FEAST OF YULE-TIDE

Celebrated With Great Pomp and Jovousness in the Cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny.

SANTA CLAUS PAYS MANY VISITS.

He Makes Just a Few Blunders, but Succeeds Fairly Well in Satisfying Everybods.

TURKET OFFERED ON FAMILY ALTARS

The Churches Held Special Services and Provide Treats for the Youngstern.

For the first time in many years Pittsburg has experienced the delightful rigors of an old-fashioned Christmas, and it was a dazmling success.

At early dawn little figures clad in white night robes stole down the stairways of nearly every house in the two cities. They cared not for the cold wind which swept through the halls, and wasted no time in dressing. They were eager to see what good old Santa Claus had done for them during the night. And what a time they had then! The little stockings would not begin to hold the evidences of yule-tide generosity. How could even Santa Claus, who accommodates himself and his loads to the modern chimney, squeeze a velocipede, a hobby-horse with really hair, or a rocking chair, into the space usually occupied by five little pink toes? It couldn't be done, and Santa Claus was too busy to waste time trying. He just piled up the larger presents by the side of the fire-place or under the Christmas tree, filled the stockings until they bulged with candy, and then, with a aly wink and a silent lough, disappeared up the flue without singeing a hair of his fur

Everybody Got a Christmas Gift.

The Christmas gifts were not confined to the little ones. It seemed as if everybody had been remembered, and it is safe to say that miserable, indeed, was the man, woman or child in Allegheny county who failed to get some evidence of the spirit of the season which pervaded even the atmosphere, like the silver haze of an autumn day.

Most of the gifts were suitable, though a few mistakes were made. People who didn't smoke received a box of eigars, and one member of a temperance society received a bottle of French brandy. The latter gift was not wholly lost, but was used to flavor some mince pies. Some people didn't get just what they wanted, and were ungrateful enough to complain, but as a whole the recipients expressed sufficient gratitude. The only really hard kick heard was from a family who felt they had been insulted by being presented with a Bible.

After Santa Claus had been duly thanked for his many kindnesses there was a grand flocking to church to duly celebrate the 1890th anniversary of the birth of the Savior in Bethlehem. The churches were decorated, and nearly all had special programmes prepared, to say nothing of the Sabbath school Christmas trees.

The Martyrdom of St. Turkey.

Dinner was a particularly bright spot in the day's festivities. It shone and blazed and sparkled like a $2 diamond in the necktie of a young man with social aspirations. While the menus varied with the tastes and finances of the hosts, they were all alike in one respect—they were mighty good dinners It is a matter, however, which will interest very few people to-day. The remembrances of yesterday's feast leave a bad taste in the mouth.

day. Some people were going out to dinner, and an unfortunate few were earning their dinners. Some were simply intent upon having a good time, and they had it, although in a few unfortunate cases it was abbreviated by the police carrying off to the lock-up a jolly good fell, with a load of Tom The day as a whole passed off pleasantly, although there were occasional sad scenes, which, like the sombre background of an oil painting, merely threw the brighter colors into still stronger relief. Business Houses Generally Closed.

A trip was made along Fourth avenue yesterday shortly before noon and but one broker found on deck, and he said he had come to his office to look over his mail. There is a financial institution in the city that for some years after Good Friday was made a holi-day, refused to suspend business, and some people began to say that the owners of the tock did not believe in the Trinity. Whether or no this talk had any effect cannot be stated, but of late years the day is observed by that institution-by the suspension of business at least. Strangers in the city who had not taken quarters at hotels complained of the searcity of eating houses. Quite a large proportion of the restaurants, located on streets that are "no thoroughfares" on a holiday, but whose owners depend on the custom of business and professional men, closed their doors yesterday, as their transient patronage would not pay the expense of keeping open. Some of their patrons were, in conquence, forced to look elsewhere for the meat that perisheth, and some of the restaurants that were kept open ran short provisions before night. Some houses were short of meat, others of oysters, and others yet of something else, and the proprietors found it difficult to cover their horts, most of the houses where such goods are usually to be had being closed in the afternoon, and their owners and salesmen scattered over city and surrounding country,

THE FREE LUNCH ROUTE

Showed Forth all the Delicacies of the Season Yesterday-One Table Twenty Feet Long Presided Over by Fifteen Waiters in Full

Free lunches were a leading feature of yesterday's Christmas feasts. In the different hotel barrooms of the city spreads were set before their customers that caused death in many a family of porkers. Suckling pigs seemed to be the favorites on the bills of fare. though roast turkey and roast beef played prominent parts. The Hotel Duquesne and Monongahela set out the most elaborate lunches. In the former's barroom a table 20 feet in length was presided over by 15 waiters in full dress. There was an elegant centerplece surrounded on every hand by delicious viands of every mort. The bill of fare included Kennebec saimon, boned turkey, stuffed young uig, pork, ham, tongu glaci a la Russe, bonbon glaci, celery olives, cucumbers, etc. Several hundred men partook of the lunch, which run from 10 A. M.,

The lunch set forth by the Monongahele was not on such an elegant scale, and two colored men did duty as waiters. The lunch was open at 10 o'clock and continued all afternoon. It consisted of roast turkey, have, roast pig, cold boiled salmon, senrimp saind, ovster compot, chicken gumbo soup, fricasseed chicken, tomato sauce. Their center piece was in the shape of a pond, with gold fish swimming about in the water. The lunches set out by the Anderson, Schlosser and Seventh Avenue hotels were of the solid sort, consisting mainly of roast beet, roast "grunters," turkey, salads, etc.

It is needless to say that all the hosts of the occasion. lunches were well patronized, the Duquesne and Monongahela At barrooms were crowded so that there was little comfort for the lunchers, but at the Schlosser they sat down at the tables, where the waiters served the lunch.

The bills of fure at the different hotels, as mentioned yesterday, were the best for many Christmas days. The Schlosser and Duquesne prepared no claborate bills of fare, but served numerous small parties private dinners. The former served 15 private dinpers, at which several dozen tarrapin were

The knives were finished in pearl, and the solid silver and elaborately carved forks bore the letter "M" upon the handles. Accompanying the gift were some verses written on behalf of the company by Mr. Ed. Poland, one of the brightest young men of his profession. They were in the same meter as Miss Mitchell's famous song in "Fanchon," and were cleverly engrossed by Mr. Poland, a cricket figuring promin-ently in the illuminations. The verses were

AT THE CHURCHES.

Entertainments of Numerous Kinds in Cele bration of Christmas-Christmas Trees and Candy Make the Children Happy-All Profusely Decorated With Evergreen Churches and Sunday schools have the special programmes of the day when it comes to Christmas, and they glory in the fact that this one holiday of the year comes wholly from a religious observance. Entertainments are of a various nature, though they all strive to make it especially a day for the little ones, for does it not commemorate the birth of Him who said: "Suffer the little children to come unto Me?" Thus it becomes a day of glad tidings and great joy, and in many places the good old Saint Santa Claus, instead of filling up stockings, loads down a Christmas tree at the church and calls out the voungster to be made happy as each toy is brought from its hanging place on the huge evergreen. find every name there. There were numerous Christmas trees in the churches in the doubt that the children enjoyed themselves. Their elders, also, appeared to like the entertainments, perhaps because the children were so happy.

Everywhere the decorations were elegant, evergreen, pot plants and flags giving the rooms a true holiday appearance. Some of the Celebrations.

Rev. Edwin Gnilbert conducted the services at Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church. A short programme was included in the annual treat at the Wilkinsburg P. E. Church. A most elab-orate programme was rendered at St. Peter's P. E. Church. Ten young ladies took their places in what was heretofore the boy choir. Their robes were similar to those of the boys, and they were college caps in addition.

The little ones of Ames M. E. Church, of Huzelwood, were given their treat Christmas Eve. There was a general service of song at the North Avenue Allegheny Church last night preceding the treat. The Wilkinsburg Church had its celebration the night before Christmas. That of the Arch Street Church was held yesterday morning. Candy was the leading feature of the programme at the Bingham Street Church. At the South Street Church a musical programme was included. The Sewickley Church had a programme of music and literary selections, followed by candy. The Mt. Washington Church had an interesting service Christmas Eve.

The Christmas offerings of the Hazelwood Presbyterian Church were made on Christ-mas Eve. The Glenwood Church held their services in the Twenty-third ward school building last evening. The Arch street (Allegheny)Church will not have its treat until New Year's night. The North Church held services last evening, including music, reci-tations and addresses. The Eighth Church held its entertainment Christmas Eve. Services were held at the Swissvale Church yesterday. The First Church, on Wood street, will hold its entertainment to-night. That of the McClure Avenue Church will be held to-day. The Second Church gave a literary entertainment on Christmas Eve. The treat of the Thirty-ninth Street Church was held yesterday morning, as was also that of the Forty-third Street Church.

Many Very Happy Children. The Seventh U. P. Church made the little ones happy on Christmas Eve. The Fourth Church, Allegheny, will give their mission school a treat this morning and the regular school will have an entertainment on New Year's morning. The Third Church had their service last evening and contributed to the Society for the Improvement of the Poor. The Bellevue and West Bellevue churches had Christmas trees last night. The Second and Third churches of Allegheny had their treats yesterday morning. The Third Ward Mission and First Allegheny Mission had services and treats last evening. An interesting programme was included in the treat at the Ninth Church, of the Southside. The children of the Allentown Church had a gay time Christmas Church and Wesley Chapel Sunday School had entertainments.

At the Sandusky Street(Allegheny)Baptist Church a cantata, "The New Santa Claus," was given last evening. The Shady Avenue Church also gave an inter-esting entertainment yesterday. The Union Mission, of Allentown, was given a treat Christmas Eve, and the Main Church, on South Nineteenth street, had its entertainment last evening. The Sunday School of the Thirty-seventh Street Church was given its treat Christmas Eve.

The Christian Church of Hazelwood combined with the Glenwood M. E. Sunday school, had an entertainment Christmas Eve. The Arch Street (Allegheny) Christian Church will reserve its entertainment for New Year's evening. That of the Chartiers Church was held Christmas Eve. Special attention was given to Christmas services yesterday in all the Catholic Churches, and the Cathedral in particular, where solemn high mass was celebrated.

Similar services were held at Holy Cross, St. Peter's, St. John's, St. Malachi's and St. James' Churches. A Christmas treat was had at the Me-Clure Avenue (Allegheny) Sunday school vesterday. That of the Park Place Mission vill be made next Tuesday evening.

Ninth Annual Tour of the Old Fellow Under Gusky's Auspices.

MANY VALUABLE TOYS DISTRIBUTED

As he clambered to his throne in his state coach every wrinkle on his jovial face seemed strangely familiar. Where had that venerable form been seen before? And those motley garments, hung about with jingling bells-were they not ancient acquaintances.

In very sooth it needed but the name of the old gentlemen, shouted in crescendo tones by every urchin on Market street, to confirm all suspicions. The newcomer was none other than that prince of good fellows, variously known as Father Christmas, Kris Kringle and Santa Claus. He had come all the way from his snow palace under the northern lights to gladden the hearts of "Why, that is not Santa Claus at all. northern lights to gladden the hearts of good things galore. FORMATION OF THE CAVALCADE. Yesterday the now famous tour commenced outside the Gusky store, on Market street, and Santa Claus' equipage, with its prancing iron grays, was drawn up in front, and behind came ten carriages, bearing members of the firm, lady friends and newspaper men. Still further down the street were 25 wagons bedecked with flags and weighted down with great loads of Christmas presents.

As Santa Claus surveyed his riches, merry smile overspread his rubicund fea-tures, and he brushed out his long white beard complacently. Then he took his seat, and amid the cheers of the onlookers the happy procession moved onward.

The Ridge Avenue Orphan Asylum, Alhappy procession moved onward.

The Ridge Avenue Orphan Asylum, Allegheny, was the first institution to be visited. Sauta Claus knew that he had promised to be at Ridge avenue by 9:30 A. M., so he hurried up his driver, and led the trip at a swinging pace. Wherever the cavalcade as winging pace. a swinging pace. Wherever the cavalcade passed, sidewalks were crowded and windows filled with admiring faces. Santa Claus must have been quite tickled over the number of kisses thrown him from any number of pretty lips. And with the great old-fashioned heart which we all know he possesses he could not have been aught but pleased with the greeting he received from the little ones. In consequence of the crowds a good deal of time was consumed in getting to the Ridge Avenue Orphanage. However, the institution was finally reached, and the benevolent work of Messrs. Gusky and their guest began.

PLEASURE OF THE LITTLE ONES. The entire party alighted and entered the orphanage, where scores of neatly dressed children were assembled, with faces radiant children were assembled, with faces radiant from suppressed delight. Their joy did not abate when Santa Claus—the long-expected Santa Claus—tramped into the hall, with bells a jingle, followed by a whole wagon load of toys. Anyone who had the slightest doubts about the pleasure of the little ones would have found them altogether dispelled at sight of their happy faces, and present, and verily this was no slight achievement, as the orphans alone amounted to over 100. Then the distribution of the gifts opened. Not a single one of the little folks had been forgotten. Each had a present with the owner's name, and each in turn was sum-moned to receive his or her share. The children then sang some very well-attuned choruses, after which a light refection was served to the jolly visitor and his party.

It presently became apparent that there were two Riehmonds in the field! Another Santa Claus appeared, none knew whence, and took his seat in another stage coach drawn by six bay horses. This was some what puzzling, as the onlookers had been taught that there was only one real genuine St. Nick. However, the two Santas did not quarrel, and the party divided, half going to quarrel, and the party divided, hair going to Pittsburg, with one Kris Kringle, the other following the second on his rounds through Allegheny. Messrs. William DeWolf and J. A. Knight directed the Allegheny tour, and Wm. K. Solomons superintended opera tions in Pittsburg.

ONE ROUND OF OVATIONS. It would be tedious to describe in detail the events at each stopping place. Suffice it that at every home and orphanage the chil dren received Santa Claus with the utmos joy, and his gifts everywhere cheered the eless and gave new life to the sick. The following is a list of the orphanages and charitable institutions visited in Allegheny: Ridgewood Avenue Orphan Asylum, 9:30 A. M. Colored Orphans' Home, Greenwood avenue, 10:30 A.M.

THE LARGEST OF THE DONATIONS.

Probably the largest number of presents was given away to the Ridge Avenue Orphanage, the Colored Orphanage, St. Michael's Asylum, St. Paul's Orphanage on Tannehill street, and the United Presbyterian Or-phans' Home. Not to the children alone were presents given, for the aged in the Episcopal Church Home, and the grown girls in the Home of the Good Shepherd, were gratified with warm clothing, shoes, mufflers, etc. In the hospitals it was "good for sore eyes," as Santa Claus himself phrased it, to see the small boys and girls crowling from beds and crutches, and flocking around his Saintship like the children of Hamelin after the "Pied Piper." The gifts, too, were so very suitable, that it worked as though Messrs. Gusky had instituted inquiries as to the exact tastes and longings of every individual little one. One chubby youngster - a veteran's orphan - got hold of a miniature bass-drum, and rapped out a sounding tattoo upon its sheepskin head. Another, "sicklied o'er with the pale east of thought," was given a revolving-top writing desk. The girls received model bureaus, tricycles and books.

To say that the expenditure on the good things must have been lavish, would be to put it mildly. Over 2,500 gifts were dis-tributed, and in the case of the slightest breakage the present was replaced by an

THE PROGRAMMES CARRIED OUT. Singing and recitations were given at nearly all the places visited, the children displaying quite an amount of cleverness. Lunch was served at St. Michael's Orphanage, Southside, where a lengthy delay was made. An original comedy, in German, was played, on the tunny iilliputian stage, at St. Joseph's, Troy Hill. Father Duffuerr presided, and eloquently welcomed Kris Kingle and Messrs. Gusky's party to the institution. He dweit upon the noble charity of the Gusky firm for the lust nine years, and heartily commended the spirit which led the successors of Mr. J. M. Gusky to continue the good work begun by that gentleman. Subsequently the entire party sat down to a delightful dinner, which was done very decided justice to.

It may be mentioned that the person who most thoroughly enjoyed the feast was the hero of the day, Kris Kringle himself. To assist his eating powers, the grizzled Santa unwisely removed his patriarchal beard. Instantly a shrill juvenile voice was heard Pittsburg's little ones.

Quite a number of other ladies and gentlemen accompanied both expeditions.

It was real Christmas weather as the Allegheny cavalcade set forth upon its return voyage. Light snow fell upon Santa Ciaus' broad shoulders, and there was a breath of his own frozen northland in the air. The carriages rattled merrily along the frozen streets, and through the snow; over the bridges, whence St. Nicholas could

CUTTERS AND TAILORS—THE CLEVELAND Cutting School, now in the twelfth year, had a larger attendance for 1890 than ever before, and indications point to its being crowded during the entire winter of 1891. "What is the reason?"
Simply this, cutters produce better results with the A. D. Rode New Method than by any principle of cutting taught.
