

HUNTING A CONVICT.

An Exciting Chase With Fox Hounds After an Escaped Negro.

TRAILED AMONG SPONGY SWAMPS.

Up to the Neck in Mud He Pats the Pursuing Dogs on the Head.

ONLY A FEW SHORT HOURS OF FREEDOM.

Under the much-talked-of Southern lease system, where convicts are worked in the open air, men will escape occasionally.

There is no help for it. Some desperate fellow is always watching for an opportunity, and when it offers will risk the vicissitudes of the guards and dash for freedom through swamp or woodland.

One pleasant morning, not long ago, a convict "strut" from Scuffie came breathless into the Walemie camp with the information that such an event had taken place.

There is no help for it. Some desperate fellow is always watching for an opportunity, and when it offers will risk the vicissitudes of the guards and dash for freedom through swamp or woodland.

A CUBAN BELLE'S WOE.

Story of a Beauty Who Once Reigned in Spanish Aristocracy.

LEFT PENLESS IN NEW YORK.

By a Wealthy Husband Only a Few Months After Her Marriage.

NOW HEIRES TO FIFTEEN MILLIONS.

Special Telegram to the Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The decree in the suit for limited divorce of Senora B. Casanova against her husband, Ricardo Casanova, was rendered today by the Supreme Court.

Senora Casanova's history, as brought to light during the suit, is an exceptionally and dramatic one. Despite the fact that she is a woman of high rank, she was used last July by one Cyrus A. Stevens, of 94 Lafayette place, for 148 weeks' board.

The amount that Stevens claimed was justly due him for board was $1,036, with interest. He also held in his possession assignments of several hundred dollars.

Abandoned by Her Husband. Senora Casanova retained Wright & Cullen, the lawyers who presented Mr. Stevens' claims against her, to push her suit for divorce. She declared that her husband had absolutely abandoned her and failed to support her.

Senora Casanova went on a visit to friends in Cuba in 1888. Her husband sent her a check for $4,000, but she refused to accept it. She then returned to New York and secured a divorce by giving her $4,000.

This proposition the Senora absolutely declined. She then returned to Cuba and secured a divorce by giving her $4,000.

Senora Casanova came in for a large share of her husband's estate. She is now the heiress to fifteen millions.
