Sales That Has Ever Taken Place in

Pittsburg Now Going on at 546 Wood

The greatest fire insurance sale of fine clothing that has ever taken place in this country is now in full blast at 546 Wood street, Pittsburg. The building at times is not large enough to hold the large throngs of people. The like of it was never known in Pittsburg before where clothing was sold so cheap. Just think, fine clothing being sold at 35 cents on the dollar, meaning a saving to you of 65 cents on every dollar's worth purchased. All you could hear all over the building yesterday was "Cash," "I will take that suit," "Have these pants wrapped up for me." People coming for miles to attend this great sale which is now going on at 546 Wood street. If you value money you will not miss this chance. We mention a few of the many bargains you can obtain. In order to show what gigantic bargains will be offered, a few prices are mentioned, and remember this great sale will last for a short time only.

WHY ARE THERE MORE

Everett Pianos Sold in These Cities Than

Any Other Makes?

This question was asked of an Associated Press reporter, who, always on the lookout for news, proceeded to investigate, and was convinced that there have been double the number of Everetts sold during the past year to that of any other make represented in Western Pennsylvania, and led him to believe that the extraordinary popularity of this make of pianos was due solely to the fact: They are among the best upright pianos now manufactured, and while this cannot be successfully disputed, they are sold at a great reduction from the prices asked by retail dealers. This result is brought vides methods of payments to suit everyone. Members can pay cash and get their piano at once, or can arrange to have them delivered upon payment of $25 cash and $10 monthly, while those who only pay $1 per week will get their pianos in a short time, as there is one piano delivered each week to each club on these latter payments. There being 350 members, each paying $1 per week, they get the piano at the lowest cash price. Mr. Ross is now delivering pianos to two clubs, A and B. The membership in the reality of the moral ought in all men. Whether it came as a flass from the Over Soul, or from the show accumulation of the instincts of the race, the experience of the ages matters not. The 'I ought' and the 'I ought not' thunders in every man's soul. Now, there is no necessary collision between the must' of morals and the 'can' of ability. There is no impassable guilf. Freedom to obey the moral laws does not collide with the immutability of nature. When we speak of the influence of place, climate, surroundings, we sometimes forget the factor of the mind. We forget that man is an ethical being, by his oneness with nature; his complete Theologians have taught that man can be superior to nature by a sort of magic. They say that a man can will against the stream of his nature or character. This is foolish, for when a man wills he goes with his nature, and not against it. But this does not imply that a man cannot change, for he is a reflecting being, and can see the consequences of his own acts. He changes the currents of his thoughts and feelings, and so of his character. If man were the victim of his surroundings, why did the forests, dug the mines, sailed the seas, belted the globe with a girdle of intelligent fire. He has made his mind a library and his soul the depository of heroism. To keep the consciousness of freedom is salvation. To marry the 'I must' to the I can' is to live the life of a man. To let the moral ought die in us is to be a child, a coward, and not a man. To obey the moral laws—that alone is life."

MORNING SERMON OF REV. DR. IZER ducted the opening devotional exercises, after which he made a short speech on the Protestant Church yesterday morning. In its rejuvenated form it was styled a "Harvest Home Service." Its purpose was to commemorate the coming of fall and harvest time, and to signify thanks to the God of Nature for His great blessings in bringing to maturity the food products, and furnishing with such an abundant hand the necessities of life.

The enervating air, telling that harvest time and the response of the country embraced in his diocese; the fine country embraced in his diocese;

The enervating air, telling that harvest was over and winter nigh, served to greatly enhance the beauty of the picture brought to the eye of the observer on entering the people are generous, but while they are making plenty of money, it is immediately turned the eye of the observer on entering the church from the street. The lamp-stands on either side of the altar were hidden by sheaves of wheat and other cereals, bound in regular farmer fashion, and having an air of the barvest field about them. Heaped up before the altar, in profusion, but in perfect artistic arrangement, were potatoes jus; as they came from the ground; yellow ears of corn; apples with the rosy red hue, caused by fall winds, upon their cheeks; deep, dark red egg plants, bright red peppers, bright greenskinned squashes, yellowish squashes, skinned squashes, yellowish squashes, who come are always requested to leave their guns with the usher at the door."

The speaker concluded by asking for money to complete the hospital at the place and to assist her preachers.

The speaker concluded by asking for money to complete the hospital at the place and to assist her preachers.

In the center was a bushel basket tipped over in a hewitchingly realistic manner. Its contents were poured out after the fashion of a horn-of-plenty. Flowers of the fields, the woods and the farm served to complete the rustic picture, and give to the whole an air of the country that was truly refreshing and a fitting reminder that to the God of Nature praise and thanksgiving is due.

The service commenced by all present singing that glorious old doxology, "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow." A tervent prayer by the pastor, Rev. D. Jones, Bisnop Leonard, of Utah and Nevada, was the mext speaker. He said that one sad effect of the change in religion of the Mormons was that when they renounced that faith many became the worst kind of unbelievers. He said that he needed four more missionaries to assist him in his work over the immense territory allotted to him. He spoke enthusiastically of the good work being accomplished by the girls in Salt Lake City. They have all turned themselves into little missionaries, he said, and gather the little children about them and reach them the truth of Christianity. This work, he said, was due to the girls' shool he had started in that city. The school has 170 attendants and is entirely too small to contain them. Ten thousand dolars are needed to build a proper school to push the work of Christianity.

APPROPRIATE MUSIC RENDERED.
The choir, under the leadership of F. A. Rinebart, rendered appropriate music after each cessation in the responsive reading. The sermon of Kev. Mr. Jones was an excellent one and it is doubtful if anyone in the audience left without feeling that he owed thanks to his Maker for the abundant harvest and the continued proofs of great goodness.

In the evening the Rev. Mr. Jones preached the second of a series of sermons on the Apostles' Creed. His subject was "The Existence of God." His arguments were strong ones and his logic convincing.

The delegates holding the services followed generally the lines of thought gathered at the convention. Earnest appeals were made for funds to carry on the work, and for young men to join the "Students" Volunteer Movement." The needs of different lands, and figures and illustrations regarding the work were given. The service in the Smithfield Street M. E. Church was styled a "Missionary Raily." Mrs. C. A.
