William Bissell and George Gillen Have a Desperate Battle on a Boat Yesterday Morning.

THE M'KEESPORT MAN WINS.

An Accident Ends the Fight and the Men Are Carried Away Battered, Bruised and Helpless.

RYAN DEFEATS DOYLE IN 27 ROUNDS

Local Football Players to Begin Practice at Exposition Park To-Day.

What the pugilistic talent would call a "rattling" prize fight took place early yesterday morning, between William Bissell, of McKeesport, and George Gillen, of Mansfield. It is some time since a local fistic argument was traught with so many features of old-time bruising as the one in question, and the few who saw it couldn't well desire to see livelier scenes of gore. The battle was for $200 a side and $300 of gate receipts. Queensberry rules governed and two-ounce gloves were used. The battle ground was on a boat "far from the madding crowd." Nobody aboard the boat seemed to be able to tell just where it was located when the fight took place. It was on the Ohio river, but whether it was in Ohio, Pennsylvania or West Virginia waters was a puzzle that nobody could solve.

There were about 110 spectators at the fight, made up of all sorts and conditions of men from the honest politician to the chuck-a-luck manipulator. Of the number named 60 paid $5 each to board the boat. The "crowd" left Union depot at 1295 yesterday morning, and journeved to Rochester, where the boat was bourneyed. Once aboard all was serene, as re-fre-himonts and flasks were numerous. The boat steamed off, and was soon enveloped in a dense for. The principals were put to bed, and during their rest of about three hours there were lots of fun.

THE BRUISING STARTS.

Shortly after 4 lo'clock the brusers and their seconds appeared in a ring formed on the bare deck of the boat. The ring was about 21 feet. William Simpson was selected to carry out the very thanktess duties of referee. Bissell was attended by a McKeesport man, while a Mans attended by a McKeesport man, while a Mansfield citizen esquired Gillen. The latter weighed 167% pounds, and Bissell was a pound heavier. Gillen certainly looked in the better condition, as Bissell was much too finely drawn. This fact nearly lost the McKeesport man the battle. Just before the proceedings started betting was brisk at $10 to 85 on Bissell. The referred introduced the contestants and added: "Now, gentlemen, we want no remarks. These two men are friendly, but are going to night. We want no more. D've hear that? This oratorial effort was greeted with cheers, but the noise which subsequently followed showed that there was no respect at all for the referree, and the hattered faces and brulsed bodies showed that theirs must have been a very funny friendship.

The battle lasted five rounds or nearly 20 minutes and for banging, thumping, sma-hing and rolling over few if any have excelled it. From start to finish the contestants simply red away at each other's bodies and face without intermission except during the minute at end of each round; indeed, it was surprising that human mature under the circumstances could haid out so long.

THERE WAS LITTLE SCIENCE. The first round showed that neither man had away at each other just like two energetic blacksmiths at work. Bissell, to use a phrase, handled himself much better than the young man from Mansfield, but the latter insisted on giving one in return for everyone he got. He sed his right hand with great success, while issed his right hand with great success, while Bissell kept pegging away at Bissell's ribs. Whatever honor their was in first blood Gillen got it by cutting Bissell's mouth. The round ended in favor of Gillen, and even money was bet on his chances of victory.

In the pext round, however, Gillen was almost beaten into a helpless mass. His face was knocked out of shape and his body bruised. Once or twice he stood dized and exhausted amid the yells of his friend-urging the poor fellow on. He rallied and thumped the poor fellow on. He rallied and thumped Bissell around until the latter's mouth and eyes were awful to look at. The argument continued, and in the third round Gillen ap-peared more vigorous than ever. He fought Bissell round and round the ring, knocking his face into a mass of blood, Bissell now his face into a mass of blood, Bissell now stood scill, with his hands down, and looked a most pitiable object,

AN EXCITING SCENE.

His wind had failed bim, but Gillen was actually so stupid and blind himself that, instead of going in cutirely for Bisseil's gore, he made his way to Bissell's corner, the opposite direc-tion to where Bissell was standing. The yells and shouts of the crowd were deafening Gillen had a chance to settle the affair, but his he didn't know which way to turn. They closed again, and Bissell was knocked to his knees by a swinting right thand blow. From this stage on the affair was simply a question of brute strength. Each blindly strock out at the other as long as human nature would stand it. Clinch after clinch took place amid the most Indian-like yells of the crowd. Both men were cut and bleeding terribly and when the fifth round was half through Gillen really seemed to have more life in him than his opponent. They were as glan to clinch as a drowning man is to grasp a life body, and during one of their clinches near the rones they both toppled over the rype, Gillen undermost. His head struck the deck violently and he became anconscious. He lay in that condition for nearly a minute and the fight was awarded to Bissell. Oh! what wild scenes followed.

ANOTHER BRUTAL BATTLE.

Tommy Ryan Defeats Con Doyle in a Desperate Prize Fight.

CHICAGO, October 5.-One of the most brutal fistic encounters on record took place this morning to a barn near Shelby, Ind., a small town about 75 miles from Chicago. The con-testants were Tommy Ryan, of Grand Rapids, lightweight champion of Michigan, and Con Doyle, a local pugilist of Chicago. The fight was for a purse of $500, to a finish, with two-

Billy Meyer, who was to second Ryan, tele-graphed from Peoria late last night that he would not be present, owing to having missed the train. George Siddons and Billy Richards acted as Ryan's seconds, and Harry Gilmore and Frank Girard did the honors for Doyle; Malachi Hogan acted as referee.

lasted 27 rounds, was for blood from the start. Ryan was evidently the more scientific of the two, managing to avoid Dovle's heavy left-handers, and in truth hammering Dovle's face and body almost into mince meat. Before time was called in the twenty-eighth round, Doyle, whose eyes were nearly closed, jumped from his seat, staggered toward Ryan's corner almost crazed, wanting to fight it out in rough and tumble style. Gilmore then threw up the sponge, and Ryan was declared the winner. The mill lasted I hour and 55 minutes. Will Start in To-Day.

The members of the Allegheny Athletic Club will commence football practice at Exposition Park this afternoon. A good turnout is expected, if the weather is fine, as the practice is to enable the committee to select a team for next Saturday's game. The new club is boom-ing, and members' subscriptions are flowing in much faster than even the most sanguine ex-pected. The entrance fees of ten new mem-bers were received on Saturday, and more are expected this week. Secretary Dansen states that there is more money in the club's treasury new than will pay the season's expenses.

A Challenge to Feder,

The following challenge of a somewhat novel nature was received at this office last evening: "Seeing that Mr. Foden, who is to appear at the Academy of Music this week, claims to be the champion one-hand balancer of the world, I am prepared to balance him in that style for a gold medal; that is, I will undertake to duplicare his tricks better than he can duplicate mine. I will contest against him in private in presence of two umpires and a referee and a few friends on each side, or I will meet him in public. I will meet Mr. Foden at The Dis-PATCH office at II o'clock Tuesday night, "JOHN TOPD."

This is only contingent, however, upon a bona fide sale of Mr. Stern's holding, for he cannot dispose of the franchise which the League holds for Cincinnati."

Mr. Young intunates that when the League plans are perfected at the coming meeting, their announcement is likely to surprise its opponents.

It is not unsafe to say that newspaper rumors will have almost every good hall player in the country signed with our local clubs before next April. THE manager of the Times hine states that his club was not defeated on Saturday by the Greenville team. The Times nine did not play at all on Saturday.

It is stated that a foot race between a "new arrival" in Uniontown and "Cherry," of Brownsville, for $750 a side is to take place at the latter place Thursday.

PRESIDENT J. EARLE WAGNER, of the Phila-delphia (P. L.) club, says he will attend the Na-tional League (onference in New York on Thurs-day next. He wasn't joking, either.

BURKETT has not yet signed with the New York club. Mr. Day says he wanted $500 advance money, which is too much. It is probable, though, that Jesse will sign this week.

Lively Times at the New York Cus-

Receipts Double the Usual Amount for the Entire Week,

NEW YORK, October 5 .- Keeping the Custom House open until midnight last night, it is estimated by careful authorities, saves the merchants and others $250,000 and costs Uncle Sam that much. So great was the interest to have goods entered not later than yesterday that entire invoices in all their details were cabled from Europe. This was done because captains of steamships can enter them at the Custom House much quicker than merchants can receive their invoices, which usually arrive on the same steamship as the goods. Great was the joy of the importers and of the Iuman people when the City of Chicago came racing into quarantine at 5 o'clock. The agents of the line had a tug ready. Captain Redford slid over the side of the duties under the new law. steamship, and the tug, with full steam up, ploughed the waters of the lower bay, and made about the fastest record of any tug to the Barge Office. A cab was there for Captain Redford, and he was driven lickity split to the Custom House. He was in his uniform, and he grasped the vessel's entry papers as he strode into the rotunda. He of howling brokers and merchants and importers who had goods on the City of Chicago. In response to their cheers he lifted his cap, and in another moment he plumped the papers down on to the desk of Deputy Collector Gunner, who, with Chief Clerk Dunn, was awaiting his arrival. They were quickly signed, and the brokers, after giving another cheer for the captain, flocked deluged him with their entries for goods on

In the height of the hubbub another rolling cheer went up as Captain Grund-tiech, of tde St. Regulus, came in with his papers of entry for his steamship. He had been taken off in a tug at quarantine. The papers were signed, and recorded a second piece of luck of the Inman people. The St. Regulus is a regular Red Star boat, but for this trip she has been chartered by the Inman Company. The brokers and mer-chants and importers having goods on her poured in their entries on Deputy Stan-wood, and he, with his chief clerk, Judge Quackenbush, made things hum in passing

All this time the brokers and importers having goods on the Etruria were in terrible suspense. She had not been sighted, and the delay in her arrival would cost these merchants many thousands of dollars. They did not despair, even though they knew that it was a five-hour trip from Fire Island to quarantine, and it was then after 6 o'clock, and the Custom House would surely be closed at midnight. The same anxiety was felt about the Zaandam, but nothing had been heard of this ship, either. NO TIME TO SEE THE COMTE.

Collector Erhardt sent his excuses to General Butterfield, the host of the Comte de Paris, for the dinner at the Union Club, and went out and got what he says was the coldest duck he ever tasted. "It tasted like tal-low," he remarked. His special deputy, Mr. Couch, went to his home in Brooklyn, but both were back at their desks by 8 o'clock. Deputy Phelps was on hand, and he probably had the most peculiar experience of the day. Many of the importers, in order to make sure of their position, wanted to pay in eash the duties on the goods which were entered for a collect vestered to the bour from after 3 o'clock yesterday, the hour from made. the goods entered after the closing of the cashier's office. The importers had big rolls of $1,000 bills with them, and they thrust them into the face of Mr. Phelps, begging him to accept them and give them receipts. All told they fired at him $300,000. Indeed, the importers were almost frantic when the deputy re-fused to accept their money and informed them that inasmuch as their entries were all right it was not necessary to tender him the money, but to hand it to the cashier today. But many of them were so urgent as to insist upon the deputy giving them writ-ten notices to the effect that they had ten-dered the duties and that they had been reiused. A number of dry goods men had been waiting at the Cunard pier and at the Bowling Green office of the line to hear from the steamer. The Etruria plowed on her way to quarantine, where a tug was waiting to take off Captain Haines. A cab with two fast horses was also waiting at the Battery to receive was also waiting at the Battery to receive the Captain as soon as he landed. The Eturia reached quarantine at 11 o'clock. The crowd in the rotunda during the evening way, if anything, more dense than that which filled it during the afternoon, and the wait for the incoming of the expected steamers was a long and dreary one. The importers had made special arrangements for bringing Captain Haines, of the Etruria, to the Custom House as soon as he landed at the Barge Office, and Deputy Collector Gunner, of the Navigation division, expected him at 11:15 o'clock.

From that time on all the brokers had their watches in their hands, and their eyes turned toward the door.

It was about the closest shave on record, and Captain Haines amply deserved the enthusiastic cheers that White People Advised to Allow Colored People to Entertain President Harrison Alone-Mr. Harrison Accused of Snubbing White People While on His Hunting Trip.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 RICHMOND. VA., Ogtober 5.-A good deal of comment has been caused here by the following bitter editorial on President Harrison in the Richmond State:

Harrison in the Richmond State:

Some months ago President Harrison entered the borders of Virginia and did some hog shooting. A few Richmond gentlemen went aboard his vacht and tendered an him invitation to dine in this city. In return for their courtesy they were snubbed by the President, whose general conduct on that occasion indicated a want of breeding, for which a corn-field negro would have been tabooed by his associates. While the visitors were aboard the yacht the President was summoned to dinner, and he and his friends coolly turned away from the Richmonders without even asking them to Richmonders without even asking them to oin in the repast. Thus it is seen that President Harrison, while willing to snub the white men of Richmond, graciously accepts the invitation of the colored men of Richmond. In view of this fact, it is hoped that white citizens will not intrude themselves upon his Excellency. If they do, and get snubbed, they will only get what they deserve. He will be the guest of the colored people of this town. Of course Richmond housekeepers should not interfere if their cooks, butlers, chambermaids and washerwomen choose to entertain Mr. Harriif their cooks, butlers, chambermaids and washerwomen choose to entertain Mr. Harrison in the kitchen. Pot liquor and fried cabbage, middling and any other dishes especially tickling to the newly-enfranchised palate, may not be unwelcome to the Presidental taste. No considerate Richmond housekeeper will begrudge the colored servants the pleasure of a social time with their friend from Washington. The nurse will doubtless be allowed an evening off, no hot supper will be demanded from the cook, and the chambermaid will be permitted an early absence to join with her chum, the washerwoman, in the alley soirce, where she will have the pleasure of meeting Mr. Harrison. He will come in by the back gate. If he wishes to see the gentlemen of the house he must take off his hat and wipe his feet carefully upon the mat, then wait until he is spoken to. This is the only way for Richmond white men to receive Benj. Harrison this time.

Mr. Gladstone has reminded the world that "separated milk" is a highly nourishing and most valuable article of food. present immense quantities of it which could not be put to better use than in aiding the direct food supplies of the population are thrown to the pigs or disposed of at nominal rates for mixed trade purposes. Separated milk, it is almost needles to say, Separated milk, it is almost needles to say, contains all the milk except the fat, which is converted into butter. Now, fat is a very necessary thing for infants, for children and necessary thing for infants, for children and necessary thing for infants, and the same of and adults can easily find other means of getting the required hydrocarbon, either in the form of suet, lard, sugar or jam.

Very few people, perhaps, know how large a part cheap jam plays in the feeding of the poor school child. The cheapness of sugar and the great abundance of cheap fruit preserve are playing a most important and, indeed, an invaluable part in the feeding of the children of the artisan, the laborer and the cottager. It is surprising, but satisfactory, to see nowadays how the child brings to school a hank of bread and jam. There is no better form of hydro-carbon. Separated milk and cheap jam are additions of vast national importance to our dietary; and not for children alone. Hence the advice to the cottager diligently to cultivate his fruit trees, and to hold separated milk in high esteem, is as sound economic and physiological advice as a statesman can give, and he does well who lends to it the emphasis of popular power.
