CEJECT TO THE WASTE.

the road company granted the gas company the right to lay its pipe line on the turnpike of the right to lay its pipe line on the turnpike of the company, the gas company agreeing to furnish free gas for 40 lamps. Toe lamps were crected and gas burned in them up to date. There were no burners or regulators on them and there was a great waste of gas. The gas com-rany finally placed burners and regulators on the lamos, but the road company took them off and put on other burners without regula-tors. There was still four times as much gas used as was necessare, but the defendants re-fused the pressure. fused to regulate the pressure.

It is now asked that the turnpike company be restricted from using the gas with the pres-ent burners or without regulators; also to prevent them from letting the gas burn in daylight, as they have been doing.
