AT THE COUNTY FAIR.

The First and Only Allegheny Agricultural Exhibition and Races

START OUT IN EXCELLENT SHAPE.

Day of a Creditable Show. THE INTERESTING TRIALS OF SPEED

Hurrah for the county fair! Who wouldn't go? A delightful ride up the Allegheny river to Tarentum; a joyous whirl from the station behind spirited steeds to the fairgrounds of the Tarentum Agricultural and Driving Park Association, one mile beyoud. Yesterday was the first day of the first fair, and was such a success that the officers of the association retired last The gates were opened at 7 o'clock the morning, and any number of wagons, heavily loaded with wonderful specimens of the vegetable and animal kingdom, passed through in rapid succession, and were quickly relieved of their interesting burdens that appeared to better advantage in pens and places especially designed for them, while horse after horse of unquestionable lineage and blue blood, earefully covered with gailycolored blankets, were led by attentive grooms to temporary abodes, and cow after cow of haughty mien traversed with stately step the arena leading from the main entrance to the homes prepared for them, in which they assumed picturesque poses for the benefit of the visiting public.

The exhibits exceeded, even yesterday, the most sanguine expectations of the projectors of the fair, and the merry sound of the hammer and the buzz of the carpenter's saw erecting extra stalls and booths mingled all day long with the merry-go-round, the gay shouts of the energetic fakirs, and the different calls of the many animals and

SOME OF THE ENTRIES.

There were preponderous beets, cabbages, potatoes, and everything in that line chickens of every variety, noted for every-thing under the sun, feathers, eggs and flesh; turkeys that suggested Thanksgiving even at this early date; pigs, both little and big, and sheep of every dye and wool.

In the woman's department in Floral Hall could be seen quilts of the sane and crazy variety, tidies of every kind, toilet sets, mantel scarfs, sideboard covers, pin-cushions, chair cushions, head rests, darned net patterns and everything in fine needle-work that skillful needlewomen attempt, beside preserves, jellies and pickles, sweet, sour and spiced; cakes and breads—all entered for prizes, and all meriting prizes. Other exhibits of a more private nature in Floral Hall testify to the enterprise of the business firms of Tarentum and make it a very attractive place, an es-pecially pretty corner, being the result of a floral exhibit, that not only beautifies the entire hall, but lends a sweet fragrance to it surprised and delighted the management, and the dusty roads—a necessary feature to a successful tair-were lined from morning till night with conveyances of all kinds, carrying the visitors to and from the fair grounds. There was the substantial farmer, with his family all arrayed in holiday attire, with well-filled lunch baskets behind the usually steady horses that imbibed the spirit of the occasion and pranced althost as gaily as the more his best girl, who was there in great num-bers. And who did not enjoy fried chicken and home delicacies from lunch baskets? But any number of city folks partook of an excellent dinner in the dining hall provided by the association.

AMONG THE EXHIBITS. The morning was spent in viewing and interviewing the exhibits, one of which was especially interesting to the younger portion of the visitors, as it was a dear little baby calf, not 24 hours old, and named R.S.P. McCall. But the inspiriting strains of the Silver Cornet Band from Natrono shortly after 1 o'clock created a general stampede for the grand stand, before which the fantastically apped jockies were coaxing, petting and speeding their favorites, that shortly were o match their steps in the races.

The first race was a 2-year-old trot, in half-mile heats, for a purse of $30. There were six entries-Reulah T, Jim, Monta Lee, G. D. Prentice, Mollie Chigh and Wilkes Pine. The last named carried off the purse amid the enthusiastic cheers of the spectators. The second race was a 4-year-old pace, with Laura Bell, Billie Oberlin, Darter and John C entered, and was won by John C. The 3-year-old trot was won by Alamanzor, Daisy N, Nancy E and Homewood being left in the rear, while he passed triumphantly under the wire. To-day there will be four races-a running race, three-minute trot, 2:40 class, and a stallion race, a trot. Cattle, sheep and swine will also be judged, and there will be a magnificent horse show, composed of all the horses on the ground, in grand caval-

Coroner McDowell's Jury to Go to the Scene of the Baltimore and Ohio Wreck-The Cross Ties Were Pushed Along the Track for Three Miles.

The Coroner's jury will visit the scene the Baltimore and Ohio wreck near Osceola station, August 14, to-day. Considerable testimony was heard yesterday at the inquest, and the latter will probably be con-A Large Crowd Present at the Opening cluded to-morrow. Thomas McGovern conductor of the train testified that as the train was leaving Mc-Keesport on the evening of the accident he saw a man jump on the baggage car. This man was afterward identified as Hersha, one of those who were killed in the wreck. The witness felt the air being applied to the brakes shortly after 10 o'clock, and believing something was wrong started forward. As he did so he felt the jar of the ears in front of him leaving the tracks, and suddenly the entire train came to an abrupt standstill. No jar was felt before the air was turned on. When the conductor engine thrown from the track, three sleepers glory to accrue from the continuation and perpetuation of the fair and the association.

The gates were opened at 7 o'clock rails, indicating that they had been pushed along the track for some distance.

Ex-Superintendent Patton, of the Balti-more and Ohio, testified that he went to the scene and examined the shattered ties. He then went back three miles on the track and discovered a number of chips and splinters near the rails, showing that it was at that point that the ties had been placed. He testified there had been no ties transported over that section of the road for 24 hours previous to the accident; that the only ties in the neighborhood were a few near Osceola, which were reserved for repairing. He said Goodwin was riding contrary to the or-ders of the company and had no business on the locomotive. The accident he believed was the results of an intention to wreck the train. J. C. King, fireman of the train, testified that Goodwin appeared to be an acquaintance of Sullivan, and got on the engine at Pittsburg. Shortly after leaving McKeesport Goodwin, who was looking out of the window, remarked suddenly that the engine had struck several ties and was pushing them. The engineer then applied the air them. The engineer then applied the air and shortly afterward the accident hap-pened. J. N. Kalbaugh, master mechanic of the road, explained that the ties after being struck and pushed along the track were worn by the friction, and thereby be-came low enough to fall under the boat head of the pilot and from thence under the wheels, causing the wreck. The jury will tered; also grains and tempting fruits, and visit the scene of the wreck this afternoon, chickens of every variety, noted for every- and will likely conclude the inquest to > CROWDED THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL. The Effects of Father Lumbing's Warning Plainly Visible.

There is considerable excitement among the Catholic population of Wilkinsburg over the determined stand taken by Rev. A. A. Lambing, of St. James' Church, with regard to the attendance of the children of the congregation at the parochial school. All over the Pittsburg diocese there has been an earnest effort on the part of the priesthood to bring to the parochial schools children that have hitherto shown symptoms Lambing said on Sunday that he should re-fuse absolution to any parents or guardians who did not send their children to the Catholic school. The result of this threat was noted yesterday morning, when there was a very large attendance—much larger than last year when the school opened.

usefulness of, as well as attendance at, St. James' school is the fact that the Sisters of Charity have established a home for them selves in Wilkinsburg, and will thus be able to give closer attention to educational matters there than heretofore. They intend to give private lessons in music, painting, etc., in addition to teaching in the pr school. The lawn sete given by the ladies of St. James Church a sew weeks ago real-ized $350 for the building fund.

COLLUSION CHARGED.

An Injunction Suit to Prevent the Sale of the City Poor Farm.

He Says There Was No Real Competition Between the Bidders, and

THAT THE CITY HAS NO RIGHT TO SELL

City Solicitor Moreland called on Mayor Gourley yesterday about noon, with the deed for the sale of the Poor Farm property and asked the Mayor to sign it. His Honor had been served with a notice a few minutes before, to restrain him from signing the deed, and he was not in condition at the time to sign anything. When the Major offered him the paper, Major Gourley refused to attach his signature to it, and by a combination of circumstances he may be successful in his opposition to the sale of the farm, and the purchase of the Stewart ground at twice its alleged actual value. A bill in equity was filed yesterday by Charles L. Straub and those who might choose to join with him against the City of Pittsburg, H. I. Gourley, Mayor, Robert Elliot, Chief of the Department of Public Charities, and M. L. Baird, and Carnegie, Phipps & Co. It is alleged that the Poor Phipps & Co. It is alleged that the Poor Farm at present owned by the city was purchased with money assessed and derived from the taxpayers by an act providing for the relief and employment of the poor. In pursuauce of an ordinance passed July 12, 1890, which, it is claimed, is illegal, Chief Elliot advertised the sale of the old Poor Farm. In pursuance of the ordinance bids were made and the farm put up for sale. There was an understanding, it is asserted, between the hidders who know the amount between the bidders, who knew the amount of each other's bid, and therefore there was no competition, and the bids were not bons fide. The bidders were Joshua Rhodes, Carnegie, Phipps & Co., and M. I. Baird, but, it is claimed, the bids were only for the appearance of competition to M. I. Baird. Chief Elliott declared that Mr. Baird, whose bid was $2,903 per acre, a total of $419,425 44, was the highest and best bidder, and that the farm should be sold to

The plaintiff claims that there was an understanding between the bidders, and there-fore no competition, except for appearance' sake. Baird, it is asserted, only bid for the interest of Carnegle, Phipps & Co., Limited and in consequence it is asked that it be decreed that the city, Mayor Gourley and Chief Elliott have no authority to sell the property, and that an injunction be issued restraining the issuing of any deed to Carnegie, Phipps & Co. or other parties.

Mayor Gourley said: "When the Mayor Gourley said: "When the Guardians of the Poor were legislated out of office by the new city charter they deeded the Poor Farm to the city. I do not think there was any collusion between the bid-

WHY THE EVERETT PIANO s So Popular—Everett Club B Almost Com

The list of members for the second series, B, of the Everett piano clubs, is filling up at a wonderful rate, and the manager expects to commence delivering the pisnos to this club in a very few weeks. The system is now pretty well understood, and offers so many inducements in low prices and accommodating terms of payment that applications for membership are pouring in from all points. There is nothing of the lottery kind in the system, and every intelligent mind can see and appreciate the great reduction in price obtained by contracting for the great number of pianos it takes to supply the clubs, 350 each, making 700 pianos. The manager is a practical piano maker and well-known business man, and purchasers that skill and money can produce. They are indorsed by over 9,000 purchasers who are using them in this and other parts of the country. Do not fail to see the piano, or send for circular to the manager. Look for the display at the Exposition.

Henry F. Miller & Sons Plano Co.: DEAR SIES-On March 20, 1885, I had the opportunity to congratulate you on the steady improvement and sterling qualities of your pianos. To-day I not only repeat my former statement, but will add that the Artists' Grand used at the M. T. N. A.'s meeting at Philadelphia in July last, surpassed any instrument I have ever seen, heard or played. It had not only the fine qualities combined of all other makes of pianos, but a broadness of tone in orchestral effects which no other possessed. Your Artists' Grand to-day stands the first in the land. CALIXA LAVALLEE.
