THE MUSIC WORLD. Objects and Aims of the State Music

Teachers' Association.

Effects of Performers Attempting What They Cannot Master.

NOTES THAT INTEREST THE PUBLIC

THE CAMPAIGN NOW BEGINNING.

The second annual meeting of the Penn sylvania State Music Teachers' Association will be held at Philadelphia on the last three days of the coming year. Four months ahead is none too soon to begin the active, aggressive campaign demanded by the large opportunities lying open to the asso-ciation and which can be turned to the best advantage only by the support and cooperation of musical folks throughout the Remember that, though the first two meetings are held in Philadelphia, this association is by no means a local enterprise of that city—no more so than Congress is a local affair of Washington. It belongs to the whole State. The western end is just as much interested as the eastern in making the coming meeting a success. And this, if for no other reason than the selfish one that our hearty assistance in this meeting will tend to draw similar co-operation from the rest of the State for the meetings to be held

Nor is the scope of the association at all so limited as its title would indicate. Not only teachers, but all intelligent music-lovers and their every interest, fall within its bounds. Singers, players of musical in-struments, critics and writers on musical topics share with teachers the right to active membership at $1 a year, while all others interested in the art, though not professing or practicing any of its branches, may for a like see become associates, entitled to all privileges but voting and holding office.

Really the name should be altered in some Really the name should be altered in some such way as has been proposed for the national body of the same aims—say the "Pennsylvania Society for the Promotion of Musical Art," or some other expression of the true, broad scope of the organization. Since the list of officers and committees for this year was published in this column some few changes have occurred. Mr. some few changes have occurred. Mr. Frederic S. Law, the Secretary and Treasurer, has removed from Philadelphia to Springfield, Mo., and has therefore resigned that double office. The Executive Committee has filled the vacancy by electing Mr. Edmand Wolsieffer, of Philadelphia, a brother of the President. Another change is the appointment of Mr. Carl Maeder, of Philadelphia, a brother of the Change of the Specialist is the appointment of Mr. Carl Maeder, of Pittsburg, as Chairman of the Specialist Committee on violin and string instruments. Mr. Phillip Dornberger is Vice President for Allegheny county, and Mr. Joseph H. Gittings our member of the Programme Committee, either of whom will, doubtless, be glad to receive membership subscriptions or give further information.

Among the duties of officers as set forth in the constitution is this: "Section 9 To in the constitution is this: "Section 9. To try to induce the editors of the local press to give more space to musical items, and the Vice Presidents shall send to the editors items and articles, original or selected that will tend to advance the appreciation of better music." The members of specialist committees have the same duties imposed

This particular duty is here urged upo the attention of all the Vice-Presidents an committee members in this and other wes ern counties. THE DISPATCH has alway been conducted, as far as possible, upon lines that "tend to advance the appreciation of better music." And now, as a member of the Specialist Committee on musical literature and journalism, the writer feels an additional incentive to persevere in the same direction and to request on the part of fellow-members, officers and committeemen of the P. S. M. T. A. such co-operation as is above suggested. News items regarding local musical happe ings of any importance will always be wel-comed, and contributed articles upon live musical topics will gladly be given as much space as can be, in justice to other matters claiming attention. Among recent accessions to the faculty of the National Conservatory of Music, in New York, are two names deserving of special mention. Miss Eleanor Warner Everest, one of the principal teachers of singing possesses the proud distinction of being the only pupil of Mme. Marchesi to whom that famous teacher has given a written certificate of ability to teach her own method tificate of ability to teach her own method in a manner satisfactory to its originator. As the writer knows from private sources, Mme. Marchesi yet speaks of Miss Everest with confident enthusiasm as the best equipped teacher she has trained.

The new principal of the vocal department is Signor Romualdo Sapio, who will be remembered as conductor for Madame Patti during her recent tour in the United States. He is a graduate of Palemo Italy. States. He is a graduate of Palermo, Italy, where he received his musical education under the direct tuition of the famous counterpointist, Signor Pietro Platania. He spent the early part of his career in Milan, teaching singing in the Boyal Chapel of the Duomo, and in 1882 began his theatrical career in Milan, as conductor, since which time he has specessfully atternated teaching. time he has successfully alternated teaching and conducting, his name having been connected with important organizations both in Europe and America. It was he who conducted the two South American tours of Patti in 1888 and 1889.

Mr. Edward Baxter Perry, in an admirable article in this month's Etude, inveighs against the prevalent custom on the part of pianists both amateur and professional, of constantly attempting in public music too difficult for them to master completely. In one paragraph he says:

"The manifold pernicious effects of such a course are scarcely to be computed. The player is forced into habits of carelessness, inaccuracy and general unintelligibility, which, one acquired, it is well-nigh impossible to eradicate. Intellectual grasp and technical control are alike unattainable. The performance is of necessity blurred, unmusical, meaningless; and the average listener, finding nothing comprehensile, still less enjoyable, in such renditions, is quick less enjoyable, in such renditions, is quick to conclude that the piano is a cold, dry, uninteresting instrument, fit only to mark the rhythm of a dance. The poor piano, from the most canable and versatile of solo instruments, is degraded into a mere pappet-board for the exhibition, in tragic farces, of the mutilated caricatures of great thoughts and emotions."

To the questioning student who wants to know how he is to tell whether his teacher is giving him pieces that are too difficult for him, Mr. Perry presents these pertinent ob-

"You can at least notice the programmes "You can at least notice the programmes being given throughout the country by leading artists; and if you find that you are allowed to study and play the same great compositions which form the tours de force of their repertoires, be sure that you are on the wrong track. You are perfectly safe in assuming that your few terms, or even years, of desultory study have not fitted you to grapple successfully with the Titans you to grapple successfully with the Titans which tax to the uppermost the disciplined which tax to the uppermost the disciplined powers, and experience in attack, of veteran professionals, who have been all their lives in the field. Not even if you are the pupil of Prof. Prestissimo, who agrees to teach the piano in 12 lessons.

What do you think of a primary school scholar, just able to get creditably through with a lesson in the First Reader, who should be set to interpret Shakespeare for a company of adults? Or of a young miss, with just skill enough to paint daisies on a tea-set, which were recognizable without a label, who should undertake to cover a $2-foot canvas with a grand historic or battle piece of tintorettorian magnitude? You would not need to witness the effort, or even to be a juage at all, to know that it must be an utter farce, without even the doubtful merit of being funny.

In like manner, when you are teld that a girl of 11, who has studied the piane for two years, is playing Chopin's "Ballade" in A flat, the same good common sense should inform you that one of the two things must be true: either that she is an extremely precocious, phenomenally endowed genius, a second Mozart, with decided moders improvements, or that her teacher is a fool. And is most instances you are pretty safe in assuming instances you are pretty safe in assuming that the latter is most probably the case, as fools are more plentiful than phenomena in the musical world."

Crotchets and Quavers. VERDI'S "Ottello" has been performed in a Swedish version at Stockholm. EUGENE D'ALBERT will conduct the Philnic concerts in Dresden this season. ALEXANDER GUILMANT, the Parisian organist, has been giving organ recitals in Italy with great success.

Geraldine Morgan won considerable honors by a recent performance in Cologne of one of Spohr's concertes.

THE Sangerbund Festival to be held at Vienna in August, will gather together 900 singing societies, numbering 12,000 singers.

Marschner's opera, "The Vampire," and Mme. Ingeborg von Bronsart's opera, "Hisrne," are to be included in the repertory of the Berlin BACH's "St. Matthew" Passion music and

In London there are upward of 170 piano In London there are upward of 170 pianoforte factories. Over 1,360 shops and factories year in London alone.

THE rehearsal for the Worcester Musical Festival will begin on September 22. Next day the first concert will be given, the programme consisting of Håndel's "Israel in Egypt" and Niels Gade's cantata, "The Erl King's Daughter." Among the other works set down for performance are Schumann's symphony in Effat (No. 2), Gade's "Sootch's overture, Sullivan's "Golden Legend," Paine's "Island Fantasy," selections from Wagner's operas, Beethoven's seventh symphony and Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Miss Mary Howe, Miss Ciara Poole, Miss Ciementine de Vere, Mr. Whitney Mockridge and Emil Fischer are on the list of soloists. The conductor will be Mr. Cati Zerrahn, assisted by Mr. Victor Herbert.

Mr. John S. Van Cleve, in a recent article,

MR. JOHN S. VAN CLEVE, in a recent article, pays this tribute to the chorale: "A hymn is a very simple composition as to its form, melodic outline, and usually as to its harmonization; in-deed, the hymn as we know it, is only a degendeed, the hymn as we know it is only a degenerate form of the German chorale, which is the most perfect expression of the simply sublime known to musical art. In the chorale the whole mass of the congregation, men and women, sing the melody, thus making it in broad, heavy tones at the distance of an octave; and against this mighty wave, this immense gulf-stream of human feeling, setting straight toward the throne of God, the organ places the involved and noble harmonies. Such church music is the most perfect expression of the earthly ideal of the heavenly choir that I know anything about.

What changes have taken place in that period? In none have they been more radical than in the treatment of diseases. In the olden time, patients, prostrate with pain and suffering, were attacked with the lancet, calomel, blisters, etc. All this was done with honest intentions, but with terrible results, it is a pleasing fact that the enlightened public of the present day have discarded such medication. The disorders that sap the powers of life are now expelled by remedies that brace up the vital strength. These qualities are found in an eminent degree in Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. They have become celebrated over a wide extent of the globe as the safest and gentlest remedial agent ever offered to suffering humanity.

It has been said that certain kinds of business-and professions too, are not needed, and that the world would get on just as well without them. Don't you think there is some foundation for this statement? In our opinion there are entirely

TOO MANY CHIROPODISTS!

If all shoes were made so as to fit perfectly there would be little demand for their services. But as a large number of shoes do not fit at all, the chiropodist thrives and humanity suffers.
