

FIGURES FOR 1892. THE APPROACHING NATIONAL CONTEST UNDER THE NEW APPORTIONMENT BILL, IF IT BECOMES A LAW, WILL BE A STRUGGLE OF A VERY INTERESTING CHARACTER. A FORECAST OF THE RESULT.

Republicans Hold the Advantage in the Electoral Vote. UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE BILL. FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The most important political legislation of the Fifty-first Congress has been enacted this week, so far as the popular branch of Congress is concerned, in the passage of the apportionment bill, providing for a new allotment of members of Congress, in accordance with the increase of population shown by the new census, raising the number of members of the House of Representatives from 332 to 365.

It is agreed upon all sides that this bill is one of the fairest that could be devised, as 50 is the first number which, dividing the population of each State, would not result in a loss of representation to any State, and distributing the increase of 24 as equitably as possible among all sections. It was opposed by a very few Republicans and supported by a considerable number of Democrats, which may be accepted as proving its non-partisan character, and there is little doubt that the Senate will take the view of the House as the latter branch is the one most immediately interested, in so far as the partition opportunity will occur in the re-districting of the various States, and in this the Democrats will have an immense advantage, on account of the number of Legislatures in which there is a Democratic majority, in States which, in all ordinary circumstances, are secured Republican, but which were transformed by the tidal wave of 1890, and fortunately for the Democrats will redistrict their States.

It may be fairly assumed that the result will be a Democratic majority in the National House of Representatives for years to come, unless their spirit should gain control of the administration, in which case, by what seems to be in these times a natural law, the revolution of feeling against the powers that be may work a revolution against them, as it did in November with the Republicans.

Table with columns: STATE, REPRESENTATIVE, SENATOR. Lists states like Alabama, Arkansas, California, etc., with corresponding numbers of representatives and senators.

ADD two to the number of Representatives from each State, to indicate the Senators, and the aggregate will be the electors from each State, giving a grand total of 444, which is 43 more votes than were cast at the last Presidential election, owing to the increase by the new apportionment and the admission of new States since 1888. Forecast of the Presidential Vote. Of the 40 electoral votes cast at the last national election, Harlan and Morton had 23 and Cleveland and Thurman 18. Of the 20 electoral votes of the States admitted to the Union since 1888 to the Republicans, which is quite generally conceded to be reasonable, and assuming the increase by the new apportionment and the admission of new States since 1888.
