HANLON A HERO.

Al Johnson Points Out How the Pittsburg

Manager Has Acted Faithfully. NEW YORK, October 26 .- The rival baseball magnates had an informal meeting yesterday, during which Albert L. Johnson made a most torcible speech, highly characteristic of the man. That Mr. Johnson is perfectly sincere, bonest, and firm in his desire to arrange an honorable compromise is certain. He has a frank, open heart, which can only be appreciated by those who come in contact with him. He said: "I will state a few facts that may be of interest to all. Ned Hanlon was the first one who ever broached the subject of a Players' League to me. I was asked if J wanted to go into it, as it would east mc $10,000. I was told that if I would get the grounds and erect the grand stand the players, for whom other club, had pald money, would be furnished me for noth-ing. I was furthermore told that we would get halt the gate receipts at home and abroad and that the players would sign contracts to take their salaries out of the gate receints. I thought the thing over. I had seen the cars on the oppo-sition street road loaded down with people go-ing to the games, and it occurred to me that here was a chance to wake a good investment. of interest to all. Ned Hanlon was the first here was a chance to unke a good investment, as I could get grounds on the street car line owned by my brother and myself. Visions of millions of deliars of profits loomed up in front of my oyes. And what one of you here is there but would have thought the same? I went to my brother. He advised me to keep out. But I knew better, as I imagined I had a cinch. Along in September my brother urged me to get out, but then I was so far in I could not back down with bonor to myself. It then be-came a matter of pride to me to see the thing through.

through. "And I want to say, gentiemen, that you can talk of the loyalty of a Ward, a Ewing, a Keefe, and so on, but give me Ned Hanlon above everybody else. He stands to day as the here of the Physer's Learne. He is the only ball player in that Learne who has held to the con-tract be signed. Not a penny has he received bas here work this season, although he has for his work this season, although he has played better ball than ever before.
