THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH.

PITTSBURG, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1890.

PROBING FOR FACTS, RAISING MILLIONS To Tide Over the Stringency Caused by

L. E. Haughey, of the W. E. Baeder Glue Company, Arrested on Serious Charges.

HE IS HELD FOR COURT.

Accused of Tampering With the Books and Misappropriating Cash.

OVER $50,000 SAID TO BE MISSING.

Mr. Kern of the Firm Says His Losses are Much More Than This.

THE FAILURE CAUSED ONE MAN'S DEATH

The William E Baeder Glue Company failure, with all its train of dismal features, was revived vesterday before Alderman Mc-

L. C. Haughey, one of the partners of the firm, was brought before His Honor on two informations. One of them charged Mr. Haughey with omitting to make full and true entries in the books of the firm, of falsilying the books, papers, writings, etc., whereby over $50,000 of the firm's money had not been accounted for, all of which had been done with the intent to defraud the

The other charge was that the defendant had used and pledged the name of the firm wilfully and fraudulently to convert to his own use securities and valuable papers to an amount greatly exceeding $50,000. Both informations were made by George W. White, the New York bookkeeper of the firm. Clarence Burleigh appeared for the Commonwealth, and City Attorney Elphinstone, of Allegheny, for Mr. Haughey.

The Note Was Absolutely Worthless. Thomas P. Day, cashier of the People's National Bank, this city, was the first witness called. He testified to Mr. Haughey's having opened an account at that institution business men, who stated the firm was all right, one of the gentlemen being Mr. Mc-Kelvey, an oil man. The account was clusted in about four weeks. Just before this Farmers' and Laborers' Confederation for the Farmers' and Laborers' Confederation for the closed in about four weeks. Just before this date it was overdrawn $940, but a day or so ater a note for $968 was left for collection. Mr. Day smiled sadly when he said the books showed a slight balance in favor of the firm, but the note was afterward found to be worthless. He stated that when the and Discounts Not Reported to Headquarters-Mr. White was shown a bank book, and pointed out securities amounting to $20,975 that had been discounted at the People's National Bank which had never been reported to the New York office. Mr. Haughey was in the habit of making statements to that office about once every month. They were always made in his handwriting. He could not say whether the money Mr. Haughey received went into the firm's business or not. They had no account of it in New York. The partnership was formed in September, 1888. The year previous to the fallure, which occurred in March, 1890, the sales of the company amounted to $200,000. No account of the proceeds of the discounts was to be found in the books at headquar-

On cross-examination Mr. White stated that some time be ore the failure as near as be could recollect, a suit was brought against the company for $30,000. The firm was not financially embarrassed, however, as all bills were being promptly met.

Two Views of the Subject. The arguments of counsel were brief. Mr. Eliphiustone said there was not a particle of evidence to warrant the court in holding the defendant on either charge. Mr Haughey's books, which were obtainable with little trouble, and which cleared up these points, had not been offered in evidence at all. He asked for his client's dis-

Mr. Burleigh stated that one fact stood out most prominently. This was that Mr. Haughey, in the short space of about one month, had discounted paper of the firm to the amount of $20,975, of which sum not a single penny had been accounted for. There were transactions with one bank, and they were sufficient for the purposes of the case. A great amount of additional testimony dould have been produced by the Common-wealth, but he considered it unnecessary to drag bankers and business men into court to tentily in a preliminary hearing.

Alderman McMasters, without comment, held the defendant for court in both charges, fixing the bail for each at $7,000. Mr. Robert C. Petty signed both bonds.

Baeder Died of a Broken Heart. Atter the hearing Mr. Kern, the New York member of the firm, said: "This affair has cost me $70,000 in cash, and besides that I will have to pay a big lot of outstanding judgments against the company. The He died about a month age. His heart was broken over the disastrous outcome of this business. It cost us a big lot of money to ascertain bow things were going, but I am getting considerable light now. As for Mr. Baeder, he is beyond the need of it.

that Mr. Haughey was in Chicago. I had him brought here on extradition papers and be gave bail for his appearance at the hearing to-day, and that is about all I can tell There may be some interesting developments later along."

Mr. White said that the firm had been completely wiped out, and that Mr. Kern had lost about all the money he had. He also made some very strong st corning the outcome of the firm's business

He said also that the business for last month was $500,000, and the earning capacity of the company to-day was greater than it ever was before. He admitted the company had a finating debt, but for every $1 of liabilities there are $2 in assets. The stripgency in the money market made the move necessary. For the present people are unable to pay their bills promptly, but the out-standing business is well secured, and it is only a question of time until there will be plenty of funds to run the business. The company is on a good financial basis.

It was rumored yesterday that the bank presidents of Pittsburg had met and decided to loan the company $500,000 until the tightness in the money market was loosened, but if this is true Secretary Updegraff said he didn't know anything about it. The stockholders are very well pleased with the pres-ent condition of affairs.

ALL THE NEWS OF THE COUNTY COURTS

Judge Over, of the Orphans' Court, yesterday handed down an opinion in the matter of the exceptions of the widow of John Dewalt to the account of Dewalt's executor. Mrs. Dewalt made a claim for the widow's exemption of $300 from the claims of her husband's creditors. The administrator refused to allow it on the grounds that she had not lived with her husband and that the money had nearly all been paid to creditors.

At the hearing in the case it was de-veloped that Mrs. Dewalt had not lived with her husband for 19 years before his death. He had beat her and put her out of his house because she had interfered with him when he was chastising his stepchildren. He afterward visited her, but refused to live with her. Judge Ower in his opinion stated that the fault of the step-father was not hers and she was entitled to the claim. As it was a pre-ferred one she should have been paid before the creditors and it was directed that the administrator be surcharged with the

A PLAN FOR OIL MEN

To Escape From the Oppression of the Standard Monopoly.

Six Good Wells on Pive Acres in the Wildwood Territory.

THE CHAMPION 3-YEAR-OLD PRODUCER

A prominent producer, in discussing the situation to-day, ventilated his ideas in the following manner, and thinks he has struck a plan which will bring a higher price for crude petroleum, and eventually lead the producer to prosperity:

"As a first step for immediate relief, that the producers of oil make one seller of their product, instead of each producer selling his oil to the Standard as soon as run from the wells, that he transfer his oil, or credit for the same, to a committee whose business it shall be to secure capital to carry the oil, and loan to the producers who require it the present market value, plus premium or a percentage of such value, so as to make the security for the amount loaned beyond question. The oil so received from the producer by said committee in such calendar month is to be accounted for as soon as an equivalent quantity has been sold by said committee, and the amount due each producer deter-mined on the average price at which the whole was sold, less, of course, the expenses and interest and storage paid. The stocks of crude oil, outside of the Lima field are less than 6,500,000 barof the Lima held are less than 6,500,000 bar-rels, and the deliveries or consumption nearly 2,250,000 per month, so that even supposing the Standard owns the entire stock and one-eighth of the production, it looks reasonable to figure that the oil produced by the independent producers at present will be required for shipment or delivery to the refineries within three months. "It is well known that crude oil cannot "It is well known that crude oil cannot lawfully be delivered out of pipelines or used in refineries until the parties desiring such delivery surrender certificates or other evidence of ownership of the oil, and the statutes also provide for an investigation to determine whether the provisions of the law regulating pipe lines have been appropriate that rates observed. It is also understood that rates of storage have been pledged by the pipe lines while the market value of the oil is below $1.50 per barrel. It would, therefore, seem safe to use for the purposes of present relief the storage facilities immediately available. The collateral' security for the capital would be the certificates for the oil, and, if necessary, the producing property. If united action of producers could be manifested in this way, I am sure it would secure a better present value for crude oil, and would be a stepping stone to securing capital to build storage tanks, pipe lines, cars, refineries and seaboard terminals—all the facilities necessary for successful competition in marketing oil.

"When producers will put themselves in position to guarantee a supply of crude oil to any present outside refinery, or any refinery which may be built, then they can surely expect competition in the buying and marketing of their production, and that the value of their production will be regu-lated by the laws of trade, and not, as now, fixed arbitrarily by a monopoly whose policy is to acquire the producing property by driving the independent producer to ruin while it pockets a profit on every barrel of double the price paid for the crude oil. "The independent producers recently lost

The independent producers recently lost from their ranks some strong men by the purchase of their property (and probably good will). It was necessary to do this before inaugurating the system of oppression now in force and thus weaken the opposi-tion. Since that purchase the market for crude has constantly been reduced, while the price of refined has been maintained. Is any one deceived as to the real object of the monopoly purchase of these large pro-ducing companies? I do not be-lieve that the remaining independent owners of property and producers of oil in Pennsylvania will suffer patiently to be defrauded of their property by the same deceitful, hypocritical methods emsame deceitful, hypocritical methods em-ployed in the Ohio field to depress values and force a disposal of the producing terri-

Fifteen mouths ago the well had to its credit over 300,000 barrels of oil, and is now making 50 barrels a day. A singular leature about this phenomenal well is that for nearly six months it did not produce more than 18 barrels a day, when all at once, without anything what and increased the production to 60 barrels a the aggregate production of Washington county oil since the field was opened has been about 20,000,000 barrels. There has been a material change in the gravity of this oil since the discovery of the fourth and fifth sands. The general gravity prior to production from these sands was 49°, while at present the mixture of oil from the above sands with the Gordon and Gantz gives it a gravity of 45140. Five hundred barrels of fith sand oil, it is said, will discolor 30,000 barrels of Gantz sand oil.

Big Strike at Wellsville. WELLSVILLE-The Advance Oil Com pany's well, 400 feet west and 220 south of the Ohio Valley Gas Company's No. 1, is in and dry. From the revelation of the drill so far this field may be sized up as composed of pools of small proportions. Staley & Mc-Donald have a rig up one location east from No. 2 dry hole, but will not drill the well until at least two others now drilling in this locality are completed. The Ohio Valley Gas Company have made two more locations and are moving the rig from their No. 2 dry hole to No. 4. Johnston & Co.'s No. 1 Blenkley, recently completed, is rated as a 50 or 60-barrel well. The well drilling in advance as a venture on the Thorn farm is completed and dry, having found no outlet in this di-

Superintendent Phipps, in an interview, says the company will not do any new work unless forced to drill to protect their lines. Their No. 4, W. H. May, which has the appearance of being a good well when completed, would have been shot on Saturday, but, unluckily, they stuck the bailer and are fishing for it. A Heavy Pressure at Reibold's.

REIBOLD's-When the tools were started down in the old Phillips No. 1 Hartman down in the old Phillips No. I Hartman yesterday, preparatory to shooting, it was found they would only go down about 60 feet, the casing being plugged at this depth with old belt and other junk. The casing was then pulled, and when the plugged joints were taken off the well started in and flowed with great pressure for fully half an hour, throwing sand and stones in all directions. The gas pressure was so strong as to force the entire string of casing up before relieved. This well will be tested, as they are now ready to shoot. Important Sale of Oil Property. AMBERSON-Another important sale of oil property has just been made, the Forest Oil Company having purchased the entire interest of the Hundred-Foot Oil Company, interest of the Hundred-Foot Oil Company, the property consisting of 15 producing walls located on the Humphrey and adjoining farms. The sale is reported as a cash transaction, but the actual figures are hard to get at. Farquer & Co.'s No. 1, McDonnald, is rather a small well, probably good for 15 barrels, and don't augur well on the connection theory. Between the Amberson and Harmony and Zelienople fields this end of the One Hundred Foot field—to use a mild figure of speech—has about fired its wad. figure of speech—has about fired its wad. True, there will still be some wells procured. but there is not the rush for leases or the activity that is displayed in other portions of the One Hundred Foot field. H. Mc.

It is said Burns went into the saloon seem-It is said Burns went into the saloon seemingly drunk. He approached the table where the girl was seated and called for some beer. The girl had laid her purse on the table. Burns threw his coat on the table, and, it is claimed, took the purse. The girl protested, but the officer warked out of the place. He returned soon afterward and handed the purse to the girl. On opening it she discovered that $10 75 had been taken out. Miss Garrity reported the matter to Car tain Hayes, who sent an officer to investigate. In the meantime Burns, who had heard that the matter was reported to the station, sent a messenger to the Captain with his resignation. This morning Captain Hayes pre-sented the charge to Chief Marsh, who, on hearing the circumstances of the ease, im-mediately ordered Burns' discharge, and would not accept the resignation.

Register Conner Asked for Information About One Mrs. Smith.

HE LOCATES A FEW FAMILIES

Of This Name, but is Not Certain He Has Struck the Right Lead.

SENDS A LETTER ASKING FOR A CLEW

Register Sam Conner has been consideraoly torn up for two or three days in consequence of a communication he received on Monday from S. D. Wend, of Peoria, Ill. The gentleman mentioned is in search of information for a friend named Eberly, who wants to learn something about a certain Mrs. Smith. The letter reads: George Eberly, of this city, thinks that he is legatee under the will of a Mrs. Smith, who was an aunt of his, but whose first name he does not know. He states that Mrs. Smith died in your city a year or more ago. Either just before or just after her death, her will, which she had executed some time prior thereto, was destroyed without her knowl-offge and against her wishes. Mr. Eberly thinks it was destroyed by some party interested in having her die intestate. He further thinks that proceedings were had in your court to supply the destroyed will and to admit it, when supplied, to probate and that a hearing was had (or the matter was set for hearing), on January 6, 1890. He further says that he understands that among the lega-cies of the will was one of $1,000 to a German Catholic Church called "Summit Church," at Harmony, in Butler county, in your State.

THIRSTING FOR INFORMATION. I should be pleased if you will advise me whether there has been such a will as I have described admitted to probate in your county, and if so, let me know the full name of the testatrix and what the cost of a copy of the will

Mr. Conner, who is an obliging gentleman, at once started in on a search of the records for the will of Mrs. Smith. He had no difficulty in running across the name of Smith every few pages, but in all the documents he had encountered up until 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon not a single one of them contained any reference to Mr. Eberly. He was just sizing up will No. 21 when a DISPATCH reporter

"That's the toughest job I have had for many a long duy," he remarked as he wiped the perspiration from his brow. Finally be seized a pen and sheet of paper, and remarked that he would write the gen-tleman a letter. Fifteen minutes later he handed the epistle to the reporter and wanted to know it, under the circumstances, it could be called discourteous. He was as-sured that it was plain and to the point, so he followed the example of Gallagher. The letter was as follows:

THROWING LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT.

S. D. Wead, Peorla, Ill.: DEAR SIR-Your letter of the 2d inst, at hand, and while I have heretofore received some rather indefinite letters, I must say yours is the most beautifully indefinite of any that I have ever had the misfortune to peruse.

I cannot help but admire the knowledge displayed by Mr. Eberly in the matter of the names of his relatives, and I am only sorry that names of his relatives, and I am only sorry that I cannot inform him whether the name of his deceased aunt was Caroline, Catherine, Dorethea or Robecca Jane, I am glad, however, he rectam it was "Smith," for had it been "Brown" or "Jones" the matter might have been different, and his aunt would probably have been irring yet; but it was "Smith," of that he seems confident; hence we must confine ourselves to that small but historical family. As to the cost of k copy of her will, in case she made one, it would not amount to any more if it should transpire that her name was "Sarah" than if it had been "Maria," provided that either "Sarah" had been "Maria," provided that other "Sarah" or "Maria," was Mr. Eberly's aunt.

Realizing the anxiety with which Mr. Eberly will await the outcome of any of the possibilities suggested in your letter, and the comfort and happiness it will afford him to learn the first name of his departed relative, I herewith provide you with a list of a few of the "Mrs. Smiths" that have died here "a year or more ago," some of whom made wills while others did not:

Those leaving wills were: Ann Smith, Belle Smith, Caroline Smith, Catherine Smith, Dor-Those leaving wills were: Ann Smith, Belle Smith, Caroline Smith, Dorothea Smith, Eliza Smith, Eva Smith, Jane B. Smith, Maria B. McB. Smith and Rebecca Jane Smith. Those who failed to make wills were: Anna Smith, Ann Smith, Eliza Smith, Eliza Smith, Elizabeth Smith, Jane Smith, Lizzie Smith, Lydia Smith, Mary Smith and Nellie G, Smith.

SEEKING FOR A CLUE. After examining the above list of Mrs. Smiths, should Mr. Eberly continue in doubt as to the name of his aunt, kindly send me the name of his uncle, for I would regard that as an important clue, and one that may ultimately result and one that may ultimately result in the discovery of her name, if not her whereabouts. I suggest this, for I see upon looking through our city directory that there are a great many "Mrs. Smiths" yet living, any one of whom may be his long lost aunt.

Regretting that I have not a week or ten days more to devote to reading all the wills of all the "Mrs. Smith's" that are on record in this county in order to ascertain the name of Mr. Eberly's aunt, and expecting to hear from you soon again, I am, very truly yours, etc.,

"Do you get many letters like the one from Peoria?"
"Why, bless you, yes; by every mail. It beats all the number of people there are in the country who regard it as a very modest request to ask us to chase through documents day after day on as meager informa-tion as that furnished by Mr. Wead. I hope Mr. Eberly will secure the facts he is searching for, but after a three days' skirmish I have concluded that I cannot guess them out for WILL ASK FOR BIG DAMAGES.
