In a conversation with F. L. Grubbs, of the Oil Well Supply Company, he said to THE DISPATCH scout that in his opinion the most important event connected with the drilling of the Exposition well was the disposal of the Illinois Central Railroad. As at present located, they make the use of filled land beyond them impracticable, and thus far it has been impossible to agree upon any plan to obviate the difficulty. The abutting property owners, the World's Fair directory, and a committee of the Council have fault. covery of a vein of superior Pittsburg coal and a committee of the Councils have finally, however, agreed upon an ultimatum which which evidently underlies the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny and the river beds, at The plan contemplates a subterranean ara depth that would assure the successful working of it by a shall at a nominal cost.

Continuing Mr. Grubbs said: "What is to prevent the city of Pittsburg from applying to the Legislature for a franchise to mine total laying under the three river beds by sinking a shaft at the Point, and going into the coal mining business on their own hook. The franchise would obviate the necessity of purchasing the mining privileges from the thousands of property owners in the cities, and would give the Gas City the right to undermine public domain."

This scheme was successfully carried out by a company on the Youghingheny river above Connelisville some years ago, and to-day cade right of way 300 feet wide from Monroe a company on the Yourhogheny river above Connelisville some years ago, and to-day that river is tunneled for miles. Mr. Depew continued that he did not think that the bridge would make very great changes in traffic, because the arrangements of the roads terminating at Jersey City were so perfect now. "The ferry boats are the largest that can be built, and the floats for carrying of cars are the best. The bridge might be a good thing for passenger traffic, but whether it will be available for freight is a very doubtful matter. It is a question whether the roads can secure terminals in New York city that would be of benefit to them.

"I think the experience of the Erie is that ular. He doubted whether that under the North river would ever be finished, and thought that it could not receive the patronage of passengers. Of a Different Nature. "The East river tunnel," continued Mr. Depew, "is a very different thing, because the distance is shorter. I think that tunnel would be a great benefit to New York and Long Island, and be available for passenger traffic. It is the great distance of the North river tunnel that is against it."

Mr. Andrew H. Green, who is the leader in the bridge enterprise, said that he be-lieved the North river bridge scheme to be the most important measure every presented to New York City. It would facilitate the commerce of the whole country. As things now were every car, with the exception of those of a single road, discharged its passengers or its cargo to be put upon ferry boats or other craft. With the bridge an accomplished fact, the traffic of the whole coutinent would be directly with New York. Mr. Green said he knew very little about the North river tunnel, but should be glad to see it completed. Every bridge and every tunnel was a grand thing for New York. The projected East river tunnel, Mr. Green said, was somewhat problematical, perhaps, but sure to come, in his opinion. There was no doubt that teams would be driven through these tunnels, but whether the grades could be arranged to accommodate trains was a question yet unsettled. Mr. Green referred to his remarks upon the subject of bridges and tunnels made before the park commis-sioners December 30, 1868, when he was controller of parks. He then described the bridges across the Thames at London and the Seine at Paris, and said that if New York and Long Island should hereafter be connected by bridges the distance between Ward's Island and the Battery would require 22 of them if they were to be as frequent as in London, or 30 if built as near together as in Paris. Mr. Green also urge

Some Difficulty in Securing Capital. people in their efforts to secure the neces-sary capital for their enterprise are likely to amount to something. One of the most prominent freight traffic men in the country is known to have recently declined to take any of the stock or have anything to do with the enterprise. Some men lear the bridge, as all innovations are feared by those whose interests seem likely to suffer by them, and one view regarding the proposed structure is that it will destroy the lighterage busi-ness between New York and Jersey City. that he has not given the subject of bridge or tunnel sufficient consideration to warrant the use of his name, believes in encouraging all three schemes, and as many more of similar nature as may appear.

"I say, encourage them all," he exclaimed. "it people are willing to put their money in them! This for two or three reasons One is that they will give work to a class of people who need it. Secondly, these enterprises are sure to result in the developmen of certain sections, the establishment of new business. When a railroad company is asked to put on an extra suburbau train, for instance, the objection is sometimes made that there is no business for that train. But if the train is run the company soon finds that there is enough travel for that train. I believe the bridge and the tunnels will make populations larger in portions of New Jersey and Brooklyn. There is no way for New York to expand but into New Jersey. The East river tunnel will surely develop a part of Brooklyn not now touched by the

EITHER BY BRIDGE OR TUNNEL Trains Are Now Certain to be Soon Taken

Direct to New York. THE VIEWS EXPRESSED BY MR. DEPEW

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 .- There are three great projects which make a decided change in railroad matters in this vicinity, if not in the whole country. They are the North river bridge, the North river tunnel and the East river tunnel. Projects so vast have perhaps scarcely ever been presented to the people of New York. So wide are the possibilities suggested by the projectors that the public mind of even this most progresfused and scarcely knows how to regard the several enterprises.

The managers of the North River Bridge scheme have at last chosen the site for the New York terminal of their span, and made public all their plans. They announce further that by spring work will be begun on their immense undertaking, and expect that by that time the greater part of the $50,000,000 required, not a dollar of which has yet been raised, will be secured.

Meanwhile work upon the North River tunnel goes on as though such a thing as a bridge had never been thought of. The mud and debris from the excavation are every one-fourth done, though its managers are Englishmen, while the projectors of the bridge are undeniably Yankees.

"I think the North river bridge was a
