaching the room occupied by the Lieuten-ant, the door was suddenly thrown open and he sprang into the passage way, seized the girl around the waist and dragged her back into his room, placed a pistol against her temple and blew out her brains. Then turning the weapon upon himself he fired a second time and fell dead beside her. Attracted by the reports, the terrified guests ran to the apartment where the two bodies were found stretched on the floor. The mother of the girl, as it happened, was the first to enter, and she fainted at the sight. She has been alternately conscious and unconscious ever since, and fears are felt that she will never recover her reason. Lieutenant Fischer lett a letter upon his table narrating the incidents of his life until he encountered Miss Saling, telling of his love for her, the belief that it was reciprocated and the utter uselessness of his hoping ever to marry her, owing to heart disease which he had inherited, and which had been increasing in its intensity to such a point as to insure his dismissa from the army and his relinquishment of all the pleasures of life that were accompanied by either excitement or exertion. His physician had warned him sgainst marriage, and now, when he saw fame, position and his love lost to him he had resolved to end his life at once and in ending it end also the life of this girl. The body of Miss

ODESSA, August 28 .- According to an article in the Kashi, a Russian journal published at Baku, since the adoption of the tank system the Americans have been steadily beating back their Russian competitors in the commerce in petroleum, the employment of tank ships enabling the Westerners to undersell the dealers of the Old World. At present, says the Kaspi, there are 67,000 tons of petroleum stored in reservoirs in Batoum, which are all filled, while at Baku and Tiffis 1,000 empty railway wagons are standing idle.

INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 WASHINGTON, August 28 .- One of the omplaining men at the Capitol to-day was Senator Saunders, of Montans. While the great row was going on in the House yesterday he was sitting in his place in the Senate. Colonel Saunders dearly loves to see a bit of a fight, and keenly regrets the time wasted in the Senate when he might have been at the other end of the Capitol.

"I ought to have been there," said he in regretful tones to-day. "Naturally I am interested in Wilson, of Washington. We are near neighbors when we are at home, and I want to see how he conducts himsel in an encounter with a Jersey man. I was disappointed in the result, but the Wilson family kept up its reputation, and I wasn't sorry that I had traveled nearly 6,000 miles to see the fray." COMPARATIVELY QUIET.

Compared with yesterday this was a rather mild session of the House. Still it was a little lively at times. The lard bill, which was the moving cause of all the trouble, was passed without much difficulty, although the Speaker was obliged to count a quorum. The question of the Cannon resolution was again brought forward by a personal explanation from Mr. Williams, of Illinois, one of the gentlemen named in the preamble. He said that on Tuesday he had remained in the House until 3 o'clock, when he had been called home on account of illness in his been called home on account of illness in his family, and when he had been excused by family, and when he had been excused by the House. Mr. Mason admitted that he had be Mr. Mason admitted that he had been heard on the original Conger bill, but not upon the bill which had just passed. Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, suggested that the gentleman had discussed the whole lard

Mr. Mason said that he had discussed some portions of the questions, but that he had had no opportunity to discuss the new elements of the bill. This lack of opporelements of the bill. This lack of oppor-tunity was caused by a rule known to the Republican party alone—and the rule was all right, for he had stood by it—but some-times it was hard to take your own medi-cine. [Laughter.] He had made up his mind when the medicine was prepared for him to make as lively a job of kicking as he could, and he had made that kicking. He would not apologize for it, and he would make no further explanation except to his constituents.

Here he was interrupted by Mr. Funston, amid a good deal of confusion and merriment. Mr. Funston continued with his observations, despite the declarations of the Chairman that he was out of order. A CHARGE OF FALSEHOOD. Mr. Funston protested against being sat upon by the gentleman from Illinois. If the gentleman stated that the Committee on Agriculture had not given him an opportunity to be heard he stated a falsehood. Mr. Cheadle, of Indiana, and Mr. Enloc, of Tennessee, insisted on Mr. Funston's last remark being taken down.

After some discussion as to whether this was proper—Mr. Funston's remark having been made out of order—Mr. Mason said that he understood the gentleman's remark to be that if he (Mr. Mason) said he had not been heard by the committee he stated a falsehood. And the gentleman was entirely correct. [Laughter.] But he (Mr. Mason) had not stated that he had not been heard. He asked the privilege of forgiving his brother, and he insisted on that privilege.

[Laughter.]
The words were taken down and read a the clerk's desk, but no action was taken. TIME TO APOLOGIZE.

Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, called at-tention to the scene in the House yesterday, and suggested that the gentlemen engaged in the alterestion should be allowed an opportunity to explain their conduct, but the suggestion was not heeded, and finally, personal explanations and questions of privileges being disposed of for the present, the House proceeded to business, and resumed the consideration of the bill for the adjustment. the consideration of the bill for the adjustment of claims of laborers under the eighthour law. Mr. Lacey, of Iowa, gave notice that on Monday next he would call up the contested election case of Clayton against Breckinridge.

the Senate-A Number of Pron Sames Included Among Those Who Are Drawing Double Money.

WASHINGTON, August 28.—The Pension Office has furnished the Senate with a list of those officers of the army, navy and marine corps who are drawing pensions in addition to their regular salaries as officers on the active or retired list. There are 198 of these thrifty gentlemen, most of whom are retired from active duty. None of them receive less than $2,000 per annum, and many of them are drawing between $6,000 and $7,000. The $8 per month that they have been receiving because they participated in the an War is just so much money fou aggregate sum is not much for eat but it is enough to pay their due. continued to draw their $8 a month u. death had transferred them to the silent 1 tired list, where "old fogy rations" are not

Under the recent disability service pension law, circulars were sent by claim agents to officers of both the volunteer and regular service. An officer in the regular organization returned his circular with a statement that he was a retired army officer and therefore not entitled to a pension. The claim agent replied by saying that a decision ren-dered during the last administration concerning the scope of the Mexican War pen-sion law included all who had participated sion law included all who had participated, and that no discrimination was made between those who had been disabled and those who had not. It was decided that the law was substantially a service pension law. Following that decision there was no reason why an officer on the retired list of the army could not draw pension under the act for disability incurred in the late war, which had placed him on the retired list, and which also incapacitated him from performwhich also incapacitated him from perform

The Mexican pension law is a service pension law, while the recent law is a disability service. Among the officers drawing pensions at the rate of $8 per month are David D. In response to a request for a statement as to the cause of Governor Wolfley's retirement, Secretary Noble said that Mr. Wolfley's personal or official character had not been brought in question. He was an honorable gentleman, and he (the secretary) had been for many years and was still his friend. Yet, while this was so, he believed with the President that a change was in the interest of all concerned. Mr. Murphy, the Secretary of State, will act as Governor until Mr. Wolfley's successor Governor until Mr. Wol TARIFF AND ANTI-TARIFF.

Opening of a Joint Debate Between Springer and Horr. HUDSON, N. Y., August 28 .- Congressman William M. Springer, of Illinois, in behalf of the Reform Club, of New York, and ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, on behalf of the Republican party, opened at the county fair here to-day the series of joint debates of the tariff question, to which the Reform Club has challenged the Republicans. There were 10,000 people on the grounds, and as many as could wedge themselves into the grand stand, and upon the open place in front and between the grand stand and race track. Mr. Springer opened the discussion in a speech of nearly an hour, during which he presented a summary of the Democratic side of the tariff question, dwelling in particular upon the arguments that address themselves peculiarly to farmers.

Mr. Horr, in reply, declared that if Mr. Springer's argument was correct manu-factured articles that have been protected for the last 30 years should have increased for the last 30 years should have increased in price. As a matter of fact the reverse was true. He cited salt, steel rails and other articles in proof of his assertion and declared that protection built up home manufacture until by competition among themselves they reduce prices. He affirmed that England's opposition to the McKinley measure was enough to make him its cham-

The grand jury returned the indictments with the greatest reluctance. They were brought into court by the proseeuting attorney, who addressed them re-garding their duties, and told them that unless they did their duty he would dis-charge them and call another jury.

THEY FRIGHTENED THEM.

Judge Lilly added to this statement that if they sought to protect the law-breakers he would recuse to sign their warrants for pay. After this the jury promptly indicted the men whose crimes they have been in-vestigating. French and Eversole and nearly all of the indicted men are now confined in the little jail, and the others will be apprehended as speedily as possible. The Sheriff and his deputies are powerless, and the militiamen have arrested all the prisoners. Green Morris, one of the lead-ing outlaws, was arrested last night. He was living in utter defiance of the law and loudly boasted that he could not be arrested. No Sheriff could be found willing to ar-rest him, and a detail of soldiers was sent after him. He was caught at the head of Bull Creek, in Leicher county. There was a deputy sheriff with the party, but he discreetly hid himself until the arrest was made. After the arrest was made Morris

IN THE FEUDAL STYLE.

The war has been conducted somewhat on the feudal system. The followers of each party were armed by the leader and prot in their lawless dealings during peace. When there was any fighting to do, they had to fight for the glory there was in it, and what they for the glory there was in it, and what they needed to eat and wear. A number of the followers of each party came from other counties, and have not been caught.

Judge Lilly this morning made an order transferring all the cases to Clark county. The outlaws are in despair, and Judge Morten, in whose district Clark county is, has the bonor of hanging more criminals than any other Judge in Kentucky. The prisoners will be taken to Winchester by the soldiers. There are so many of them that some trouble is feared in getting them across the mountains,
