AN APPEAL TO BE MADE

By the Penn Avenue Property Holders From the Report of the Board of Viewers

-They Wanted Asphaltum and Object to

The property holders on Penn avenue, beween the intersection of Fifth avenue and the city line, will take an appeal this morning from the report of the Board of Viewers on the repaying of the street. The ordinance for the repaving was passed on February 27, 1889, and was approved March 9.

visions of the ordinance was that the owners should pay one-half of the cost of improvement as stipulated in their petition for the improvement. The petitions also state that the petition and ordinance called for asphaltum, but on the contrary it was re-paved largely with block stone. That E.

J. Alien, T. J. O'Leary, Jr., and D. Wenke, as Board of Viewers, made reports of the amounts, which were approved and adver-tised. That the viewers had no authority under acts of the Assembly in such cases.

The appeals further state that the peti-tioners were advised by counsel that through the city and contractors non-compliance with the terms of the ordinance

there was cause for appeal. That the officers profess to be proceeding under the act of May 16, 1889, "An act relating to streets and sewers in cities of the second class."

For these reasons the property holders ap-peal and ask that an order be issued to the clerk of councils directing him to certify eedings in tae case. Messrs, Knox & Reed are the attorneys for the appellants and have so far prepared 30 cases. Others are expected to be made this morning. The entire amount is $60,000.

The Mayor admitted that he had worked

Mr. Peter Elder, McKeesport, Pa. In concluding, Mr. Elder said: "My trouble had existed in bad form for about four years, ever since I recovered from an attack of typhoid fever. My head and nose were stopped typhoid fever. My head and nose were stopped up. I had very severe headaches over the eyes and through the temples. There was a constant buzzing and roaring in my ears. An aggravating cough bothered me. The matter would drop back into my throat, causing me to hawk and raise to clear it. My worst trouble, though, was in my stomach. My appetite was anything but regular. After eating I would suffer horribly, and especially at night when I would ile down, with a miserable distress at my stomach as if a fined were inside gripping and drawing me all up in a knot, then letting go again, when I would feel faint and dizzy. This misery kept me awake nights, and I would get up in the morning all worn out.

Superfluous hair is an excessive growth of hair on the female face, seen mostly on the upper lip, chin, under the chin, cheeks, forethe drawing room,

the most unsightly, annoying and humiliating blemishes that any sensive, refined lady can be afflicted with.
Every lady with hair on her face knows to her sorrow that depilatories, heated wax, soap

There is positively only one method in the world by which hairs can be permanently destroyed

Dr. Van Dyck, Electro Surgeon, 502 Penn avenue, devotes several hours daily to the permanent removal of superinous hair by the electric needle. This is a purely scientific operation and is indorsed by all physicians and surgeons of eminence as being the only method in the world by which the root or sack can be destroyed so the hair can never grow again. Dr. Van Dyck was the second physician in the world to perform this operation and was the first to make a success. He has operated for 15 years, has treated hundreds of cases and can assure a permanent cure in every case even it you have a beard. Don't neglect your case another day.

REDNESS OF THE NOSE.—The nose becomes finshed from the least excitement or change from heat to cold or vica versa—in time it becomes chronic red, after a while long, straight veins appear on the lock, and convoluted and branched veins appear on the lop and end of the nose. There is also red pinples, pustules, enlarged pores and greashness, the nose in some cases becomes enlarged and modulated. This same condition often extends to the cheeks, is Acne Resacae of the books, a disease which attracts attention and excites uncomplimentary comments; is humiliating for any one to be obliged to carry the visible signs of dissipation white they may be most temperate—affects both sexes, and is a detriment to anyone no matter what their station in life may be.

Dr. Van Dyck has perfected a treatment which never fails to cure this suggestive facial deformity.

pleasures in more ways than one-was to re ceive the hend of his secret police for couple of hours every morning, and to hear from this official's lips the complete and de tailed account of all the wickedness enacted in Paris the day be ore.

The Revolution, too, was a great time for spies, and Napoleon found reason to keep up the system during the period of his cmpire; while some idea may be gathered from Balzac's novels of the social and political tracking and shadowing which prevailed in France throughout the first half of this century. Napoleon III, improved upon all that had previously been done in this line to such an extent, indeed, that during his reign a brother would suspect prother, or a wife would even suspect her husband of being in the pay of the secret police.

The third republic is no freer than were any previous French regimes from this deep taint of what the French call "mouchardise." I boldly maintain, speaking from data known to mysels, and which shall some day see the light in more adequate form, that never be ore at any period of France's history has the reign of spydom been so widespread and absolute in Paris as now. There has been latterly much discussion in the world's press of the extraordinary degree to which OFFICIAL ESPIONAGE obtains in Russia and very interesting deails have been forthcoming on the subject. Now I am in a position to affirm that in Paris-I do not say throughout the whole of France-the meshes of the detective net are woven even more closely round the entire population than has ever been the case in St. Petersburg. Evidence of this fact might easily be found in the secret history of the Boulangist conspiracy. From first to known to the police, more than three-fourths of the Boulangists being informers. The instant you arrive at a Paris station you are in the midst of spies. You are driven to a hotel in a cab; in half an hour the cabman will furnish the police with any particulars he may have been able to gathe concerning your position, destination, busi-ness, etc. Arrived at your hotel you become the object of scrutiny as close as it is of manager or cashier or even porter or "boots," are in reality enrolled soldiers of the great detective army.

And here I may mention a special characteristic of the French detective system—its faculty of recruiting adherents in all classes of society. French spies for the most part They have a trade or occupation of their own, to which they seem wholly and solely devoted, while yet assiduously pursuing sub rosa their spying operations.

ON EVERY HAND. But let us, though not spies ourselves, continue to dog the steps of our unsuspecting stranger in Parls. He has dinner at his hotel, served by a garcon, who, as a matter of course, is in the pay of the police, and will subsequently report to them what conversation he overhears during the meal. He then sallies forth, primed with a glass or two of fine champagne, for an evening's nunsement of the true Parisian sort. First, he repairs to one of the brilliant boulevard playaouses. A few stalls away from him atts a gentlemanly-looking man, with steady, observant eyes, who glances now and again at our friend in such a way as to make the latter think, "I wonder where I have seen that man before." He never has seen him se ore, but it doesn't enter his head for a moment to suspect the man of being what he really is—a police spy.

The play over, there is just time for half ur's stroll under the horsechestnuts, in the Jardin de Paris. Here nine-tentus of the attendants are either spies or scamps, or may, indeed, be both at once; for French police authorities are not very squeamish in choosing their instruments, and seem, in-deed, to have a sort of preference for scoundrels over others. Their theory roos that the greater villain a man is the better spy he will make; moreove, the most effica-cious means of keeping a man under spy surveillance is to hav him become a spy himsel', for spies spy upor each other quite as much as on the rest of mankis.

NOT ALL OF ONE SEX.

But to return to our foreigners. . e finishes up the evening by turning into the Cafe Americain for supper, where he has for next neighbor a charming young woman, with whom he enters into conversation. She has a sweet smile which displays two rows of glittering teeth, and puts many questions to him concerning France and the French. Naturally enough, our visitor imagines this is all done out of that bright, easy Gallie politeness he admires so much; for how is he to know that every word he has said in reply will come to the ear of the police not later than the following afternoon. It our friend be fond of sport he will soon be finding his way to the race courses near the capital and into the baccarat clubs with which Paris abounds; and here he will be hourly in contact with police spies in great-er number than there are racers on the course or cards in the pack. And so the game goes on in every sphere of Paris life and society. To parouv the "Ancient Mariner." it is Spying, spying everywhere, and not a soul

Not only the French Government but the entire fabric of French society seems to be based upon espionage as its chief and firmest foundation. One topical detail for the accuracy of which I can youch may go further J. W. Harsha, pastor—Services at 10:30 A. M. and any amount of mere assertion to throw light on the workings of the spy system in Prance. There are of course in Puris, as in all other capitals of the working of the special spec ali other capitals of the world, a number of recognized correspondents of foreign journals. Will it be believed that to the person of each one of these correspondents, no matter what nationality, English, American, Russian or Spanish, or how insignificant the journal with which he is connected, a de-tective is specially and

SEPARATELY ATTACHED with the mission of readering a full and true account of everything his journalist says and does. That such surveillance P. M.: morning subject, "A Christmas Sermon Capital. should be put upon the representatives of great political organs is perhaps well enough. One can understand at a pinch why the CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH, corner Times and Standard representatives should Pride and Colwell streets, Rev.H. W. Talmage, be shadowed. But why the same honor should be extended to the correspondents of every little sheet that publishes a weekly "letter from Paris" is more than one can understand, and the fact altogether is eminently characteristic of the comprehensiveness of the spy system in France.

If any one monument or edifice may be called the heart of Paris, it is neither legislative palace, nor cathedral, nor even ex-change. It is the Prefecture de Police. In that large white stone building on the Boulevard de Palais, almost opposite the splendid pile of the Law Courts, sits a man who holds between his fingers all the skeins of the vast web in which the whole Paris population resident and transient is entangled. He is the Prefect de Police, the nominal or for good has been unparalleled in secret power. To his office converge daily minutes of the thousand and one reports constantly drawn up by the army of "agents" working ceaselessly beneath the smooth, glittering surface of Parisian life. It must not, however, be supposed that all those connected with the Pretecture de Police come often, or even come at all within its walls. For obvious reasons, the number of the agents who personally report themselves at headquarters is limited. With the great majority of his assistants, the Prefect is not acquainted by sight, hardly by name. It is all done through intelligent intermediaries.

A PECULIAR EXPERIENCE. When M. Andrieux, the brilliant French politician and journalist, some years since was appointed Prefect de Police, his first step was to immediately hunt up the report concerning himself. He knew that everybody in Paris is made the subject of a dessier, as it is called, and he was eager to know what his own dossier might amount His amazement and horror at finding himself charged, in this precious document, with every variety of crime, either commit ted or contemplated, may be better imagined

From that day he became a determined nemy of the whole institution of the Paris Cecret police, and has often since then at-Sucked it in the columns of leading journals t nd in the pages of his recently published

MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

An Allegheny U. P. Church Honors Itself and the Good Cause

BY GENEROSITY TO ITS PASTOR. The New Year to be Inaugurated by Union

Revival Services.

GLEANINGS FROM CHURCH FIELDS

The Fourth United Presbyterian Church of Allegheny certainly deserves a blessing. The paster, Rev. J. M. Fulton, who has had charge of the church about nine years, has of late been in failing health and unable to meet the requirements of the pastorate. By resolution of the congregation the pastor has been relieved from duty and is to receive $100 per month for the next two years. In addition to this several members of the church have recently sent in to their pastor nice checks, which will help to lighten the burdens of disease. All honor to such a church. Alasi that so many churches go and do otherwise, turning out their worn-out ministers like old horses to die as best they can. It is said that one of the foremost infidels of our times, a minister's son, became soured by the treatment his father received from the flock to which he had long ministered. Whether this be true or not, certain it is that churches need to come up higher in their treatment of worn out ministers. The ministerial relief treasuries of the churches are generally empty, and the right thing for a church which has enjoyed the best work of a minister in the days of his strongth is to see that he shall not want for the ordinary com-forts of life when his powers fall.

The United Presbyterian Churches of Allegheny have secured the services of Major Whittie for a series of meetings, beginning on the 4th of January, to last through the month, and possibly longer. The First and Second U.P., Churches, on Union and Stockton avenues, will have the Major's services the first week of the campaign. A first-class singer will accompany campaigh. A first-class singer with accompany the evangelist. Allegheny United Presby-terians propose to move on the enemy all along the line during the opening weeks of the com-ing year. Major Whittle has achieved remark-able success wherever he has gone, and big harvesis are anticipated from his work in our neighboring city.
