FILLED THE PULPITS.

Visiting Divines Give Local Presbyterian Pastors a Rest.

SERMONS DELIVERED ON FAITH.

Remarkable Old Text. HUMAN SIDE OF THE DIVINE NATURE

Dr. Roberts Selects a Very Familiar, but Yesterday was a day of unusual interest in the churches of Pittsburg and Allegheny. In most of the Presbyterian churches the pulpits were filled at both services by memhers of the Committee on Revision of the Westminster Confession of Faith, now in session in this city. Notwithstanding the uppleasant weather, large and appreciative audiences were in attendance to listen to the noted divines.

There were special features of interest in one or two of the churches. Captain Innes, who is now popular in Pittsburg as the leader of the celebrated Thirteenth Regiment Band, played selections from the "Stabal Mater." at the morning service in the Church of the Ascension. Mrs. Fricke, one of Pittsburg's best sopranes, and one of the foremost members of the Mozart Club, sang a solo in St. John's Episcopal Church ast evening, "Jesus, Saviour of My Soul," by Rubenstein. At the Bellefield Church, Rev. W. C. Roberts, D. D., L.L. D., President of Lake Forest University, Chicago, and Chairman of the Revision Committee, preached in the morning with his usual vigor and to the pleasure and delight of a large audience. In the evening Rev. Willis R. Beecher, D. D., LL. D., of the Auburn Theological Seminary, preached.

LOCAL PASTORS GIVEN A REST. Interest was added to the morning services at the Shadyside Church by the appearance of Rev. S. J. Nicolls, D. D., of St. Louis, and a number of the Revision Committee, who relieved the pastor, Rev. R. T. Holmes, of his usual duty.

Faith being one of the chief graces of mankind and the principal characteristic of the Presbyterians, and Pittsburg one of the strongholds of Presbyterians, it is not range that so many of the ministers should have brought this subject out in their ser- the Central Presbyterian Church, Almons. All of the noted pasters now in the city, with the Revision Committee, who preached vesterday and last night either made Faith a part of their subjects or reterred to it in some way during the course of

It is 23 years since Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D., now professor of sacred rhetoric in the McCormick Seminary, Chicago, was the paster of the Third Church, Sixth ave-It was during the time he had charge of the congregation that the present hand-some edifice was erected, and at no time in the history of the congregation was it more successful than under his pastorate. He is ene of the brightest and most valuable members of the Revision Committee. He preached yesterday morning in the Third Church, taking for his subject the "Resurrection of Lazarus, or How to Empty a Spiritual Sepulcher."

Dr. Johnson treated the raising of Lazarus first, claiming that praver, faith and effort brought him from the grave. The di-vine quickening and the human effort consequent exercised and Lazarus came forth. The

It is the duty of the church to raise them. take them away from evil associations, roll away the stone that confines them in the the Second Presbyterian Church. After the darkness and lift them into the light. There are thousands of men in the tombs because their riends have not rolled away the stone.
In the evening Dr. Johnson preached in Beecher announced as his text the twentythe Second Church on Penn avenue. Here sixth, twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth the took for his subject, "The Relation of verses of the third chanter of David and Christian Works to Heavenly Rest," and treated it in an able manner. He started out by saying that Heaven is not so far away as some people believe, and that this world might be made more like Heaven if the people only would. The Christian's works prove the genuineness of his faith in the Son of Love. They furnish the sources of rewards of rest and carrying something into Heaven by which the Christian's rest is intensified. His works are immortal as well as himsel, and give the Christian capital with which to go to Heaven. Toil and weariness may well be borne in view of the rest to come.

These, and other lessons, the eminent divine drew in a forcible manner from his

WEAKNESS AND STRENGTH. Circumstances Under Which Man is Driven

From God in Fear. Rev. S. B. McCormick preached last night in the Central Presbyterian Church, Allegheny, on the subject, "Elijah at Horeb." During the course of his sermon Mr. McCorunek said:

"Elijah and fled to the juniper tree and from there to Mr. Horeb, after gaining a ictory over the priests at Banl. He had fled in the reaction and despondency that came because of the threats of Jezebel. Whatever answer Elijah might make we can answer that he was there first to show the grandeur and the weakness of man in different circumstances. Peter was grand in occlaring his intentions not to deny his Moster, but in a little while he was the weakest of men and denied Him. Alexder Hamilton was one of the grandest statesmen in the country, and yet he was weak enough to set himself up as a target for Burr. So Elijah was magnificent on Carmel, but the next day he fled before a wicked queen.

"Second-He was there to show that God's ways are not man's ways. Elijah was the prophet of destruction. He deciared rain should not fall for the space of three years, and he caused the destruction of the priests of Baal. But here at Horeb God caused the wind, the earthquake and the fire, which represented Elljah's methods, to pass by, and He was not in them. He was in a still smail voice.

Third-Elijah was on Mt. Horeb to show how weak a man is when he lets go his use elevator. hold on God. By his faith on Carmel he brought down fire. It was when he looked to what he had done that he fled away in fear. It is so with the Christian, It only when he holds by a firm faith in God that he can accomplish anything."

A REMARKABLE OLD TEXT

Dr. Roberts took for his text a verse that is truth and beauty. In this great passage in Hebrews it is said that God can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. This do not mean that the human contains or ncloses God. The human touches God as a cape the continent, or a drop the ocean. But the divine incloses the human. There are points where the divine and human mingle.

Why is it degrading to impute to God human feelings? May there not be in the divine soul the gamut of all feelings? The profoundest philosopher may carry a child's feeling, and by this may attract children to him, but the little circle of the child's feeling cannot measure the wide zones of thought in the philosopher's brain. But

God. There is no sorrow in our hearts

But men say, how does this tenderness of God comport with the sorrow, the wastes, the tragedies of life? These come often because of the unswerving laws. Nature must be firm and true, water must drown and fire burn, and disease must destroy, or man could not become the educated man. It is because that nature is ever the same he learns to sail the seas, use the fires and conquer the disease. There is no real waste or tradegy. The atoning compensations ever go on. The Johnstown flood was not so large as the flood of sympathy which came after it, and, moreover, it taught the whole world a lesson of providence. The idea of evolution shows that the whole universe is moving, though with many pangs, toward the better, the divine soul ever incarnative itself in music, beauty truth and tenderness.

First, that man is responsible for his own salvation. These men had an opportunity to repent, but their destruction was their own. There was the Master weeping be-
