REAL SWORDS DRAWN

Manager E. D. Wilt Promises to Put Colonel Samuel Dawson in the Western Penitentiary.

BIJOU AND OPERA HOUSE AT WAR.

Three Attaches of the Sixth Street Play House to Have a Hearing for Conspiracy.

HOT STATEMENTS FROM BOTH SIDES.

Each Charges the Other With Having Stolen Destroyed Lithographs.

The Bijon Theater and the Grand Opera House are at war, and it is not the harmless kind with a background of painted scenes, but war to the knife with brilliant lithographs for the groundwork and primary cause. Colonel Samuel Dawson, the advertising agent of the Bijou, is under arrest for conspiracy preferred by E. D. Wilt, manager of the Grand Opera House. Anthony Kearnev and Charles Borrini, two of the Bijou lithographers, are in the same boat with Mr. Dawson, and all will have a hearing to-day before Alderman McMasters. They are each under $1,000 bail.

Manager Wilt charges the men with having torn up his lithographs.

Last night Mr. Wilt said: "A number of things underlie the charge of conspiracy. There may possibly be a suit for damages. All the trouble has commenced since Colonel Dawson became advertising agent of the Bijou. Some time ago I know he took a wagon load of my standing boards and floated them down the river. I could not, however, prove positively that he did it because he had the work done by outside men

ONLY HEARSAY EVIDENCE.

"I did not prosecute because I have never vet lost a law suit, and I will not bring one on hearsay evidence. The Bijou men have stolen my paper continually. Now, I do not believe in circus advertising, and am in favor of using the newspapers. I have crowded the lithographs down until I now only put out 1,000 lithographs together with the stands and three-sheets. When the 'Great Metropolis' came here the agent, Frank McClov, came instructed to do circus billing whether I wanted to or not, I, of course, refused, and then, at the company's own expense, Mr. McCloy put out 4,000 lithographs and 30 stands.

This was too much for the opposition. On Friday when Henry Green, of the Bottom of the Sea' company, and Mr. Dawson went out to see how their paper looked, they could see nothing but 'Great Metropolis' paper. Green was mad and Dawson, who had swelled the heads of the Bijou people on his advertising ability, was scared. He was afraid the Bijou management would see their agent at $50 a week was a useless piece of furniture, when Wilt with fewer men could out-bill him and still stand up at night and sell tickets.

CHECKED BY A RIVAL. "Then in revenge he had 1,000 'wait bills' printed. All his men were sent out. They took down the 'Great Metropolis' paper, gave out the story that the 'Great Metropolis' was busted, that the Opera House would be closed, and that the people should wait for the 'Superba.' They said they were working for the Opera House, but as they did not have any passes for the Opera House Mr. Wilt had made arrangements to give out Bijon passes.

they have used my trade mark, The penalty for conspiracy is two years to the penitentiary and I am confident of winning this case. Why I have 100 witnesses to bring up. The same thing was done in Cleveland and the man who did it was yesterday sentenerd a year to the penitentiary.

"As for the suit against me for putting bills on telegraph poles, I was warned once and took the bills down. What were put up last week were without my permission. Telegraph poles everywhere are covered with Yellow Dog Social advertisements, patent medicine and newspaper cards. Then on all areaways there are Bijou bill boards, yet they made me take my board down from in front of my house. If I am fined I will make the authorities bring down every loose bill board and every card off the telegraph poles. I will show them what war is. They cannot make a target out of me without get-

THE COLONEL STILL HAPPY. . Samuel Dawson was found at his office in the Bijou last night in his usual happy humor. He does not have any fears of losing either his salary or his liberty.

"The great cause of the matter was this," said Mr. Dawson. "The 'Great Metropolis' came to us, but we did not consider it strong enough to book. They found a place at the Opera House. About that time I discharged three lithographers, and two of them were given employment by either Mr. Wilt or Fred McCloy, of the 'Great Metropolis.' From his company Mr. McCloy received a telegram to do the Bijon if it cost $1,000.

"After billing the town splendidly, as usual. ou if it cost $1,000, ling the town splendidly, as usual, our of the Sea, I started out on riday with Mr. Green. You couldn't have told the Bottom of the Sea' was to be played told the Bottom of the Sea' was to be played in Pittsburg. All our paper had been torn down, I believe by the men whom I had discharged. It looked as if the Opera House was doing dirt, and in retaliation some of our boys may have taken down the Opera House paper, but it was without orders from me.

"As for the want bills they evidently have done good for 'Superba' and they should not complain. It mortified me to see so much good paper destroyed, for each lithograph cost the commany 7 cents. Ever since I have been here the lithographers have jumped on me because I was a stranger, knew the advertising business and was getting a rood salary. However, as I was a strainer, and a good salary. However, as long as I remain I will try to keep the flies off all the people who come up against me. Wilt all the people who come up against me. Will and the others have been outwitted and now, like babies, they are crying dirt."

MAYOR GOURLEY'S REFORM.

The Usual Annual Reports Are Not Accurate Enough to Please Him. Mayor Gourley is moving a reform in the city government by which the heads of departments will report to him twice a year instead of nce, and he will make two reports to Councils In outlining the matter yesterday Mayor Gour lev said: "I am not issuing any orders, but I intend to confer with the heads of departments concerning their annual reports. They report to me each year in December, and with these reports I give my annual address to Councils, and on these the appropriation for the coming year are based. These reports can only be made up for ten months in the year. The expenses for the other two have to be approximated, as these reports are incombe approximated, as these reports are incomplete.

"I intend to request heads of departments—for I have no power to order—to furnish me with complete reports for the year. Then I will make another report to Councils, and at the same time present all the reports of the different departments. Of course this will have no effect on the appropriation, but it will he an exact report, which will be a guide for city legislation during the remainder of the year. This, of course, will all depend on the action of the heads of departments. I will also advocate the idea of having all the reports printed in one volume instead of having sepated in one volume instead of having sepa rate reports published. It would be more venient, and would save the city about $1,000." Book Agent Stewart Finds More Trouble. F. M. Stewart, the Wood street book agent, who was arrested several days ago on charges of false pretense preferred against him by sev eral young men who claim that they were swindled out of $2.50 each, waived a hearing before Alderman McKenna yesterday after-noon and entered bail for trial at the Decem-

THE LADIES WINNING. LAST NIGHT'S BALLOT ON THE WOMAN QUESTION.

the Matter.

Emory and St. Paul's Churches Vote on the Subject With Some Surprising Results-Not Very Much Interest Being Taken in

THE WAY THE WORK IS TO BE DONE The Methodist ladies surely captured the day in the ballot on the "woman question" State Canal Commissioners Meet to Discuss taken yesterday. All along the line it was favorable to the fair ones, though the line was not very long. With all the voting pre-cincts heard from the ladies won by the very handsome majority of 26 out of 182 votes cast. W. L. SCOTT MAY BUILD IT HIMSELF The contests were only held at two churches the Emory and St. Paul churches in the East the Emory and St. Paul churches in the East End. At the Emory Church, on Penn avenue, Rev. C. V. Wilson, pastor, the polls were kept open from 7 to 9:15 P. M. and 93 votes were cast. Of these 56 were ladies and they nervously picked out their ballet, it being an uncommon thing for them to vote, while the 37 gentlemen did up the work like a master hand. The majority of the ladies voted on age, "I'm so glad my birthday was yesterday," remarked one of the charmers, "I was so anxious to vote and was afraid they would hold the election too soon."

the election too soon."
"My birthday came last week," said another.
"I just want to show the men that I can vote as well as they," and she deposited her ballot in the box.

The ladies stayed around the church a while after having done their duty in the election. Of course they talked, but in the majority of cases the question under discussion differed somewhat from the one voted upon. Sometimes the men chipped in a few words and thus the conversation got mixed. For instance: "I trimmed mine with blue ribbons," said a very young lady.

"What, your ballot?" inquired a young man who happened to join the crowd at that instant who happened to join the crowd at that instant and didn't know that fancy work was the sub and didn't know that fancy work was the subject then under discussion.

And when the result was announced! One young lady had been in the room where the count was made and came running out exclaiming: "Guess how it came out!"

"We wou" and "we lost" were the replies from every hand, and then when the little messenger announced that "we really did win" there wasn't so much as the faintest applause. There were a few long-drawn-out "a-h-h's" and that was all.

The result was pretty much the same at St. Paul's Church, on Liberty avenue, Rev. B. F. Beazell, pastor, though not quite so many votes were cast. There are about 200 in the church eligible to vote, and only 35 voted, the result being 24 for and 15 against lady representation. The vote was taken after the regular weekly prayer service.

One of the laymen said last night while the vote was being taken at the Emory Church that the question was not very interesting, and that it would require a two-thirds vote at the Conference to allow the ladies a sitting. For this reason he thought that the vote would not have very much weight, no matter how it goes.

FELL INTO A TRAP.

Superintendent Stephen Collins Tells Why

His Resignation Was Accepted. The resignation of Mr. Stephen Collins ndent of Mails at the Pittsburg post office, was accepted yesterday by Superintendent Bell, of the Railroad Mail Service at Washington. Mr. Collins sent in his resigna tion when a Democratic administration wen into power, but at the earnest request of Post into power, but at the earnest request of Postmaster Larkin, who appreciated the value of Mr. Collins' efficient services, the postoffice officials took no action and pigeon-holed it.
It is stated unofficially that the acceptance of the resignation now is due to Mr. Collins' absence from his post without leave. In speaking of the matter, Mr. Collins said: 'I attribute the action mostly to the fuss raised over the Jr. O. U. A. M. matter in the late election. A trap was laid for me, and I unwittingly fell into it. I did not send the circulars out as an official. They were regular campaign documents and I had to send to headquarters to get them when they were applied for. I could, if I had thought, just as well have sent the applicant to headquarters for them. This, I think, is the chief cause for accepting a resignation I sent chief cause for accepting a resignation I sent in four years ago. I have not been squarely treated."

ALONE IN A GREAT CITY.

Stranded Miner's Family. Mrs. John Farmer and five children, ranging in age from 1 to 13 years, came from her home at Morrell, near Connellsville, last evening, and was in great distress of mind. She expected her husband, who is a consumptive, and her 18-year-old son to meet her at the depot, but they failed to do so and she has no idea of their whereabouts.

John Farmer has been employed in the mines at Morrell for 14 years, but recently developed consumption, which compelled him to stop work. His eidest daughters kept the family by working out as domestics, and at the request of one of these, employed in a restaurant in this city, they decided to move here. Mrs. Farmer sold the household effects on Monday and sent sold the household effects on Monday and sent her husband to Pittsburg, with instructions to meet her at the train yesterday afternoon, when she arrived with the rest of the family. She did not find them at the depot and could not find them elsewhere. She turned then to Inspector McAleese, who gave the family a bed for the night, and will endeavor to find the missing husband to-day.

DILLON AND O'BRIEN WILL COME.

Manager T. P. Gill Says He Will Hold De cember 16 for Pittsburg. The committee in charge of bringing Dillor and O'Brien to Pittsburg yesterday received a telegram from T. P. Gill, M. P., manager of the Dillon-O'Brien tour, that he would hold open December 16 for Pittsburg. The committee did not arrive at City Hall in time to meet Mayor Gourley, but the request for the invitation will be laid before him this morn-ing, when he has promised to send the invitation.

The Rev. Father Sheedy said last night a month was too long to wait, and he thought they could secure an earlier date. He said the object of the tour was to raise money for election purposes in Ireland.

CHURCH BUILDING SCHEME.

Bishop Whitehead Working for the Extension of the P. E. Church.

Bishop Whitehead has a new scheme on foot to extend the Protestant Episcopal Church's operations in this diocese. He is organizing a ompany of men in the church to purchas property for the erection of a church and parproperty for the erection of a church and par-sonage in the small towns now without Protes-tant Episcopal congregations. The land about these buildings will then be sold in such a way as to make a profit for the projectors as well as pay for the building.

A meeting has been held and a committee appointed to make a practical test of the scheme.

TO GET LAKE TRADE.

A Canal Sure to be Constructed Between Pittsburg and Erie.

the Subject.

The Ship Canal Commissioners met yesterday at the office of the president, Captain John A. Wood, All the members were present and they were in session about two hours. Though nothing definite was done toward preparing a report in regard to the proposed canal, a full and free discussion relative to the project was had.

"You must understand," said Colonel T. P. Roberts, one of the commissioners, "that we are simply a board to lay out a line for the proposed canal. We simply make suggestions. Our report must go to the Legislature; that is, it will go to the Governor and by him it will be sent to the lawmakers at Harrisburg.

"What have we done? We have simply gone ahead under the act of Assembly so far as we can. We have made topographical maps and have gone over the route of the canal we propose to dig. Colonel Goodwin, the engineer, told us just how we stood, and illustrated his meaning with a set of maps. SHOWING THE OBSTACLES.

"In those maps are shown the entire line of the proposed canal by the way of the Beaver river from this city to Lake Erie. They contain all the obstacles that would be en-countered, or likely to be encountered, by the construction of the line. These maps show the railroads, rivers and creeks, elevations and the railroads, rivers and creeks, elevations and depressions, towns and villages, together with all the coal land, developed and undeveloped, that is tributary to the water way.

"These maps," continued Mr. Roberts, "show the distance by this route to be 102 miles from Rochester to Erie, a very shour route and almost an air line. This fact can better be appreciated when it is considered that the State line from the Ohio river to Lake Erie is 90 miles."

miles."

Colonel Brewer, one of the members of the commission, said he thought their system of slack water would increase the stage of water here by at least 2 feet, making it 9 feet. If the State or the national Government refused to make an appropriation for the work, he believed that it could be done and would be done by capitalists of Pittsburg.

A CHANCE FOR CAPITALISTS. A year ago William L. Scott said that if the tate did not build the canal he would guaran tee to organize a company that would do the work. In Colonel Brewer's opinion the invest-ment would be a good one. Colonel Roberts agreed with Colonel Brewer in this statement, believing that there must be an outlet to the lakes for the trade that centers about Pitts urg. The commission meets once a month, and the The commission meets once a month, and the President, Captain John A. was thought to be in very good health when he last left the city, in July. A recent letter from him stated that he was feeling extremely well, and the announcement of his death was unlooked for by his most intimate friends.

Mr. McCandless was a native of Ohio, having been born at Hanging Rock on August 22, 1840. His father came to Pittsburg about a year later, and Mr. McCandless lived here ever since. He started life for himself when he was 17 years old as a messenger in the Allegheny National Bank, and rapidly became known as a youth to be depended upon in any extremity. His advancement in business was all within the walls of the bank in which he first was messenger, and at the end of his life he had gained the highest position to be had, that of President.

The announcement yesterday that Wilson McCandless was dead caused a general feeling of sorrow among all who had known him.

The funeral of the dead banker will doubtless occur in this city as soon as the remains can be brought from Europe.

Up Marbury Street. The trouble over Marbury street, the ordinance for vacating which the Mayor vetoed, is not yet ended. After the ordinance had bee passed in Common Council and while it was pending in the Select branch, the parties in terested in having the vacation made were seconfident of success that they proceeded to have it filled up with earth to the grade of Forbes street in the expectation of making it

M. Mawhinney, who has been the strongest opponent of the ordinance, now says he will enter suit against those who filled up the street and those who ordered it done, as he claims the street has been rendered impassable for vehicles.

Give Me an Old House Where I Can Feel Safe. Purchasers put more taith in the honesty and judgment of that old and trusted musi house of H. Kleber & Bro, than in anyone else. An instrument coming from Kleber's store, be it a Steinway, Conover, Gabler or Opera piano, or a Burdett or Earhuff organ, is always preferred, for the opinion of Mr. Kleber is looked upon as final and conclu-sive. Hundreds of people have made the remark: "Oh, I wish I had called on you first and bought an instrument of you," and then they beg the Klebers to take the piano or organ which they bought elsewhere off their hands and exchange for the superior ones at the latter place. Klebers' prices are $25 to $50 lower than those of other dealers and their terms of payment are easier.
While other dealers sit around complain ing of hard times the Klebers are kept as busy as bees. Don't fail to call at Kleber's, 506 Wood street, Pittsburg, Pa.

cripple and walks with intelligence. He is a cripple and walks with crutches. Speaking of late political events, he said: "I was among the Congressmen re-elected. I have been in the House since 1882, and had fully made up my mind to retire, but I will never retreat under fire. When my political enemies began to assail me, then I was ready for the fray, but even after I was nominated I hesitated for some time before I accepted it.

"Some of my opponents went home and stirred up a fight against me: every disappointed applicant for a postoffice, and there were many of them, was mad, but with it all, here I am elected, and I don't think anybody will try to throw me out of my seat. I see Daizell had a good majority. I notice that where men had few postoffices to dispose of they had an easier time of it. There is not much danger of this House carrying out their threats to unseat members. The leaders will have their hands full to line up the present majority, and they will make an effort to be exceedingly careful to do nothing that will invite criticism. "I think Senator Quay has been a much abused man. At one time he was very influential before the assaults were made on his record. Whether true or false a man is never as strong as he was before the attacks. I think Daizell had a right to name the Postmaster here, but Quay told me that the Congressman had selected an enemy of his and he wouldn't submit to that. I don't believe the late elections will have any effect in 1892." The business of the General Grievance Committee of the Pennsylvania system west of Pittsburg, finally came into the possession of a DISPATCH reporter last night. The committee is here for the purpose of formulating a petition to the officials, ask-for an adjustment of wages and containing a list of grievances against certain officials, To be more explicit, the men have a petition to present asking that a day's work on all divisions shall be a certain number of hours. On some divisions at present a man's overtime begins after he has been out nine hours. On a run like the one between Pitisburg and Alliance this would be the case. On other runs, such as from Alliance to Crestline, Crestline to Ft. Wayne or Ft. Wayne to Chicago, the time is extended. The farther West the longer the runs. On some of the divisions 'a man is out 14 hours before his overtime begins. One of the demands to be made is that the hours shall be uniform.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST OFFICIALS.

There are other matters pertaining to the wages question upon which the committee the result of the official count of the vote of will have something to say. There are a number of grievances to be presented against a number of the yardmasters, train-dipatchers number of grievances to be presented against a number of the yardmasters, train-dipatchers and division superintendents. The nature of these grievances is yet a secret, but they will all be laid before the general officers before the end of the week.

The committee has not been able to get down to solid business yet, owing to the failure of about 15 of its members to get here. There was a mistake in the notices sent out calling the committee together. The dates were mixed, some being told that the meeting was called for yesterday and others that it would be held to-day. However, the division committees all had meetings and talked over the work before them. This will be an advantage to the general committee, as everybody will know about what is to be done and the work will be completed more rapidly.

A call was made at the office of General Superintendent Watts, of the Northwest system, but he was not in. Mr. Webster, his chief clerk, said they had not yet received any official notification of their Grievance Committee being in the city and he did not think they were here, as he knew of ne dissatisfaction along their line. A call was also made at the office of General Mauager Wood, but he is still absent from the city.

MUST HAVE A HEABING.

MUST HAVE A HEARING. A member of the Grievance Committee said ast night: "The Ft. Wayne officials would like to make it appear that their men are no interested in this meeting, and Mr. Wood's absence from the city is explained when I say he sence from the city is explained when I say he is out along the line trying to keep his men away from our committee. But they are here just the same, and he will find out whether his men have any grievances or not."

"When will your committee be ready to present your grievances?" was asked.

"I could answer that, but I don't want to let the officials know when we are going to call on them," was the reply.

One thing that indicates there are quite a number of division superintendents slated for a complaint from the committee is the fact that the latter is overstepping the general rule, which provides that where grievances arise they must first be presented to the division superintendent, and if an adjustment cannot be secured it goes before the general superinsuperintendent, and if an adjustment cannot be secured it goes before the general superintendent. In this case the committee is coming to the general superintendent first.

There are 12 division superintendents in all and two general superintendents. One of the latter is J. F. Miller, whose headquarters are at Columbus, and who has under him the seven division superintendents on the Panhandle. Mr. Watts is the other, and he has jurisdiction over the five division superintendents on the Ft. Wayne.

The committee will meet again this morning at 10 o'clock, when it is expected the full committee will be present.

WHAT THEY THINK OF IT. Local Labor Leaders Talk About Mr.

Powderly's Address. General Master Workman Powderly's annual address, as printed in yesterday's DISPATCH, It can hardly be said that the address was considered a very wonderful product, but it contained enough to set the people talking any-

Ex-Master Workman Ross, of D. A. 3, said: "As a whole I don't think much of the speech. His suggestions about opening up the way for a discussion of tariff and free trade is all right, a discussion of tariff and free trade is all right, but it will not result in any good. Three-fourths of our people are free traders anyway and all the discussion that might be indulged in for ten years will not change them. He did not throw much light on the Central strike, and I do not believe he said anything that will help the cause."

Cal Wyatt said Mr. Powderly should have left the Central strike alone. "Every time the subject is brought up it brings to view a defeat to our organization and every defeat means a greater struggle next time."

Another labor leader said: "If Mr. Powderly were to express his honest opinion he would say he is a protectionist, but he has not the courage to stand up before the General Assembly and say that."

The list has already been voted on by four assemblies. It will go before two others this evening, and if the result can be reported to the District Council before the meeting adjourns it will be acted upon to-night. There have been some revisions made in it by the local assemblies and it will be necessary to refer it back again for further action before it can be presented to the firms.

PRESCRIPTION MEN MEET.

No Change in Prices, but a Dull Trade for Six Weeks Expected. Prescription bottle makers held their monthly meeting at the Monongahela House yesterday. J. T. Gorsuch, of Zanesville, stated that prices were not changed, and the state of the trade was discussed. For the next six weeks the was discussed. For the first six weeks the business, he says, will be dull, and few orders will be taken. Of the 33 members in the association, 27 were present.

A committee from the new window glass trust also met at the hotel to complete further details of the organization. W. D. Keys, of New Albany, represented the De Pauw interests.

WELCOMED BY THE MAYOR OF THE CITY

A very distinguished body of men sai down at the banquet of the Loyal Legion at the Duquesne Club last evening. It was the first time in the history of the organization that the State Commandery met in Pittsburg, and it was in response to an invitation from the local members.

A special train from Philadelphia arrived about 7 o'clock, bringing in a hundred or more of prominent men from the eastern part of the State. In the party were Governor Beaver, Commander Gregg, Captain Green, Second Vice President of the Pennsylvania road, and many others. The banquet was to have commenced at 9 o'clock, but it did not begin before 10. The gentlemen were attired in full dress. The banquet hall had been Mayor Congressional district yesterday made their report to the Secretary of Internal Affairs of Gourley spoke on behalf of the municipality. Commander Gregg responded for the Loyal Legion in a felicitous manner. Speeches were also made by Governor Beaver, Colonel Nicholington, Pa., and was completed late Tuesday night. The judges were constituted by one representative from each county in the district, A. J. McQuitty being appointed for Allegheny county; William J. Johnson for Fayette county; Joseph Wiley, Green county, and Samuel Amspaker, Washington county. The following is the result of the official count: also made by Governor Beaver, Colonel Nicholson, Dr. Murdock, Major Lambert and others.

The military order of the Leyal Legion of the United States was organized in Phildeiphia, April 15, 1865. The membership at present consists of over 11,000, called companions. THEIR WORK FINISHED.

A Great Deal of Work Done on the Last Day of the Session of the Fraternal Congress -The Next Meeting to be Held in Wash-

The morning session of the Fraternal Congress was taken up yesterday by committee reports. An invitation for the congress to appoint a committee to attend a meeting of the Open Business Society in Philadelphia was declined. In the afternoon a resolution was adopted directing the Legislative Committee to endeavor to secure the passage of uniform laws endeavor to secure the passage of uniform laws governing societies represented in the congress. A resolution was also passed declaring that the distinct features of beneficial societies are: The lodge system: representative government; ritualistic work; fraternal assistance to members in sickness or destitution; the payment of benefits to members for total physical disability; the payment of benefits at the death of members, to the families, blood relations, heirs or dependents of such deceased members.

M. H. Hackett, of Washington, Pa., read a paper oa the subject, "Is the Creation of a Reserve Fund in Any Form by a Secret Fraternal Organization Advisable?" The election of Officers resulted as follows: A. R. Savage, Esq., Lewiston, Maine, President; O. M., Shedd, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Secretary and Treasurer.

It was decided to hold the congress of 1891 at Washington, D. C.
