POLITICAL MATTERS IN STATE AND NATION.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) HARRISBURG, Jan. 1.—Representative Brooks, the choice of the Philadelphia Republican delegation for Speaker of the House, had his candidacy blown to-day, in large portions conspicuously displayed at the principal hotels, and this evening he supplemented the advertisement by making his appearance at the rejuvenated Leland, now known as the Commonwealth.

Mr. Brooks' countenance was radiant with smiles, and if his predictions have any significance he will preside over the deliberations of the next House. With the certain support of the 30 Republican members of Philadelphia, he thinks he has a certain which will land him a winner against the large field.

Quay's Position in the Contest.

The declarations of Senator Quay that Brooks was a good candidate and that his prospects were good gave evident satisfaction to the Philadelphia candidate for Speaker, but he remarked when his attention was called to the kind words said of him, that Quay had given him no assurance that the Senator was favorable to him. Brooks made no comment on the outside of Philadelphia, but at the proper time, he said, he would break in on the Allegheny delegation.

Representative Keyser, of Philadelphia, who accompanied Brooks to this city, thinks Cameron, of Lebanon, is the most formidable antagonist in the race against the Philadelphia candidate.

Representative Taggart, of Montgomery, and F. M. of Honesdale, are here to become Representatives Thompson, of Warren, who is thought by them to have an excellent chance of winning the Speakership prize. The grangers in the House are generally expected to vote for him, although he is a lawyer.

Well Qualified for the Place.

Ex-Secretary Stone is quoted as having declared recently that Thompson is better qualified for the Speakership than any of the other candidates for the place. Warren's candidacy is expected to arrive during the night.

Representative Baker, of Delaware, will also reach here on one of the night trains and to-morrow he will open his fight in downright earnest. Brooks, Baker, Capp and Thompson are regarded as the leading candidates, but Representative Stewart, of Allegheny, Farwick, of McKean, Hays, of Venango, and Keyser, of Washington, also claim a respectable following.

It is likely that the members from McKean and Venango will throw their strength to Thompson early in the fight if he should develop enough strength to justify such action. There may also be a contingency making Burdick the candidate of the members from Warren, Venango, McKean and other Northwestern counties. Burdick showed great skill while temporarily in the chair two years ago.

None of them are Bashful. All the prominent candidates for Speaker have communicated with their fellow members, and announced themselves as candidates for their votes, and the fight until the opening of the Legislature promises to be full of interest. A considerable number of members will arrive to-morrow and Saturday. The Republican cause will be held on Monday evening.

J. W. Morrison, of Pittsburg, who is a candidate for re-election to the Chief Clerkship of the House, is here getting ready for the organization. He is certain of filling his old place. Anthony Bannan, of McKean, who caved his selection as Reading Clerk of the Senate two years ago to Quay, is an aspirant for the position of Journal Clerk, which he thinks will suit him better than his former office. He expects to get it because Ed Smiley, of Venango, is certain to be elected Chief Clerk of the Senate in place of Russell Erret, whose age and health forbid him being a candidate for the position.

To Rush the Apportionment Through. The idea of preparing and passing an apportionment bill by the Legislature before the Beaver administration goes out of office seems to be growing. Almost all of the Republican legislators who have been here to select their seats are in favor of it, and express the opinion that if a bill to suit the various conflicting interests could be prepared in the first ten days of the legislative session.

Senator Mylin, of Lancaster, favors the plan, and D. Smith, of Chester, one of the members of the last House elected in November, said to-night that it would be the right thing to do to avoid delay. It is not until two weeks of the Legislature the Republicans would have things their own way. The disposition is not to let the Democrats profit in any way by delay in this matter.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

For the State Senate, but still in the Field for Speaker.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) MEDINA, Jan. 1.—Representative James M. Baker doubted to-day that he was a candidate for the State Senate to succeed Senator Robinson when the latter will leave the Senate to go to Congress. He said, however, that he was a candidate for Speaker of the House, and has a very bright prospect of success. He has a very bright prospect of success. He has a very bright prospect of success.

The Pennsylvania Ballot Reform Association, which Charles C. Binner, of Philadelphia, is Secretary, has given Representative Brooks a very bright prospect of success. He has a very bright prospect of success.

REPUBLICAN SAFETY.

ACCORDING TO MR. CLARKSON, RESTS WITH THE FORCE BILL.

IF IT IS NOT PASSED THE COLORED VOTERS OF THE NORTH WILL BREAK AWAY FROM THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—J. S. Clarkson was certainly not desirous of the force bill, and is still confident of its success in the Senate.

Speaking of the measure to-day, he said: "The South has sought, by enacting a force bill in almost every Southern State, to nullify the universal suffrage amendments to the National Constitution, and, even while a Republican Senate has been hesitating to approve the bill of the Republican House, the State of Mississippi, through a Constitutional Convention illegally convened, has boldly disfranchised the colored voters among its citizens. The million of voters in the South now practically disfranchised are disfranchised not because they are negroes but because they are Republicans."

For the Democratic party not only allows them to vote in the election, but they vote Democratic ticket, but in North Carolina and other States, at the election last November, it was otherwise. Only a few days ago I heard the successful Democratic candidate for Congress in the Asheville district of North Carolina, spend 15 minutes in a speech at a meeting in Asheville, in which he said that he had spent five weeks in that region, and on constant investigation I found scarcely any negroes in the district. He said that he had spent five weeks in that region, and on constant investigation I found scarcely any negroes in the district. He said that he had spent five weeks in that region, and on constant investigation I found scarcely any negroes in the district.

"Now, if all the negroes would vote the Democratic ticket, 'the tremendous race problem' would be solved. It is not the color, but the sense about 'the all-perverting and all conquering white race,' would suddenly end. The new situation is a very serious one. The Democratic plot is boldly to disfranchise a million Republican voters. The Republican duty is to stand by the Constitution, and to stand by the blood of half a million men in war, is to stand by the blood of half a million men in war, is to stand by the blood of half a million men in war."

Mr. Brooks' countenance was radiant with smiles, and if his predictions have any significance he will preside over the deliberations of the next House. With the certain support of the 30 Republican members of Philadelphia, he thinks he has a certain which will land him a winner against the large field.

WILL FORM A NEW PARTY.

Farmers and Their Friends Will Meet in February for That Purpose.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., Jan. 1.—Captain C. A. Fower, of this city, who was active at the recent election, has called a convention for January 15, in Ocala, Fla., in preparation of the call for a convention in Cincinnati, O., on February 23, for the purpose of forming a third party. Captain Fower says "I feel that an attempt was made by a few persons at Jacksonville, December 14, to suppress the call, in which General Master Workman Powderly and a few others were called upon to do so. It is true that General Rice issued the call from Terre Haute, but it is not true that he was called upon to do so. It is true that General Rice issued the call from Terre Haute, but it is not true that he was called upon to do so."

A PETITION AGAINST CAMERON.

One Circulated in a Lancaster County Township is Well Signed.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) HARRISBURG, Jan. 1.—A petition against the re-election of Senator Cameron was circulated in Penn township, the home of Assemblyman C. G. Boyd, who has already assisted in the formation of a new party. The petition in a short time contained over 200 farmers' names. The whole township will be canvassed.

A North Carolina Bank is Forced to Suspend Business.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 1.—The People's National Bank of Fayetteville closed its doors yesterday at noon. The depositors were confronted with the simple announcement that the bank had suspended business. For some time past it has been financial in various ways. The bank was organized in 1887, and had a capital of $100,000. It was organized in 1887, and had a capital of $100,000. It was organized in 1887, and had a capital of $100,000.

A DESPERATE CRIMINAL.

After Escaping From Jail, He is Recaptured by Three Men.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) SNOW HILL, MD., Jan. 1.—Charles Wellworth, who escaped from jail here hatless, coatless and shoeless, and tramped through the snow miles, was located to-day at Proconoke City. Knowing that he had a desperate man to deal with, Sheriff Lockerman got two young men to enter and make the arrest, the offender remaining outside. Wellworth upon finding out the object of the visitors, at once showed fight, and attempted to reach a thicket near demanded that Lockerman at this point should let him go to take a hand, and appeared upon the scene. Catching Wellworth by the throat, he threw him to the floor and placed handcuffs upon his wrists, which, with the assistance of the young men, he secured from the prisoner. He then fastened a burgundy and soon had him safely chained to the wall in his old quarters.

PATIENTS BENEFITED.

SOME GOOD RESULTS OBTAINED IN THE LYMPH TREATMENT.

Cases in Which the Cure is Most Marked—A Leper Whose Disease Appears to Yield to the Lymph—Many Others Awaiting the Outcome.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Some interesting results of the effect of Dr. Koch's lymph on patients far advanced in consumption were made known to-day by physicians in the Montefiore Home. It is declared by the physicians that patients who were mentioned had phthisis so far advanced that cavities had formed in the lungs, and that their improvement is marked since inoculations were begun. A patient who had phthisis, resulting from pneumonia, for nearly eleven and a half years, was received on November 12, and until December 18, under hydro-therapeutic treatment, gained four pounds when the lymph was first injected. In the last seven days the patient has gained three pounds, and Dr. Prudden says the cough has become less, the expectoration is mucoid and the bacilli in the sputa have decreased in number and virulence.

Another case of a patient who was believed to be in the last stages. On Tuesday he had gained in weight and strength, and was walking as briskly as the other patients. Depredations have already begun on the ranches. Scores of houses along White river have been burned, and the people are being driven from their homes. A single day's intelligence has produced a something remarkable. Yesterday it was an almost universal cry for Indians to go to the warpath. The heroism of the fight which Big Foot's band made on Monday morning has done more to engender a friendly feeling for the Indians than anything that has happened

LEAVING FOR THE WARPATH.

Squads of Indians have been leaving for the warpath to-day. Under the cloak of the heavy snowstorm which has been raging since yesterday morning they started off to the south, but their destination is not known. It is thought, however, that they will make for the Bad Lands or the vicinity of the Old Spotted Tail reservation. Troops have been ordered to intercept their march. Depredations have already begun on the ranches. Scores of houses along White river have been burned, and the people are being driven from their homes. All of the smaller streams are running out heavy, with followings of higher water before morning, as the rain still continues. MILES IN COMMAND.

Brooke Has Been Suspended and His Superior Officer Is IN CHARGE OF THE CAMPAIGN.

A Storm Prevents Active Operations, but the Beds Are at Work.

CHANGE OF FEELING AT THE CAPITOL.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The storm has apparently suspended active hostilities for a moment, though at any time there is likely to be a great deal of blood and fire. The Second Infantry has received orders to pack their effects and be ready to move. It is rumored that General Brooke has been relieved of his command and ordered home. General Miles will take command in person and conduct all operations in the future.

COURAGE, NOT TREACHERY.

They Desperately Resisted an Attempt to Deprive Them of Their Only Means of Livelihood—Even Some Officers of the Army Speak in This Way.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The desperate bravery shown by the Indians of Big Foot's band in the bloody fight of Monday on Wounded Knee creek has been the one theme of discussion at the War Department to-day. It is admitted by all that the Indians exhibited genuine heroism in their break for liberty when they discovered that their captors intended to take from them the arms that were necessary to keep them from starving during the winter. All the old Indian fighters here concede that the redskins had reason to dread starvation as the result of giving up their rifles going upon the warpath, which, as they believed, would forfeit their right to draw rations from the Government.

A PLAN OF ISOLATION.

Boards of Health and Sanitary Experts Now Believe That CONSUMPTION IS CONTAGIOUS.

Radical Measures More Necessary Than in the Case of Smallpox.

THE RESULTS OF SOME EXPERIMENTS.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) ALBANY, Jan. 1.—It may be of interest to the thousands of consumptives in this State, and the hundreds of thousands throughout the country, to know that health boards and sanitary experts are seriously considering the advisability of putting all those afflicted by the "great white plague" in the strictest of quarantines, as is now done with smallpox patients, and not a few sanitarians favor the complete isolation of consumptives.

The cause of this is the now accepted belief of physicians that consumption is more contagious than hereditary, and is directly communicable from one person to another through the active agency of diseased germs, the diminutive, rod-like bacilli.

The Most Dreaded Diseases. For years medical authorities and gatherers of statistics have been confronted with the fact that consumption is annually killing off more of the population than any other disease or more groups of diseases. The New York State Board of Health records show that in 1885 there were 104 deaths due to consumption or over 1,000 dying during the year from all other causes. The total figures were:

Deaths from all causes, 50,407; from consumption, 12,282. For the four succeeding years the figures for New York State are as follows: Total number of deaths, 1886, 50,800; 1887, 50,433; 1888, 50,433; 1889, 50,433; 1890, 50,433.

Showing That It is Contagious. To demonstrate the experiments made to show that consumption is contagious are those of Dr. Cornet, of the Berlin Hygienic Institute, who found that sponge scrapings from the walls of rooms occupied by consumptives, when inhaled, produced the disease. Further experiments Dr. Cornet found that it was not the breath of the consumptive that was the cause of the disease, but the sputa of consumptives had been allowed to dry on the floors or in cupboards, the germs had been dried, and when inhaled, produced the disease.

In the audience sat Miss Sally Gray, who has won the hearts of swains in that region, and on one side of her sat Ben Scott and on the other sat Fletcher Lewis, rival claimants for her hand. Some time ago Sally's parents had arranged for her marriage with Ben Scott, and being opposed to him, they succeeded in inducing her to break the engagement. She had transferred her affections to Fletcher Lewis, and that they would be married on New Year's day.

SHORT AMMUNITION.

General Brooke Wants More Cartridges Than He Can Get at Present.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) HILLSVILLE, N.M., Jan. 1.—There is an indication of the difficulties the troops will have to encounter if they are to fight the Indians who are right on the heels of them. General Brooke has made requisition for 500,000 rounds of cartridges. The small part of that quantity on which he relies is in the hands of the Indians. He has no more in his immediate reach.

A PITTSBURGER'S CRIME.

JACK FRY HELD ON A CHARGE OF MURDER IN NEW YORK.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Bernard Goodman went to the Essex Market Police Court this morning and asked for the arrest of William H. Fry, of Pittsburgh. According to Goodman's story she constantly interferes between him and his wife. For instance she happened to see his little baby on the street, and she took it and hid it away and broke a student's lamp which he had just bought. Her reason was that "the whole trouble," she said, "is caused by Mr. Goodman's mother. His people have a shrine factory, and his father is a man who will sell buttons on his coat by moonlight. I was married when I was married by my mother and she asks him why he does not sell the things and put the money in the bank. I don't know what she is thinking of. I have a little baby. It has to be taken care of, and I don't know what to do. I asked her to come around."

ASKED FOR BREAD AND GOT A GUN.

and at that hour water was rising four inches per hour. It is growing colder, and there was a shower of rain by midnight. Cool and river men predict 40 cent on the present run. The rain continues, a reputation of the 1884 flood is feared. Kanawha coal dealers and Big Sandy millmen, with best markets here, do not look for disastrous water on the present run in these rivers, but say unless there is a freeze-up such those valleys will be about washed out.

At Madison, Ind., the river rose 23 inches and ran full day, and the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers are coming out strong. Tremendous rains are reported at Caseyville, Ill., and along that section.

A FEARFUL EXPERIENCE.

Perched on a Tramp on a Locomotive, He Was Killed.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) WILLIAMSBURG, CT., Jan. 1.—A poor, half-starved tramp took a ride on the over-catcher of a New York and New England Railroad locomotive at this place that he is not likely soon to forget. As Engineer Potter, of the limited express, halted his train from the West, preparatory to beginning the long run to Boston, a slight man, shabbily clad in a short, thin coat, light trousers and a hat, was perched on the over-catcher of the locomotive. The man was asked if he might ride on the engine to Boston. "No," said the engineer, "the rules of the road expressly forbid it."

The train moved off, quickening its speed as it followed the curve, and the man stood at zero. As the train started, the man fainted he heard an unusual sound, and when he came to he found himself on the engine, clinging like a fly to the front of the engine. He was shaking like a leaf with the trembling of the locomotive, his body flapping in the breeze. He was clinging to the engine, and it was evident to the fireman, the fireman, that the poor fellow was clinging to his grip on the engine only a few moments longer.

There was only one way in which the man could be saved and Engineer Potter saw it at once. So he went on to the locomotive, the man was asked to get down, but he would not get down. The man was asked to get down, but he would not get down. The man was asked to get down, but he would not get down.

The crowd of Hungarians had the advantage for a time, although they were fewer in numbers. They kept their powder, while the workers were scattered. The latter did their best to defend themselves, but were not armed and could do nothing but run. They were forced to the one side of the works, and fortunately bunched themselves. The battle then became more fierce. It was a general skirmish in which all hands took part. Men were battered over the head with shovels, clubs, and anything that was available.

TWO HUNDRED DISSATISFIED HUNS ATTACK EDGAR THOMSON FURNACEMEN.

AT LEAST FORTY WOUNDED.

Two of Whom, It is Feared, May Not Survive Their Injuries.

FIVE RIOTERS LANDED IN JAIL.

Sheriff McCandless Seizes in Over 200 Deputy Sheriffs.

A THOUSAND MORE TO BE APPOINTED.

New Year's Day at Braddock will go down in history as one of bloodshed.

A riot occurred between 200 Hungarian strikers at the Edgar Thomson Steel Works and the 400 other workmen that were on duty yesterday, that resulted in the injury of nearly 50 men, several of whom are not expected to recover.

The difficulty occurred about 2 o'clock, and the whole town was thrown into a state of wild excitement during the remainder of the day and night. One or two lynchings were narrowly averted by the timely interference of officials. Several arrests were made and informations lodged against other rioters who will be arrested to-day.

Sheriff McCandless went to Braddock last evening and deputized 200 citizens, who were placed under the command of Chief of Police Spangler, and at midnight the place was comparatively quiet.

The 500 striking Hungarians did no sleeping Wednesday night at all. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning a lot of them went to the furnaces, where some of the number had refused to stop work, and demanded that they go out. They still refused, and an assault followed.

Several men injured in a skirmish. The attack was a surprise, during which several men were struck on the head and scratched, but the strikers were soon repulsed, when they left the place.
