lican affiliations, and we reverence the party traditions and fully recognize the great national work which the party has accomplished in the past. Even now; could we do so consistently with our sense of self-respect and of public duty, we would support the nominees of the Republican party:

With this necessary preface so that our pe sition may be clear to all who read our words. He said: we earnestly ask our fellow citizens to cast their votes in the approaching election for Governor in favor of Robert E. Pattison, the Democratic candidate for that office. Our reasons for this suggestion we will make both brief and emphatic, believing that the logic which supports them will bring conviction to the sober, unbiased thought of the community.

A Great Issue in the Campaign. There is a great issue in this campaign-an issue of far reaching, of supreme importance. The greatest question which the November South Penn, for they have allowed the suits that were commenced by Pattison and Cassidy to die in some pigeon hole, and that elections will decide is a question of fundamental public morality-far reaching since it is just what the Pennsylvania Company holds all other questions in its grasp; fundamental, since upon its decision the ultimate integrity even the life of our free republican institutions depends.

The platform of the Republican party m Pennsylvania indorses without quatification or reserve the junior Senator of this State, Matthew S. Quay, a man whose very name has entered the political vocabulary as a term of political domination and corruption, a man whose way to political eminence has been won the South Penn.' by no distinguished service to the nation or the State, neither by the conception nor the execuand a life-long Republican, said: tion of a single great or beneficent public measure, but solely by chicanery and political corruption, by the creation of an immense army of servile followers through bribes of public office and by the skillful distribution of public patronage. This man has so successfully increased his own power that he is to-day among the most influential, if he is not indeed the most influential of Republicans, and in his own State his personal will has virtually usurped the will of the people.

The Popular Understanding.

He is at least popularly understood to have controlled the last Republican State Convention and to have imposed upon it a candidate of his own selection. But to crown his own dishonor and the shame of the Commonwealth he stands for months silent under public, repeated and specific accusations of the greatest official misconduct of having taken the treasury of the State large sums of money with the knowledge of its official guard-

In this man the Republican platform expresses entire confidence, and it calls upon the citizens of Pennsylvania to indorse both him and it by the election of Mr. Delamater as Governor of the State. No more serious, clear or unavoidable issue than this could be presented to the people.

Mr. Quay is the acknowledged unblushing champion of political corruptionists. He is si-leut under a recent, responsible and repeated charge of the embearlement of public money. selects Mr. Delamater as candidate for invernor and a pliant convention ratifies his election. The party platform indorses Mr Quay and Mr. Delamater stands on the party platform and on no other.

The Irresistible Couclusion.

The conclusion is irresistible that the elec tion of Mr. Delamater will have as its main and most potent result the public approval of Mr. Quay, and his permanent intrenchment in the Republican party of the State as its acknowledged leader and counselor, the repre-sentative of its principles and the exponent of its policy.

Are the men who saw the Republican party begatten, through the eloquence, the states manship, the lofty public morality of Summer the political genius, the all-embracing human ity and self-sacrifice of Lincoln, through the great popular hatred of wrong and oppression through the great and first awakening of a ational heart and a national conscience-dead

WOMEN TO THE FRONT.

The women delegates at the Trades Union Congress have made a number of effective speeches during the sitting, and put forth nany valuable suggestions. So prominent have they lately become thal a reporte at Liverpoo! interviewed some of the more active women members, getting their views on the subject of female labor here and merica.

Lady Dilke received the reporter in the hall where the congress was held. "Women workers," she said, "have long been the reakness of men's unions.

"When men have been driven to the ex-tremity of a strike and had in their power to withdraw every worker of their own sex, there was still left in the field against them a certain number of young women and girls with sufficient technical and practical knowledge to take the vacant places, thus ullifying the efforts of the strikers

"This is clearly wrong and must be reme-died. The only way to do this is for women to join with men in their trade unions or form unions of their own. Perhaps for many reasons this latter would be preferable, although, possibly if working together they might be mutually inspired with the ambition and the exchange of ideas to accomplish great things. I believe that omen in this country and in America can double their wages if they will combine.

BOYCOTT THE BOYS.

"I am in favor of only one sort of boy-cott. I should advise every girl to have nothing to do with a sweetheart who is not a member of a trades union. That will very soon force in hesitating workingmen. Men I really believe can live without cooks, but no man can live at least happily, without sweetheart.

WHERE HAPPINESS REIGNED.

At Stone's beadquarters standing room was at a premium. Register Graham and William Copeland received returns there, while Colonel Stone listened to the cheers and shook hands with the people. Colonel Thomas M. Bayoe was there also, and he wore his happiest smile, for the nomination of Stone meant "vindication" for himself. Samuel Grier and Health Officer James Bradley were present, and among the crowd were seen the forces of Mayor Wyman and Chief Murphy. The remainder of the throng was largely made up of Allegheny

Councilmen, Allegheny policemen, penitentiary guards and employes of the postoffice and the Pleasant Valley company. Early in the evening the candidates ran neck and neck. Until 10 o'clock the victory belonged to either man. At that time reports from 68 districts showed Stone but 73 votes in the lead. From that time on it was all for Stone. At 11 o'clock Stone's majority in 100 districts was announced as

3,022. A cheer went up from headquarters, and it was picked up by 5,000 people who crowded the streets inside the Diamond. The happy ones then adjourned for refreshments, and the unfortunate ones crowded beside them at the bars, just to drown sorrow. Then less attention was paid to re-turos. Stone's victory did not come from any particular district. He carried the city, and in the country he was also slightly in the lead of Shiras. In many places Stone's vote was more than that received by Colonal

Bayne on May 31. BIOGRAPHY OF THE WINNER.

The life's story of the man on whom Colonel Bayne's mantle has fallen, both from Mr. Bayne himself, and then from the people, is of tollows: Colonel William A. Stone was born in Tioga county, in April, 1846. He was raised on a farm, and at the age of 17 he enlisted in Company A, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh Volunteers. in 1865 he was mustered out as a second lieutenant. After the war he educated himself at the Mansfield State Normal School. In 1870 he was admitted to the bar, and three years later he was to the bar, and three years later he was elected District Attorney. In 1877 he located in Pittsburg, and soon obtained a fair clientage. He was appointed United States Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania by President Hayes. He was reappointed by President Garfield and removed by President Cleveland in 1886. Since then he has devoted himself to his practice and is now the solicitor for the Since then he has devoted induction for the practice, and is now the solicitor for the Pieasant Valley Street Railway. There were a number of squabbles at the polls, the most serious of which was in the First district of the Second ward. There Frederick Spady says he will charge the Board of Elections with stuffing Shiras' bal-lots into their pockets instead of into the ballot boxes. Another fight occurred in the Diamond Another light occurred in the Dismond square several hours after the polls closed. A crowd collected, and Officer Haag tried to separate the combatants.
