WILL HAVE A BIG TIME.

The Randall Club's Musicale This Evening at Old City Hall.

Extensive preparations have been made by the Randall Club for the entertainment to be given at Old City Hall this evening, and a very large attendance is expected. The programme is an elaborate one and those who attend can rely upon hearing some most excellent music, both rocal and instrumental. Miss Grace Miler, who ranks among the leading vocalists of let, who ranks among the reading vocasiss of this city, will render several selections, as will Messra. James Weldon and George Williams. The Gernert and Weiss Orchestra will attend to the instrumental music. At the conclusion of the above features a grand promenade will the anover textures a grand promenate with be indulged in, followed by dancing.

The proceeds of the evening will be used in defraying the expenses of the band, which will accompany the club to Harrisourg on January 20, the date of Governor Pattison's inaugura-

RTHE PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE Is Rapidly Increasing, and More Teacher

Will be Needed. At the regular meeting of the Central Board of Education held yesterday the reports for the months were read and other routine business transacted. The Finance Committee presented the estimate for the ensuing year, amounting to $414,750. This is an increase of $15,000 over last year's estimate, accounted for by additional teachers. At present there are 31 more teachers employed than there were last year. The intriangular than there were last year. The increase of pupils shows no sign of abating and it is estimated that 30 more teachers will be required next year. Secretary Reisfor reported expenditures for November amounting to $33,355 45.

The salary list for next year was reported the same as now. Several new teachers were recommended. John H. McIlroy presented credentials to fill the vacancy caused by Dr. Benham's death. The Committee on Teachers met after the board adjourned, and discussed applications for new teachers at several Bids to the amount of $7,889 46 were considered, including one of $2,083 35 from the Allegheny Heating Company, which was rejected. This was the amount charged for a four-months' supply of gas.

This was the amount charged for a four-months supply of gas.

The claim was made that the supply was never good and part of the time the water works had no gas at all. H. S. Henderson's bill of $150 38 for coal furnished by him during the gas shortage was ordered paid.

THE EVERETT PIANO FACTORY. One of the Most Complete and Magnifice in the Whole World.

The new addition to the Everett factory is completed. The building has a frontage on Albany street, Boston of 300 feet and is six stories above ground; 1,700,000 bricks and 1,000,000 feet of lumber were used in its construction. It contains 400 windows, 6,000 panes of glass, and over 800 Grinnell sprinklers, instantly available in case of fire. Also a complete electric light plant of two dynamos and 400 incandescent lights. There are three acres of floor space devoted exclusively to finishing. Four thousand pianos are on hand in various stages of construction. The company is averaging ship-ments of over 100 pianos per week, and or-ders are so abundant that the present busy condition will prevail. Mr. E. V. Church, of Chicago, sent in an order for 102 pianos, which arrived at the factory during our presence. Another large case factory in Cambridge, Mass., and a box and lumber mill at Conway, N. Y., are under the same management. The company have from 600

A Plan to Form an International Club of Newspaper Workers.

THE MEETING TO BE HELD HERE.

A Grand Revival of an Old Project to Help the Profession.

SOME OF THE OBJECTS AS OUTLINED

Through President T. J. Keenan the Pittsburg Press Club has issued a call to other similar organizations in America and Europe to meet here in convention January 27, for the purpose of organizing an international press club.

As the Press Club banquet will be held January 29, the delegates will be the guests F. H. EGGERS & SON, Ohio and Chestnut sts. of the local club, and will attend the feast. A series of resolutions giving the nims and scope of the new organization have already been adopted. In interviews with local Press Club officials, yesterday, the following was gleaned concerning the plan and the resolutions:

AN OLD PLAN REVIVED.

The project of forming a national association of press clubs is not a new one. Without advancing the claim that it originated in Pittsburg it may be said that the desirability of such an organization was discussed by some of the older members of the local club more than eight years ago. The idea of taking initiative steps in the matter did not, of course, occur to the then infant organization, but when the New York Press Club, some time afterward, sent out a circular calling upon the press clubs of the United States to send delegates to a con-vention for the formation of a national associa-tion the Pittsburg club promptly accented the invitation and elected delegates. Unfortu-nate differences between Eastern and Western clubs gave an early deathblow to the move-ment, however, and the convention was never ment, however, and the convention was never held.

Several years later, when the Pittsburg Press Club had gained in prestige and membership, the Secretary, Mr. Keenan, had some correspondence with clubs in Caucus and the United States, relative to the expediency of an international organization, including all the journalistic associations in North America and the capital cities of Europe. Favorable responses were received, and it was suggested by the officers of clubs at Toront, and elsewhere that Pittsburg take the initiative in the proposed organization. Circumstances arese which rendered it inexpedient to adopt this flattering suggestion, and the movement again lapsed for want of a pioneer. Conceiving at the time that it would ultimately be the destiny of the Pittsburg club to call its brother organizations together, it was resolved to present the matter to the club whenever it had gained that prestice which merit and continued prosperity insured. which merit and continued prosperity insured. Feeling that that period has arrived, and at the request of the Board of Directors the following suggestions were laid before them:

A LIST OF THE SUGGESTIONS. First-That the journalistic organizations of the United States, Canada and the City of Mexico and the capital cities of Europe and South America be invited to send delegates to the ice and the capital cities of Europe and South America be invited to send delegates to the convention to be held in Pittsburg on January 27, 1891, for the purpose of organizing an international association of press clubs.

Second—That a programme be at once prepared for the entertainment of the delegates in the intervals of the session; the programme to conclude with the anniversary banquet of the club on January 28.

Third—That the bash of representation in the convention be one delegate for each organization with an additional delegate for each 30 of membershin.

President Keenan said: "While it would hardly be in good taste to seek, in the call for the convention, to define with any degree of detail the scope or character of the association, it might be well to point out a few of its advantages, not only to the organizations included, but to the individual members thereof. Cards of membership could, for instance, under certain restrictions, be made interchangeable, and give to the holder temporary privileges of the association clubouse in any city to which personal inclination or the duties of his profession might call him. Visiting a strange city as a sightseer or on private business, where could he better obtain needed information or establish more convenient headquarters than at the rendezvous of his professional brethren? Where find a more cosmopolitan or infallible address for his correspondence than "Care of the Press Club!" If his mission be to report a convention, or to obtain the details of a great event, his card of membership will buy him priceless aid and courtesy. It will be an open sessme to the bearts of the men of the press as well as to the hospitable portals of the Press Club.

"Every newspaper man in Pittsburg realizes "Every newspaper man in Pittsburg realizes "Every newspaper man in Pittsburg realizes how much our club organization has done to elevate his profession in the eyes of the community. An international league of clubs, aside from its other advantages, will place the calling of a newspaper writer upon as high a plane the world over. As the immediate occasion of presenting the matter at this time, I state that within the past three months I have talked with officers and representative members of half a dozen leading press clubs, all of whom heartily favor an international association of press clubs, and declared that no better place for its formation could be found than the centrally located city of Pittsburg."
