SINGING CHRIST'S PRAISE ON EARTH

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. BROOKLYN, September 7 .- Dr. Taimage's sermon for to-day is a glowing description of the melodies of the Celestial land. His text was (Rev. v.: 9) "And they sang a new song." Following is the sermon: Nearly all the cities of Europe and America have conservatories of music, and associations, whose object it is, by voice and instrument, to advance the art of sweet sounds. On Thursday nights, Exeter Hall, of London, used to resound with the music of first-class performers who gave their services gratuitously to the masses, who came in with free tickets, and buzzaed at the entertainment. At Berlin, at 11 o'clock daily, the military band, with 60 or 100 instruments, discourses at the Royal Opera House for the people. On Easter Sunday, in sden, the boom of cannon and the ringing of bells bring multitudes to the churches to listen to the organ peals and the exciting sounds of trumpet and drum. When the great fair-day of Leipsic comes, the bands of music, from far and near, gather in the street and be wilder the eat with mosessant playing of flute and horn, violin and bassoom. At Dusseldorf, ence a year, the lovers of music assemble and for three or four days wait upon the great singing festivals, and shout at the close of the choruses, and great the successful competitors as the prizes are distributed—cups and vases of silvar and cold.

All our American cities at times resound with estra and eratorio. Those who can sing or play skillfully upon instruments are sted with vociferation and garianded by exrs. There are many whose most ecstatic delight is to be found in melodies; and all the splendor of celestial gates, and all the luseiousness of 12 manner of fruits, and all the rush of floous from under the throne of God, would not make a heaven for them if these were no great and transporting harmo-nics. Passing along our streets in the hour of

THE VOICE OF SACRED MELODY. although you do not enter the building. And passing along the street of heaven we hear, from the temple of God and the Lamb, the breaking forth of magnificent jubilate. We my not yet enter in among the favored throng, but God will not deny us the pleasure of standing awhite on the outside to hear. John lised to it a great while ago, and "they sang a tened to it a great while ago, and "they sang a new song." Let none aspire to that blessed place who have no love for this exercise, for although it is many ages since the thrones were set, and the harps were strung, there has been no cessation in the song, excepting once for about 20 minutes; and, judging from the glorious things now transpiring in God's world, and the ever-accumulating triumphs of the Messiah, that was the last half hour that heaven will ever he silent.

Mark the fact that this was a new songsometimes I have in church been floated away iron some great choral, in which all our peodie seemed to mingle their voices, and I have, in the glow of my emotions, said, surely this is music good enough for beaver. Indeed I do ot believe that "Luther's Hymn," or "Coronot believe that "Luther's Hymn," or "Coro-nation," or "Old Hundred," or "Mount Pisgah," would sound ill if spoken by sainted lips, or chrummed from scraphic hatps: There are many of our fathers and methers in glory who would be slow to shut heaven's gate against these old-time harmonies. But this, we are told, is a new song. Some of our greatest anhems and chorals are compositions from other nucs—the sweetest parts of them gathered up nto the harmony; and I have sometimes nincled in eternal choral, But it will, after ill, be a new song. This I do know, that in weetness and power it will be something that ar never heard. All the skill of the oldest aspers of heaven will be thing into it. All the we of God's heart will ring from it. In its idences the floods will clap their hands, and it ill drop with the sunlight of everlasting day, and breathe with odors from the blossoms of the tree of life. "A new song"—just made for

ORIGIN OF GREAT HYMNS. Many earthly somes are written by composers ust for the purpose of making a tune; and the and is flooded with note-books in which really land is finoded with note-books in which really valuable tunes are the exception. But once in a while a man is wrought up by some great spectacle, or moved by some terrible agony, or transported by some exquisite gladness, and he sits down to write a tune or a hymn, in which every note or every word is a spark dropped from the forge of his own burning emotions. So Mendelssish wrote, and so Beethoven, and so Charles Wesley. Cowper, depressed with misfortunes until almost insane, resolved on suicide, and asked the cab-driver to take him to a certain place where he expected to destroy a certain place where he expected to destroy s own life. The cab-driver lost his way, and owper began to think of his sie, and went

It is me time before the congregation learn a new me. But not so with the new song of heaven, he children who went up to-day from the aters of the Ganges are now singing it. That hristian man or woman, who, a few minutes to, departed from this street has ioned it. parted from this street has joined it in departed from this street has joined it, if know it—those by the gates, those on the brer bank, those in the temple. Transfixed, lost, enchanced, dumb, we could not hear it—the faintest note of the new song. Yet, while I speas, heaven's cathedral quakes inder it, and seas of glory hear it from beach to beach, and

There was a Christian sailor boy intliad his back broken on the ship's halyards, and with him it is a sailor's sons. That one burned at Smithfield, and with him it is a fire song. Oh! how they will sing of floods waded, of fires endured, of persecution suf-fered, of grace extended! Song of hall Song of sward; song of hot lad! song of axe! As when he organ pipes peal out some great harmony, here comes occasionally the sound of the remulante, weeping, through the cadences, remaining, weeping, through the canences, adding exquisiteness to the performances, so mid the simpendous acclaim of the heavenly worshipers shall come tremulously rememberances of past cadurance, adding a sweetness and giory to the triumphal strain. So the dorthed mother will sing of the cradle that ttle robbed; and the enthroned spirit fron described and the entroned spirit from described will sing of a lifetime of want, may wipe away all tears, but not the pery of the grief that started them! or the riter that started them! where it will be an accompanied song, have a great prejudice against musical scruments; and even among those who like em there is an idea that they are unauthored. I love all stringed instruments of good demands that are about and organs; for God demands that we shall praise Him on stringed instruments and or-gans. There is in such music much to suggest know how much of it is literal, and how much of it is figurative. Who can say but that from some of the precious woods of earth and heaven there may not be made instruments of celestial accord? In that worship David may take the accord? In that worship David may take the harp, and Habakkuk the shigionoth; and when the great multitudes shall, following their own inclinations, take up instruments sweeter than Mozart ever fingered, or Schumann ever dreamed of, or Beckhoven ever wrote for, let all heaven make ready for the burst of stupendous minstrelsy, and the roll of the eternal orchesminstrelsy, and the roll of the eternal orchestra.

Further: It will be an anticipative song. Why, my friends, heaven has hardly begun yet. It you had taken the opening piece of music to-day for the whole service, you would not have made so great a mistake as to suppose that heaven is fully inaugurated. Festal choruses on earth last only a short time. The famous musical convocation at Dusseldorf ended with the fourth day. Our holidays last only eight or ten days; but heaven, although singing for so many years, has only just begon "the new song." If the glorified inhabitants recount past deliverances, they will also enkindle at glories to come. If, at 9 o'clock, when the church opened, you had taken the few people who were scattered through it as the main audience, you would not have made so great a mistake as if you supposed that the present population of heaven are, to be its chief citizeuship. Although millions are already there, the inhabitants are only a handful compared with the future populations. compared with the future popu

All Russia is yet to be saved. All France is yet to be saved. All England is yet to be saved. All America is yet to be saved. All the world is yet to be saved. After that there may be other than one-fourth of the island. On the north every star that glitters in our nights is an inhabited world, and that from all those spheres a mighty host are to march into our heaven. There will be no gate to keep them out. We will not want to keep them out. We will not want to keep them out. God will not want to

I have sometimes thought that all the mill-I have sometimes thought that all the millions of earth that go into glory are but a very small colony compared with the influx from the whole universe. God could build a heaven large enough not only for the universe, but for 10,000 universes. I do not know just how it will be, but this I know, that heaven is to be constantly augmented, and that the song of glory is rising higher and higher, and the procession is being multiplied. It heaven sang whom Abel went up—the first soul that ever eft earth for glory—how must it sing now when souls go up in flocks from all christendom, hour by hour and moment by moment.

Our happy gatheriogs on earth are chilled by the thought that soon we must separate. Our happy gatherings on earth are chilled by the thought that soon we must separate. Thanksgiving and Christmas days come, and the rail trains flying thither are crowded. Glad reunions take place. We have a time of great enjoyment. But soon it is "goodby in the hall," "goodby" at the door, "goodby" on the street, "goodby" at the rail train, "goodby" at the steamboat wharf. We neet in church. It is good to be here. But soon the doxology will be sung, the benediction pronounced, and the audience will be gone. But there are no separations, no goodbys in heaven.

NEW SONGS AND NEW JOYS.

If the first day we enter heaven we sing well, the next day we sing better. Song anticipative of more light, more love, of more triumphs. Always something new to hear, something new to see. Many good people suppose that we Shall see heaven the first day we get there. No! You cannot see London in two weeks. You cannot see Rome in six weeks. You cannot see theme in six weeks. You cannot see the great city of the New Jerusalem in a day. No; it will take all eternity to see heaven, to count the toward to avaning the transies to count the towers, to examine the trophies, to gaze mon the throne, to see the hierarchs. Ages on ges roll, and yet heaven is new! The street The Temple new! The joy new! The song new!

I stayed a week at Niagara Falls, hoping thoroughly to understand and appreciate it. But on the last day they seemed newer and more incomprehensible than on the first day. Gazing on the infinite rush of celestial splenders, where the oceans of delight meet, and pour themselves into the great heart of Godhow soon will we exhaust the song? Never!

of the lost, used to lift up their hands and shout. "The wrath to come?" "The wrath to To-day I lift up my hands, and looking come!" To-day I lift up my hands, and looking toward the great future, cry. "The joy to come!" "The bliss to come!" Oh, to wander on the banks of the bright river, and yet to feel that a little further down we shall find still brighter floods entering into it! Oh, to stand a thousand years, listening to the enchanting music of heaven, and then to find out that the music of heaven, and then to find out that the harpers are only tuning their harps.

Finally, I remark, that it will be a unanimous song. There will, no doubt, be some to lead, but all will be expected to join. It will be grand congregational singing. All the sweet voices of the redeemed? Grand music it will be, when the new song arises. Luther sings it. Courles Wesley sings it. Lowell Mason sings it. Our voices now may be harst and our ears uncultivated, but our throats cleared at last uncultivated, but, our throats cleared at last, and our capacities enlarged, you and I will not be ashamed to utter our voices as loudly as any THE SWEETEST MELODIES.

Those nations that have always been distinguished for their capacity in song will lift up their voices in that melody. Those who have had much opportunity to hear the Germans had much opportunity to hear the Germans sing will know what idea I mean to give, when I say that the great German nation will pour their deen, full voices into the new song. Everybody knows the natural gift of the African for singing. No singing on this continent like that of the colored churches in the South. Everybody going to Richmond or to Charleston wants to hear the Africans sing. But when not only Ethiopia, but all that continent of darkness, lifts up its hands, and all Africa pours her great volume of voice into the new song—that will be music for you. Added to this are all the sixteen thousand millions of children that are estimated to have gone into giory, and the hest of young and old that hereafter shall people the earth and inhabit the stars.

Oh! the new song! Gather it all up! Multiply it with every sweetness! Pour into it every harmony! Crown it with every gladness! Beit it with every splendor! God grant that at iast we may all sing it. But if we do not sing the praise of Christ upon earth we will never sing it in heaven. Be sure that your hearts are now attuned for the heavenly worship. There is a cathedral in Europe with an organ at each end. Organ answers organ, and the music waves backward and forward with indescribable effect. Well, my friends, the time will come when earth and heaven will be but different parts of one great accord. It will be joy ent parts of one great accord. It will be joy here and joy there! Jesus here and Jesus there! Trumpet to trumpet! Organ to organ! Hallelujah to hallelujah! "Until the day break and the shadows flee away, turn, my beloved, and be thou like a roe or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether!"

MONTREAL, September 7.-The parish of St. Germain de Grantham was the scene of an interesting ceremony the other day, which speaks well for the healthiness of that parish, and is a patent illustration of the vitality of the French Canadian race. Madame Michel Robidoux, nee Marie Rose Proulx, a native of St. Louis de Kamouraska, who has lived in St. Germain 25 years reached her 100th birthday last week, and the Rev. Cure Tessier decided to mark the

There, despite her advanced age, she apparently enjoyed herself, and at the close of the repast entertained the guests by singing a song of the olden days, an example which was followed by several others of the old folk. Dinner over, the whole party were photographed in order to retain a souvenir of the novel celebration. There were 35 persons present over 70 years old.

ON NEVILLE ISLAND.

Some Facts of Interest About Allegheny County's Garden.

LIGHT CROPS REPORTED THIS YEAR

The Island Will Soon Be Connected With the Main Land.

BY BRIDGE AND ELECTRIC RAILROAD

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCH.
SATURDAY, September 6, 1890.

The market reporter of THE DISPATCH was permitted to take a tour of Neville Island this week in company with one of the native gardeners. In the tour he learned a number of interesting facts which were entirely new to him, and doubtless will be to the majority of DISPATCH readers. The All China is yet to be saved. All India is yet | upper end of this historic island is about about six miles and width about onehalf mile. There are close to 1,000 acres under cultivation as market gardens. The worlds to conquer. I do not know but that | side, where the homes of the gardeners are located, the ground stands high above the highest water mark. In order to cover this north side of the island the water must reach the second-story of the Diamond market build-

> There are now on the island over 60 garden farms ranging from 25 to 60 acres each. The population is close to 800, all of whem obtain their subsistence from gardening.
> In the olden time the island was famous fo us, which were pushed to our city on canoes. Those days have passed away, principal crops.
> It is within bounds to say that no other section of the country of equal extent yields as much garden stuff for our markets as Neville Island. Every evening a flatboat is pushed along the northern shore and gathers up the product of the various gardens, and when filled is towed by a steamer to the Allegheny wharf at the foot of Fifth street, which is reached about midnight. There wagons are in readiness to haul the stuff to the Diamond markets. The > Cost of Transportation to market, including hauling, is at this time of the year 8c per bushel. In the early spring the cost is 12c, owing to light shipments. In the height of the season the steamer tows as many as three loaded flatboats, or an amount equal to 2,000 bushels or more. Monday and Friday evenings are the big days for shipments, but there is not an evening of the week at this seasor of the year, when the wharf of the island is not lined with baskets of tomatoes, island is not lined with baskets of tomatoes, roasting ears and pumpkins waiting the arrival of the flatboat. On the return trips the flatboats are commonly loaded with manure for the enriching of the island gardens. One of the gardeners reported that the used from 400 to 500 wagon loads of manure annually on less than 30 acres at a cost of $300 to $400. The chief profit to the gardener is in carly stuff. Assurance bels are measured by to $400. The chief profit to the gardener is in early stuff. Asparagus beds are measured by the acre, and the first fruits of this crop pay very handsome dividends. The first roasting ears and tomatoes also yield handsome returns, as Pittsburg is proverbially ready to catch on at high prices to home-raised vegetables which put in an early appearance. This season has been exceptional in the small amount of garden predicts. The early spring was too wet.

General Neville built on the upper end of the island, is now the kitchen of the Bragdon family, who for more than half century have been gardeners there.

Among the names which have been prominent for well on to a century are the Hamiltons, Coles and Chaplins. Mrs. Bragdon, who spent her honeymoon on the island over a half century ago, is still an occupant of the old mansion where John Neville dwelt a half century earlier. The oldest resident is Mrs. Chaplin, who is connected by marriage with the Craigs, who, in the early times, were connected with the Nevilles. There are two churches on the island, a Presbyterian and a Methodist, Preachers from the main land supply the pulpits twice ers from the main land supply the pulpits twice a mouth. The island has no store, no blacksmith shop, no physician or professional gentle-man of any kind. When a horse is to be shod the blacksmith must be taken from the main land or the horse taken over in a flat. This diffi-culty is expected soon to be overcome, as the bridge connecting the island with the southern shore will be completed before winter.

A New Thoroughfare. The present road is on the north side in front of gardeners' houses, extending the entire length. This is frequently encroached on by the river. A new avenue will soon be opened up in the center of the island, the entire length, on which an electric railroad will be built con-necting with the new bridge. Gardeners rehe near future will render them independent the near future will render them independent of the river for transportation of stuff.

The writer will ever cherish pleasant memories of his trip over Neville Island as well as of the hearty hospitality of the gardeners there. A summer hotel on the upper end has been frequently talked of, and certainly no point in this neighborhood furnishes better facilities for a pleasant summer outlog.

Corn was active but unsettled and fluctuating frequently within a le range. The influence on the market on the one side was the favorable weather and the free selling of May by two large local operators, which had a depressing influence. On the other hand the apprehensions of colder weather, a dispatch from St. Paul predicting a fall of 18 to 30 degrees, and the good buying for St. Louis account had a stimulating effect to the market. First trades were at a sight advance, after which a decline of % 2% was reached, then declined %, and again ruled firmer and closed with 1/20 c gain.
Oats were quiet and rather easier, especially for May, in which the bulk of the business transpired. Prices for the last named month fluctuated freely within a range of %c, and closed a shade lower.

Big Rise in Prices.

The cool nights of late have prevented tomatoes from ripening and prices have doubled up in the past ten days. A gardener who found it hard to get rid of his tomatoes at 75c a bushel.

There is no waste land on Neville Island. Scarcely a foot that is not arable. In the olden time, when it was owned by the Nevilles and Craigs, it was covered with very heavy timber, and the pioneers furnished the steamboats with the ruel which propelled them up and down the Ohlo. A part of the log cabin which General Neville built on the upper end of the island, is now the kitchen of the Eragdon family, who for work the hard is contained in the steamboats with the ruel which propelled them up and down the Ohlo. NEW YORK STOCKS.

Intensely Dull in Wall Street-Tame and Heavy Opening-Trusts Stagnant-Disappoinment in the Bond and Silver Purchases, NEW YORK, September 6.-The stock maring of quetations were again given up to the bearish traders, who were inclined to go slow, however. The expectation was that the bank tatement would show a further reduction in the surplus reserve, and the hope was not dis-

The opening was dull, tame and heavy, and first prices were generally from 1/4 to 3/4 per cent lower than last night's figures, but the changes in the first hour were very slight and even the weak stocks showed no marked weak-even the weak stocks showed no marked weakness.

Later however, the pressure became stronger, and in Illinois Central, Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western, and Burlington and Quincy material losses were sustained. Illinois Central became active and declined from 107% to 106%; Burlington from 99% to 98%, and Milwaukee. Lake Shore and Western preferred from 10734 to 106. The rest of the list followed, but the other changes still remained slight, and generally without significance. Even the Trusts were stagnant and showed no feature whatever. The market finally closed dull and heavy to weak at the lowest prices, which, in most cases, were only slight fractions under last night's figures. Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western preferred, however, is down 2 per cent, and Illinois Central and Burlington, after slight railies, 3/2 per cent each.

Central and Burlington, after slight railies, 3/2 per cent each.

The Post says: There has also been disappointment in regard to the effects of the bond and sliver purchases of the Treasury in releasing money. Those who have made elaborate calculations upon the figures of the monthly statement of the Treasury claim that all the sliver purchases so far have only put $1,300,000 of the new Treasury notes into circulation, partly because the new notes are issued in denominations too large for use; also that all the bond purchases in August to the amount of over $30,000,000 only resulted in the actual disbursement of about $21,000,000 up to August 31, and finally that the net addition to the circulating capital of the country from these disbursements in August was only a little over $5,000,000. The imports at the port of New York have fallen off very greatly in Auguss, but the Treasury is still an absorber of money.

HOME SECURITIES.

Outcome of the Week's Business-New Fee tures Scarce-Price Changes. Stock trading during the week was of the usual perfunctory sort, sales being compara-tively few and far between. Brokers showed their philosophy, however, by keeping in good spirits and hoping for a speedy turn in the tide.

A BLOW FROM THE BANKERS. Certain Points in the New Bill of Lading

Are Unsatisfactory.

CHICAGO, September 7.-It transpires that the Eastern banking houses are still unwilling to advance money on the new uniform bill of lading, and many of them firmly refuse to accept it as collateral for drafts notwithstanding the elimination of the non-negotiable provision. The reason fonthis is that its value as security is greatly impaired by other provisions, particularly the one which is designed to release the railroads from any liability for damage or loss of property during transportation. When the old form was in use the bankers knew that if the property which the paper represented was destroyed in transit, the shipper could recover from the carrier and thus meet his obligations, but the new form is especially intended to transfer this responsibility from the carrier to the shipper, and leave the lat-
