UTHER BANKS LEND ASSISTANCE

PETROIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 .- For weeks rumors which could not be traced to any source, but which were no less wicked and mischievous on that account, have been circulated regarding the solvency of various banks and banking firms, with the result, if not with the purpose, of causing a feeling of uneasiness among persons not well informed of the actual condition of affairs. On Saturday last the goesips began to wag their tongues about the Keystone Nazional Bank at Chestnut and Juniper streets. These stories were industriously circulated, and notwith-standing the positive assurance of Bank Examiner Drew that all the Philadelphia Na-Chestnut and Juniper streets. The officers and directors had heard of the rumors and had prepared for a run, which they knew to be inevitable from the lies that had been circulated. As each depositor presented his check at the window it was paid without a question. About noon, when the crowd had very much increased and the excitement among the smaller depositors was growing more intense, the policy of paying them first was adopted, and all holders of checks for amounts of $1,000 and upwards were told to wait until 2 o'clock, while the work of paying the smaller depositers went steadily on.

As the time went by the crowd increased in numbers. Inside the bank there was a long line of people extending to the back part of the building, all quietly waiting their turn at the cashier's window. At 1:30 o'clock the line of depositors numbered fully 150. They comprised mostly those who had small amounts in the bank-small storekeepers and contractors. At that time nearly $200,000 had been passed over the counter. When the clock in the bank marked 2:35 to allow any work on the fair buildings to the crowd had increased in number and scarcely an inch of vacant space was left in the building. Not a check was presented fluence to these ends. for over $2,500 and very few for over $200 or $300, showing that the scare was confined almost exclusively to the small depositors.

PLENTY OF MONEY IN SIGHT. About 20 minutes of 3 o'clock, two stalwart messengers entered the bank, bearing between them a huge satchel full of money. A sigh of satisfaction went along the long line of depositors as this bag was carried inside the partition reparating the counters from the bank offices proper, and the pay-ments went steadily on, though none of the money brought in the big satchel was used, because it was not needed. At 3 o'clock, the great iron grates before the bank were shut. A trusty guard was to the penitentiary for life. His victim was placed in charge, with instructions to let | George Aldridge. everybody out who desired to go, but admit no more. In the back part of the building in a little room was gathered the directors, discussing the situation. The question be-fore them was, "Shall we close the business bank at that time be paid?" There was a disposition among a good portion of the band to pay everybody. The large depositors expressed every confidence in the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank at that time be paid?"

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Joseph Mesik fatally shot his brother-in-law, Joseph Hogar, last night, and then attempted suicide by shooting the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of them had been supposed to the bank and many of the bank and many bank and many of them had been present the greater part of the day, not only giving nctions in not only not drawing their money. but making other deposits. One of the largest depositors of the day was John Wanamaker.

STICKING TO BUSINESS RULES.

The board finally decided not to violate the business rules of the bank, and II minntes after 3 o'clock word was sent to Cashier Hayes to close the window. Mr. Hayes then announced that no more checks would be cashed. He invited such depositors as were present to leave their books and they would be settled ur, and whatever balance was due would be paid in the morning. The announcement was received without any demonstrations of disapproval by the crowd. The large gates were raised and everybody not having busipress with the directors went out without a President Marsh was in his office during the most of the day and was accessible to all epositors who desired to call upon him. He said at the close of business that the bank had met all demands and was still able to do so. When the bank closed over $350,000 had been paid out. A few minutes before the hour for closing came a number of the large depositors entered the bank and went to the officers and signified their intention of depositing larger sums in the morn-

It was declared that all the banks would stand together and not permit trouble to come, for the reason that no one could prophecy where it would end. In accordance with this sentiment, it is understood that some of the most remable banks in the city advanced money to the Keystone during the day, without asking any collateral for it whatever.

Church, of this city, has recently been everhauled and greatly improved, and last week every night there were special services in the edifice and about all of the money for the improvement was raised. Now, considerable trouble has arisen in the church because of the resignation of the entire choir, composed of 12 or 15 to be opened for settlement. ladies and gentlemen. One of them charged the pastor with ignoring, insulting and humiliating them. He said that on Sunday the pastor ignored them, by asking the congregation to start a hymn, which the choir was ready to sing and had their hymn books ready; that when one of the lady members of the choir came in late and a male member whispered to her and offered her a seat, the pastor turned around, told all the members they were a part of the service and if they could not stop whisper ing their services would be dispensed with proverb. Waste not this golden opportunity. Not inducement enough yet? Well, read on: To every purchaser of $15 worth or over, in our Men's Clothing Department, for all next week, we are going to give a large and handsome 800-page book. "THIRTY YEARS OF LABOR" is the title of the work and T. V. POWDERLY the author. A regular $3 book. This knocks out any inducement offered elsewhere. Make a note of this and get one. The Boys, too, have been provided for. With every sale of $5 and up in our Boys' and Children's Department we intend to give a large and completely fitted TOOL CHEST. All the boys who have seen this are delighted, and yours will be no exception to the rule.

Are now open for your inspection. Thousands of useful articles now await your selection for Christmas gifts. The assortment will never be so full again as at the present time. Won't the best and the prettiest be apt to go first? Human nature would not be true to itself if they did not. Come in and see what a royal line of USEFUL and ORNAMENTAL things we have collected. A look costs nothing. Don't buy if you are not

PRIME NO. 1 SKINS From any furbearing animal in order to be so when made into a garment must be skillfully and carefully handled in the commercial processes through which they pass. If in desing unhairing and dressing this is not observed the WEARING QUALITIES are materially lessened, though they may appear SIGHTLY TO THE EYE. It is of PRIME IMPORTANCE THAT A THOROUGH KNOW LEDGE OF THE BUSINESS AND RELIABILITY should be sought for in the dealer.
