

On Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pittsburg Art Society was held in the Academy of Science building, on Fifth street. To some extent a programme for the season's receptions was marked out, and it is one of unusual interest and variety. The members of the board have not been idle during the summer, and it is safe to say that more important features, in the line of art and musical lectures and receptions, are in store for the members of the society than have ever heretofore been given in this city. Altorethes the season promises to be an unusually valuant one. The Art Society has been in existence about 18 years, and many of the older members have expressed the hope that it may now be incorporated in order that it may more fully meet the requirements of the present activity in art and musical matters. It is probable that some steps looking to this end will be taken in the sear future. in store for the members of the society than

An important collection of paintings, the Haseltine collection, is on exhibition at Gillesple's gallery this week. Many of the artists represented are for the first time seen in their works in this city. George H. Boughton, the American painter, is one of these. He is well represented by two important works, which are delightfully harmonious in color and pure in ception and design. Probably Boughton won greater distinction than any other rican painter, and his pictures of Puritan American painter, and his pictures of rattain maidens are familiar to all art lovers through reproductions. A small picture, "An Eastern Musician," by Charlemout, is a notably fine work, being finished with the utmost shill and knowledge conceivable. "Taking an Observation," by De Neuville, is a beautiful work, mellow and rich in color and tone. Rice is not a new name, but his picture is different from any herotofore exhibited in Pittsburg, both in subject and treatment. "Gathering the Herd," by Van Marcka, is not a large canvas, but it is a very good one, being tree in treatment and strong, as Van Marcke always is, in color. Alfred Stevens is represented by a very characteristic figure piece. "At the Mosque," by Pasini, is an unusually large and important work by this artist, Munkaosy is represented by a important land-scape, which is full of vigor and dash. It is a strong work. Charles Linford, whom we may still claim as a Pittsburg artist, is represented by a charming little landscape which hongs ens are familiar to all art lovers through by a charming little landscape which hangs text to the picture by Munkacsy. An excellent next to the jucture by Munkacsy. An excellent opportunity is offered comparing the work of our townsman with that of one of the most famous living painters. In refinement of color the Linford is the superior work. Altogether the collection is an excellent one, and every such collection should be warmly welcomed because of the undisputed educational influence exerted by good works of art.

Mr. A. L. King has just finished a portrait of Judge White. It might have been approprintely palated with water colors. Although very busy with portrait work, Mr. King has found time to paint a new fruit piece.

L'ANGELUS, Millet's famous picture, has been sold again. The negotiations have only just been completed in Paris by Mr. Austin Hobertson representing the American Art Association. It is not known yet exactly who the purchaser is, inasmuch as Mr. Robertson's nedistions have been carried on with agents, he picture has sold this time for 750,000 francs The picture has sold this time for 750,000 tranes as against 550,500 france, the price paid over a year ago by the American Art Association at the auction of the Secretan collection in Paris. It is conjectated that the "Angelus," when returned to Paris, will be placed by its purchaser in the Leavre, but nothing definite can be said about this until later. The picture will remain in this country until about the middle of December, the terms of the said requiring that it shall be delivered in Paris on January 1. It is now on exhibition in Boston. It had been suggested to seeing this picture, together with the Verestchagin collection, which is still intact, for exhibition this winter in the Carnegic gallery in Alighens. It would have been a great thing for Pittsburg, but if the terms of the said are correctly reported, the project is out of the question. Question.

WILLIAM M. CHASE exhibits in the art department of the mechanics' fair at Boston, a portrait of James McNelli Whistler, which is spoken of as itself highly Whistleresque in Anour the middle of next month Russell Sturgess, of New York, will deliver two important art lectures before the members of the Art Society. The subjects of the lectures have not yet been announced, but it is probable that one will be devoted to the art of painting and the other to scalpture. Mr. Storgess is spoken at as a gentleman of broad culture and thorough knowledge of the subjects he treats, and the members of the society anticipate a rare treat to these two lectures. The dates will be announced as early as possible in order that members may not be deprived, by other engage-ments, of hearing the distinguished lecturer.

Studio this week owing to the death of his sister. THE McKinley tariff bill as finally passed by Cong. cas imposes a duty of 15 per cent on works Congress imposes a dury of 15 per centen works of art. Presumably this duty is for the protection of the artists, but the American artist, with very few exceptions, united in a request to Congress to admit foreign sectures free, on the gro left has we need art education more than anything else in this country, and pictures elections influence.

THE eminent artist, M. Herkomer, is painting a portrait of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, AND now we are likely to have an attack of old musters in this country. "The Gilder," by Ecmirandi, secured last year for the Motropolitine Museum, has set the pace. This month Mr. Durand-Ruci imported a new Rembrandt, "Portrait of an Old Man," and also an impor-tant painting by Rubens.

A PORTRAIT of Judge Magee, by Mr. Daley, was shown during the past week. DURING the week Mr. Hetzel has been tryglound at this season about his Edgewood home, and the result of his efforts is a pleasing andscape depicting the glory of the seaso

ELOPEMENT IN THE AIR.

A Couple of Runaway Cases Reported From Robinson Township. Whether it be in the air or in the mud or in the waters under the earth has not been ascertained, but a spirit of unrest seems to have struck Robinson and Moon townships, and two elopements are reported. The first has been talked of for soome time, but, as the elopers were a lad and a lass without any matrimonial entanglements and only went away because parental consent could not be secured, the neighborhood is disposed to sympathize with them. Both live almost within a stone's throw of Ewing's Mill. It within a stone's throw of Ewing's Mill. It is said they fled to foreign parts—

New Jersey—to get the knot tied, and, having succeeded, have returned to Allegheny City, where they are awaiting the cooling of parental wrath. The neighbors suggest that the least said the soonest mended, and that the match may be the making of the boy, as he will soon teel the responsibility resting on him to maintain his wife, and will cuitivate domestic oats in consequence.

According to numerous stories told the other case is more serious. It is said quite numerously that a lady who, with her husband, has been living on a farm in Moon township, near the Imperial Coke Works, and owned by James W. Drape, has been missing since Monday. While the lady may only be on a visit, the disappearance of a man who is described as an auburn-haired oil well driller is by the gossipers connected with the lady's disappearance.

The gas well on the Wilson farm, near the Drape arm, has been roaring so as to be heard from three to five miles, according to the state of the atmosphere, and it may be possible that the couple have fled to get re-lief from the horrid noise. A sound like the roar of Niagara Falls may be tolerated tor a time, but one of sensitive nerves would soon be crazed if chained within a few feet
