AFTER SEAL PIRATES

The Cruise of the Revenue Cutter Bear in Behring Sea.

NO CHANCE FOR SEIZURES THERE.

Small Opportunity for Seal Poachers to Ply Their Trade.

WHY THE SEALS ARE DIMINISHING

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.1 San Francisco, November 4.-Late ad-Vices from Ounalaska, Alaska, say that the officers of the revenue cutter Bear, lying there, were much surprised to see the steamer Bertha appear flying a United States flag-When Captain Healy, of the Bear, learned of the Bertha's mission, which was to cruise around the seal islands, he agreed to assume her duty, as the weather is so rough now in Behring Sea that only the stanchest vessels can live through the storms, and only the most experienced navigators in the Arctic waters dare encounter the gales that rage near the seal islands. The officers of the Bear were greatly amused by the tales of the seal peaching that have been circulated. The best answer to these yarns is to give the details of the recent cruise of the Bear. CEUISE OF THE BEAR. On September 6 the Bear started on her first cruise around the seal islands. Up to October 14 no attempt had been made by any scaling schooner to raid the rookeries. One vessel called for water, but her master was warned against the violation of law. On October 15 Captain Healy, then at St. George's Island, was informed that tour schooners had raided seal rookeries the previous day. The guard reported two boats landed but when he fired they escaped, leaving 100 dead seals that they shot but failed to skin. Investigation showed the killing was correct, but no truce could gained of more than two schooners Nothing has been seen of any other peachers near the islands, and the Alaska Commercial Company reports that six schoopers had gone through the entrance of Behring Sea on their way home, as the weather was ming too rough for hunting. The Bear on the second cruise September 26, and cruised around the islands until October 13, encountering the worst weather that Captain Healy ever experienced in the Arctic. HOPES OF HOME DISPELLED.

During one gale the ship hove to for hree days and it required all her strength and Healy's seamanship to preserve her from wreck. On October 15 the Bear again reached Ounalaska and the officers hoped she was headed for home, but the Bertha's arrival dashed these, and Healy decided to make another cruise around the rookeries. To show how small the chance is for sea pirates to work at these islands it may be well to state that only one rookery, Zapa-dine, is out of sight of the village. At Zapadine there is a guard which gives warning of the arrival of any boat. With an east wind no vessel can land there. At ne other point on St. George's can scals be killed by a boat's crew. Native guards are watching night and day at the rookery and they fire on any intruser. Only one vessel landed its crew on either of the Prybitoff Islands the past season to kill seals, and this attempt proved a failure, as they did not secure skins a ter shooting 100 seals. The risk of landing in the heavy breakers is very great, and from August till November seal pelts are in the poorest condition, the hair dropping off in patches. WHY SEALS ARE DIMINISHING.

There is no doubt seals on Seal Island have diminished in a marked degree this season. Two factors account for this. One is the large number of schooners killing seals in the Pacific Ocean and the Behring Sea and the other is the ravages of the killer whale. The latter i- a ter or to sea lions, while female seals swim near the whales without fear and hence fall an easy prey to the whale's voracity. It is reported from Sank that upon the rocks surrounding that island carea-ses of seals killed by poaching schooners have been washed up in many cases with the tur still intact, showing the reckless slaughter this season. Experts declare that the Revenue Marine should be detailed as a gaurd on the seal islands and the present system of Government agents abolshed. The presence of the Bear near the islands awares protection of the seals until they leave for warmer waters.

It was recently reported that 5,000 galinlu in American whalers for Alaska. Cap-ain Healy declares these spirits go to Siberia, where no laws against liquor traffic with the natives are enforced. Only one American wholer was caught this season with whisky on board, and that was confis-ing an article in which it was suggested that Of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh Mr. Scovel had married Miss Roosevelt for is daily becoming better known, as people rec-ognize in its use the common-sense method of treating this disease. Local applications can do but little good. Catarrh is constitutional in character and therefore requires a constitu-tional remedy. Hood's Sarsaparilla attacks the disease at its foundation by eliminating the impurities in the blood which cause and feed it, and by restoring the affected membrane to healthy condition. A book containing full information will be sent free to all who wish it.

Thought She Had Consumption. "My daughter has had catarrh for nine years. She coughed and expectorated so much that everyone thought she had consumption. I tried everything I heard of but gained no relief. I sent her to Florida in September for the winter, and there her friends advised her to use liood's Sarsaparilla. She wrote me that she had taken three bottles and never felt so good in her life." Mrs. McKnight, 137 Will
