Quite surprisingly it turned out to be but a leeble effort upon the part of the once powerful Brotherhood, But six clubs were represented, New York, Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Chicago and Buffalo. Edward Hanlon was the Pittsburg delegate. The session lasted just two hours. The delegates did not emerge from the meeting like men who had benefited by their two hours' experience; on the other hand, they presented a rather mournful appearance. Tim Keele said:

"Oh, we only did a little routine work.

Jim O'Rourke said there was nothing done. Ed. Andrews replies that there was nothing special. Hanlon merely shook his head to the reporter's inquiries. But Ward appeared to be more communicative. She Expresses a Wish to Enter Into Reciprocal Relations.

HER SPANISH TRADE TOO SMALL.

The United States Considered the Greatest

Market for Them. MR. BLAINE'S IDEA MEETS WITH PAVOR

WASHINGTON, October 20 .- The Depart ment of State has received a copy of the minutes of the debates which have recently taken place in the Chamber of Commerce of Havana with reference to the McKinley bill and the question of reciprocity. This statement which was transmitted to the Spanish Ministers of the Colonies was accompanied by a letter from Segunda Alvardes, President, and Saturnino Martinez, Secretary General of the Chamber, which shows the existence of a strong sentiment favorable to recipocal relations with the United States. The letter says the Chamber thought it proper not only to consider the new Cuban tariff bill, but correlative matters which, owing to their natural and logical connection, directly affect the finan-cial condition of these provinces, which is far from being prosperous and which may become even worse than it now is, if, as is possible, the principle of reciprocity is defin-itely adopted in the the tariff of the United States, and it the changes made in our tariffs are not such as to correspond with that re-

The writers further say that the new Cuban tariff proposed by Spain must be preceded by the repeal of the act of 1882, ecause that act creates insuperable obstacles to the development of the foreign com-merce of Cuba, which is indispensable to the encouragement of the cultivation of its products. The law of 1882 which abolishes import duties on goods coming from Spain is stated to be the cause of incalculable injury, for Cuba must not expect more invorable treatment in foreign markets for its productions than is accorded in its ports to toreign goods. It is here, they say, that the pernicious effects of the law have become manifest. The conditions are such that the trade between the mother country and the colonies is not sufficient for their support. "We have become convinced," the letter continues, "that our production will decay and die out it we are debarred from offering National Jockey Club Races.

WASHINGTON October 20.—The annual fall would really find consumers on the same meeting of the National Jockey Club terms of which similar goods are offered by other countries.

The opinion of all Cubans is that this law. which interteres with their trade, should be repealed. With equal unanimity, the writers add, it is considered that the greatest market for Cuban goods is the nation whose ports lie at its very door. The Chamber of Commerce, they say, does not hesitate to affirm that the United States are to-day the regulators of the economical market just as England is of the money market. Special Agent Benbow Provokes the Wrath of the Officers by a Suggestion-Assistance Befused Because the Mercy is Not

The total receipts during the year amounted to $4,361 38. and the expenses were $759 95, leaving the amount of the net receipts $3,601 43. President McCreery, in his report, made some sarcastic remarks about Governor Beaver vetoing the hospital appropriation bills, and said he would never have another chunce to veto any more. He insisted upon fair play, and Mr. Benbow said if he was to be "gagged" he would resign his position. He finally got the floor and explained that what he stated was not his own views, but those of a great many people he encountered. A number of the delegates spoke in support of Mr. Benbow, and were plainly of the opinion that he had not received proper treatment in the affair.
