News of the Day. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, November 26.-The greatest football game of the season will come off tomorrow afternoon at Eastern Park, Brooklvn. The gates will be opened at 11 o'clock in the morning. Extensive arrangements have been made to care for the crowd, more liberal in fact than at any previous games between these colleges. From the time the referee, "Billy" Brooks, of Harvard, calls "play," until the final call of "time" there will be a continual cloud of Yaie blue and Princeton orange and black hovering around the grounds. The Yale contingent will occupy the "bleacheries" on the western and the Princeton students and sympathizers will be on the eastern side. The rival teams are quartered at the St. George Hotel, Brooklyn, and are anxiously waiting for the Theorem 1. It is generally to the properties of Pennsylvania.

supreme moment to come. It is generally thought by the knowing ones that Yale will win the game, but by a very small score,

POE WILL BE THERE. The Princeton eleven have about recovered from the injuries inflicted on them by the University of Pennsylvania bruisers and will feel much more confident now that it is an assured fact that their mainstay, Captain Poe, will be back of the line. Princeton men concede that Yale is stronger in the line than they are, but with Holcomb out and Symmes playing against Lewis it is an even question as to which eleven is really the stronger. The giants of the teams, Heffelfinger and Riggs, will buck up against each other and the two lines may be considered about equal at that particular point. Thomas will face S. Morrison, and here again will be a struggle. So much for the center. The two Yale tacklers, Rhodes and Wallis, are certainly more than a match for Speer and Lewis, who will play against them. At these points Yale will probably have a great advantage. Crosby will probably be superseded at the right end by Moyle or Ridgway, as his work in the Harvard game was not of the best. Hartwell will play the other end and will have Furniss against him. Furniss, although a player possessing rare pluck, is liable to be outplayed by the Yalensian. PRINCETON'S GOOD POINTS.

Behind the line Princeton is undepiably the stronger. Poe at quarter back is the best in the country and is far superior to Barbour. Spicer and King play like clock work together, and are fully as good as any half backs that Yale can produce. It is a question whether Williams will be well enough to play or not. If he does not play Bliss will help McClung out. The latter is considered an excellent running and kick-Homans is fully as good as Harvey at full back and is much better than B. Morrison, who will probably play for Yale. The teams will probably line up as

CONFIDENT AT PRINCETON.

Admirers of the Orange and Black Think Their Heroes Will Win.

STECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH, PRINCETON, N. J., November 26.-Nothing is talked of here but the great football struggle etween Princeton and Yale to-morrow. Until last Saturday everyone was croaking about the great walk-over Yale was going to have. Since he Harvard-Yale game and the decided braceon the team took last week, the croakers are illent, and everyone feels confident of victory. So great did the enthusiasm become this mornwang across Nassau street. On it were the words, "Inter-Collegiate Footbail." Below was words, "inter-Collegiate Footbail." Below was a heroe theer appearing with jaw open and teeth protruding, carrying a long, black streamer, or which were. "Princeton-Yale." Below this again, in large letters, the following words were beautifully wrought:

Captain Poe is very confident of victory, and Captain Foe is very confident of victory, and so are the other members of the team. Captain Foe kept his men in their rooms all day. He gave them ever two hours' drill on the signals and tricks which are numerous this year. No regular practice game was played in order to give the men a rest for to-morrow, Great crowds of students left here on the mounday and afterneon trains. and afternoon trains.

STECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW HAVEN, November 26.-The Yale football team left for New York to-day at 130. They were given a rousing send-off as they left the campus. They will be quartered at the St. George Hotel in Brooklyn. There has been several necessary changes in the team. The rush line is minus its regular center, Holcomb, who is still on crutches from theumatism. Lewis will play in his stead, and it has been de cided to play Harvey at half back, instead of at full back, his regular position, Morrison be-ing substituted at full back,

The men are all in good condition save Standey Morrison, the right guard. He is not feeling well, but he will go into the game, though his strength may give out before the first half is played. In this event Adams will be substituted. The men were all weighed this morning. The beaviest man is Heffelfinger, 196. The rush line averages 176.5-7, the backs average 155, while the whole II average 169.8-11. Yale neen are quietly confident their team will win, but they will not so much betting. They caunot, for since last Saturday, a month's allowance on the campus has been a very scarce owance on the campus has been a very scarce thing. About 500 students will leave on a special for New York at 9 to-morrow morning.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.;

NEW YORK, November 26,-Two thousand otball enthusiasts saw the University of Pennsylvania defeat Wesleyan by a score of 16 to 10, at Washington Park this afternoon in a game that was remarkable for the brilliancy of a run in the second half by Captain Slayback, of Wesleyan, and the rough tactics pur-sued by Captain Church, of the Pennsylvania team. It was a very even contest, which might have resulted differently had Hall, Wesleyan's great full back, been able to last the same out, but a weak ankle forced him to quit in the early part of the first half. Slayback was weak in the first haif, but he played great football in the second half. Moore also played a good game for Wesleyan; and Newton, through his great weight, was invaluable in backing the center. For the University, Camp and Schoff were head and shoulders above their associates. Duncan Edwards, of Princeton, was unpire and Walter Camp, of Yale, referee.

The Cleveland P. L. Magnate's Actions Spolling His Chances for Good Terms. CLEVELAND, O., November 26.-President Frank Robison, of the Cleveland National league team, has returned from New York Mr. Robison is a member of the Conference Committee with Mr. Spalding, appointed at the League meeting to consider the proposition made by Al Johnson to sell his interest in base-ball for $25,000. Up to yesterday Mr. Johnson's chances for securing a big bonus were excellent, but there is now a strong probability that he will be badly left in the final settlement of the Players' League flasco.

Mr. Robison has always been a warm friend of Johnson's in spite of the latter's connection with baseball, and it is mainly owing to his efforts that Johnson received any recognition.

Mr. Robison said to-day; "I have always been friendly with Johnson, but when he accuses me of bad faith I don't think it is my place to do anything further for him. If there are any other gentlemen in the National League who are disposed to deal any more generously with him than Mr. Spalding and myself, he had better find them at once." Mr. Spalding writes that he is disguszed with the whole affair and feels like letting it drop.

The directors of the Cleveland National League team net last evening. President Robison laid before them a proposition from the National League to pay Johnson $20,000 and requesting Cleveland to pay $5,000 as its share. A resolution was passed declining to stand any assessment for the purpose of reimbursing Mr. Johnson, all of the directors voting for this except President Roblson, who still stood out for a settlement. The other directors expressed themselves as satisfied with the situation. Johnson and the Piayers' League, they say, are incapable of further mischlef, and as it has cost them enough money already they do not propose to help Johnson out of the hole into which he has put himself. Boston and Philadelphia will be given Association franchises and Mr. Johnson left to shift for himself.

President Young Expresses His Gratitude

for Some Baseball Blessings. WASHINGTON, November 26.-There is no happier man alive these days than President Nick Young, of the National Baseball League, and he is doing a vast amount of complacent hand shaking with friends who are auxious to congratulate him upon the successful termination of the fight that at one time breatened to defeat the old organization of which he is the head. A Star reporter added to his store of felicity yesterday on meeting the genial baseball magnate in the White House

"It has been a glorious vindication of the old league and its methods," said Mr. Young, "and the game is now in good shape for another sea-son and a great many more. The war has done both good and evil to the sport. It has hurt it in that the public were made just a bit disgusted with ball players and their ways. It has helped it by bringing out a great many new men, who have strengthened the game by their playing There is now less star work and more good work, fewer high salaries and more sober mer There is not the least trouble now in making u There is not the least trouble now in making up a first-class team out of the general market which is really overstocked now that the Play ers' League has collapsed. BILLIARD EXPERTS AT DENVER.

Magillio Outplays Carter in the Beginning of Their Match. DENVER, Col., November 26 .- The first series of 500 points in the 1500 point, 14-inch balk line game of billiards, between Frank Magillio. the Southern champion, and Eugene Carter, of Chicago, was played at the Collander, late just night. It resulted in an easy victory for the Frenchman, who finished 128 points ahead of his opponent from the Windy City. The game was attended with brilliant plays ot was rather a surprise, as in practice Cart had always outplayed his opponent. Both averages were light, Magillio scoring a trifle over seven, while Carter fell a point behind. Forty-two was the highest run made, which the Frenchman pulled off. He clearly outplayed Carter at all points. Among the speciators Frenchman pulled off. He clearly outplayed Carter at all points. Among the spectators were Catton, of St. Louis. TWO SKELETONS UNEARTHED.

The Discovery Confirms an Old Story of : Miser's Double Murder.

SIMMESPORT, LA., November 26 .- The skeletons of a woman and infant were yesterday discovered by workmen employed in cleaning out an old well on what is known as the Richardson plantation, lving a few miles out of town on the Baton Ronge road. The skulls of both were broken. The arms of the woman were still so tightly clasped about the child that they could not be loosened, and the two were reinterred as they were found. About the neek of the woman was hung a silver chain, to which attached a small gold crucifix, both oulte black however, with slime and age, The latter, on being cleaned, was found to be inscribed on the back with the initials A. F. F., and the date May 10, 1803. The Richardson place has lain fallow ever since the war, when, on the death of its owner- Colonel Maurice Richardson -it ame the property of a gentleman living in Cuba. Prior to its purchase by the Colonel the plantation was owned by a French gentleman named Fougeron, who, in turn, inherited the property from a relative of that name, who, the older settlers say, was unmarried and lived the life of a miser and recluse. He was said to have an octoroon daughter, a most beauti-ul young woman, to whom he was devotedly attached, but

An Old-Fashioned Spook Terrifies the Inhabitants of an Eastern Village.

WESTERLEY, R. I., November 26 .- The quiet little Rhode Island hamlet of Saylesville has had a real, old-fashioned spook this winter. The ghost frequents a wooded strip of land leading from Crossman street to Eagley street, appears nightly, glides over the ground with a fantastic, graveyard gait, and some people that have met the spook and whose hearing is acute think they heard its bones rattle in its white habiliments. The citizens of obscure and lonesome Saylesville avoid the ghost's walk and take a short footpath around the Crossman wood after dark.

The spook has appeared to more than half a dozen people, but most of them were too scared to let it come very near to them and see how it looks; but the other night the Rev. Mr. Calvin, with his two daughters, strolling nonchalantly through the haunted wood, saw the ghost at short range. A figure clad in white suddenly rose up out of the brush or ground and flashed with the quickness and elusiveness of a fire-fly past them. The young ladies were very much !rightened, but as the apparition disappeared almost instantly they regained ir courage, and the party went on home. All three persons had a good look at the phantom, and aver it is a genuine ghost. They have told the story of the encounter to a hundred people. Some of the brave young fellows of Saylesville propose to lie in wait for the ghost at night.

THE WRONG WOMAN.

How Mary Blake Passed Herself Off as a Widow.

DENVER, COL., November 26 .- Suit has been commenced in the District Court by F. J. Jones, of Chicago, against Mary Blake, of this city, to recover $6,000, alleged to have been obtained on false pretenses.

In 1887 J. B. Blake died in Michigan City, leaving an estate of $12,000 to his widow, Mary Blake, with whom he had not lived for several years. Jones was ap-pointed executor, and after a couple of years' search found a woman who to his atisfaction proved herself to be the Mary Blake wanted. She succeeded in getting $6,000 and came to Denver. Some time atterward the true widow of the testator appeared and demanded the money. Mr. Jo immediately came here and demanded the return of the cash, but was laughed at. There is property valued at probably $2,000, which has been levied upon.

MILLIONS AT STAKE

Heirs Fighting Over the Wealth of a Deceased Bonanza King.

A QUESTION OF ADMINISTRATION. Estate Aggregating Over $12,000,000, in Both East and West.

THE DEAD CECESUS WAS A HARD CASE

HELENA, MONT., November 26 .- On March 11 last, Andrew J. Davis died rather suddenly, and hardly had rigor-mortis been noticed before the scramble for his millions began. At his deathbed there were very few who could reasonably hope to share in the distribution of his millions. They knew his possessions represented millions, but how many? That was a point upon which his most intimate business associates were

Those in the West knew he had money in the East, while those on the Atlantic Coast, especially in New York, knew he had large mining interests in the West. So a guess was all that any one could hazard as to his wealth. Some of them had watched the process of accumulation without even making an estimate of the value of the properties, willing to accept any crumbs that might fall to their lots in the final distribution. Two days after Mr. Davis' death the public heard that fully $5,000,000 had been left by the dead man, and a genuine sensation was created when it was announced that no will had been left.

SCRAMBLE BEGINS AT ONCE. Many persons were positive that a will had been drawn; one or two of his business associates expressed a willingness to swear that they had heard Mr. Davis say he had made a will; but no one could say that the contents of the document had ever been told by the millionaire. So there began an mmediate scramble for the position of high distributor of the worldly wealth, with its accustomed percentage in such cases made and provided. The public curiosity was aroused when John A. Davis, brother of the deceased, made application for letters of administrathe public gaze all the chapters of the rather eventful history of a bachelor who had not that she disappeared one day, and to the few who ventured to question him about her absence he declared that she had run away with a young man employed by him entertained orthodox ideas of virtue. So every man who knew a bit of personal history was brought to the witness-stand and his story given to the public, with pretty bits of sensational gossip attached as facts. The brothers testified that Millionaire Davis had not married, and that no children could claim him as parent. But before the hearing had progressed very far children began flocking in, accompanied by mothers, who readily acknowledged the children in the hope of obtaining a portion of the money left by the millionaire.

THE PRIZE GROWS IN VALUE. Certainly more of the sensationalism was added in this way than was necessary, and so brazen were the claims that the women succeeded in bringing themselves into contempt without substantiating the claims made. As witness after witness was called, the total of wealth was swelled until the estate reached the handsome figure of $12,000,000, and established the fact that with the exception of Marius Daly, the business partner of Senator Hearst, and J. B. Haggin, Mr. Davis was the wealthiest of Montana men, and in the personal history of the rich men of this State not one biography presents more illustrations of self-denial and moderate living than does that of this apparently parsimonious millionaire.

The opinion handed down to-day relates solely to letters of administration. The District Court of Butte appointed John A. Davis, a brother of the deceased millionaire, administrator. Henry A. Root, of New York, a nephew, who represented the Eastern relatives, was also an applicant for letters, and will move for a new hearing, alleg-ing that John A. Davis was not a proper n alleging incompetency, by reason o drunkenness, improvidence and want of understanding and integrity.

WANT A NEW ADMINISTRATOR. Evidence was introduced in support of the allegations, as well as evidence to show error in the defense of respondent against the allegations. This second class of evidence relates

First, to the alleged insufficiency of the evidence to justify the finding of the court against the alleged causes of incompetency,

Second, to errors of law alleged to have occurred at the trial and been excepted to by appellant. As to the alleged disqualification by reason of drunkenness, the opinion finds no error in the ruling of the court be-low. The question does not turn upon the fact that intoxicating liquor was used to some extent.

The drunkenness contemplated by the statute is that which follows from excessive, inveterate and continued use of intoxicants to such an extent as to render the victim of the habit an unsafe agent for the care of property or the transaction of business. s admitted by appellant's counsel that the evidence introduced to establish the netency of defendant by reason of drunkenness is meager. No witnesses were willing to testily that John A. Davis was unable to transact business by reason of drunkenness, nor did they testify to other facts from which this court could draw such conclu sion.

SOME COUNTER-CHARGES. Testimony for the respondent shows, on the contrary, that he is capable of, and had been attending to, important business, up to the time of this hearing. In the same way the charge of improvidence is not sustained by proving that since 1885, and after a legal separation from his wife, the appellant has not supported her and his minor children. He has no estate, and at the advanced ag of 60 years he is not possessed of property Want of understanding and integrity i the same way, held to be not sustained by the evidence.
On this point the evidence is reviewed very fully, as is the alleged error in excluding certain proffered evidence. It is urged that the fact that the respondent has a son with claims against the estate should disqualify the respondent from acting as ad-ministrator, because he would be likely to favor his son's claim. "This fact," says the opinion, "has no bearing upon the question of John A. Davis' integrity.' The opinion concluded by ordering that the judgment of the lower court be affirmed, with costs. Judge Blake, in his dissent, makes no objection to the finding of the lower court in respect to a non-competency by reason of drunkenness, but goes into the question of the integrity of the respondent exhaustively. He finds that on that ground the motion for a reversal of the finding of the lower court should have been sustained. He also finds that the lower court was in error in refusing certain testimony tending to further establish a want of integrity and a conspiracy. LEGAL DOCTORS DIFFER. His opinion touches on the fact that A. J. Davis, Jr., the son of the respondent, has a claim of $665,000 against the estate; that Erwin Davis, the brother of the respondent, owes the estate $536,000, and that these two have always stood behind the respondent in his fight with other claimants, Further more the respondent on July 25, 1890, filed a petition asking that the order which ap pointed him administrator be revoked, that a will just found be probated and a new order issued appointing him administrator. Although this new will does not admit the claims of A. J. Davis, Jr., nor the debt of Erwin Davis, these two are still with the respondent in his fight. The mat-ter will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court. The later estimates filed by those interested value the estate at $12, 800,000. The will recently presented, dated in 1866, is pronounced a forgery by ex-perts and will not figure in the coming trials. The legal controversy has, by this decision, been fairly opened, and a multiplicity of suits for the estate will ensue.

A HEAVY FAILURE. TWO BANKS IN THE CITY OF DULUTH

SUSPEND PAYMENT. Stringency in the Money Market Causes H.

H. Bell to Close Up With Liabilities That Are Placed at Over $700,000. DULUTH, November 26 .- The suspension of the bank of H. H. Bell was announced this morning by a bulletin placed on the door stating that owing to the tightness of the money market Mr. Bell was at present unable to meet the bank's obligations, although every dollar of liabilities would be met in due time. An assignment of all Mr. Bell's property to Clinton Markell was filed early this morning with the Clerk of Courts for the benefit of all creditors of the concern. The bulletin further stated that a and liabilities would be furnished to the public at the earliest possible date. W. W. Bilson, the bank's attorney, said: "The failure was occasioned simply by the fact that the line of discounts and rediscounts, which the bank was carrying proved to be too large for times of such extreme financial stringency. On account of this stringency, aggravated perhaps by misgivings in moneyed circles with reference to the magnitude of his business as compared with his capital, his rediscounts were Bell found himself unable to care for them. bridegroom for over a fortnight, and when Mr. Bell has, I suppose, been justly considered to be worth $300,000 and this entire fortune will, so far as necessary, be applied to cover the shrinkage in his assets that may follow the fact of his fallure. I have no reason to doubt that all creditors will be full and exact account of the bank's assets

It has been known among the bankers of the city for some time that Mr. Bell was in financial difficulty on account of the pinch in the money market, which was perhaps made doubly stringent owing to the fact that Mr. Bell has to largely carry the Forrestal Bros', contracts since their failure on account of being their heaviest bondsman. The associated banks of Duluth have advanced Mr. Bell money several times and tided him over during the worst pinch. A considerable amount of his loans have been called in also, but it was impossible, how-ever, for him to get in sufficient funds to meet his obligations, for cash depositors were obliged to draw heavily on account of stringency in their own obligations. As nearly as could be learned this forenoon from semi-official sources, but not from authoritative ones, the Habilities of the bank are about $715,000 and assets $700,000 on short loans, mostly for 60 days; $250,000 rediscounts, $50,000 advanced for the city to carry Forrestal Bros., and private property of Mr. Bell, $300,000, making the total assets $1,300,000. The West End Bank, of H. H. Bell & Co., was also closed to-day and all the funds removed from its vaults to those of the bank up town early this morning. It is not be lieved that either the county or city will be much affected by the assignment, as the other banks have signified their willingness to honor all orders which may be given by the city or county authorities. The Bell & Fysier Bank was the only city depository and also a depository of $100,000 of the St. Louis county funds. At present the city has $79,865 06 of funds deposited in the bank, and the county has $36,000 to their credit in their banking accounts with the same depository. The bank gave bonds to the county in the sum of $200,000.

LIABILITIES OVER $5,000,000. iscouraging Statement of the Assignee

C. M. Whitney & Co. NEW YORK, November 26 .- A statement of the assignee of C. M. Whitney & Co. shows that the firm's liabilities amount to $5,235,211, and that its assets are $4,124,112. It is not stated whether these assets are actual or nominal. The statement adds that about $3 300 000 of the liabilities are seenred debts owing to bankers. The largest creditor is Mrs. M. L. Whitney, of New Orleans. Her claim is for $1,900,000, which is practically unsecured. The assets may be largely increased by the avails of securities belonging to the firm, upon which it is impossible to put a value. At present they have accordingly been treated as possessing a nominal value only

AN ARTIFICIAL HAND Ingenious Invention of a Father Whose

Son's Arm Was Amputated. NORWICH, November 26,-Some months ago Willard A. Lucas, son of Mr. Samuel Lucas, the wool manufacturer of Poquetannuck, had his right hand severed in his father's mill, and since, Mr. Lucas, Sr., who has inventive genius, has used every effort to replace the missing member with as useful a substitute as possible. He has produced an aluminum hand which is very much like an old-time steel gauntiet, and it is almost as handy as a natural hand. The fingers are all perfect in shape and appearance, and the joints bend like those of the human fingers. It is smaller than the natural hand.

but with it a man can do about every kind o Mr. Willard Lucas has worn one of the artificial hands for several weeks, and with it can grasp and handly use all kinds of farm tools, pick up things from the ground, drive, handle a gun—in fact use his metal hand skillfully and outskly at any work. ickly at any work.

The Employer of the Bride Drives Minister and Guests Away

BY USING AN ANCIENT PISTUL.

Printed Invitations Issued and Preparations Complete.

OBJECTED TO LOSING HIS SERVANT

CAMDEN, N. J., November 26. - A wedding was aunounced to take place last night at 7 o'clock in a house on Seventh street, above Ferry avenue, Camden, but the man in whose home the ceremony was to have been performed at the point of a pistol ordered the guests to depart, intercepted the minister, and torbade him to proceed, presenting the weapon at his head. The couple who were to have been wed were Roger George Washington Welsh and Mrs. Aunie Smith. The invitations had been nicely written and circulated among the friends of the prospective bride and couples present, provided with all kinds of presents. As the guests had passed many mile stones in life's journey, they had se-lected presents more useful than orna-mental, and the bearers were considerably fatigued as they sat in the kitchen waiting for the ceremony.

CHANGES HIS MIND. The intended bride was housekeeper for John Orr, at whose home the company had assembled. Mr. Orr is a patriarchal looking man with a long white beard, and while sitting with the guests an objection to losing the services of his housekeeper flashed upon him. He left the room abruptly and soon returned with a long navy revolver and astonished the guests by exclaiming: "Well, I have decided the wedding will not take place, so you may all leave as soon as possible. The man that was to marry my housekeeper has proven to be a mean rascal, as I have discovered that he has deceived Mrs. Smith by presenting her with a rolled gold ring valued at 25 cents for a good wedding ring.

The guests were astonished at the sudden turn of affairs. Some had come from Ger-mantown, Frankford, West Philadelphia, and other places in Pennsylvania and New Jersey towns. After they had got on the outside he followed and said: "I guess I will go and hunt the minister."

WAYLAYSTHE MINISTER.

As he flourished the old weapon they feared he would do harm and followed. He went to Broadway and Van Hook streets and hid behind a tree. Presently a car came down the street, and when it reached Van Hook Rev. Charles D. Sinkinson, paster of the Memorial M. P. Church, who had been engaged to perform the ceremony, alighted. When he reached the sidewalk he was surprised by a man jumping from behind a tree with a large navy revolver, which was forced under his nose with the exclamation: "Hold on! Hold on here!" The minister was startled and asked what he had done. Mr. Orr informed him he need not be alarmed, no one would be hurt but the wedding could not take place at his louse, and that he had started out to inform him that he could take the car and return to his home. MR. ORR'S EXCUSE. The reason he gave was that an effort had been made to secure $5 as a fee for the min-ister, and when that sum could not be raised he had decided to prevent the cere monv.

The minister asked Mr. Orr to be kind enough to lower the weapon from his nose long enough to allow him to put the mar-riage certificate in his pocket. When this was done the minister backed into the street until a friend arrived. Mr. Orr lowered the wenpon, walked to his home to find it crowded with people. When he opened the door he found the housekeeper and Mr.
