A large portion of the shipments were from Olean, N. As this question would take the case to the Supreme Court of the United States under the clause of the Constitution relating to inter-State commerce, whether decided for or against the plaintiffs, a delay and litigation of several years was in prospect. The railroad lawyers at this stage made a proposition to settle and compromise the claim, and on Wednesday evening a settlement was arrived at. The amount paid was by the re-quest of the railroad company to be kept se-cret. President Bobert, when on the wit-ness stand, diselayed the usual amount of eva-sion donvenient to corporation presidents in courts of justice. Controller Robert A. Downing also found it convenient to take refuge behind a faulty memory. Though he has been signing rebate checks in the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad since 1871, he could not remember what they were given for, although they footed up over $20,000 monthly in the years 1882 and 1883. most remarkable records have been by the per-formers coming from two or three great farms where no expense or sacrifice has been too great, provided it brought the most brilliant results; while in Kentucky some of the fastest and best horses have been bred by small breeders who have enjoyed no extraordinary facilities for breed-ing or developing trotters. As the California youngsters are as fully developed at 8 years old as Kentucky colts and filies at 4, it is no matter of wonder that a greater number of 3-year-old horses enter the 2.30 list in Cali-fornia than in Kentucky. Another feature in California performences is that, owing to the fine antumn weather in that State, horses can be kept in training much longer than in Kenwanted something that had been tried, and to which no legal or constitutional objec-tion could be urged. When they recovered from their confusion, they always insisted in going back, explaining and apolo-gizing for their absent-mindedness, while Pre-ident Harrison listened with a patient smile. General Ekin, too, created a diversion by posing as President, in spite of himself, for several minutes; for, although he good-nat-uredly told the soldiers he was not the Presi-dent, they still insisted on grasping his hand. The reception lasted about half an hour, after which a serenade was given the Presi-dent, while he stood with his family in the cor-ner of the front plazza. The band stood below, and around it the eager people pressed, gazing up at the President open-mouthed. A medley of national airs preceded the President's speech. Then Mr. Harrison said: "I thank my comrades for the greeting that you have given me. The President with much feeling concluded his remarks as follows: "Now my comrades who have suffered and still suffer for your country, I wish in this world all good to you and your dear ones, and in the world to come joy everiasting." As he concluded, Harry Darlington, of Pittsburg, forcing his way to the front, started a vociferous cheer, which was echoed eagerly by the thousands round, and, acknowledging the compliment with a bow, the President retired. "Baby McKee" was called, but the little grandson was just then busy playing under the trees around the Park cotrage. The soldiers followed the President to his home, and again, while he stood in the door-way with little Henjamin on his shoulders, the

Four Witnesses Give Evidence in the Case of Wilson, Accused of Murder,

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.I BELLEFONTE. September 13.-The alleged murderer of Harry Waterhouse was brought to court to-day before Judge Fursten on a writ of habeas corpus. The prisoner, who gives his name as John Wilson, is defended by W. F.

Ruder, law partner of General Hastings, and C. P. Hewes. District Attorney Meyer is as-sisted in the prosecution by Hon. John H. Orvis.

Orvis, The evidence given by the four witnesses ex-amined was entirely sufficient, so it was thought, and he was beld without bail to be tried at the November term of court. The evi-dence, as told by an attornay, shows it to be a cold-blooded murder of an innocent man.

All Work in the Dunbar Mines Stopped Until the Fire is Smothered.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATUR. DUNBAR, September 18 .- After a long and wearisons fight, the people of the Dunbar Fur-nace Company have been obliged to give up their fight against the fire. They have found their fight azainst the fire. They have found that the idea of running a pipe to the fire in the mine for the purpose of running water to the seat of the fiame is of no avail. The trouble seemed to be that the water caused a tremen-dous generation of steam which came from the red-hot stones, and caused the workingmen to cease from their labors.

All hands will now wait, while the mines are closed up, until the fire is smothered out, which will likely take a long time.
