To Take Strong Action for the Protection of Their Interests.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN THE FIELD

For the past week field operations have not been attended with any startling results. Thorn Run pool, on the Meeks farm, about one mile ahead of developments. They drilled the well 56 feet and were rewarded with a good gasser, which will let them out in good shape. The same company also completed a well Saturday on the McClinton farm, a half mile northeast from their duster, which will probably make a producer when shot. Johnson & Story, too, brought in a dry hole above St. Mary's, while the Vancluse well just below St. Mary's is in and is a duster. Wildwood has not brought in any more gushers for the past few days, although several wells on the southwest line have been drilled deeper and found a second pay, which has materially increased their production. The well at McDonald station, Panhandle road, on the McDonald out any improvement. The well has ceased spraying and an experienced scout said to THE DISPATCH to-night that the venture did not look to him to be good for more than a four or five-barrel well. The further decline in the market has augmented the feeling of depression among the independent producers, and is acting as a stimulus and incentive to independent organization. This spontaneous outburst of independent spirits is but the result of oppression and is not confined to any particular locality, but is general all along the line.

Production Regardless of Cost.

In a recently published interview with a Standard Gil Company official, it was said that company would continue to produce oil regardless of the price for petroleum. This is as much as to say that if the field price of oil was not sufficient to pay the expenses, it made no difference to a company which, taking that oil from the wells, could trans-port, refine and market it. The price of the manufactu ed article could be maintainedand so long as the manufacturer was also the producer the profits would remain the same. The only losers would be the pro-ducers who were not interested in the manufacture of it. Allow such a monopoly to become a producer of the bulk of the oil, as it is row the manufacturer of it, and the producing minority, or the manufacturing minority, could be squeezed alternately, while the profits of the squeezer would remain at a fixed figure. Under such circumstances percoleum at 5 cents a barrel or $5 a barrel would make no difference to the manopoly. Its income would not be affected by it, while on the other hand the one price would kill the minority producer, and the other price dismantle the refineries of the minority manu acturer.

The Standard has had control of the manutacture of petroleum for years. Its policy in the past was to purchase rivals, or drive them from the market by lowering the price of refined. T-is was a costly policy and not a wiscone. It was the policy of capital and force and not of brain and shrewdness. But it was the only course to pursue so long as only two of the three branches of the dustry were in the hands of the Standard. They were the transporters and manufac-turers, but they had no production. If they used capital and force to overcome their ivals in these two branches, it resulted in benefit to the producer in higher prices, either from increased consumption or speculative advance in prices. If they tried to check the producer their manufacturing rivals reaped a benefit. In neither case were the advantages to the minority refiner nor the producer equal to those of the Standard but they were sufficient to keep the two parties in the field. Gets All of the Profit. Within four years the Standard has become a producer of oil, and now whatever profit there is in producing, transporting, relining or marketing, it gets it all; for it is in each branch of the business. But its producing portion is as yet only a small part of the Lole. For what it has large sums were paid, and expensive management has acreased the cost. To become the owner of the bulk of production the ensiest way for the Standard was through low prices, and the latter has been attained without in any way affecting the profits of the monopoly. Instead, at the difference between refined and crude, their profits have increased owing to the fact that the bulk of the production is still in the hands of outsiders.

The shortest route to low prices is through 4,300 barrels, or more than one-third of the total; while of the 820 new rigs and drilling wells, the Standard was interested in 102, or nearly one-eighth of the total. This is in the Pennsylvania and West Virginia oil regions only. In the Ohio field the Standrd was interested in 7,450 barrels of the 13,779 barrels of new production, or mor than one-half; and in 111 of the 297 new rigs and drilling wells. It looks, indeed, as if the Standard intended to drill and produce oil, regardless of the price of the Under these circumstances some few producers are pursuing a conservative business plan which promises to make them indeendent of any combination. They propose to transport and market their own cil. This is not being done by any large combinations or associations of producers, such as in the past have met, "resolooted" and adjourned, but by the few individual producers of dis-tinct pools. One of the companies of the Chartiers district is caring for its own production; several producers of Elk county are constructing a line for the same purpose, and at Clarendon some of the producers transport, refine and market their own oil. The Producers Interested.

These enterprises will be watched with tunity to become a member of club B. It is almost complete. Call and see the interest by producers, and if successful will be a hint of the future policy of the producer. From the evidence of a prominent and successful business man before the Inter State Commerce Commission at Washington the Standard gained a hint which may have shaped its course in regard to buying production. The witness said, in substance, there are but three branches of business, producing, transporting and manufacturing. He who is engaged in but one brauch has two competitors; but he who is engaged in all has no rival. Let the pro-ducer take a hint from the same sage remark.

The independent producers of the Emlenton district held a large and enthusiastic meeting Saturday in the Opera House with a view to building a refinery and piping their own oil. The meeting was ably addressed by a number of the most prominent citizens and producers in that section of Venango county. The situation was thoroughly discussed in all its phases, and the consensus of the meeting unquestionably indicated that the new project will be consummated at no distant day. The plan as mapped out is to build a refining plant at a cost of $60,000, to be located near the town. They also propose to build pipe lines into the Squaw valley. Ritchie Ruo, Byrom Center and Mariasville districts, and conduct business wholly within themselves. They are not going into the new enterprise to fight or antagonize the Standard, but on Durely business principles.

A Decline in Production. MONTOUR-Within the last two months

PLAYING BOTH ENDS,
the production of the Montour field has declined to an alarming extent. It seems as though the bottom had dropped out of nearly all the principal wells. No. 2 Mc-Kowan was shot last week and responded nicely, starting off sta 20-barrel-an-hour gait, but in six boars she only flowing entirely. Transporting and Refining.

but in six hours she quit flowing entirely and has made nothing since. The Homewood Oil Company's Schuller farm wells are holding up remarkably well. Some attribute this to the wells not being shut down on Sunday. They have hid defiance, as it were, to the Law and Order people, and keep their beams bobbing the same as if there were in the wilds of Butler or Venango counties, where Wishart is unknown.

Sill, O'Dell and Company have a fishing job for a packer at their No. 2 McElhern. They are still fishing for tools at their Phillips No. 2. The Fort Pitt Gas Company got the tools out of their Diebold No. 1 and are drilling in the sand. They have no all yet and the propagator. There have been no big wells to report, while on the other hand several dry holes have contributed to the bullish aspect of the situation. Finegan & Downing had the misfortune to score a dry hole Friday in the Thorn Run pool, on the Meeks farm, about will be started at the present price of oil. will be started at the present price of oil.

A DESPERADO MEETS HIS FATE.

He Takes the Town in Frontier Fashion, But

Meets His Match. NAVAJO SPRINGS, ARIZ., Dec. 6 .- A shooting affray occurred this afternoon resulting in the probable death of Bud Blake, an ex-cowboy and one of the most feared desperadoes in this section. Blake rode into town this afternoon and, after filling up with tangle-foot, proceeded to shoot up farm, was drilled Friday and Saturday with- the town. After terrorizing the citizens be rode across the country in the direction of St. Johns, about two miles from here. He encountered two telegraph operators, R. L. Alexander and L. L. Cotton, returning from an antelope hunt. He catled upon them to throw up their hands, and received an immediate response in the shape of a volley from a Winchester in the hands of Mr. Alexander, and Mr. Cotton's six-shooter. Blake returned the fire. Blake fell from his horse mortally wounded. Alexander, whose shot took effect, gave himself up to the constable.

AN INDIAN MURDERER KILLED.

He Resisted Arrest and Was Shot Dead by a Deputy Sheriff.

SPOKANE FALLS, WASH., Dec. 6 .- A. telegram from Okanogan county announces the killing of the Indian murderer of Frederick Cole by Deputy Sheriff Ives, after a girl was brutally murdered at Chester A hot fusillade, in which a squaw was also owing to the manufacture being exclusive, wounded. Cole disappeared about six weeks ago, leaving his team where he had encamped for the night, and although blood stains were found about the wagon, the body was never discovered. Suspicion fell upon an Indian lurking in the neighborhood, who disappeared immediately after the crime was committed. Ives located him near the mouth of Methow When he attempted to arrest him the Indian opened fire. Ives returned the fire and killed the Indian.

A COLLISION BETWEEN STEAMSHIPS. It Arises From Conflicting Opinions of the Right Way. NEW YORK, Dec. 7 .- The French steamship La Champagne, which sailed from this port for Havre at noon on Saturday, returned to her dock here at noon to-day, having been in collision at 5:35 o'clock this morning with the freight steamer Lisbonese, bound to Brooklyn from Rio Janeiro. La

Champagne lost a piece of her stem, about 10 feet long and 3 feet wide, above the water line. The accident occurred about two miles south of Sandy Hook. The stem of the La Champagne struck the stem of the Lisbon-ese, and both vessels escaped serious injury. No person was hurt. The Lisboness is lying at a Brooklyn dock.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. THE LATEST DISCOVERY.

What the Greatest of All Medern Scientists Has to Say Upon the Most Important of All

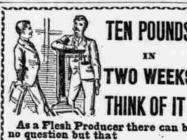

Professor Koch, the great German physician who discovered the microbes which cause cholera, claims to have discovered a way of curing consumption, by vaccination. As more than half of all the deaths which occur every year are caused by consumption, if Dr. Koch's claim is true, it is the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century. But there seems to be some doubt as to whether it can be made practicable in all cases, while in every case it is certain to be a very expensive cure and one that can only be indulged in by the very wealth-iest.

that can only be indulged in by the very wealthlest.

In the course of his remarks upon the subject, however, Professor Koch makes a most wonderful statement, which is as follows: "Alcohol is a food in consumption." He does not say that it is a temporary aid, but an absolute food, sustaining the life, building up the strength, and restoring the health. This is a most important statement and proves beyond question the great value of alcohol in the treatment of disease. It should be remembered, however, that alcohol is never taken in its natural form and that whiskey is the finest manner in which alcohol is ever combined. Even then, it must be pure beyond question, or it injures instead of aids. It is the possession of this quality of purity and its medicinal power which, has made Duffy's Pure Mult Whiskey so immeasurably superior to any other known whiskey in the world. It has sayed the lives of many men and women who were on the downward road to consumption, and it will check the first stages of consumption or prevent pneumonia in every case. Great care should be exercised to secure only the genuine, and no dealer, however unscrupnious, should be allowed to substitute inferior and perhaps injurious whiskey.
