trick resorted to to get the list of names of the members of the order." Mr. McFrederick was visited at his home last evening, and made the following statement:

when I saw the account of the Mechanics' circular affair in the paper this morning I was very much incensed. The idea of dragging the order into politics is foreign to the teachings and constitution of the organization. I had no idea that such a thing was being done. When I saw the circular and afterward the letters in to-day's DISPATCH I thought I would tell you, if you did not already know it, the trick worked to obtain the names used in mailing the circulars.

HOW THE NAMES WERE OBTAINED. Last Monday I was a little late getting to lodge, and when I went into the ante-room I found a man waiting for me. He was introduced as James Cramson, of The American. He told me he wanted a list of the lodge's He told me he wanted a list of the lodge's members to send out copies of The American, in order to increase the paper's circulation. I told him to come inside, but he said he did not have the password, so you can judge how good a Mechanic he was. I thought at the time that all was right and gave him the book, and he left, as he said, for his own council, 124, to get its roll-book. As proof that the circular came through The American office, Cramson told me to call for the roll-book at the office after next Treeday.

If my Council inderses Mr. Collins' action on the circular I will drop out, and I know I have some influence, too. If such a thing is possi-ble, I will have a resolution passed to-morrow night, denouncing the action of Stephen Collins.

I believe the American people were paid by the County Committee to obtain the list of names, for who would collect the names of 20,000 members for nothing? During the Bayne-Shiras fight Stephen Collins came to our lodge and talked against political action, and I am surprised at this last move.

W. S. Nesbit, Esq., the well-known attorney of 411 Grant street, who resides at Tarentum, a member of Tarentum Council No. 91, Jr. O. U. A. M., and an adherent to the same political party as Mr. Collins, last evening left the following at THE DISPATCH office for publication. Mr. Nesbit's language was no less emphatic than that of the circular appended: DEMANDING AN INVESTIGATION.

TAHENTUM, November 2, 1890. We, the undersigned members of Tarentum Council No. 91, Jr. O. U. A. M., have read with Indignation the letter which Stephen Collins, Esq., the State Councilor of our Order, ad-Esq., the State Councilor of our Order, addressed and mailed to O. S. Marshall, Esq., of Kittanning, Pa., and Recording Secretary of Kittanning, Council No. 238, Jr. O. U. A. M. It is well known that our order is non-political, non-partisan and purely patriotic and the circular sent our to our members by the Republican State Committee to the effect that the Republican party is the champion of the doctrines of the American Mechanics, and the Democratic party is opposed to our free school system, and that "75 per cent of the vote for Robert E. Patrison will come from those unalterably opposed to our giornous free school system," we regard as one of the meanest tricks of low, political demagnogy on the eve of a great State election that has come to our notice; it is a gross insult to our order, whatever our political preferment may be, and is a direct insult to our intelligence as American citizons, and bears its ralsity on its face.

That Mr. Stephen Collins, our State Councilor, should attempt to prostute the great erder of which he is the State bead, by violating

That Mr. Stephen Collins, our Saket Collins, or, should attempt to product the free of der of which he is the State head, by violating his solemn obligations, and in the face of law and morals attempting to boost the party of his and morals attempting to boat the particular political preferment, is a matter, to us, of prolound astonishment and regret. No matter what our politics or preferences, we denounce it as treason, high treason to the welfare of our order. We demand that Mr. Collins shall be removed from his position of trust and honor.

THEIR VIEW OF THE MATTER. Yes, Mr. Collins, your "dynamite expressed" to Mr. Marshall, of Kittanning, will indeed prove a "bonnerang," and in a way and manner you never dreamed of. We propose to take action on the matter at our regular meeting Monday evening, and request that all our sis-ter councils do likewise. W. S. Nesbit, W. W. Calpass,

Still another phase of the matter is indicated in the following special to THE DISPATCH from Claysville:

On last Thursday, the 30th ultimo, Mr. R. C. On last Thursday, the 30th ultime, Mr. R. C. McCracken, Secretary of Claysville Council No. 384, 47., O. U. A. M., received one of Stephen Colling how famous circulars. Mr. McCracken, at the time, refused to entertain the belief that it was of official origin, and pair but little attention to the matter until to-day, when the Marshall decay letter article was shown him in The DISPATCH.

Upon its being again brought to Mr. Mc-Cracken's notice he gave the circular a close inspection, and is now convinced it came from handquarters and is now not slow in express-mg his opinion of the matter.

When questioned regarding it he said to THE DISPATCH correspondent to-night:

The State Councillor Interviewed Concerning the New Famous American Mechanic Circulars-He Says He Did Not Know Marshall Was in the Order.

A telegram from a staff correspondent of THE DISPATCH in Philadelphia last night says: Messrs. Stephen Collins, Sheriff McCandless, Charles F. Jahn and E. F. Graff, of Pittsburg, arrived in this city last night. They slept at the Hotel Lafayette, and there I interviewed Mr. Collins this evening about the attempt to get the American Mechanics interested in the Gubernatorial campaign. The story was sent out from this city last Wednesday, and even then Mr. Collins' name was used by the Democrats in connection with it.

"It is all a campaign canard," he said this evening. "Here is the whole inwardness of the matter: Some time ago one of the prominent members of the Allegheny County Republican Committee was in Philadelphia, and saw here a lot of campaign circutars about Governor Pattison's veto of Senate bill No. 27 in 1883, which had important relations to the school directors of cities of the second class. As Pirtsburg is the only city of the second class, he thought it would make good local campaign thunder, and took home to Pittsburg a big batch of the circulars. He came to me and said that as it was a matter affecting the public schools, the American Mechanics would be interested in it. I explained my official connection with the order, and declined to send the circulars. It would have put me in a very compromising position. He saw my position at once, and said he would seek some other way of reaching the Mechanics. I told him that at the publish-ing house of the American Mechanics' paper in Pittsburg he could buy for 25 cents a gum sheet containing the names and addresses of all the Mechanics. I told him I had to buy one of those sheets whenever I wanted to get the addresses; that they were open to any one, and he could buy one as well as I could. He afterward told me that he could. He afterward told me that he bought one of the sheets. He had the circu-lars sent out from Republican headquarters, and I had not a single thing to do with their

'Now, as to the Marshall correspondence The letters as published in THE DISPATCH are correct. This man Marshall wrote asking if I could get him the circulars. I went and got them, because he asked me to. The whole transaction was done as a private citizen and a Republican, and not as State Conncillor of the order. I do not know this man Marshall, and did not know he was in the order. My remarks in the letter about 'dynamite' and 'boomerangs' were simply tacerious. At this late date the whole episode has been made sensational for political effect, and I assure you it was all very harmless, so far as I was concerned. The prominent Republican of Allegheny county

By the Receipt of Circulars From a Detective Agency Threatening Action in Court for

VIOLATIONS OF THE LOTTERY LAW.

Packages of Tobacco, Accompanied by Tickets Calling for Prizes, Put Under the Counter.

SOME THINK IT A BIT OF JEALOUSY.

Kanufacturers Tracing the Matter and Promise Sens tional Results.

The retail tobacco dealers of Pittsburg are oretty thoroughly scared over the receipt of sirculars threatening them with prosecution for violation of the new anti-lottery law. Most of the retail dealers have been handling some brands of tobacco with which prizes are offered. The bags of tobacco contain numbered cards and a certain number of cards, or a complete series of them, calls for a watch, pipe, or other prize. These schemes of introducing brands of tobacco have seemingly caught on greatly, and nearly all of the dealers have a stock on hand. On receiving the circulars some of them were very scared and put the tobacco under their counters. The circular is signed by W. P. Hazen, Superintendent of Hazen's Detective Agency, Cincinnati. It reads as follows: The anti-Lettery Association has been or ganized for the purpose of securing the prose-cution of all persons violating the anti-lottery law recently passed by the United States Con gress, and prosecuting all persons who, as prin-cipals, or as aiders and abettors, seek to increase the sale of tobacco, baking powder watches, candy, or other articles of merchan dise by any lottery or scheme of chance.

WARNING OF PROSECUTIONS. The undersigned has been employed by said association to prosecute persons violating the laws of your State, a copy of which is herewith inclosed, against lotteries and schemes of chance. You are hereby notified, if engaged in he sale of any article of merchandise put on the market by persons, partnerships or corpora tions who agree to give the purchasers of said articles money, watches or property of any kind, by means of any lottery or scheme of chance, unless the same is discontinued you will be prosecuted for violation of the law. Each tobacco man is puzzled to know why he in particular was sent the intended warning, and that by a detective agency. Some have an idea that the circular is a scheme pushed by rival tobacco firms. Others think it may be the work of the big Southern lottery company, which hopes by such means to make the new law so odious in its application that it will be repealed.

ONE FIRM REASSURED. Browne Brothers, the Smithfield stree dealers, were among those who received the circulars. They were in a quandary what to do in the matter until Mr. J. A. Barry, the general agent for one firm offering prizes with its tobacco, called at the store. Mr. Barry assured them that the circular was harmless, and that there was no danger in selling the tobacco. The tobacco was then again put on sale as before. A number of other firms visited by Dispared other firms visited by DISPATCH reporters have not yet decided whether to run any

Mr. Barry was seen later by a DISPATCH reporter. He said he had been notified of the deluge of circulars being sent to Pittsburg, and had hurried on from Philadel-phia to counteract their effect. He learned that Indiana and Delaware, as well as Pennsylvania, are being flooded with the circulars. He said that no information could be obtained regarding the prime movers in the scheme to stop the sale of such tobaccos. All that is known is that Hazen's Detective Agency is taking the in-itiation in the crusade, so far. Who the Anti-Lottery Association represents, or whether it exists at all, Mr. Barry says, cannot be ascertained, though detectives have been employed for that purpose.

The detective sgency has brought action at different times and in different States against the tobacco companies, but has not yet secured a conviction. In no instance, up to the present time, have the attacks been directed toward the retail dealers. A grand jury in Wheeling refused to return a true bill, and a case brought to the courts in Cincinnati was dropped. Another case, now pending in the Cincinnati courts, has been postponed from time to time and is still lagging along, with no definite action. SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS AWAITED.

Hazen's Detective Bureau, of Cincinnati, is reputed to be managed by responsible persons, but it is the secret motive, if any exists, of the employers of the agency, to which the tobacco firms interested are now directing their attention. Some sensational levelopments are promised in the future.

On the other hand, it is asserted that the Anti-Lottery Association is a reality; that certain men have banded themselves together to see the precepts of the new law carried out to the letter. If this be so, then there still comes the hitch as to whether the law affects the methods of introducing goods referred to. A test case may soon be made, the contest carried to the limit, and the whole inwardness of the detective agency's

Freight Agent Says the Profits Would be Larger if Less Traffic Was Hauled-The Union Pacific Snarl Not Yet Settled in the

"The railroads of the country would make nore money if they carried less traffic," said freight agent yesterday. "That may ound like a strange statement, but it is true. It is on the same principle of giving a man oo much work to do; he can't do it well, and he is liable to become rattled and do nothing. The roads all over the United States are rushed, and they are feeling very independ-

"Take the Ft. Wavne, for example. If a car of freight is started here for Chicago it should get there in three days, and the car could be back in Pittsburg in four days more with a return load, but with the crowded condition of the road you can't hope to have freight reach the Windy City inside of eight or nine days. There are so many trains that they impede each other's progress, and the equipment is tied up longer than it should be. The through pas-senger trains are side-tracked with great regularity to allow the freights to pass and get out of the road. What is true of the Ft. Wayne will apply to other lines both East and West."

and West."

There is somewhat of a snarl in the freight business from the Missouri river as a result of the Union Pacific insisting on a larger percentage of the through rates for its share. It is seldom that a road will invite a boycott, but this is what the Union Pacific has done. The officials say they have all the freight they can handle, so that it doesn't make much difference. The Eastern connections are out for the "stuff," and they are shipping their freight west and they are shipping their freight west over the line that offers them the best percentage. President Adams in a recent state-ment shows a wonderful increase in the gross earnings of the Union Pacific, and he claims that if the line had had the equipment, $1,000,000 more could have been made. Local agents are afraid if the strained relations continue much longer that somebody will get hurt, and rate slashing may be the

SHOT BY A NATIVE.

Mr. Darley Relates an Incident of Life in the Fend Country.

E. C. Darley, of Roanonke, Va., and his wife, registered at the Duquesne last evening. He says he hasn't been in the South for several weeks. He was worried about young Norris Watts, a son of Sir Edgar Watts, who was shot in the groin by a cracker while in the mountains at Cumberland Gap a few days ago. Mr. Darley, as the Southern representative of J. P. Witherow & Co., is building some furnaces for the English company at Middlesborough. When he arrived here he received a telegram stat-ing that young Watts was not dangerously hurt and would recover.

"This shooting of Mr. Watts," said Mr. Darley, "only illustrates the devilishness of the natives living in the Kentucky mountains. The boy was returning home across the hills from a visit to Captain Livingston, when a fellow came out from a cabin and shot him. The boy managed to drag him-self back to his friend's house, where he was cared for. The South is growing, and these people resent the introduction of civiliza-tion. They don't like to see good people coming into the country, for they know they must get out.'

Some months ago Mr. Darley's son was crossing the mountains on horseback when a native stopped him, and leveling a rifle at his head asked for the time of day with an oath. Young Darley had met this kind be-fore, and answered his question without a kick. The bushwhacker drew in his rifle and started on his way, feeling that he had done a great thing. This is the style of Southern braggadocio.

It is a rare man, indeed, who can close a contract for $500,000. He may never be seen in the office groaning over figures, or trying to get in enough money to pay off the hands, but he is hustling, and, besides using his head, he is forced to call into action his stomach, and the eating is the hardest part "Is much wining and dining necessary?" "Oh, yes, my boy. It is an old saying that a man is easily reached through his stomach, and it is surprising how much tickling the palate with wines and dainties will accomplish."

"Mein Gott! er ist todt!" It was Mrs. Barbara Boschat who gave tterance to this heartrending exclamation last evening when the door of a room on the third story of No. 533 Smithfield street was burst in, and the dead body of Charles Fischer discovered lying on the floor, and hanging by the head from the bed post.

Fischer was a printer employed on the Freiheit's Freund. He roomed with another man named Ansley, at the place named, and according to the evidence of his landlady, Mrs. Boschat, was a quiet man, though rather given to outbreaks of drinking. These would be followed in turn by fits of melancholis, but during the two years that he resided with Mrs. Boschat he had never evinced any disposition to injure him-On Saturday night Fisher had been drinking a little, and returning home had had a

He had packed away his effects in his trunk; put his books away carefully in their accustomed case, and then had written two letters. One of these was to the foreman of the Freiheit's Freund, which he had afterward destroyed, and the other was to his landlady asking him to in-torm his brother Frank, at Edgewoodville, Pa., of the fact of his death. This request was complied with last night by telegraph. Fischer was a native of Switzerland, about 30 years of age and unmarried. He was a small man, with a rather heavy face, light complexion and wore a slight mustache. He was about ten years in this country and a member of German Typographical Union No. 9. Caterer Menjou, of the Duquesne, Stake 84 Hat on Pattison. Albert Menjou, the caterer at the Duquesne, was a happy man yesterday. He doesn't know much about the politics of the State, but like most Frenchmen he couldn't resist taking a bet with odds.

"I made a bet to-day," he said, in his pretty foreign secent, "and I got odds. A man bet me a $5 hat to a $4 one that Delamater would win, and I took the short end on Pattison."
"You had better pay over your $4," remarked Manager Witherow, with a smile, "but whoever heard of a man making such a funny wager?" WARNED OF A SURPRISE

An Allegheny Tailor Shop Entered by Burglars Last Night-An Open Cellar Door and a Shot by a Policeman Capture On theny tailor, that Special Officer Eckert appened around his store just as he did last right. The officer was passing the rear entrance, to see if all was well, when he noticed a cellar door open. At the same moment a man bounded out of the cellar and ran up the alley. The runner would not stop when called to. The officer shot at him, and as running wasn't after all his forte, just at that time, gave himself up. When the officer returned with his prisoner another man sprang past him and was out of sight before the officer could overhaul him. When taken to the lockup the prisoner gave his name as Harry Thompson, o Buffalo. He was neatly dressed, and said he boarded at Boley's Hotel. Letters in his pocket were addressed to Arthur Sargent, at Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago. After his arrest Officer Eckert and Roundsman Lee looked through the cellar of the tailor store, but the mon had evidently just entered the place, as nothing was disturbed, and the door leading to the storeroom above was locked on the inside. The man who es-caped carried a small bundle, which Officer Sokert thinks contained burglar's tools.

An Innocent Crafton Woman Gets Into a Southside Police Station.

Mrs. Laura Nichols, a young colored woman who lives at Crafton station, was arrested on the Southside by Officer Smith yesterday afternoon and locked up in the Twenty-eighth ward station. Mrs. Nichols was alleged to have stolen a watch and chain from a colored man named Willis Robbins. The prisoner wept bitterly and begged to be allowed to go home to her children, one of whom was suffering with a broken leg. She denied stealing the watch, which was found in her possession, and stated that she had sold it to Robbins, only paid her $1 on it, and she grabbed it

Mr. Robbins called later, admitted the woman's story was true and wanted her re-leased, as she was perfectly innocent and had not been arrested on his charge.
