The aches and pains she had in almost every part of her body were simply unbearable. Immediately after eating, her stomach would be seized with terrible pain and cramps, which would continue until she would vomit up her food, and the gas that formed would cause her stomach to swell as if it would burst. In fact all kinds of food except milk would cause her stomach to swell as if it would burst. In fact all kinds of food except milk would cause pain. She had pain over her eyes, dizziness and noises in her ears. Her mouth would have a litter, disagreeable taste every morning. She had pain in both sides and across the small of her back, and in the night if she lay on her left side she would be seized with the most excruciating pain, and her heart would palpitate as if it would jump out of her body.

Night sweats weakened her fast, and she had a constant tirred feeling, but more tired in the morning than on going to bed. While in this condition she consulted the above specialists, whose reputation for making permanent cures has long since become thoroughly established. She says of the matter:

"Although I had doctored with several physicians and with patent medicines, I got no relief, but gradually grew worse. In fact my neighbors and even I myself thought I could only live a few months. Reading in the papers how Mrs. Bratt had been cured of terrible cramps and pains by the catarrh specialists at $23 Penn avenue I took a course of treatment and now I gladly testify to my complete cure of all my aches and pains as above described. I cheerfully recommend these specialists to all suffering from catarrh or stomach trouble. Signed with my own hand. "MRS. HENRY HUNZIKER."

LABOR TROUBLES IN THE FUTURE. Great Interest is Taken in the Meeting of the Trades Union Congress at Liverpool.

ALL EUROPE UNEASY.

PROGRESS OF ERIN'S POTATO BLIGHT.

The Curious Birthday Present Being Prepared for Queen Victoria.

IBT CABLE TO THE DISPATOR.1 LONDON, August 30 .- The uurest in the world's labor markets causes a most unusual amount of interest to be taken in the Trade Union Congress, which opens at Liverpool next week. The interest is not confined to this country, but is shared by nearly every country in Europe. save, perhaps, Turkey and Russia. The Sultan is too much occupied with the threatened trouble in America, and with another of those financial crisises in the royal household, which he fears and detests more than Russian intrigues. The Czar looks upon the principles of trade unionism as heresy, and his press censors will probably take care that the newspapers in Russia shall report nothing and a hotel keeper discussed it most of the congress proceedings likely to un- anxiously with me. In France, the alarm settle the minds of the working classes in that part of the world. But other States and sovereigns have made arrangements for obtaining full reports of the debates in the British workman's annual Parliament.

THE KAISER AFTER INFORMATION. Germany, it is understood, has sent over a special agent, and France and Belgium will be similarly served. An impression prevails among European statesmen that an attempt will be made at Liverpool to initiate a movement for the international federation of all classes of workers, and hence their anxiety to learn what goes on at the con-gress behind, as well as before the scenes. The programme, up to the present, consuch fear. Much of the business relates to internal affairs, especially the reform of laws dealing with the relations of employers and workmen or bearing upon the social and political welfare of the working classes. Two matters upon which there will be the longest and warmest debates are the the election of a parliamentary, secretary in place of Henry Broadhurst, a man who has resigned, and the proposal to pledge the congress in favor of a legal eight-hour working day. For the secretaryship there are practically only two candidates in the field, one Fenwick, a Labor member of Parlia-ment, and Mr. George Shipton, Secretary of

THE PROBABLE VICTOR. The latter has shown a complete lack os sympathy with what is known as the new trade unionism, and is distrusted by a large body of workmen. Fenwick is able, industrious and tactful, and will in all probability secure the much-coveted post, which is worth £400 a year.

Discussing and voting on the eight-hour proposal will resolve itself, so far as present appearances indicate, into a struggle between the moderates and progressionist or new unionists, in which the latter will be beaten, although the majority on either side will not be large. An imposing feature in tion with the opening of the congress various trades affecting all parts of the United Kingdom and in which the men have been almost uniformly successful. Employers and employed alike have been taking a keen interest in the great struggle now proceeding in Australia.

AID FOR AUSTRALIA. No English newspaper has yet had the enterprise to spend money in securing adequate reports from the antipodes, and cablegrams only come from one source, and are evidently biased against the strikers. The British labor leaders, however, assume that the men are in the right, and have resolved that the fight shall not fail for want of money. Inclusive of a thousand pounds voted by the Loudon Dock Laborers' Union over £2,000 have already been cabled to Australia, and an effort is to be made to send at least £500 weekly until the struggle shall

The strikes in Belgium were foretold in this column a week ago. They will not last long in their present form, but the political agitation will continue and grow.

DEPEW COMING HOME.

HE WILL SAIL UPON THE TEUTONIC NEXT WEDNESDAY

In an Interview He Says That the New York Central Employes Should Not Have Struck While He Was Away-A Chat Upon Various Subjects. IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. I

LONDON, August 30 .- Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, with Mrs. Depew and three infant nephews, arrived in London from Hamburg last night. He looked unusually fit, as our English cousins say, and presented a fine picture of domestic felicity and contentment as he sat among his little ones at Almonds' Hotel. But Dr. Depew was not eloquent on the subject of the strike.

"I had a dispatch last night," he said, informing me that the trouble was over, but I am too far away and know too little about the matter to express an opinion. I notice that at the Union Square meeting I was severely censured for not being at my post during the fight. But," he added with a twinkle of the eye, "they should not have struck while I was away."

HIS FIRST INTIMATION.

Dr. Depew got his first news of the strike at Innsbruck, where he arrived on Monday, August 11, on his way from Oberammergan to Italy. "When I started from Paris to Oberammergau," he said, "leaving my family to find their way to Hamburg, I left two addresses, because I intended to travel so rapidly that letters and dispatches would not overtake me, particularly as it takes 12 hours to send a telegram on the Continent and 12 hours more to get an answer. The news was furnished me at Innsbruck by a New York newspaper reporter, and failed to hear much about it asterward, as even in Hamburg, where I got the London news-papers, the details of the strike were very from Munich, and the photograph man and a lot of other money makers. Nevertheless, with the great influx of people and the demand for beds and food at any price, almost any village in England or America would have doubled or trebled the prices charged for accommodation in Oberammergau. The night I was there, for instance, more than 2,000 records along the present and 2,000 people slept on floors and in barns, and were unable to get seats to witness the

Dr. Depew's trip through Italy was somewhat on the plan of George Washington Phipps' European tour. The doctor arrived in Verona at 2 o'clock in the morning of Tuesday, and rose at 6. Then with a guide he visited the Capulet mansion and other places of interest. He says that it Romeo really climbed up to Juliet's balcony as recorded by Shakespeare that the lovelorn youth was a greater acrobat than Hanlon. Dr. Depew also spent a few hours each in Venice and Milan, and went through St. Cothard tunnel, which impressed him, he said, as the greatest engineering work he had ever seen. With all his sight-seeing in had ever seen. With all his sight-seeing in Italy he managed to get back to Hamburg esting place to me of any that I ever visited, and I generally go there every summer. One sees there not only the great people of one country, but of every country. The Prince of Wales was there," he added, with no more tremor in his voice than if he were mentioning the name of T. V. Powderly, "and I dined with him, as I usually do. He was year, agreeable and cardial and seld-the. was very agreeable and cordial, and said that he hoped neither the Behring Sea discussion nor anything else would ever interrupt the friendly relations existing between England and America.

Dr. Depew said that he found the continent of Europe almost in a panic over the McKinley tariff bill. "In Germany," he said, "I found it a matter of universal dis-cussion, and, even a guard on the railroad is even greater, as the people seem to believe that to carry out its measures would entirely rain their commerce

An Official Report as to the Extent of the Scourge - Great Suffering is Now Certain in a Number of Important Dis-

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.1 LONDON, August 30.-The prospect for the peasantry in the districts affected by the potato blight in Ireland grows more grim and dismal as the summer wanes. This week has been issued a report of the Land Commissioners' dealing with the question up to August 15. The spread of the blight has been even more general than has been supposed. It only in Down, Tyrone, Tipperary, Dublin, Queens, County Westmeath, and a small part of Donegal that the Commissioners declare that the crop promises an average yield, and it is remarked that it is in these counties that potatoes are cultivated for sale.

The disease is spreading rapidly and the prospect is very bad indeed in Clare, West Clare, East Cork, Macroom, Bandon, Skibbereen and Clouskilty. An absolute failure in poor land is how the commissioners describe the prospects. In Kerry, we are told, the crop will be below an average, the result depending very much on the weather which, since these returns were compiled, has shown no signs of improvement. has shown no signs of improvement. On the sea coast the crop will be much below the average. In the Leinster counties, Carlow Kilkenny, Kings, Longford and part of Meath, the crop is below the average, and the Commissioners re-port that the wet weather will cause the disease to spread rapidly and as it has

The disease is general throughout. The distress appears worse along the sea coast, where potatoes planted in the tog were much damaged by early frosts. The effect of the blight has been almost to destroy the crop. In some cases the stalks are blackened and withered up, but the tubers are not as yet affected, except in rare instances, but are generally very small and immature. Owing to the blight setting in unusually early, the tubers in many instances will be absolutely unfit tor human food. In the poorer badly-cultivated districts the crop will bean entire

A PRESENT FOR VICTORIA.

The Novel Birthday Gift Which is Being Prepared for Her.

(BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.) LONDON, August 30 .- Queen Victoria has arrived at Balmoral, her beautiful estate in Scotland, for her customary autumnal stay. She was much displeased at Perth with the conduct of her loyal subjects, who resorted to all sorts of devices to obtain a glimpse of her when breakfasting at the station hotel. For the remainder of the journey North the Queen kept out of sight, and would not show herself even to the enormous crowd which lustily cheered the royal car on its arrival at Aberdeen, one of Victoria's

A German lady described as 'eminent and well-known in Berlin and Viennese court circles' has been for some time past engaged in the preparation of a work, a copy of which she intends to present to Queen Victoria as a surprise gift on her next birthday eight months hence. The newspapers, however, have divulged the secret and the Queen must now know all about it. and the Queen must now know all about it. Notwithstanding this the scheme, which at least has the merit of novelty, will be pro-ceeded with. It consists of the compilation ceeded with. It consists of the compilation of magazine articles "written by notable women throughout the world concerning Queen Victoria as a woman and Queen." There will be essays, studies, reminiscences, etc., and the authors, whose literary efforts will be enshrined in this unique scrap book include representatives of America, England land, France, Germany, Spain, Japan and India. It is understood that American selections will be made with exceptional care in order to exclude those painfully irreverent and even flippant.

THE ART DISPLAY WELL WORTH SEEING Pittsburg's second annual Exposition will pen at the time appointed, and on Wednes day evening next, the 3d of September Innes' band will herald the fact in a burst of music to what is expected to be a big at-ceived by Mrs. Ellen J. Phinney, of this city. Mrs. Phinney is President of the Nou-Partisan National W. C. T. U., and in order to satisfy herself in regard to the stories about President Harrison being a wine bibber wrote to Mrs. Lydia H. Tilton, the President of the District of Columbia branch of this union, asking for full and reliable information on the subject.

Mrs. Tilton's answer brands the stories as false. She says: "While it is true that wine has been furnished at State dinners by Everything this year is on a more extensive and more lavish style than last year; exhibits are more numerous, and displayed in better taste; the mechanical leatures of the Exposition are more varied and contain new features, and, generally speaking, nothing has been left undone to make the undertaking attractive, as well as instructive. The manthe Harrisons, Wanamakers, Windoms, Millers, Proctors, Hustons, Hepburns, Dorchesters, Fosters, Morgans and many others have a restraining influence. Scarcely agement has several surprises in store for its patrons, and not the least will be the really creditable showing which this city will make in its second attempt of the

It would be invidious at this writing to attempt any description of the wealth of industrial enterprise which will be spread before the unsuspecting sightseer, but mention may be made of the exhibit of practical glass making, a device for illustrating 'the management of dams on rivers, and other mechanical appliances which are a new feature in the show.

WILL INTEREST ALL Mr. D. C. Ripley was busy yesterday

seeing to the setting of the seven pots in the glass furnaces, and the illustration of flint glass making here to be shown in complete operation will be a great source of attracion to the uninitiated.

This year visitors can take a pleasant aunter through the grounds; gaze down apon the-dropping poetry-the muddy depths of the Allegheny, from a boarded veranda on the banks, or travel over its bosom on the private steamer of the Exosition company. An illuminated fountain will play in opposition to Mr. Innes' merry men, and there will be no lack of light from the electric displays in the grounds. Mr. A. S. Wall has done some arduous and commendable work in arranging the loan collection of pictures in the Art Gallery. Local talent is not par-ticularly well represented. The Hazeltine collection will form the "piece de resist-ance," and the entire display will well re-pay all the time visitors will find to devote

WILL BE READY ON TIME. The finishing touches are being pushed The haising touches are being pushed with all rapidity. A corps of men were at work late last night, and the building will be lighted up to-morrow and succeeding nights to admit of exhibitors having everything in trim for the opening. The temporary withdrawal of some of the workers will not militate against the completion, for on to-morrow as many men as are desired will be on hand to make a rapid finish. Manager Johnson looked 20 years younger last evening when he glanced around the building at leaving. "Everything is in grand shape," he ex-claimed, "and we shall treat the public to a display they will be unprepared for. The Exposition will contrast favorably with any similar enterprise ever attempted, and I think the public will agree so when they see it. I am anxious that the names of exnibitors and employes entitled to admission tickets be sent in at once over firm signa-tures, so that the tickets may be given out on Monday morning, and thus avoid any

PENN AVENUE IMPROVEMENTS Attracting Notice Right Along. The movement of business men to secure and improve sites on Penn avenue continues The avenue possesses advantages well recog nized by merchants, principal among which are ease of access and convenient location to railroads and cable cars. Among the noticeable improvements is the new building erected by Arnfelds, the popular hatters and furnishers at 1125 Penn avenue. This firm is one of the oldest and best known in its section, and from time to time the regular growth of its trade has demanded enlargement of space; but their latest move is the erection of the handsome new building re ferred to. The front is four stories, attractively finished, the entrance leading into a wide, deep and well arranged salesroom. The Messrs. Arnfeld have paid particular attention to the lighting of the store, and there is clear, bright light in every part of the large building. It is in every way unusually well adapted for the display of the very large stock of fashionable hats and gents' furnishings carried by this firm. Their loca-tion is central, being one square from Union depot, and visitors will find at Arnfelds an unequaled line of goods at popular prices from which to make their selection.
