The Exposition Directors Will Not Extend the Big Show.

PROGRAMME FOR AMERICAN NIGHT

Voters Want a Bureau of Information Under City Supervision.

SOME THINGS THE PEOPLE GO TO SEE

There have been any number of petitions sent to Manager Johnston, of the Exposition Society, asking that the big show be extended, but they will have no effect, as the Board of Directors has decided not to keep the Expo open one day more than first ndvertised.

The directors believe that such a move would cause a reaction of public sentiment and confidence. As one said: "People who have put off their visit to the show until too late, with the thought that it would be extended, will not do so next year," Another firawback to prolonging the show is the cold weather, which is fast approaching, and would make it uncomfortable both for exhibitors and "Scotch" night was a great success, and each "Sooten" night was a great success, and save mumber of the band programme was given a hearty reception. Mr. T. V. Short's cornet solo rendition of "Robin Adair" fully merited the hearty encore given. Mr. Short's delicate and sympathetic renditions have caused him to be very popular with the Exposition visitors and considered a most able second to Director lunes.

The Juniors and members of other patriotic orders will be out in full force to-night, and the music programme will be worthy of the occasion.

The voting topic at THE DISPATCH stand vesterday was: "Should the City Maintain a Bureau of Information for the Benefit of Visitors?" The "ayes" had a monopoly of each page of names in the poll books. Nearly all those who voted were out-of-town people and it is easy to guess their motives. A number of city people said it would assist to boom the city and every good citizen should be willing to fall in with any conservative scheme that would bring about this end.

SPLENDID INVENTIONS.

Arthur Kirk & Son. The visitors from England, who last week were the guests of the Exposition, expressed their admiration of these patents in most unequivocal language. It was not a cursory, perfunctory glance they gave, but they wanted full explanations (which they got), and evinced the keenest interest in the en-lire display. Of course the people about here understand their value, but it is agree-able to have such indorsement from impartial critics, although it would seem impossi-cle that they could have arrived at any other conclusion. Just think for a moment of a model which shows how to control the Mississippi river by utilizing its own sediment, and making it a perfect protection against crevasse or overflows; or take the model of a gate way, or sluice, which will close perfectly tight, and which can be governed by a lad of 10 wears in the matter of opening or closing; or, again, the models of portable coffer dams which can be built 20 feet high and removed whole to another place to be used over and over again; or the large working model of the lock which is to revolutioniz slackwater navigation; a model which ha carried the conviction to hundreds of men who have made this very subject a deep study, that it is practical, feasible and should be adopted. People unacquainted with models should remember, too, that in this instance they do not see the whole value of the invention; there is not room enough to give the proportions which would throw these different sets of gates, probably several hundred feet apart, and not as they have to be now, in order to show the working at all, even though a force of 1,000 gallous of water a minute is used in the demonstra-tion; but those who do understand will tell you just what the difference would make, and just how and why the steamer of river size can pass through without the boat having to stop her engine or take a line ashore Others of the English visitors whose interests are more or less involved in coal mines stone quarries grouped themselves closely about the steam drills and rock crushers, and coal, slate and stone augurs which required no explanation as they work away, showing to the most inexperienced even what they can and will do. Anyway, they left Mechanical Hall duly impressed by the versatility and utility of the Kirl patents which they had just seen.

DECKER, KNABE, FISCHER, ESTEY.

S. Hamilton, Nos. 91 and 93 Fifth Avenue These are the names represented in Hamilton's great musical exhibit at the Exposition. Their merits are so well known to all musicians that they cannot well go astray when these instruments come under their notice. These pianes have found their level, which is at the top, and they mean to keep right there.

CHURCH ORGANS.

This exhibit has the proud distinction of possessing the only pipe organ at the Expo-sition, and Mr. Hamilton is the only dealer in musical instruments who has included such in his stock. Then, too, there is the Clough & Warren combination organ for churches, and in reed organs for chapels, balls and houses there are the Clough & Warren, the Estey, the Story & Clark, and Farrand & Votey, the last named being the builders of the pipe organ.

MUSIC BOXES, VIOLINS, REEDS, ETC. Everything possible in this category for which there was not room at the stand will the found at the warerooms; some, or rather the majority, of which are imported from the first European makers, the others of best American construction; something of some kind that is bound to be good for everybody, men, women and children, for many of these instruments are in reduced sizes for the benefit of the youngsters. The special point made is the low prices, which over at the same time easy payments, Call at the warerooms and inspect this large and first-class stock.

HOW THE PUBLIC WINS.

The Closing Days Afford Splendid Opportunities in Buying. Now that the Exposition is drawing to a close, Beizensteins are doing quite a lively business in the particular lines which they have on display. At the stand of C. Reizenstein this is particularly true. All the larger ornaments and pieces of china, rare and costly as most of them are, will be sold before the Exposition closes, and sold, too, at figures much less than the same goods could be purchased for at the firm's store on Federal street, Allegheny. This is where the public gets a benefit from the Exposition, and it is a benefit that should be appreciated, for opportunities to buy such wares as Royal Worcester, Royal Vienna, Doulton, Sevres and Dresden at low prices do not come every day in the week by any means.

There are few exhibits in the big show that attract more attention, or are more worthy of it, than that of Reizenstein. The finest products of the most famous potteries of the world are displayed in a manner so artistic and pleasing that if you have any appreciation of the beautiful at all you must stop to admire. Polite attendants are ulways there to give you information or tall ways there to give you information or tell you the prices, and whether you think of buying or not it will pay you to visit the place just to see what beautiful things there

The People's Store Exhibit A very choice display is this of Messrs. Campbell & Dick, on north aisle, showing a large English reception hall with double stairway at rear of center-by a double stairway is meant that steps on either side lead to one common landing. The carpets in this elegant apartment (which differs from any in the building) are of surpassing rich-ness and of beautiful design, coloring and infinite variety, the majority, however, being body brussels and moquettes. The cur-tains and hangings make a wonderfully fine showing, this firm importing lace curtains di-rect from the world-famed curtain manufacturing centers, Nottingham, Glasgow and St. Gaul. Duplication of these goods cannot be attempted at the popular prices maintained by the People's Store. It is this principle of moderate charges and small profits that has made this great shopping emporium the People's Store in fact as well as in name.

In addition to the carpet and lace curtain exhibits, a fine assortment of upholstery goods, plushes and heavy curtain materials attract the attention of the ladies. The great store on Fifth avenue, which this grand display partially represents, contains no less than 11/2 neres of floor

Campbell & Dick pay particular atten-tion to orders for carpeting hotels, offices and private apartments.

Special Programme at the Exposition A special programme will be given on Wednesday evening, from 8 to 9, in honor of Jr. O. U. A. M. by the Henrick's Music Company, Limited, at their stand upstairs, The world-renowed Chickering grand and the famous Wheelock grand will be used on this special occasion. At the above firm's warerooms, 79 Fifth avenue, lovers of music warerooms, 79 Fifth avenue, lovers of music may enjoy themselves every day listening to the beautiful tones of the great Chicker-ing or the famous Wheelock, the celebrated Lindeman & Sons and the popular Stuy-vesant plauos. The Stevens Chair Company. In passing along the lower end of the main hall one cannot help noticing this company's exhibit. Those lovely, case and company's exhibit. Those lovely, case and comfort provoking extension chairs make one want to sit right down and rest. They are handsome, convenient and altogether desirable, and the house that does not contain a Stevens chair is a house that is not well furnished. The company also shows a variety of fine office and library desks, replete with every convenience in the way of receptacles for papers and all the paraphernalia of the toilers with the pen; in addition is a general variety of office furniture both useful and desirable. Wareroom, No. 3 Sixth street.

The Hopper Bros. & Co.'s Exhibit. This firm has decided to disp me this week, at about cost, of all of the elegant furniture, etc., which has composed their display at the Exposition. It is a chance in a thousand for out and out bargains, and visitors will find it to their interest to price these goods. Anything selected therefrom for holiday gifts will be carried without cost to the procedure of the control of the control of the control of the cost of the c purchaser until delivered. Mr. Frank Hop-per will be at the exhibit each day between 3 and 4:30 afternoons, and 8 to 10 in the evenings.

A PROMINENT physician and old army surgeon in Eastern Iowa was called away from home for a few days; during his absence one of the children contracted a severe cold and his wife bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for it. They were so much pleased with the remedy that they afterward used several bottles at various times. A Happy Mother

Her Lovely Child Cured of Salt Rheum—Now Healthy and Rosy—Not Even a Scar.

Such statements as the following should certainly inspire absolute confidence in Hood's Sarsaparilla. The letter came to us entirely unsolicited, and in a frank, honest manner expresses the grateful thanks of a happy mother.

expresses the grateful thanks of a happy mother.

"Feeling very thankful for Hood's Sarsaparilla, I wish to give this unsolicited testimonial of the benefit we have received from this great remedy and Hood's Olive Ointment, for I feel that were it not for them I should have lost as promising a little boy as anyone could wish to have. When he was eight months old salt rheum broke out all over his body. Our family dector took charge of him till he was two years old, and then gave him up. I purchased two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilia and some of Hood's Olive Ointment and took charge of him myself. Very soon after I had given him half a bottle of Sarsaparilia I could see a difference in the child. Improvement continued as I kept a bottle of Sarsaparilla I could see a difference in the child. Improvement continued as I kept on with the remedy, and now my boy is four years old and as healthy and rosy as can be. I want others to know of this great remedy, so I write this statement. I can never tell how grateful I am for my little boy whom I thought must die, but who is now so happy and robust, with not even a scar on his fair skin," MES. Z. T. NASH, Duxbury, Mass.

The Whitesell Will Not be a Big Producer Standard Tactics in Ohio

The report Monday night that the Forest Oil Company and Griffith No. 4, Whitesell, in the Wildwood field, had struck a second pay, and was flowing from 1,000 to 1,500 barrels, was not well founded, and is only another proof of the tendency of the average oil man to boom production. There was a second pay found at 65 or 70 feet in the sand which at first gave the impression that it would make a big well, impression that it would make a big well, which was the basis of the rumor. From the most authentic information the venture at best does not look for more than a 100-barrel well. The Bear Creek Refining Oil Company's well on the McClay farm yesterday came in a gasser and as far as developed may safely be placed in the same category as the Stevenson & Whitney gas well. The Haily well was drilling last night 12 feet below the bowlder, and will most likely get the sand to-day. W. S. Guffey & Queen are drilling an important well on the 30-acre Rolshouse, which is down 1,100 feet, their No. 2 Rolshouse, has reached a depth of 300 feet, and No. 3 rig is completed and the drill will be started as soon as possible. The tools are still in the Ringheiser well, and the contractor seems to have a hard job in finding the right kind of a tool to take them out. The production of the field to-night is slightly under 7,000 barrels a day.

A special from Findlay says that the last cut heid to-night is slightly under 7,000 barrels a day.

A special from Findlay says that the last cut in Ohio crude has had a stunning effect on the industry in that field. Not less than a hundred strings of tools were ordered to cease operations as soon as wells drilling now are finished, and contracts for wells have been canceled in dozens of localities. Every operator, unless forced to drill to hold leases, will cease production as soon as possible, and the output of wells will be greatly decreased within the next two weeks. It is the general opinion of operators that the Standard, having captured all the independent companies, is now trying to crush out the smaller concerns, and that the price of the Ohio product will drop from time to time until the old figure of 15 cents a barrel has been reached again.

The Forest Oil Company's No. II, on the Burns farm, at Murdocksville, is in, and good for 70 barrels. The Raccoon Oil Company have reached the sand in their No. 3, on the Akleson farm. It is a 40-barrel well. Drilling has commenced on the Donaldson well.

Mr. A. Danner: I have been troubled with costiveness, torpid liver, kidney disease, also from the effects of lead poison; that I was completely broken down in health and strength. I tried a great many doctors and remedies with no satisfactory results until I thought there was no cure for me. By the persuation of friends who had been cured by your Essence of Health I was induced to try it and soon ound I was improving in strength and so kept on gaining in health that I am at present able to be at my usual occupation and cheerfully give this testimonial, strongly urging all in search of health to use it and be convinced. But this is all changed now, and in Men's sizes alone, between 33 and 50inchbreast measure, there are fiftydistinct sizes and styles of garment. Clothing such as we sell is gotten down to a fine point as to fit, until we can safely say we can fit anybody not actually deformed. A lean man with a fat pocketbook, or a fat man with a lean pocketbook can each be fitted and pleased from our stock. We make a specialty of extra and odd sizes, what are called in the trade, "Longs and Extra Longs," "Stouts and Extra Stouts," and we carry a full line of such sizes in all the different styles of garments we

We honestly believe that the man of extra size, or odd proportions, stands a better show of being fitted in a stock like ours than in most custom tailoring establishments. And for this reason: The merchant tailor, after he once cuts out a garment for you, is bound in some way to make that particular garment fit you. He partially makes the garment up into what he calls a "try on," and on this foundation he goes to work-padding here and paring there to attempt a fit. In our case, in a difficult shape, we start, not with one foundation, but a dozen. We try on coat after coat until we get one that proves very near a fit, and in this we make the alterations necessary FREE OF CHARGE.

Don't be afraid because you're not symmetrically built that we can't fit you. You select the suit-our Artistic Tailor does the rest.
