The Local Club Affairs.

It seems to me that the stockholders of the local ball club have acted very wisely in the contest in question because 1 am person-It seems to me that the stockholders of selecting Walter W. Burnham as manager ally aware that a "squarer" race was never of the club for next year. He has a most run. I never knew two men toe the mark with brilliant record, and is an intelligent and greater determination to deleat each other, and much interest in the championship contests as there is this year. Yesterday's crowd at Springfield is a sure augury of the immense himself. Since the affair, I have read many Springfield is a sure augury of the immense foolish things which have been said about La numbers of people that will witness the big Blanche. I say foolish, because the contest and event of next Thursday at Brooklyn. Most certainly the popularity of the game has increased considerably during the last 12 months; nay, less than 12 months. I might say since the season com-menced. No doubt the disrepute into which baseball fell has had much to do with the increased popularity of football, not only in this city, but in other cities. There never was so much street talk in Pittsburg about a leading football match as there was yes-terday about the Yale-Harvard contest and

McLean's Victory.

Bancha. I say foolish, because the context and its result does not at all prove than Kessler is nything like a better man than La Blanche, it does prove, however, that what has often benche was living in a way that would soon settle him, just as many better men than La Blanche was living in a way that would soon settle him, just as many better men than La Blanche was living in a way that would soon settle him, just as many better men than La Blanche was living in a way that would soon settle him, just as many better men than La Blanche have been settled. But there was certainly nothing extraordinary about La Blanche's defeat. He was simply caught 'mapping.' Although in no con-dition for a fistic encounter he felt certain that he could in any condition stop the comparative, it was all there was in it as far as Lave been able to learn. Why, the best middle-weight, in yu estimation, who ever lived-Tom Belcher-suffered his only defeat under conditions sim-ing the good condition. But be though the any-wise good enough to defeat the little Hebrew, was good enough to defeat the little Hebrew, in a basitom now that forces him to insist on context with Kessler. The latter may be a good man. I know yen; ittle about him.

Pugilism in General.

Finally we have been definitely informed that Jack Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons have signed atticles to fight at New Orleans pert that Jack Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons have signed articles to fight at New Orleans next January. Should they fight, I'm certain that we all hope they will be in their best form. There will be some uncertainty about Fitz-simmons until he weighs in, if all reports are true. Many people who profess to know him well state that he will have difficulty in getting down to 155 pounds and Dempsey declares that he will not fight him if he is an ounce over 154 pounds. It may, therefore, be that by getting down to 155 pounds Fitzsimmons may impair his strength. However, he has some shrewd men behind him, and they ought to know how things are going. Austin Gibbons has been making considerable noise during the last few days regarding his ability to knock out almost anybody his weight, except Jack McAuliffe. He seems to have a special desire for the gore of Mr. Myer. All that I feel disposed to say at present on this point is that Gibbons had better let Myer alone. I don't mean that the Streator puglist is an extraordinary man. He is not; but I mean that Gibbons is asplring too high, and he may find out that he is not as good as he thinks he is, even if he meets Billy Reader, who was defeated by Overton not long ago. The recent decision in the test case of the Call-fornia Athletic Club means that we may ex-pect a great boom in boxing contests in the Far West during the winter. There will be re-newed vigor in the boring business, because club there will now consider themselves after than ever as far as the law is concerned. There will now be opportunity to test the merits of several "stars" who have been talking so much fight lately. There will be opportunity to test their respective merits as far as the particular form of club fighting permits. Slavin evidently desires to be out of it, and considering that Corbst recently declared his anxiety to meet him I see no reason why Corbst should not be given an opportunity to take on the opportunity to that form of he will be any heave the any thing like a corneat measure of the be given an opportunity to face Jack-son. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. THANKSGIVING.

Some people are opposed to the time-honored commemoration of Thanksgiving Day. This is all wrong, since we live in an age of Light and Knowledge, an age in which the sciences and arts are marching onward with gigantic strides. The tramp of the warrior and clangor of arms are strangers among us. The garments dyed in blood have passed away. Hence, we should be thankful. However, some people are natural born KICKERS, they would kick if they were to hang; that is, if they were to swing on the other end of a rope; others would kick if their mother-in-law would suddenly become endowed with a vast fortune. Different with us. We are thankful because we have largely increased our business the past year; also because we know from actual observations that we have made many homes happy; lastly because we are spared to continue in our good work and thankful that all are living. We must add that we sincerely thank the generous public for patronizing us so liberally since last Thanksgiving Day.

brilliant record, and is an intelligent and active man. The other officials have not been cleeted yet, and it is not pleasant to learn that there exists between two &r three of the stockholders a strong bitterness of feeling regarding the presidency. If this carried to any extent it will certainly reflect no credit on the principals; they are busi-ness mea and not children. The question is a very simple one, in fact so simple that a child could be guided through it all right with very little assistance. The direction the gentleman whom the majority have the power to elect the Prosident, and the gentleman whom the majority rata's all there is in it, and the man whoes hopes are blighted will only show his weak-ness the sulks because of the opinion of the majority. It is not within my province for do say that all should act like sensible business men. Nothing definite can be done yet regarding securing new players for the club. There is a desire, how ever, among the stockholders to send a regarding were that interest in the national game is on the increase. In local baseball circles the general theme of conversation is regarding who will play here next year. That is un-certain, but it is among the possibilities that ward and other famous guarter of a mile cost and players work in a good one. There is no donth what is a good one. Association's prospects are brighter than they have ever been in its history. Cer-tainly I am mindful of the fact that an opin-ion prevails to the effect that the National League only takes care of the younger body in so far as that care-taking aids the National League. I share this conviction to a very great extent and I have more than once said that the National League has invaria-bly been disposed to ride rough shod over the Association when such action promised an advantage to the National League. However, at the present time it is entirely to the advantage of the older organization to assist in every way possible in placing the Asso-ciation on a firm and assuring basis. The stronger that the American Association is noe most decidedly the better will it be for e National League. The magnates of the ter are aware of this, and I anticipate t these magates will assist the Associa-

n in forming a circuit that will be the set in the history of the latter body. There is a probability that Boston, and possibly Chicago, will be added to the Association's circuit. Certainly, there will be some new cities, because such cities as Rochester and Syracuse are hardly class enough for an or-ganization like the Association. A circuit with Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington in the East, and Chicago, Columbus, Louisville and St. Louis in the West would, indeed, look very strong, and I don't think that the Boston and Philadelphia capitalists would have very strong objections against having clubs in a circuit of the kind named. The annual meeting of the Association then will have something to do toward ending the talk and threats of the P. L. capitalists who are still "out in the cold." Doubtless Mr. Spalding has been busying himself on this matter, and he spoke so confidently regarding it the other day that I will not be surprised it franchises are handed out to new cities without any trouble at all.

During the next few days the interest of baseball patrons will be principally centered in the annual meeting of the American As-sociation. That very woful and struggling organization has some very knotty questions to deal with, but the probability is that everything will come out right in the end. When we ponetrate these difficulties, which are ould on the surface, we'll find that the Association's prospects are brighter than at any stage, and then 1 ask would it not nave just been as easy and certainly safer to have held Priday back until 150 or 200 yards from the finish? As it was, Priday received an awful drubbing before he got home. But he won, and all's well that ends well, and I see no reason why his backers should not hold him sgainst either Fredericks or Myers. either Fredericks or Myers.

Muldoon's Training Notions.

The other day I noticed a few remarks from William Muldoon on training, or, more strictly speaking, on Kilrain's ability to defeat Sullivan, providing, the former was properly trained. I have always thought that Muldoon had a very poor notion of pugilism before, now I am certain of it. He is quoted as saying: "When I saw Kilrain in the ring against Sullivan I came to the conclusion that Kilrain was the best heavy-weight fighter I had ever seen. His fighting in that fight was marvelous, considering his condition. The mere fact that a man in such poor shape could stay in the ring 2 hours and 20 minutes, with the thermometer at 108, was a revelation to me of the man's strength. He was fighting under every disadwantage. He had been trained down to 173 pounds. His proper fighting weight is 195 pounds, and every pound less than that was so not necessary to go into any detailed argument to show the absurdity of the above. Kilrain, according to Muldoon's notion, should have pulver.cod Jem Smith when they het because Kilrain was much neavier then than when he met Sullivan. But Kilrain was con-tent to make a draw with the English-man, who could not possibly have any chance to defeat Sullivan. But kilrain was expense of defeat Sullivan. But he history of the prize in fillacious one, and the very fact that men just as tall and as thick as Kilrain have ap-peared in the ring considerably lighter than he was and have slood up against the servers putshment for a longer time than be stood up and escaped it, proves that Muldoon probably has something to learn about puglilist. As for kilrain fighting Sullivan again, I don't think that Jake would undertake to do that even if Muldoon were allowed to join him in trying to knock the big fellow out between them pounds. His proper fighting weight is 195
