Day in the Supreme Court.

ONE MORE GRAFF-BENNETT ECHO. A Test Now Being Made of the Rights of Detained Witnesses.

OTHER WORK OF COURTS YESTERDAY

The Supreme Court yesterday continued consideration of Alleghenv county cases. Shortly after the opening of court the case of the appeal of Alderman Doughty from the finding of the Criminal Court, which was down on the list as the twelfth case for argument, was, by the request of the counsel on both sides, continued, and will be placed on the book as the last case. Nonprosses were entered in two cases of Mc-Afee vs Doherty et al and the appeal of Brindle.

The first case argued was the appeal of John F. Rivers, certierari to Common Pleas No. 2. This case is one for the possession of a piece of property in Lawrenceville. The property was conveyed by deed by John A. Miller to Fred Rivers. The children of John A. Miller claim that at the time the deed was given, Miller was unfit, mentally, to transact business. The counsel for Mr. Rivers, on the other hand, claims that Miller's mental condition was all right, and the property was deeded to Rivers at a very small price, because of his having taken better care of Mr. Miller than his own in Invorof the Commonwealth, and in conclusion sain, "A jurer should have no doubt where he would have no doubt where he would have no doubt as a man," which Mr. Robo thought was a palpable error.

The appeal of the Second National Bank of Allegheny from the final decree of Orphan's Court was next placed in argument. There are four of these cases, and they all bear on the one special count. The case is for the recovery of certain bonds mortgame, see, held as colf certain bonds, mortgages, etc., held as col-teral security of James Marshall, Jr., who has one of the trustees of the Marshall estate. he lower court decided that the funds of the state could not be held as the personal collat-tral security of James Marshall, Jr., on which sossion the appeal was taken. ANOTHER GRAFF-BENNETT ECHO.

in the appeal of the New York Life Insurance Company from C. P. No. 2, the argument was made by D. T. Watson. The appellants held a nortgage debt on the firm of Graff, sennett & Co., secured by real estate. The debt amounted to $450,000 evidenced by three bonds, two for $45,000 each and one for $360,000. After the firm's assignment the assignee paid see of these bonds, and $2,000 had been paid on decount of another bond. The whole amount s refused, hence the suit.
The appeal of A. D. Miller & Sons, certiorari

The appeal of A. D. Miller & Sons, certiorari to the Court of Quarter Sessions, was next taken up for argument. This case is one wherem A. D. Miller & Sons were indicted for keening and maintaining a muisance in the Sixth ward. Allegheny, the nuisance being an oil refluery which was alleged to have sent forth foul odors. The errors alleged are that the District Attorney who took no other part in the case, at the request of private counsel, exercised his power of standing aside the entire panel, and the court allowing evidence of a partial mature. The argument was made by Sol. Schoyer, Jr.

The argument for to-day are: Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs Weiss, Collins vs Charters Valley Gas Company, Lewis vs Rattigan, Swaney vs Hunter, Phillips vs Craft, Cornealius vs Hambay, Crawford vs Shriver, Edg vs Humphries, appeal of Wolf, appeal of Universe appeal of Millers and the contract and the first services and the contract of the con Cornealius vs. Hambay, Crawford vs. Shriver, Eing vs. Humphries, appeal of Wolf, appeal of Dittimans, appeal of Harrison, appeal of Koch, appeal of McCaffrey, Busting vs. Hogsett, Mc-Cracken & Sons vs. Hamburger.

A TEST CASE WANTED

Question as to What Rights Witnesses Are Entitled to.

County Controller Speer vesterday refused to witness fees. The woman was a witness in the one of the most beautiful and varied stock Killian murder case, and was committed to jail of goods in his line to be found west of by the Coroner, pending the trial of the case, She was in jail 305 days, and, according to custom, presented a bill for $1 a day for the time she was imprisoned. Judge White fol-lowed precedent by approving her bill. When the bill was presented to Controller peer he took a new course, and declined to nthorize the payment. He said there was no referred to a decision of Judge Wickham, of Beaver county, in a similar case. In this decision: it was held that witnesses for the Commonwealth who could not furnish bail for their appearance were not entitled to pay for the time they were in jall. The present case will probably be taken to the court for a decision which will serve as a rule for the future.

CRIMINAL COURT WORK.

Several Transgressors Whose Sins Didn't Fail to Find Them Out.

In the Criminal Court yesterday M. Portzer and Joseph Leber were tried on the charge of telonious assault. They were acquitted of this charge, but Portzer was found guilty on another charge, Martin Navish, Patsy Holohan and William Murdock were acquitted of the larceny of $100. Andreas Boroviak was acquitted of the charge of assault on Eva Jan-korska, aged 60 years. Margaret Piccard was acquitted of assault and battery on Kate Fleming.

The jury is out in the case of Kate Wenzel, alias Smith, tried for the larceny of a gold watch from R. S. Walter. Fied Reese was acquitted of assault on Mrs. Lena Kiefer. Jacob lig was convicted of keeping a ferocious yellow dog. Thomas Flocker is on trial on the charge of misdemganor in fraudulently appropriating parinership funds. The information was made by S. C. Barr.

WHY ARE THERE MORE

Everett Pianos Sold in These Cities Than Any Other Makes?

This question was asked of an Associated Press reporter, who, always on the lookout for news, proceeded to investigate, and was convinced that there have been double the number of Everetts sold during the past year to that of any other make represented in Western Pennsylvania, and led him to believe that the extraordinary popularity of this make of pianos was due solely to the fact: They are among the best upright pianos now manufactured, and while this cannot be successfully disputed, they are sold at a great reduction from the prices asked by retail dealers. This result is brought about by the new club or co-operative system of conducting the piano business, adopted by Alex. Ross, of Allegheny City. The plan is a simple business problem. It provides for the purchase of 350 pianos for each club, thus securing for the members the great reduction of $75 on each piano from the retail price.
