

AWARD DROWNED. The Celebrated Fighter, Osman Pasha, Goes Down to the Bottom of the Sea WITH 500 OTHER TURKS.

A Man-of-War Sinks after a Career Abounding in Mishaps.

STARVATION NARROWLY AVERTED. And Officers Several Times on the Verge of Rebellion.

CAREER OF THE NOTED WAR MINISTER. By the founding at sea of a Turkish man-of-war 500 persons are reported to have been drowned.

LONDON, September 19.—An ocean disaster, attended with terrible loss of life, was reported to-day. Advice from Higo state that the Turkish man-of-war Erzengul was foundered at sea, and that 500 of her crew were drowned.

Oman Pasha, whose victory over the Russians at Plevna gave him a high rank as a fighting general, was on board, and was lost. He had been on an official visit to Japan, having been entrusted with a special mission from the Sultan to the Mikado.

The progress of the Erzengul since she left Constantinople for the East many months ago, has been a most undignified and ludicrous one.

ENDING OF MANY ADVENTURES. Leaving Turkey short of money it was understood that supplies were to be sent for her use to the ports at which she was to call with the result that her sojourn in those countries was indefinitely prolonged, as the officers at home were not able to keep their promise.

In this way she lost some of her crew, and her officers were many times on the verge of rebellion induced by starvation, while the Governors of the cities visited refused to remit harbor dues and grant other privileges that were of right due her as a Turkish man-of-war.

On the ground that she was not sailing in that character there was not powder enough on board to enable her crew to fire the regulation salutes.

After many adventures, only worthy of an opera bouffe navy, the Erzengul finally arrived in Japanese waters, and it was on her return voyage that the disaster occurred.

OSMAN'S EARLY LIFE. Ghazi Pasha was born at Tokat, Asia Minor, in 1822. He was educated in Constantinople, graduating from the military school in 1835. He entered the army as a Lieutenant in the cavalry service in the beginning of the Crimean war, on the staff of Shumla. He was made a Captain of the Imperial Guard at Constantinople at the close of the campaign, for gallant action. Then he was made Major and served with honor from 1856 to 1859 in Crete. When Crete was subdued he was made Colonel, and then was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General and placed in command of a division of the Fifth Army Corps. This was in 1875. In the Turco-Servian war he commanded the division of the Turkish army at Widdin, and at its close was made Muschir or Field Marshal.

At the beginning of the war with Russia he was placed in command of 68 battalions, 16 squadrons and 174 guns, and with this force he won the great victory at Plevna, July 1877. He received his title of Ghazi, or "The Victorious," in consequence of the decoration of the Osmani, set in brilliant.

A GENERAL AND MINISTER. In December Plevna was surrounded by Russian troops, and he made an effort to break through them. He was defeated, and on December 10, 1877, surrendered unconditionally with 40,000 men and 400 cannon. Peace was restored in 1878, and in March of that year he was put in command of the Imperial Guard of Constantinople and made Marshal of the Palace. He was placed in charge of the defenses of Constantinople. He served for a time as Governor General of Crete, and then was made Minister of War. While in this office he remembered the army. He was appointed administrator in succession to Mustafa, Faud and Neisret, but succeeded in clearing himself before the Sultan and Council of Ministers. He had acquired great influence over the Sultan. To his influence was attributed the dismissal of the Grand Vizier Khereddin Pasha.

Osman was relieved of the office of Minister in July, 1880, but the following year he regained his post.

GALVESTON IN RAPTURES. Happy Over the Signing of the Deep Water Bill. GALVESTON, September 19.—This city is wild with enthusiasm to-night over the receipt of the news that the President has signed the deep water bill, which practically gives $5,000,000 for the improvement of her harbor. The Mayor has issued a proclamation doing away with all restrictions as to the discharge of fireworks, and the city is illuminated with pyrotechnics. Terrible processions crowd the streets, brass bands and tin horns add to the din, and every citizen appears intoxicated with joy.

The appropriation will make Galveston a first-class seaport, which besides giving great prosperity to this city, will insure cheap ocean freights for Denver and all the country west of the Mississippi.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS ARRESTED. Indictments Against Alleged St. Paul and Minneapolis Voters. MINNEAPOLIS, September 19.—The United States grand jury this evening returned 19 indictments against alleged census takers in this city and in St. Paul, 6 for Minneapolis and 13 for St. Paul. The six Minneapolis enumerators were arrested to-night and gave $5,000 bail each.

Death From a Singular Cause. HEADING, September 19.—Henry Wandcroft, of Princeton, this county, died yesterday, literally starving to death. His teeth first commenced to ache, and four weeks ago his throat closed entirely, and although he often tried for water and food, he was unable to swallow any. He lives a widow and nine children.

COLONEL DAVIS HONORED.

HE IS ELECTED DIRECTOR GENERAL OF THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Now the Voting Stand—Headline Second in the Line of Some of the Interesting Points in the Career of the Successful Candidate.

CHICAGO, September 19.—When the National World's Fair Commissioners began to ballot to-day for a Director General, Colonel George R. Davis received 50 votes, Hastings 32, McKinzie 6, Stevenson 3, Price 1, 14 commissions not voting. On motion of Mr. McClelland, of Pennsylvania, the vote was dispersed with the exception of the election of Mr. Davis made unanimous by acclamation.

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

Colonel Davis was brought in by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a brilliant thank-you concert was given for the honor conferred, and added that he appreciated the fact that he had been chosen by a commission equally divided in politics, and that his election would keep that fact in mind. His conduct in office would be free from par-

WRECK AFTER WRECK.

Continued from First Page.

der broken; Frank B. Hall, manager of Frank May's Dramatic Company, cut about head and body, bruised about arms and legs; John Carroll, St. Clair, back hurt and internally injured; Joseph Ashford, Mahanoy City, bruised about body and legs; William Glassmeyer, Port Clinton, badly cut about the breast; Thomas Quincy, Philadelphia, back and legs injured; Eobert C. Pottswill, injured internally; Samuel Sholenberger, Hamburg, legs injured; W. C. Cribler, Girardville, foot and leg injured; John Cook, Mount Carmel, internally and hand mangled; N. J. Johnston, Shenandoah, head badly cut and leg broken; George Sanders, Reading, badly hurt about back and neck; Benjamin Beecher, Shenandoah, left hip badly cut and leg hurt; James Bernhart, Shenandoah, left hip crushed and legs hurt; John Hess, Mahanoy City, legs badly hurt; David G. Young, Mahanoy City, head badly cut and legs sprained; Lyman Dick, Hamburg, both legs broken; Dr. B. F. Salade, New Birmingham, right arm and hand injured; Jacob C. Pottswill, both legs broken; Samuel Come, Mahanoy City, badly hurt about body, and leg broken; William Sumers, Ashland, badly hurt.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL. The special train which was sent from Reading to Shenandoah with a corps of physicians arrived here at 10 o'clock to-night with the injured and killed who resided here and south of Reading and they were taken to the Reading Hospital, where they were cared for here. The first of the arrival of the train with the injured hundreds rushed to the place within a few squares of the hospital. Though a special train had been organized it was not very long before it became generally known and it was with the greatest difficulty that the injured were removed from the train.

When the train reached here it was to lead every assistance, and in a short time the two dozen cots and ambulances had safely delivered their mangled freight in the hospital, where they were anxiously looked to the hospital to learn if any of their number had been injured, but it was impossible under the excitement to admit anyone, the exact result of the wrecking will not be known even to the families of the injured before to-morrow.

At 10 o'clock a telephone message from the wreck gives very indefinite particulars as to what was killed and injured, and all that can be ascertained is from the Coroner and the one newspaper representative on the grounds.

OFFICIALS RETICENT. The railroad officials refuse to give any information as to the wreck, beyond the fact that there was a bad wreck. It is believed that arrangements will be made with the Pennsylvania Company to carry the passengers to the Eighth Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field. He took a leading part in 1862. The wreck of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State.

Colonel Davis was nominated by the Republicans of the old Second district for the Forty-fifth Congress. While being defeated he ran ahead of the Presidential ticket in 1856. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and was the first Colonel of the First Infantry and senior colonel of the State. He was a member of the public school education and took a classical course at Easthampton, Mass., where he graduated in 1860. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1862. He was in the service of his country, being an officer in the United Army most of the time he was in the service. He was captain of a company in the Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry and a toward Major of the Third Rhode Island Cavalry, commanding the regiment the most of its service in the field.

He was