The Supreme Court Affirms the Verdict in the Court Below.

AND ORDERS HIS COMMITMENT.

Self-Defence the Plea in the Murder Trial Now Being Heard.

With vesterday's cases the Supreme Court to the penitentiary for four years and ten months. The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the lower court. Error was alleged in the charge of the Judge to the jury, in reply to which the decision says:

jury, in reply to which the decision says:

After a careful examination of all the testimony, we believe it justified the charge of the count; it pressed heavily on the defendant by the weight of the case, not the charge of the count. The jury have nothing to reproach themselves with in view of the testimony, and assuming the defendant's guilt, as we must do, he certainly escaped with a very merciful sentence. The judgment of the lower court is therefore affirmed, and the defendant is ordered to surrender himself to the High Sheriff for confinement in the Western Penitentiary in obedience to the sentence of the court below.

Orr, the defendant, was present in the Supreme Court room yesterday morning.

Supreme Court room yesterday morning, and after learning the decision went out. There was also a middle-aged lady present who sat weeping near the door, and one of the attendants asked her what the trouble was. Through her sobs and tears she said she wished to know what had been done in the case of Mr. Orr. She was told that the Supreme Court refused his application for a reversal of his case and he would have to go to the penitentiary. She burst out with a "Thank God!" She was May Kelly's

A number of cases were argued yesterday be fore the Supreme Court before the final adjournment. The most important was the appeal of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company from the decree of the Court of Common Picas No. 2. The cases were cross suits in equity between the Pittsburg Junction Railroad Company, and the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company. The point in contest was the road Company. The point in contest was the laying of the branch line of the Junction Railfrom Thirty-third street to Eleventh street, to connect with the various mills. From Twentieth street to Sixteenth street, the line was over ground along the river bank, owned by the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company. The first bill was brought to restrain the Allegheny Valley Railroad from interfering with the Junction in laying its tracks. The second, or cross bill, was filed against the Junction to restrain it from laying its tracks on the property of the A.V. R. R. Co. The cases were referred to a master, who decided in favor of the Junction Railroad Company, holding that the courts have no other authority in a case of this chancet than the regulation and limitation of the exercise of the power of eminent domain so far as to preserve as nearly as possible the fullest enjoyment of the powers of each company for the objects for which they were granted giving a preference of privilege to the one prior in entreet, to connect with the various mills. From for which the powers common to both are THE MASTER SUSTAINED. The lower court sustained the master, and an appeal was taken. It is claimed that the Court erred in overruling certain exceptions to reference of privilege to the one prior in en syment, but not so as to disappoint the object

the master's report and finding.

An argument was heard on the appeal of An argument was heard on the appeal of Charles Lockhart and others from the C. P. No. I. The case was the suit brought by Lockhart and others against the Craig Street Railway and the Duquesne Traction Company to prevent the latter from laying its tracks on Negley avenue, and claiming that they would destroy the paving and injure the plaintiffs property. The Court refused the injunction asked for and an appeal was taken. destroy the paving and injure the plaintiffs' property. The Court refused the injunction asked for, and an appeal was taken.

An argument was heard in the case of Mary S. Jenks against the Banner Lodge of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, and Mrs. Salome Reeg appealed by the plaintiff from Common Pleas No. 1. The suit was an action on a policy on the life of Martin Reeg. He and his wife, Salome Reeg, were members of the order, and each was insured in layor of the other. They separated, however, and Reeg made a will assigning the beneats under his certificate to the plaintiff. He died, and she claimed the insurance, holding that Reeg had given his wife a bouse and lot to release all claims on his estate. The wife also claimed the insurance, and the Court decided in her favor on the ground, among other things, that Mrs.

THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

November Term Opened Yesterday With the Jury, Which is Called To-Day. At the United States Circuit Court opening of NEWS FROM THE MILL OF JUSTICE were ready, and the day was spent by Judge Acheson in hearing the arguments in the case of J. White. White was a commercial traveler, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, With yesterday's cases the Supreme Court finished its business and adjourned, after having heard seven cases during the day and decided $5.

The decision in the case of James L. Orr, the real estate dealer found guility of an assault upon a young girl, May Kelly, was the most important. He had been sentenced to the peniteutiary for four years and ten that is arrested in the borough of Union City, Eric county, Pa., while soliciting orders for a book, for having no license as required by the borough. He was in the employ of a Cleveland, O., firm, and refused to pay the fine imposed, applying to the United States Court for a write of habeas corpus. F. M. McClintock, Esq., appeared for White. He claimed that under the Constitution and the inter-State commerce law the borough had no right to tax the agent for a firm in another State for soliciting orders, and that his arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and was arrested in the borough of Union City, and book, for having no license as required by the borough. SUING A ROAD FOR DAMAGES.

William H. Hamilton's Claim Against the

was sent after Orr, to arrest him. He could not be found, but as he was under $8,000 bail no fears were entertained that he would escape. Shortly before 4 o'clock Officer Pender found Orr on Grant street and took him to the Sheriff's office, and thence to jail.

An action for damages brought against Orr by May Kelly is now pending.

Several decisions were made in wholesale liquor cases, and in that of David Goldman, the Court said: 'The record shows the refusal to be for the reason that the applicant does not possess the qualifications required by the act of Assembly. This is sufficient, and judgment is affirmed.' In all the other like cases no comment is made, the 'judgment affirmed, per curiam,' being the only indersement.

Before hearing the last arguments of the session the Court handed down opinions and decisions as follows:

ANOTHER MURDER TRIAL.

Samuel Walker Charged With Killing William Stewart at Swissvale. Samuel Walker, colored, is on trial before Judge Magee for the murder of William Stew-art, also colored. The homicide occurred near Swissvale on the morning of Sunday, September 28. The morning was spent in selecting a jury. District Attorney Johnston is prosecuting the case, and Messrs. Marshall, Patterson ing the case, and Messrs. Marshall, Patterson and Scaife are attorneys for the defense.

The trouble occurred at a dance and the testimony goes to show that Stewart waited and attacked Walker when he started home. Walker at first ran, but Stewart threw stones at him and he turned and fired. When he found that Stewart was dead he gave himself up to the constable. The trial continues to-day.

HEREDITY OF CRIME. Curious Phases and the Bireful Results Inherited Disease.

Doubtless crime is often committed from the mere love of it.

The identity of "Jack the Ripper" remain undircovered, so we do not know what impelled him to the commission of his atrocious crimes. Little doubt he was insane, his actions con-trolled by an abnormal condition of the mind; it is plain none of the ordinary reasons for crime prevailed in his case. He was, perhaps, a victim of some hereditary taint, which drove him to acts against which his will! revolted and from which, in his rational moments, his soul recoiled in horror. A French novelist of realism makes the hero of a late novel of such a character. He was a locomotive engineer, a thoroughly competent and reliable man; but if he chanced to behold the white throat of a woman, a wild phrenzy seized rim; he could not control a desire to plunge a knife into it.

He was aware of his infirmity, fought it with a stubborn will, denied himself the society of women, and for years controlled himself. At last he meets his fate; finds pleasure in her society, with no return of his old longing for blood, until he flatters himself he is safe. But one night she meets him with gleaming throat bare; the uncontrollable impulse seizes him; he cannot resist; as she throws her loving arms about him he thrusts the knife into her neck, and-she falls, a victim to the madness of tainted blood,

Fortunately for the victims of ordinary forms of inherited disease, they may protect them-selves before it obtains dominance in the system. Inherited kidney disease is especially dangerous, but may be successfully resisted. "In 1883, I was so near death's door with an inherited and complicated case of Bright's disease," writes James H. Dove, 217 Baldwin street, Alpena, Mich., August 11th, 1890, "which had baffled all remedies and medical assistance obtainable, that I was given up by friends and physicians as beyond all recovery. In this ex-tremity I was induced to try Warner's Safe Cure, which very soon gave me relief, and led me to persevere in its use, until I again became able to attend to my business. My case is well known in this community, and I feel fully war-ranted in recommending Warner's Safe Cure in cases of kidney disease, knowing full well that I would long since have been in my grave, had it not been for the use of this

"For nearly two years I was troubled with estarrh. My head and nose would stop first on one side and then the other. There were occasional roaring, deafening noises in my ears. I could feel the mucus dropping back into my throat, which kept me always hawking and raising to clear it. As my trouble grew worse sharp, shooting pains would take me in the chest. Then a sense of depression and tightness there. It was very difficult for me to breathe. My breath would come in short, hard gasps, and I would be so weak I could hardly stand.
