Bemarks About Sprinter Owen's Recent 100-Yard Record at Washington.

We are just getting glimpses of the calm and peaceful period ahead of us that is to follow the period of conflict and hatred in the basebail world. Whether or not we will enjoy that expected brightness in all its fullness I know not, but certainly we can see it ahead of us plainer to-day than at any time during the conflict's existence. The week's events in baseball have conspicuously shown that the good judgment and business sense of gentlemen interested in the matter are prevailing at last. Consolidation has been the leading theme, and New York has set the example; an example worthy of emulation. The quiet and business like way in which the New York magnates have so far accomplished their work is indeed refreshing after all the noise, bluster and bad feeling which have made the lives of people interested in the national game very weary indeed. What the New York co solidation will lead to I cannot tell, but I do know what it ought to lead to. It ought to be the inauguration of a time of peace all round. Most assuredly what New York capitalists can do can be done by others. If the gigantic moneyed interests of the two New York clubs can be unified in a satisfactory way certainly the small interests of other cities ought to be settled without much trouble. True there has been some kind of opposition to the proposed con-solidation of the New York clubs and some of the New York clubs and some of this opposition is reasonable. Parties who have during the season invested money in P. L. interests in the belief that the P. L. would always be a distinct organization have objected strenously to the consolidation plan. Opposition of the kind is pardonable, but the opposition prompted by a mere personal harvest in the consolidation of the kind is pardonable. but the opposition prompted by a mere per-sonal hatred is to be despised entirely. We read of an old king whe killed hundreds of people in hope that he would put to death among them one particular individual. Some persons have been objecting to every settlement of a fair kind in hopes that the entire business would be wreaked thereby injuring one or two carticu-

> "-We'll brithers be 'an a' that. Players as Stock.

During the conferences between representatives of the two local ball clubs a very important and interesting feature was introduced by the representatives of the Players' League. I am drawing attention to this in no spirit of unfriendliness, but like Rosa Dartte I "want to know." The matter is this: In making up the valuation of the P. L. club a number of players were valued at so much per head, and the total, I think, was somewhere about $16,000. short, these players were numbered as would horses, cattle, etc., figure among the as would borses, cattle, etc., figure among the assets of a farmer, or did slaves among the assets of a slave owner. Now, I am not exaggerating anything here, because this kind of figuring accually did take place, and was defended by Secretary Brunell, President McCallin and Director Rae. This may be a startler, indeed to me it is an astounder. We cannot forget the pens, the ink and the paper that were used not long ago by everybody in the P. L., who could write in showing up the iniquity, the degradaby other people in the days of slavery and anti-confiscation. Now, seriously, I ask: Why should a gross inconsistency like this obtain. It is prepasterous. If the N. L. directors of this should a gross inconsistency like this obtain?
It is preposterous. It the N. L. directors of this city should have accepted the assets as presented to them would the players so valued have been awarded each one-half of their valuation as stock? I claim not. Had the deal been made these punyers would have been sold just as completely as in the wicked days of the National League's undisputed sway. There would have been one exception, viz., the purchaser would hardly have been so certain of his goods as in the iron-heel-tyranny period. Mark this: I am tot arguing for or against the justice of valuing players as above stated. I am simply stating a fact of to-day and comparing it with a fact of only a short time ago. The comparison to me is exceedingly interesting. I comparison to me is exceedingly interesting. I think it will also be so to those who think it

The World's Championship.

One of the interesting things of this year in | nothing baseball matters is the series of games between the Louisville and Brooklyn clubs for what they call the world's championship. I have referred to this question more than once, but I have scarcely expected that the series of games would have been called the world's championship series. The articles of agreement signed by the parties interested give the series the title just mentioned, and it may be that some of the public believe that the series is legitimately for the title in question. I fail to see how in any shape or form the world's championship can be dragged into the series, except it be for advectising purposes. If this be the cose, and I think it is, the parties are, to a very great extent, excusable. But to look at the matter seriously, the first question we ask: What is a world's championship? The only answer that can be given is the very best man or party of men in the world in his or their particular form of contest. This being so, I chaim at once that neither the Louisville club nor the Brooklyn club is the best club in the nor the Brooklyn club is the best club in the world. I care not which wins this series. Of course I may be wrong, but beyond all, nobody irving will deny that there is every reasonable doubt existing against either of the two clubs doubt existing against either of the two clubs named being the best in the world. Well, then, if it is granted there is a reasonable doubt away goes the claim of the big title. Nothing can convince me that the Boston Players League team is not very much superier to either the Brooklyn and Louisville clubs except a contest between them. There are thousands of people of the same opinion and if they never compete against each other most certainly I will always claim that the best baseball team of 1886 was the Boston P. L. team. It is, indeed, a pity that the Bostons and Brooklyns are prevented from playing against each other. It might be possible to arrange a few games between the clubs if the trouble between the two leagues is settled. I venture to say that we would all like to see it.

Fitzsimmons are still going on authory in where compete against each other most certainly I will always claim that the best base-all team of 1890 was the Boston P. L. team. It is, indeed, a pity that the Bostons and Brook-yms are prevented from playing against each atter. It might be possible to arrange a few rames between the clubs if the trouble between the two leagues is settled. I venture to say that we would all fille to see it.

The Baseball Season.

There have been more objections urged this year against the continuation of the baseball season after the championship contest ends than there have ever been. Of course, one reason for this has been the indifference that everybody has had for the game; but there is a growing tendency among players, the public and club directors to end the season when the championship season is finished. I am much inclined toward a step of that kind, because exhibition games have become farces. We never hear of any of them paying, simply because the public is generally about satisfied with haseball for one year when the pennant struggle is over. There has always been a tendency among baseball officials to overdo matters and there is much a thing as sending too much water to the mill. In many respects it has been so in baseball officials to overdo matters and there is much a thing as sending too much water to the mill. In many respects it has been so in baseball officials to overdo matters and there is such a thing as sending too much water to the mill. In many respects it has been so in baseball officials to overdo matters and there is not year when the pennant struggle is over. There has always been a tendency among baseball officials to overdo matters and there is not year when the pennant struggle is over. There has always been a tendency among baseball officials to overdo matters and there is not year questionable weather are asked to leok at a series of spiritless contests which in a series of spiritless contests which in a proposal the proposal proposal proposal proposal game; but there is a growing tendirectors to end the season when the championship season is finished. I am much inclined toward a step of that kind, because exhibition games have become farces. We never hear of any of them paying, simply because the public is generally about satisfied with haschall for one year when the pennant struggle is over.
There has always been a tendency among baseball officials to everdo matters and there is such a thing as sending too much water to the mill. In many respects it has been so in baseball. After watching championship games for menth after month the public in very questionable weather are asked to leok at a series of spiritless contests which invariably are so one-sided as to surfeit every onlooker of baseball for life. But while I argue for baseball to end with the champlotted of the players and the time now argued for the players end at the time now argued for the players would have only to be signed for, that period, and that would look like putting the clubs con-testing for the world's championship in diffi-culties. But whatever trouble is likely to reculties. But whatever trouble is likely to result in this way could easily be avoided by arranging beforehand special conditions between players and clubs in the event of their particular club winning the championship. At any rate there does not seem to me any good reason for dragging the baseball season along when everybody has become tired of it.

The Winter Sports. An old enthusiast in matters of out-of-doors sports, and one who has kicked the ball scores of times, both in this country and in England, said to me the other day that he never remem bered the time when football was so popular i America as it is now. Certainly the O. M. was right. I have noticed during the past week that other fall and winter outdoor sports are far behind football in popularity because already authorities are figuring in the newspapers every day regarding what team is going to win this big match and what team is going to win the other. Before this season ends we expect to see some very big and important contests, and I predict that, weather permitting, some of these contests will be witnessed by larger crowds than ever seen at football matches before. Of course, I am referring to matches of national importance. But while we are looking interestingly abroad we must not forget home. Our own football players are "hustling" matters along, if such a word as hustling is permitted here, and one very pleasing feature is that a very large number of football teams want to play the Pittsburgers. I trust they will all secure dates, but there is one very important feature, and that is to have good teams here. Nothing will beem football in Pittsburg so much as the appearance here of a few good football teams to contest against the local men. Football players at other cities ought not to object to come here if they have the popularity of the game at heart, because I feel certain that if football once becomes thoroughly established in this city we will soon have one of the best teams in the country. I am sure that the officials of the local club are doing everything possible to have a good team and to popularize the game here. Unfortunately the weather has been very much against outdoor sports recently, but the local players have still been hard at work notwithstanding that fact. I am informed that efforts are being made to have the team of the University of Pennsylvania play here. I trust and I think we all hope that these efforts will be successful. As I have just said, nothing will do the game more good here than the appearance of a well-known team. If the team in question cannot be secured, by all means there ought to be a goed one secured for Thanksgiving Day. There are numerous good teams in the State and certainly that other fall and winter outdoor sports are far behind football in popularity because altainly one of them can be engaged to come here. If the day is fine they will have a big crowd to greet them and I am inclined to be-lieve they will have some terriers on the field

Owen's Record.

There has, indeed, been a very great kick against the 160-yard record claimed for Mr. Owen yesterday week at Washington, and if some people have their way the Detroit sprinter will not go on record as running the 100 yards in 945 seconds. During the week there has been quite a lively controversy on the matter, the most strenuous objectors being L. E. Myers, the most strenuous objectors being L. E. Myers, whom we all know and who more than once tried to make a 100-yard record but failed. It is natural for Myers to object to the record, and he has certainly tried his best to have it discarded. He claims that Owen beat the pistol and that at 10 yards he was a yard or more ahead of Carey, who is known to be a remarkably fast man in the first 10, 20 or 30 yards. This is the strongest argument that Myers can produce against the validity of the record, because he was standing only ten yards from the mark. On the other hand Owen claims that he did not pass Carey until they had run 75 yards. Mr. Janssen supports Owen in this, and the pistol firer has made an affidavit to the effect that Owen did not start before the pistol was fired. Regarding the contention of Myers that there are times when one man will respond to the pistol report considerably quicker. wrecked, thereby injuring one or two particu-lar men. I know this to be a fact. However, it is sunorely to be hoped that all this bud feel-ing has vanished, and that in baseball affairs. spond to the pistol report considerably quicker than at other times, and when that exceptiona spond to the pistol report considerably quicker than at other times, and when that exceptional starting form is present very often numerous onlookers think the runner has gotten off before the pistol. I have noticed that on more than one occasion. However, I think Owen's record will go, and if it does not there are two records at present acknowledged by some people to be correct which should be wiped out at once. The conditions under which Owen ran his race were in all respects less suspicious than the conditions under which the alleged records of Johnson and Bethune were made; the 9 45 seconds credited to Johnson is of such a very questionable character that it ought not to be credited for a day, Kettleman started Johnson that day and I have more than once related Kettleman's statement to me on the matter. According to him and others who were "in the know," the affair was a neat little scheme to obtain about $50. Of course Owen's claim will have to go through a severer test of examination than did the claims of Johnson and Bethune, and if Owen's is credited, I have no hesitation in saying that the vast majority of sporting people will deep ut the most reliable while others will will deep ut the most reliable while others will will deep ut the most reliable while others will by secretary Brunch, President McCallin and Director Rae. This may be a startler, indeed to me it is an astounder. We cannot forget the pens, the ink and the paper that were used not iong ago by everybody in the P. L., who could write in showing up the iniquity, the degradation of white stavery among baseball players. They are being sold like cattle and valued like slayer as a war cry that dinned in all our cars. There was, indeed, considerable truth in the cry. Certainly there was a deal of force in it. In short this was the great plea for revolt. But, great Scottl here we have the hydra again and introduced and defended by those who claimed to have pulled it. Staley is valued at $2,500, Beckley, a bargain, is tabulated at $1,000 and so the list of the stock in trade goes on. But the amusing part of the matter is that the club did not pay one dollar for any of them. The values attached to them are the prices paid for them ted to them are the prices paid for them per people in the days of slavery and anti-cation. Now, seriously, I ask: Why d a gross inconsistency like this obtain. Cowie twice. Wharton in 1885 ran the distance in even time and repeated his performance in 1887. The amateurs have certainly held their exceedingly quiet during the week, but there are indications that two or three prominent encounters may take place before the winter is over. Various rumors are current to the effect that a battle between Jack McAuliffe and Billy Myer has been arranged. Nothing definite or the matter, however, has come to the surface. the matter, however, has come to the surface. But it seems to me that the two will get together again because of the good inducements offered by the so-called athletic clubs of New Orleans. There is no reason why they should not face each other again for nothing because of the manner in which they gulled the public when they last met. If they are to fight and if they want to fight when they meet each other in the ring the contest may be a good one. They are both good men at their weight, but I really cannot see how Myer has an even chance of defeating see how Myer has an even chance of defeating McAuliffe if both men are in good conditon. I have already made the claim that Myer is not the "Cyclone" that the sporting men of Streator thought he was. I may be wrong, but the "Cyclone" that the sporting men of Streator thought he was. I may be wrong, but certainly Myer has yet to show wherein his real cyclonic powers he. But should a contest be arranged between Myer and McAuliffe I fail to see how the latter can be gotten into first-class trim. He had difficulty to even get near light-weight standard when he fought Carroll, and we all know that his life since then has not been devoted to keeping down his weight. He is, however, in my estimation so much superior to Myer when in first-class condition that he can afford to be a little "off." But in this there is always a great danger, because it is dangerous in more ways than to put a man into a ring out of condition, even though he is going to face his inferior. It is somewhat strange, however, that Myer should be so anxious to fight McAuliffe when Bowen and Carroll are doing nothing. No doubt Myer desires to steer clear of Carroll, but he, Myer, has yet to get "even" with Bowen. The latter defeated Myer and Carroll defeated Bowen. McAuliffe defeated Carroll, and still Myer is more anxious to tackle McAuliffe than anybody else.

About the Pugilists. The "exponents of the manly art" have been

Dempsey and Fitzsimm Negotiations between Jack Dempsey and Fitzsimmons are still going on although reports have it that they have agreed to fight for a purse of $12,000. Fitzsimmons has, I think,

It is now only a question of what date will see the legions of Ohio and Delaware attached to Pennsylvania's. The time is all that has to be fixed, as everything is satisfactory other-wise.

Preparations are being made for a visit of the regiment to Youngstown as escort to the Grand Commander and staff on the occasion of the institution of the legions there under the new ritual. The Youngstown comrades prom-ise an excellent time to all who go. A correction is in order in regard to the age of Grand Inside Watch C. L. Hammon. It was stated in these columns last Sünday that he would celebrate his fiftieth birthday October 15. It should have read his forty-ninth anniversary. This correction is made with pleasure, as Comrade Hammon is a bachelor, and the item as it appeared at first might prejudice him with the ladies.

W. S. Collins, Secretary of Indiana Conclave, has written for supplies to organize a new con-clave in that county.

Jacob Motz, Past Archon of Fifth Avenue Conciave, is tne first member in Allegheny county to earn a gold premium badge offered by the Supreme Conclave. The 21 teams organized by Pittsburg Conclave No. 89 are meeting with great success. It is the best plan yet devised to create interest and as a means to increase the membership. The Executive Committee of the late general committee having in charge the celebration of the twelfth anniversary of the order, met last night, audited all accounts, paid all bills, and has a small balance left in the treasury. Pittsburg Conclave No. 89 has passed a resolution asking the Supreme Archon to confer upon Brother Bide Shaw the degree of Past Archon for meritorious services, he having brought over 100 members into the conclave since its overanization.

Samuel Buxbaum, having completed the organization of Jeannette Conclave with 35 charter applicants, on Monday morning goes to Youngstown and reports to the Supreme Provost. He will now devote his time to organizing conclaves in Eastern Ohio. Rising Sun Conclave No. 121, Demmler, Pa., has the honor of contributing the largest amount to the expense of celebrating the late anniversary, compared to the membership, of any conclave in the county. Brother O. G. Jones, of the Finance Committee, will be properly rewarded.

Verdict of the Twelve.

M'KEES ROCKS TO BE A BOROUGH,

Petition of Her Citizens Filed With the Court Yesterday.

GENERAL NEWS OF THE JUSTICE MILL

The trial of Alexander Killian for the murder of Mrs. Rudert was concluded yesterday. When court convened at 9:30 Judge Magee commenced his charge. After disposing of several points submitted by the defense, he took up the law applying to murder, reading ex-Chief Justice Agnew's opinion as to what constitutes murder of the various degrees. Under the evidence, he said, the jury might find Killian guilty of murder in the first degree, or that he was an accessory before the fact, or they might acquit him. The law, he said, is that a murder committed during the perpetration, or attempted perpetration, of a felony, is murder of the first degree, whether there is an intent At 10:15 he concluded, and the jury retired. At the adjournment of court an agreement had not been reached.

WANTS TO BE A BOROTICH.

The Citizens of McKee's Rocks Petition for Its Incorporation

A petition was filed in the Quarter Sessions Court yesterday asking for the incorporation of McKee's Rocks, Chartiers township, into a borough. The application has about 135 signatures. The place has about 5,000 inhabitants, and is the largest village in the State. It is claimed that it is necessary that it should be incorporated into a borough for the preservation of law and order. The place now has almost no police protection, and there is no one but a constable to look after the rough ele-ment. It is also asserted that several of the manufacturing concerns are encroaching on the streets and taking many privileges which they could not obtain if there was a council to watch the interests of the residents watch the interests of the residents.

The petation was the cause of quite a contest in the village, and, it is stated, a remonstrance will be filed. The supporters of the remonstrance, it is stated, are the manufacturing firms, who do not desire the restraint a borough council would impose, and wish their plants excepted from the borough limits and thus avoid taxation.

REMAINS OF JUSTICE MILLER CON-

The Obsequies Attended by Many High in the Councils of Both State and Nation-The Throng at the Funeral Very Large, but the Ceremonies Simple.

KEOKUK, IA., October 18 .- The funeral train of Justice Miller left Burlington at 7:30 and arrived here shortly after 9 o'clock. It was met at the depot by honorary 'pallbearers, various committees, a military company and the G. A. R., as well as several thousand citizens. The body was taken to the Federal building, where it lay in state, viewed by thousands.

The funeral services, which were held in the Unitarian Church this afternoon, were simple but very impressive, and were at-tended by Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Brewer, Attorney General Miller, State officers, Judges of the State Supreme Court, the Judges of the United States and County Courts, and many other officials and public men. Governor Boles and Secretary Noble telegraphed regrets. There were many handsome floral tributes, in addition to Washington. They came from the local and visiting bar associates from the State Supreme Court and from close personal friends of the deceased. The funeral address was delivered by Rev. B. Hassall, who spoke feelingly of the many virtues, the noble qualities and the great ability of the deceased.

The remains were taken to Oakland Cemetery and deposited in the family tomb. The demonstration ever seen here. It was headed by a band. Then came Company A, Second Regiment, I. N. G., Grand Army posts, Sons of Veterans camps, school officers and children, the Mayor and City Council in carriages, local committees n carriages, the honorary pall-bearers in carriages, the funeral car containing the remains, drawn by four black horses, the fam-ily, Federal and State officers and invited guests, members of the bar, local, State and Circuit, physicians, and students of the medical colleges here; lodges of Masonic and other orders, the fire department, etc. At the cemetery the services were of the sim plest description.

DRUM MAJOR DIXON, of the Second Brigade Band, was presented with a very handsome uni-form and silver mounted baton by the staff of the brigads last Tuesday evening. Mr. Dixon has been connected with the Brigade band for nany years.

AT a meeting of the officers of the Eighteenth Regiment, held last Friday evening, it was decided to have several battalion drills be fore the turnout on Thanksgiving Day. The first will be held next Thursday evening on Water street below Smithfield. AT a recent meeting of the Hartranft Monument Commission a contract was let for a $6,000 shaft to be erected at Norristown. All the funds from the National Guard organizations have not yet been received, but it is estimated they will run fully that amount. SIXTY-THREE citizens of Homestead have signed an application for admission to the Eighteenth Regiment as a company to be located at that point. Their chances for admission, however, are slight, as a number of other ap-plications are already on file in the Adjutant General's office.

COLONEL NORMAN M. SMITH met with quite a severe accident last Wednesday evenhis residence on Fifth avenue, his left foot turned in under him and he sustained a bad sprain. It is expected he will be confined to his home for several weeks to come.

COLONEL SMITH, of the Third Regiment recruiting officer for the regiment, with power to enlist or reject all applicants. The idea is an excellent one and could be applied with great benefit to some of our Western regiments, as in many cases men who have picked up by other companies in the same regiment and enlisted. LIEUTERANT W. H. WASSEL of Company B, Eighteenth Regiment, has been assigned to command of the company during the absence of Captain Holmes, who is now in Bermuda on his wedding trip. Company B has improved very materially during the past month, over 30 new members having been enlisted, and many of the undesirable members having been dropped. There is at present a vacancy for Second Lieutenant in the Company, which will probably be filled by the election of Sergeant Major James Bigger.

NINETEEN members of the Fourteenth and Eighteenth Regiments contested for the Brown & Hirth medals at Saltworks, yesterday. On account of the high winds that prevailed no particularly big scores were made. The first orize was won by Adjutant Robb, of the Foureenth; second, by Captain Coon, of McKeesport, and the third money prize by Captain Emory Thompson. The possible was 100 points and the score of the contestants were: Robb 82 Coon 80, Thompson 77, Templeton 72, Lower 67, Lynch 66, England 66, Cable 64, Pearson 59, Turner 59, Private Brown 58, Rossing 57, Ross 54, McChesney 51, Rising 50. After the regular contest several sweepstakes at $200 were shot, of which Lieutenant Lower won the first, Cap-tain Thompson the second, and Lieutenant Brown the third.
