A VILLAINOUS LEADER ARRESTED.

A West Virginia Life Convict Seeks to Prove Ilis Innocence.

AFFAIRS AT SCOTTDALE PEACEFUL

PERCIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCE. BEDFORD, PA., November 27 .- The arrest of Clement Pennell, alias Jesse James, this afternoon by Officer Stiver, it is thought, will be the means of breaking up one of the most notorious gangs of outlaws that has ever operated in the southern part of Pennsylvania.

For the past two years the farmers of Bedford township have been robbed of almost everything that was movable, from a saddle to a horse. Besides, the rascals have done the most fiendish acts imaginable, cutting harness, sawing farming utensils to be under control and the third floors of the to pieces, and in several instances firing barns and torturing horses and cattle by cutting out their tongues.

to be under control and the third more stated william Bell, a fireman, lell from the roof of an adjoining building during the fire and is thought to have been fatally injured.

This afternoon information was made against Pennell, accusing him of robbing Steward Bareloot, of the county almshouse, of harness, blankets, and, in fact, of a whole wagon load of stuff which, when the prisoner was arrested, was found in his possession, and with which he was trying to make away. Pen-bell was committed in default of bail.

MAY PROVE HIS INNOCENCE.

A Life Penitentiary Convict Writes for Evidence to Prove an Alibi.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. UNIONTOWN, November 27—The following strange letter has been received by the post-master, dated Moundsville, W. Va., November 28:

"Postmaster, Uniontown, Pa.: "Will you do me the favor to ascertain the name of a butcher in your town, who, in Januare: 1888 near a mill in the suburbs of your city had his horse and wagon mired in the mud, and was helped out of the difficulty by a tramp? I am a life prisoner in the West Virginia Penitentiary, and desire the date, etc., of the above transaction in order to help show my whereabouts at a certain time."

The letter cancludes by stating if the man is found and writes to him, he will oblice an in-ound, and writes to bim, he will oblige an in-special man suffering for a fearful crime be never committed, and who now seeks to vindi-site himself. The letter is signed by T. B. Kelly, in care of Superintendent Van Pelt. In-

ALL PEACEFUL AT SCOTTDALE.

The Mammoth Strike Ended, and No New Conflict is Probable.

SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. SCOTTDALE, November 27.—The Scale Committee of the United Mine Workers met here to-day to consider certain demands which will be made of the coke companies after the expiration of the present agreement. The demands for the eight-hour day and for the erection of weigh scales on all tipples, as recommended by Master Workman Kerfoot, were adopted. The question as to what should constitute a day's work for laborers and the next year's wages for mining and coke drawing were also fully discussed. It is hinten that an advance over the present rates is wanted. The Scale Com-mittee will meet the operators in January, but the signing of the wage agreement is as yet regarded as problematical.

The Mammoth miners, to the number of 600.

who have been on strike for a week, will likely return to work next Monday, a satisfactory agreement having been effected. The other differences in regard to the one-third shutdown have mostly been settled, and that there will be no strike is now regarded as a certainty.

TWO SIMILAR ACCIDENTS.

Both Are Caused by the Bursting of Oil Works Bull Wheels.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. INGTON. PA., November Grant Steele, aged 21, was lowering a set of tools in a Washington oil company's well at Taylorstown at I o'clock resterday the tools broke away from him. The bull wheel began to revolve with terrific speed and finally exploded. The rig was partially wrecked and the timbers were dragged down on young

This is the second almost similar accident in This is the second almost similar accident in that field this week. Harry Crawford was probably fatally injured Tuesday by a blow from an exploited bull wheel at a Thompson well. He was struck on the side and suffered terribly. He is now resting well, but it is feared he is injured internally.

A DANGEROUS PLACE.

Pire Damp Infests the Beadling Coal Mines Near Mansfield.

PETECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR .: MANSFIELD, November 27 .- Of late it has been considered very dangerous to enter the Beadling coal mines on account of fire damp. The mines are situated about six or seven miles south of here on the Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghlogheny Railroad, and notices of danroughlogheny Railroad, and notices of danger have been posted on the door.

One August McGlish entered the mine with an open lamp in spite of the notices on the door, and to-day Mine Inspector James Bluck issued a warrant for the arrest of McGlish. An officer is after the man, but it is hardly thought a conviction can be had, as it is said the laws are rather abstruse on the question, though pronounced enough as to the penalty.

The Seventh Presbyterian Church, on Youngstown, November 27,-A mysteriot Herron avenue, has completed its first year case, brought by Mrs. Sarah Teats, a lady living at Canfield, this county, against the estate of under the pastorate of Rev. C. B. Mc-Clellan. The year has been very successful John Gilbert, deceased, was placed on trial to-day. In 1885 Gilbert, who was a wealthy farmer, died. Prior to his death he executed a and the pastor's work so well liked that his salary was increased $300 by a vote of the farmer, died. Prior to his death he executed a note for $5,000, due in four years, payable to his sister, Mrs. Teats.

Shortly before the note fell due Mrs. Teats received an anonymous letter, enclosing the note properly indersed, the writer stating that he had been entrusted with the note to hold and send to her. Mrs. Gilbert, widow of John Gilbert, claims that the note is a forgery, and an effort is being made to ferret out the party in whose hands it was placed by Gilbert. Why he gave it to a third party to hold instead of delivering it to Mrs. Teats, is as yet an unsolved problem. church. Mr. S. A. Duncan was elected elder for two years, and Willis Booth, Esq., for three years. This is the church in which a split occurred about a year ago, and the pastor took part of the congregation to Thirty-fi th street and started a United Presbyterian Church. The old church is now very prosperous and has good congregations every Sunday, interesting sermons and good music.
