There is grave reason to believe that serious distress already prevails in the remoter districts, not only of Cork but of other counties, but the authorities are still engaged upon their preliminary inquiries, and the much-vaunted relief works are still in the paper stage.

Irish Leaders Shadowed by Spies.

The powers that be find time, however, to enforce the coercion act. In the Tipperary Court to-day Relmond appealed to the beach that it might use its influence to prevent the system of shadowing which has been so widely indulged in by the officials, particularly in regard to himself and his clients. Judge Ir ving, the magistate, said the bench had no power to take any steps in the matter

Acting Sergeant Hobson, whose examination was not completed when the court adicurned last night was recalled. As soon as he had reached the stand the witness informed the bench that since leaving the court room just night he had been told that his tamily would no longer be supplied with milk. Mr. Dillon, one of the counsel, here interrupted and said that the witness had very evidently been primed to say what he and. At this the witness indignantly exclaimed: "I deny the charge."

Magistrate Irwin considered for a moment larly known as the "Convent of the Buried and then said quietly: "We can only ex- Alive," where the dreadful discoveries of press our regret that such a state of things the existence of starving and demented can get milk," added Mr. Dillon. Other persons in the court room took up the story of the milk boycott, and quite an animated colloquy ensued. Mr. Ronan, the prosecutor, held that the witness was entitled to say he had suffered intimidation since the previous day, and explained that in the superior courts such an occurrence would be taken notice of. Magistrate Shannon repiled to this by saying: "You know our powers are much more circumscribed than are those of the Superior Court."

"I wish it were the Superior Court," Mr. Dillon said quickly. "I could then made an application for a reference on a man who is guilty of gross contempt of court. A Compromise Which Fell Through. It has transpired that Balfour had made an arrangement with Mr. Parnell whereby the latter's proposals and ideas were to be embodied in a land purchase bill, to be presented at the last session of Parliament. Mr. Parnell unexpectedly proposed a scheme for the limited purchase of land, and the proposition appeared so fair and unobjecable that the Government was seriously considering it. GLADSTONE SPEAKS.

Address at Edinburgh on the Irish Ques tion by the Grand Old Man.

LONDON, October 21 .- Mr. Gladstone addressed an audience of 5,000 persons at Edinburgh this evening. The country now fully recognized that the Irish questions must be settled before all others. The opponents of home rule had hoodwinked their constituencies by pledging themselves to a mild policy, yet their first favorite measure after gaining power was coercion. The Conservatives took credit for setting Ireland right by firm and resolute government. Their administration of the law was worse than the law itself. Mr. Gladstone then referred to the Tipperary affair. It was grossly illegal, he said, to close the doors of the Court House against the people. The appointment of Magistrate Shannon to try the case was a gross scandal, not merely because he was an executive officer, but also because he had been involved in a serious personal altercation with Mr. Dillon. If such tricks were played in England by wantonness of power, a very short way would be found to remedy such abuse. After the examples of police misconduct at Mitchelstown, and Tipperary it was impossible to respect the police or the administration of law by the police. Absenteeism, which was among the lowest signs of degradation in the last century, seemed now a constant habit, the Irish Minister flaunting his absence in the face of the people. The Government vaunted itself on peace in Ireland, yet kept six times more policemen there than in England and Scot land. If the Government would grant a general election the state of public opinion would prove that the country was won over

SUPPORT THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. COLUMBUS, October 21 .- Senator-elec Brice has had charge of the Democratic elements since last evening, and it looks tonight as if he would have the legislative trouble settled by to-morrow. He has astonished many in his counsels for harmony by taking into his confidence those who were his enemies during the Senatorial canwass. He has had the confidence and been in consultation with Governor Campbell the greater part of the day. While Brice was supposed to be not favor-able to the position of Campbell he has looked the ground over, and believes the Governorlis about right in his position, and called upon the Democratic members to give him their support for his message sug-The result has been a bill in the Senate, to which an amendment was attached, pro-viding for the abolishment of the Board non-partisan board to be appointed by the Mayor to serve till April, when an election shall be held. REPUBLICANS FAVOR THE BILL.

The bill passed with only two votes against it and these consisted of Hamilton county members who are enemies of the Governor, and one of them afterward changed. The Republicans all voted for the bill and it is understood the same course will be followed in the House to-morrow, when it is thought there will be enough votes to suspend the rules and pass at once.
The Republicans had previously refused to support a measure of this kind unless i provided the Board of Improvements should be permanent instead of going to the people at the spring election, but they made a concession on a suggestion contained in a telegram from ex-Governor Foraker at Cincinnati, who advised the Republican caucus this afternoon to support the bill.

There is considerable comment on the course of the Republicans in following the dictation of Foraker, and, it is claimed by some Democrats, this is the only feature of the measure which could in any respect compass its defeat. The Campbell Democrats preferred to co-operate with the Rehands of the Hamilton county delegation and the lobbyists from that city in the interest of the board, but they would much rather have joined with the Democrats on some compromise measure which would have born the stamp of solid party support TRIMMINGS FOR DEMS.

There is some talk that the bill may be amended and placed in shape to make it agreeable to all Democrats. The successful Senate bill is strictly in accord with the suggestions in the Governor's message. The Democrats of the House held a caucus this aftern an and decided to pass the bill, it would not win. The Governor has telegraphed all absent Democratic members and expects to have members is they will support the Senate bill. Democratic friends of Campbell in both branches called to congratulate him tonight. The House appointed a committee this morning and asked the Governor to send in his message again, and censuring the Speaker for his slight to Campbell last evening.

HAMILTON COUNTY INDIGNANT. The message was read in both bodies and referred to the Judiciary Committee. The Republicans of the House Committee reported, indorsing the message.

The Democrats declined to act. It created indignation on the part of Hamilton county members. It recommended a change from his former message by having the election in April instead of November, and gave the reasons. It recommends a non-partisan board to be appointed by the Mayor. He says since the session opened only those came here as lobbvists who are personally interested in the board, and this should condemn it. In closing the message the Gov.

ernor says: Let the handful of schemers who are scuffling Let the handful of schemers who are scuffling in the dirt before you, hoping for some petty personal gain, be overlooked. Remember the great body of the people of Ohio who stand amazed at the scenes enacted here last week, who have read with disgust that notorious lobbyists sat in the halls of legislation, openly directing the votes and speeches of members, are fast learning to dispise those who obstruct honest government and home rule. The plain duty before you is to permit no deviation from the path marked out. Let no specious amendment or change be permitted. The Mother Not Allowed to Take a Last Look at the Young Suicide-Ex-Governor Senator Quay Consults the Sprague Steps Between Her and the Dead.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

NARRAGANSET PIER, October 21 .- There was an affecting scene at the funeral of William Sprague to-day, which at one time threatened to be of a decidedly sensational nature. There was no reconciliation even at the coffin of the son. The family was diyided and the line was rigidly drawn.
The entire family of the ex-Governor drove from Canonchet at an early hour, the remains of the boy being conveyed to St. Peter's Church. Mrs. Kate conveyed to St. Peter's Church. Mrs. Kate Chase came down on the early train and was a guest at Green's Inn. Her daughters joined her in Providence. Mrs. Chase sent one of the most magnificent of floral offerings, with an embossed mourning card on which was penned by Mrs. Chase: "From an ever loving and devoted mother, Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague." The ex-Governor had previously had a floral pillow placed upon the gold mounted coffin.

had previously had a floral pillow placed upon the gold mounted coffin.

The little party of mourners composed of Mrs. Chase's family, formed an interesting group. On the opposite side of the church sat another group of six people, ex-Governor Sprague being the most conspicuous. Beside him sat his second wife, and also in this pew was a little girl, the daughter of the deceased by Avis Weed, the present wife of Colonel Wheaton. The custodian of the little girl was Edith Weed, now the wife of Prof. Eaton, of Lynn. Near the Chases sat Colonel Wheaton and wife. Only occasionally did the Governor look over at the pew occupied by the Chases. He covthe pew occupied by the Chases. He cov-ered his face with a silk hat. His present wife was, like Mrs. Kate Chase, in deep mourning. Most of the party were in ordinary attire.

It was announced that the coffin would not be opened. Mrs. Chase was prevented from viewing the remains. She showed clearly that she was disconcerted and greatly disappointed. Once she made an effort to leave the pew and move toward the coffin, but she was restrained by the friends who were by her side. When the bearers moved down the aisle with the coffin, which was to be sent to Providence and Swanport, ex-Governor Sprague, as if expecting some movement by Mrs. Chase, left his pew suddenly and walked in the first place behind the coffin.

Mrs. Sprague was overcome with grief, and sank sobbing in a pew only to be sym-pathized with by a number of the old Canonchet servants and her friends, and a most touching scene ensued, she kissing the old servants, while they broke down and wept like children, as they clustered around her. Finally she went to her hack and was driven past the hearse to the Columbus Hotel, where she awaited the train.

ON THE PRESIDENT'S MIND.

Harrison Trying to Decide What to De About Calling an Extra Session.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCEL. WASHINGTON, October 21 .- President Harrison is having a hard time of it in trying to decide what to do about calling an extra session of Congress. There is no longer any doubt as to his own preference in relation to the matter. Personally, he is strongly in favor of an extra session, and if he dared he would call one to-morrow. Furthermore, he is exerting all his influence to unite the Republican party on this question and on the aftirmative side of it. He makes a practice of talking about the proposed extra session with all the Republican politicians who call on him at the White House and endeavors to convert the doubters to his way of thinking, but he has encountered so much opposition that he is afraid to carry out his wish, and it is understood that he is much provoked at the recalcitrants. There is so much house-cleaning going on in the White House that the President finds it expedient to beat a retreat. He will go off duck shooting probably to-morrow or next day, in company with Attorney Gen-eral Miller, Secretary Halford, ex-Senator Sewell and the Rev. John A. Anderson, of Kansas, and will not return before Saturday.

A Young Lady While Conscious Appears to be in a State of Hysteria.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NORTH ADAMS, MASS., October 21 .- A young lady named Miss Maggie O'Brien has been in a trance-like state since last Friday evening and has caused considerable of a sensation in this vicinity.

Last Friday she took gas at the office Dentist Dox, recovered fully from the stupor, and walked out without assistance. On entering the house of a friend she complained of drowsiness, and, lying down, fell into a sleep from which no effort could arouse her. Doctors were at once called, but their assistance was of no avail.

On Saturday evening Dr. Millard was called on consultation. He pronounced the girl conscious of things going on about her, and said she was in a state of hysteria, caused by the nervous shock of taking the gas and helped on by the excited conversation of her friends who crowded the room. It is thought she will recover.

HILL RAPS M'KINLE SPEECH OF NEW YORK'S GOVER O THE SIXTEENTH OHIO.

Greeted by a Great Throng—He Goes

His Opinion of the New Tariff a Reciprocity.
CANTON, October 21.—Governor Davis
B. Hill arrived here at 5:30 P. M. to-day.
He was met by a reception committee headed by Mayor Blake. A large throng greeted his appearance. He went immediately to District Attorney Welty's house. To-morrow he leaves to speak at Wooster. A torchlight parade of Democratic clubs took place to-night, about 1.500 men being in line. An to-night, about 1,500 men being in line. An old skating rink, accommodating 2,000 people, was filled to overflowing when the Governor was introduced. He was vigorously applauded as he stepped to the front of the stage at 9 P. M., and made a speech which was frequently applauded. Among other things, he said: things, he said:

The great issue is the record of the Republican party in its brief control of Congress. No party has more recklessly defied precedents. It has cared nothing for the Constitution, nothing for the Treasury. The party has increased its majority in the House of Representatives by arbitrarily ejecting Democrats from their seats. The Republican Congress has made the American farmer's living even more expensive than it has hitherto been. It has heavily taxed nearly every article of wear.

more expensive than it has hitherto been. It has heavily taxed nearly every article of wear, many of his agricultural implements, his building materials and his household furniture. All over the country the effect of such legislation has already been to increase the prices of drygoods and other household necessities. Not all of this increase is perhaps instifiable under the provisions of the new law, but sharp merchants have been quick to take advantage of the opportunity which McKinley has offered them, and the poor consumer is the victim.

The other party recommends free admission of raw materials used in manufacture. It is ready to encourage that laternational trade which will keep our farmers and mills busy to supply foreign wants, thereby giving steady employment to labor, increasing wages because of the increased demand for labor, bringing employment to labor, increasing wages because of the increased demand for labor, bringing hundreds of millions of wealth into the country. Talk about reciprocity—this is retaliation, embargo, prohibition. Well might Elaine complain that the McKinley bill won't open a new market for a single bushel of wheat or a barrel of pork. We ought to feel mighty grateful if it does not deprive us of what markets we do have.

Then, in conclusion, he spoke of the contest in the Sixteenth Congressional district, urging every Democrat to vote for John G. Warwick, Democratic candidate, and said: For McKinley, personally, I have the highest respect. But he has no just claim upon your suffrages as Democrats. McKinley voted to de-prive nine honestly elected Democratic repre-sentatives of their seats in Congress. He voted for the infamous force bill. His friends compiain that his district has been "gerryman-dered," but McKinley's voice is silent when his party friends in other States have "gerry-mandered" other districts against the Demo-cratic party. Republican corruption money, obtained from those who have received governmental favor, will be poured into this district

NORRISTOWN, October 21.-Bad man agement on the part of somebody made Senator Delamater's party undergo rather an unpleasant experience this morning. The special train reached Easton at 8:50 from Allentown and when it got to Easton the discovery was made that no arrangements had been made to receive the ramblers. No breakfast had been prepared and the hungry men had to hustle around and get something to eat as best they could. When it became known that the party had arrived the reception that followed was not lacking in enthusiasm. Lafayette College students cheered the candidates vocuferously.
