A WEB OF EVIDENCE

BEING WOVEN AROUND WEST, THE AL

LEGED MURDERER.

Letters and Discoveries That Corroborate

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Pa., October 7 .- The West murder trial was resumed at 9 o'clock.

Dr. French testified that all three of the inquest held after the murder; that the search of the house revealed $346 60 hidden in different places; that there were some evi-dences of the house having been searched.

The letter found in West's trunk, a tender missive to Miss Anna Brundage, was presented in evidence. Alpheus Crawford testified that the prisoner had been treated as a friend by the murdered family. The testimony of other witnesses tended to prove that West knew of the sums of money kept in the house.

of May. West had presented an order from his uncle, Basil Barker, for $4 50. He paid him the money, and the order afterward proved to be a forgery. This was corroborated by Barker

'Squire McCormick, who had impaneled the jury, gave some interesting testimony con-cerning the discoveries at the house, and corcerning the discoveries at the house, and corroborated much testimony that had been given previously. Witness testified that the search made in the house revealed about $346 in money and almost $2.000 in notes and papers.

Squire McCormick's testimony from the foreman of the Coroner's jury, A. T. Bayard. He noticed a churn partly filled with butter and milk at the house of the Crouches on the morning after the murder. This churn was sitting just outside the kitchen door. Mayor Houston, of Monongahela City, testified to having seen the contents of a trunk that West had taken with him to Beaver Falls. Other witnesses testified that West was acquainted with the Crouch family and had frequently been at the house—several times in recent years. West accompanied Andrew Crouch to the house and got money with which to pay the hilled hands. He knew where the family kept their money, and had often said he liked to work for them because they had plenty of money.

had plenty of money.

Testimony was introduced by persons from ville on foot.

Testimony was then introduced showing that tracks had been made about the Crouch residence, which led from West's home to the homestead, and from there by a roundabout route to Monongahela City. There West met Annie Brundage again. The shoes that were found in West's trunk at Beaver Falls were identified, and it was conclusively proven that the tracks were made by the shoes or ones exactly like them.

Much tesumony was introduced concerning the mojive for the perpetration of the crime.

Much testimony was introduced concerning the motive for the perpetration of the crime. In the afternoon it was proved that West had been seen going to Monongaheia City on the night of the murder; that he shunned people, and that he lied about his errand to Bentleysville. Thomas Coyle was the principal witness up to the hour of adjournment, who had identified West on his way to Monongahela City.

said he was sorry their welcome to this city should be such a wet one, and yet, he thought there was something appropriate, in it, too, for in three days the Catholics would celebrate the anniversary of Father Mathew, the great Catholic temperance advocate. On motion of Father Walters, of New York, a committee was appointed to draft a messace to be cabled to the Pope at Rome, informing him of the meeting and asking his blessing. After the reading of various reports the convention took

WARD'S NINE BEATS THE PITTSBURGS,

Results of the Leading Turf Events and General Sporting News of the Day

The organization known in and about Pittsburg as the "United Hunting, Fishing and Camping Clubs" is almost extinct. This may be a surprise to many people, but it is none the less true. Such clubs as the Pittsburg Rod and Gun Club, the Lotus and the Keystone Clubs have quietly dropped out of membership, and there is now nothing left of the once famous "United" but a few small clubs. The almost total destruction of the "United" concerns thousands of people in Pittsburg and counties adjacent to Alleghenv county. The camping and hunting season has just ended, and after all the excitement of the excursions there is a wery strong regret that the general organiza-tion is likely to go out of existence. It has done service, and good service, during its operations, and because it could not do something beyond the law of the laud the lag clubs have left it. A prominent member of the Pittsburg Rod and Gun Club said last evening:

"I tear our general organization is gone. Be-"I fear our general organization is gone. Because it could not get special railroad rates in opposition to the inter-State commerce law, lots of clubs have left it. At present it is really dead. It has done good, because we now have a fish warden and other methous of protecting fishing and sporting interests that would have never been had the United not existed. I hope that the big clubs that have dropped out of membership will return, because we can do a great amount of good by being

n attempt will be made shortly to resuscithe club at once. The local fishing clubs crally, that have had excursions during the once, are all delighted with their trips. As de the clubs have been in the old direction, among the lakes. The Pittsburg Rod Gun Club has been an exception. That went to Chesapeake Bay and enjoyed the water. Next year the club will so there again. It is a deviation from the old rule, but the members of the club think that a trip to the place named is one of the finest treats they could possibly have. Already the club has en-gaged a schooner for $40 per day. It has ac-commonations for more than all the club, and wife left for I was built three years ago at a cost of $6,000. The members of the club will publish their refort pointing out the pleasures of a seaside

Bespite the fact that the United is not altogether in existence the regular reports of the clobs that have had excursions will be printed. They will appear shortly.
