THE DEFENSE OPENS.

Killian Being Put on the Stand, Tells His Story to the Jury.

THERESA TEETS ALSO TESTIFIES.

Mixed Up Cases in Judge White's Branch of the Courts.

QUESTION AS TO WHO OWNS THE CASH

Alexander Killian went on the stand in his own defense, yesterday, and told his story without contradictions. At the opening of the trial, District Attorney Johnson stated shat they would close the case for the prosecution. Mr. Marshall opened for the defense. He told the jury that to hold Killian they should believe that the murder was willful, deliberate and premeditated. Killian, he said, was never a good man; he had been sent to the penitentiary when 18 years old, and consequently was always watched by the police officers. In concluding, Mr. Marshall stated that the defense would be so good that he b-heved the jury would have no trouble in finding the priso-ner innocent. Killian was placed on the stand. er innocent. Killian was placed on the stand, its restimony was as follows: I was born in Philadelphia, and was brought to

I was born in Philiadeiphia, and was brought to Philaburg when about 5 years of age. At 18 years of age i was sent to the penitentiary. I afterwards lived up the river near Valley Camp. About three months before this killing i bought the jo-boat in which I lived until arrested. I met Griffin in the penitentiary, but after my release I loss track of him and saw nething of him for a long time. One night some one called to me from across the river. I took my skill and found that it was teriffin. He came back with me to the jo-boat, and I gave him two meals and granted his request for the loan of my skill. He said he wanted to meet some people and bring them over. I said: "Griffin, you must not do anylling bere, as, if yen do, touison and the officers in Pittsburg will put it on to me on account of my record and because von have been with me here." If you do, course, and the present of my recovery will put it on to me on account of my recovery of hereause you have been with me here."

Griffin took the skiff and went away. I went ap John Thomas house, stayed until to viock, hen Griffin came back and said my skiff was own the river: that he had broaken an ear and ould not get it over. I became angry and Griffin are time a waten and bracklet for the use of and amage to the bost. We then went out. I let on hat I would look for my heat, and lett Griffin. ### ORATORY IN ORDER.

Continued from Second Page. He counseled the order to keep going forward, and they would have occasion to rejoice that they were banded together in such a noble brotherhood.

WORTHY OF HIS HIRE. GRAND CHIEF ARTHUR HAS A WORD FOR THE LABORER.

Soundness and Self-Evidence of a Principle -Identical Interests of Capital and Labor-The Duties of Capitalists-Close of the Day's Proceedings. Mr. Arthur, on rising, was received with "Hail to the Chief." In the course of a long address the Grand Chief said:

The laborer is worthy of his hire, is entitled to his hours of rest, is deserving of consideration, has the same needs, feels the same longings and desires, is altogether human, and is as much a man as he who sits in his office and directs the work of others. If there be those who would array labor against capital I am not one of them, nor with them. If there be those who regard the interests of lubor and capital as naturally or properly antagonistic I do not agree with them. In these words one of the most profound thinkers and scrive workers of the age. Horace Greeley, has broadly laid down the icading principle which underlies the great problem of labor. The soundness of the principle is self-ervident; it commends itself to the good sense of every reasonable man, still more to the natural judgment of those whom habit of thought or practical experience has familiarized with the rights, interests, duties and needs of the working class. The interests of labor and capital are identical, or, to be more accurate, reciprocal. Any argument respecting labor topies which does not distinctly recognize and concede the truth of this proposition must needs be fallaclous, and as a matter of fact if its recognized and conceded the validates and the emission of the stream of the services of the stream of the more stream of the proposition must needs be fallaclous, and as a matter of fact if its recognized and concede the validate emission. address the Grand Chief said: must needs be fallacious, and as a ma tion must needs be fallacious, and as a matter of fact it is recognized and conceded by all the eminent authorities on the subject under discussion from Adam Smith down.

All the evils arising from the frequent conflicts of these two great levers for time immemorial have been caused by the willful or ignorant rejection of elementary truths, which all experience has demonstrated, and concerning which there should be no dispute; that civilized society is founded on accumulated capital and systematic labor; that it cannot dispense with either, and that each is mutually dependent on the other. How false is the general understanding of this subject a moment's reflection will make manifest. moment's reflection will make manifes a noment's reflection will make manifest.

Those whose business or pleasure it is to investigate the needs and interest of labor and capital should bear this in mind if they would simplify their difficulties. Especially should capitalists do so out of regard to their own immediate advantage: for the man who has a reasonable expectation of bettering his condition and in time of becoming himself an employer will exert imself to acquire skill in the employment of which he is to subsist.
On the other hand, he who expects to waste half of his il e in severe toil with inadequate remuneration will generally do as little as he possiwe me a worken and we then were some at I would look for my boat, and left Griffin. On at I would look for my boat, and left Griffin. On the road I met the negro and Jutchman. They canted to reach Negley's run by morning. I writed the general Negley's run by morning. BAD WEATHER FOR STREETS. Too Much Rain to Allow of Cleaning Up For Winter. Mr. J. P. Bingaman, Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Works, was in low spirits yesterday. After a long and careful scrutiny the meantime Atkisson gave the purse of a sky that looked and acted like a wet > e, he sighed and said: "If this sort of weather keeps up much longer it will result in many streets being left in bad condition for the winter. We always reckon on three or four weeks of good weather reckon on three or four weeks of good weather at this season, which enables us to finish up work and get the city into good shape for the winter. But thi weather upsets all our plans, and of course many citizens wil! think we are to blame, and will criticise u-accordingly. The contractors, too, are heavy losers by this enforced delay and the fact that they have to do much of the work twice over. However," continued Mr. Bingaman more hopefully, as a man with a brightly burning toby dropped in man with a brightly burning toby droppe and helitened the gloom "this weather iclear up, and when it does every moment be utilized in fixing up the streets for the

LOVE STOPS AT NOTHING.

Captain Heiber Had to Issue a Marriage License at His House. Captain Heiber, Clerk of the Marriage License Court, was called upon at his residence last evening by a couple that wanted a marriage license and wanted it without delay. Captain Heiber is unaccustomed to doing business outside of his office, but as sufficient reasons were given be filled out the license for the couple, who were alterward made happy by Rev. Dr. E. P. Cown, paster of the Third Presbyterian Church.

The wedding took place in one of the parlors

The wedding took place in one of the parlors of the Monougahela, and the groom was J. H. McCunn, principal of a school in Green Bay, Wis. The bride was Miss Ada Mongomery, of Claysville, Pa., one of his teachers. Mr. McCunn and his fiancee arrived in the city about 7 o'clock last evening, and just like a groom on his wedding day, he fornot all about the license. The minister was waiting, and the only thing to do was to call at Captain Heiber's house and get the document.

CALL FOR MORE MUSIC.

A Well-Known Composer's Suggestion to Boom Pittsburg.

Theater-goers who have listened with pleasure to some of the best orchestral selections never fail to include among their favorites the popular airs composed by Mr. Brooks, the well-known Boston musician and director of his famous military band, who arrived in this his famous military band, who arrived in this city yesterday on a flying visit. In a talk with Mr. Brooks, he said:

"Pittsburg is no ed for her push and go, and the enterprising spirit of the citizens would accomplish a great deal in the way of increasing the city's popularity if some steps were taken to es ablish a national conservatory of music, employing talent that would attract students from a distance, something like the institution at the Hub."

EVEN WORSE FOR THE COW

Than it Was for the Coal Train She Encountered. A man above Ewing's Mills yesterday sold a calf to a butcher. The agonized mother burst her boundaries and took the trail of her baby, Arriving at the Montour Railway she became confused and got in the way of a down-grade coal train. The result was bad for the train and worse for the cow, though her mental trouble was speculiv assuaged.

The train was derailed and the profits of the company for one day wiped out. The employes of the train escaped injury.

Increased Railroad Earnings. The increased traffic and general prosperity of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis and the Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburg Railroads the Chicago, St. Louis and Fittsburg Railroads is shown by the statement sent out by Mr. S. B. Liggett, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Company. The report shows a net increase in the earnings of the two roads in September, as compared with the same month of 1889, of $21,049 88. The net increased earnings for the nine months of 1890, as compared with the corresponding period of last year, amounts to $513,-312 82.

West Penn Hospital Matters. At the quarterly meeting of the West Penn Hospital directors yesterday reports showed that 2,709 patients had been cared for during the last year, and the total expense during the year was $76,000 36. Major Denniston and William H. McCleary were appointed a committee to draw up the annual petition for the appropriation from the Legislature.

WHY NOT

Buy your home close to the new entrance to Schenley Park? Don't you know that this will be the most beautiful spot in the whole city-even better than the park itself?

Don't you know that the Carnegie Library, the Art Buildings and Academy of Sciences will be located here?

Then why not allow your Saturday, November 15, 1890, family to enjoy these advantages by locating near? We have a new brick dwelling of 8 rooms, range, bath and all modern conveniences, with a good lot, and located only 100 feet from the park entrance, that we can sell for $8,750, no more than you would pay for the same house elsewhere, without the park advantages. If you want to know about it, come and see us.
